PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE. Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

REPEATING OF ADVERTISEMENTS

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which we must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting question of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

10.—DISPUTES.—In case of a dispute, the decision of the Editor is final.

STANLEY BIRD FOODS

Properly prepared biscuit meal blended with choice seeds and 50 per cent pine kernels carefully put up and guaranteed pure, constitute the above foods; the ideal food for rearing and maturing young Canaries, Hybrids, and all caged birds. There is no more suitable or more nutritious, without reckoning the economy effected by using this food in place of egg food. Breeding pairs should have a little of this food now to improve their stamina for the breeding season. This food does not overheat the birds and hens are not so likely to pluck. Money returned in full if satisfaction is not given. The number of repeat orders I receive (proof of which can be seen) are an indication of the satisfactory results obtained by using my foods regularly: sizes, 7d., 1/3, and 2/6, post free; prepared by Thomas Stanley, winner of CAGE BIRDS competition, May 1912. Dried flies, 1/9 lb.; ants' eggs, 1/6 and 2/- lb.; all post paid; address: Stanley Bird Foods, 212, Rookery-rd., Handsworth, Birmingham.

A PERSONAL VISIT

to a bird dealer's establishment is often a matter of impossibility, but this need not make the slightest difference to you if you place your order with me, as I send everything I sell on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system, and unless fullest satisfaction is received, birds only have to be returned, and back comes the whole of your money. I now have a splendid stock of genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches in perfect health and condition, and thoroughly on hard seed, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-. Few specially selected cocks, well caged, steady and in free song, 3/- and 4/- each, three 7/6; few genuine exhibition specimens, with full complement of show points, 5/- and 7/6 each. (Please note: Real cocks cannot be sold at less than above prices.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6; splendid lot netted cock Bullfinches, in faultless plumage, 2/- and 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each; grand lot of genuine cock Linnets, every bird warranted rose red-breasted, 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling or contest singing, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6, six 4/-; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; magnificent lot of netted cock Siskins, in pink of health and feather, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 2/6 each; few exhibition specimens, yellows, with large bibs, 5/- and 7/6 each; Hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-; cock or hen Redpolls, 8d. each, three 1/6. Few very large red-breasted cock Redpolls, 1/- each; handsome lot cock Skylarks, all big, bold Worcestershire birds, not French flight birds, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected steady cocks, in song, 1/-, 1/6, and 2/- each; cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; special travelling cages, 3d. per three birds extra. Linnet, Goldfinch, Bullfinch, and Lark cages, 6d. each, 5/- dozen. For full list of trap-cages and catching appliances, send stamp. Please note, all birds are guaranteed to have been properly netted in County of Worcestershire, by catchers employed solely by myself, and none are sent out until feeding freely and well on the usual seed mixtures, no soaked or crushed seeds being necessary for birds purchased from me. I guarantee sex in every instance, and if you do not happen to be an expert in sexing birds yourself, nothing would please me better than for you to have my birds judged by a competent man. See Roller Canary column for testimonials, etc.

3a Percival Street, Hightown, Manchester (327)

strain, most amazing results last breeding season by purchasers of my champion Norwich, in almost every case a winner was bred; everywhere fanciers are talking about the almost marvellous results, such as no other strain ever will or can achieve. Scores of well known winners sold direct from my rooms, which contain the finest stud of Norwich only ever got together; champion stock pairs from 20/- to 60/-; single cocks and hens, yellow and buff, from 8/6 to 40/-; all small surplus stock sold to a well known dealer. The cream only in Norwich, with blood which tells; the proof you can test at a moderate figure, for the very highest class. Don't waste another season by picking up a bird here and there, a great mistake, but send direct to me and have a pair or single bird, which you can rely on breeding something out of the ordinary; send at once; see show reports. Kindly note: That grand buff, 1st Frome, pronounced by all who saw it a living wonder, and afterwards sold for £10, was purchased direct from Judge Silk, Whitstable. (361)

THE BIRDS YOU WANT

are these buff and yellow cocks, 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, to 40/-; big thick-set birds, grand heads, matched pairs, 15/- to 60/-; some can win, bred from my winners; see Manchester, Liverpool, Whitehaven shows; 6 firsts, 1 second, 2 fourths, seven specials, only times shown; approval, stamp:

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

ever since I first introduced the Leipzig Roller to the English market, the demand for them has steadily increased, and now they have a far larger sale than all other strains combined. I have repeatedly said that they are absolutely the finest songsters in the Roller world, and I want you to test the truth of my statement by having one on a week's trial—an ordinary Roller at a higher price from elsewhere, test them side by side, and if in your opinion the Leipzig Roller is not far and away the better bird, return it to me and I will instantly refund the whole of your out-of-pocket expenses. I have nothing whatever to gain by making an offer like this unless I knew my birds were everything I say they are. At present I have an exceptionally large stock of genuine Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, flute and gong notes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or discordant notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Few genuine Glucke-bred contest Rollers, fit for immediate contesting, 15/- each. For those who like a loud noisy songster I have some splendid loud, vigorous singing Hartz cocks, in full song, price 5/6 each, three 15/-, seven 31/6. These are real ceiling-lifters, and just the thing for public bar or coffee tavern, where plenty of loud, noisy song is required. Roller cabinet cages, with loose fronts and folding doors, made specially for my Rollers, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Please note all are sent on full week's trial, either on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor of CAGE BIRDS, and unless bird gives every satisfaction, and realises your every expectation, back comes the whole of your money without question or comment. Please notice what my customers say about the Leipzig Rollers they have had:—"4, Brynn-st., Lower Ince, Wigan, Jan. 2nd.—Sir,—Received Roller safely, and am well satisfied. He was not put into fresh cage 10 minutes when he started to sing grand.—Yours, E. Forsham." "Eldorado-rd., Cheltenham, Jan. 2.—Sir,—I have now had the Bandmaster Roller a week, and must tell you I am very pleased with him. He has great power in sustaining the high full notes, and also has many beautiful changes, and as far as my knowledge goes, I believe he is very good on the Glucke.—Yours, M. Manley." "17, Henley-st., Lincoln, Jan. 4th.—Sir,—It gives me very great pleasure in acknowledging safe receipt of Roller this morning, and I admire you, especially in your promptness. The bird is a lovely songster, and commenced to sing almost as soon as I got it home, and continues to do so in quite a sweet and melodious tone. Its song and change of notes quite eclipses the ordinary Canary, and I am well satisfied. Again thanking you.—Yours, G. Moore." "104, Cherrytree-rd., Elsecar, nr. Barnsley, Jan. 6th.—Sir,—Received Roller safely, and it started singing 15 minutes after arrival. I am well pleased with it.—Yours, W. Oakly." "Selby, Yorks, Jan. 3rd.—Sir,—Roller arrived quite safe, and I am delighted with him. Thanks so much for sending such a good one. Your advertisement is quite true to the letter.—Yours, A. Nettleton." "62, City-rd., Kilt Green, Pemberton, Wigan.—Sir,—The Bandmaster you sent me fortnight ago has turned out a marvel; he has got some grand notes with him, and I am very pleased with it, and thank you for the way you treated me.—Yours, R. Mather." Hundreds more letters similar to above filed for inspection any time. All genuine Leipzig Rollers are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and I am the only importer of them, so send orders direct to ensure getting the real thing. See British Bird column. (386)

YORKSHIRES

I Hold :: :: :: What I Offer

and the value cannot be equalled elsewhere either in Show or Stock Birds.

And, knowing what I have, and my great desire to give such value as is next to impossible to be obtained elsewhere, is the reason of the unbounded satisfaction given year after year; and the fact that I have received more testimonials than any man living. I have also published more than any person or firm in existence. I know also that price is a great object to many; but a high quality and a low price is still a greater consideration to the purchasing public. Note the following prices and make a comparison of these prices; but, above all I want a comparison of birds, to test the full value. Some good show birds at specially low prices; also in the stock are cinnamons, cinnamon marked, and greens.

YORKSHIRES.—Cocks, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-. Pairs matched for Breeding, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Hens, 2/3, 2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6. I am exceptionally strong in good Hens. Pairs, matched for breeding, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, upwards. Travelling cages, 3d. extra.

Never before have I possessed such a Remarkable Collection of Yorkshires either in quality or quantity, including a lot of magnificent hens. You can only judge of the huge bargains by seeing them at the prices asked. Have any on approval. Inspection cordially invited by appointment to test the fact. Prices not enhanced, and I guarantee every purchaser the best value in this variety to be obtained in Great Britain. Remember, I reserve none. Show birds, therefore, at nominal prices—not being an advertising, exhibiting "pot-hunter."

Do you Want THE VERY BEST?

Then place your orders with the old reliable breeder, who breeds his own winners year after year, and can therefore give you the best value for your money.

It is not the price you pay, but the value you get, that makes it a bargain.

I only ask for a trial order, and if you will allow me to send any on approval, and compare with any other I shall esteem it a favour.

See show reports all through season and judge for yourself the quality of my strain of Yorkshires. A few of the honours I have secured this season: Diploma for best Yorkshire at Newcastle; diploma best green mark at Bradford National; diploma best Canary over all other varieties Gateshead; special best Canary and best bird in show Launceston; special best Yorks Loughboro'; challenge cup Bolton Woods, winning same outright; and other honours too numerous to mention; and remember, I have won more first prizes this last few years than any other exhibitor at all the leading shows in the country; finishing up with more firsts than any other exhibitor at last Palace show.

Champion Yorkshire Cocks, fine length and splendid quality, yellows or buffs, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Hens, feathered like wax, any colour, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Properly matched unrelated Pairs, to breed own winners, at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. All guaranteed cold-room bred and kept, and possessing that bit of breed so much admired in a true Yorkshire. Colour-fed to perfection, and a few natural colour.

Price list and specimen testimonials from all quarters, post free. Inspection invited at any time. State wants; satisfaction guaranteed. All on seven days' approval, at my risk. Cash or deposit with paper. Travelling cages, 3d. extra. Exhibition cocks or hens. Now that the show season is drawing to a close, I have several recent winners in keenest competition for sale cheap, and others for members' and local shows from 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each. Easy payments to suit genuine fanciers.

BENNETT

The Yorkshire Canary King is still winning with birds, every one his own breeding, from his noted strain, winner of thousands of prizes, challenge, and other cups, keenest competition; his customers are again "bang at the top," record making; few winners left cheap; stock cocks, 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/- up; hens, 6/-, 8/-, 10/-, 15/- up; pairs mated to breed winners by lifelong expert, 12/-, 15/-, 20/-, 30/- up; approval, cash or deposit; specialist in export orders; T. Bennett, 14, Cumberland-rd., Lidget-green, Bradford. (379)

WE STILL HAVE THEM

At Bradford National show we won silver cup for best Yorkshire, silver cup for most points, championship diploma for best Yorkshire, champion diploma for best in classes 1 to 10 (these are all the clears and ticks); half-guinea for best unflighted; half-guinea for best in all champion classes. We have a few pairs, same strain exactly, 10/6 per pair upwards. There is a good chance of these breeding a knock-out, as blood will tell. For proof of our strain, read the following (this is one of hundreds): —Dec. 3, 1912, 3, Grove Road, Redland, Bristol.—Dear Sirs,—I thought I should like to write and let you know I was 1st and 3rd in the bowl class at Bristol with your strain, 32 birds competing, winning the Bristol 10-guinea silver bowl with a young bird I bred 1912 from a pair supplied by you. The same bird also won the cup at another show in Bristol. Thanking you for all past favours. Very pleased to have found such honest fanciers.—Believe me, yours very sincerely, E. H. Stonelake. Special invitation to any fancier, or birds sent on approval; stamp reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley-hill, Bradford.

AMBLERS' NOTED YORKSHIRES

Require no misleading bounce; there are none better in the Fancy; for over 30 years we have bred and sold some of the biggest champions shown, winning thousands of prizes and championships at leading shows, winning four 1sts, three 2nds, 3rd, 4th, and championship for best in show Crystal Palace, 1910-11; owing to spinal illness, have not shown this last season, but have sold some of the biggest champions out, which are proving unbeatable. We are only keeping a few for stock, so have a wonderful good lot of Yorkshires for sale, the best of type, full of style, and swagger, and feathered like wax, winners for keenest competition; pairs from 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards; hens, a few real gems, full of style and feathered to perfection, from 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; few special stock pairs, the best living, which are seldom for sale; we guarantee satisfaction: approval; cash or deposit: Messrs. Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (383)

as an example of the continued satisfaction I am giving to all customers, whether near or far. Being aware that it is easy to state only a few out of many received during the present year, 1913, to date of 13th, I am submitting a batch of others with envelopes, bearing the 1913 postmarks, as undeniable proof.—Mr. Rudd.

AMERICA.

"Columbus, Ohio, United States of America. Jan. 13.—Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know the Canaries shipped by you reached here all right. I would say the birds arrived in good health and plumage, and am well satisfied with your selection for me—all good colour. Again thanking you for your kindness in matter.—Remain respectfully, A.E.C., to W. Rudd."

6/6 BIRD SUPERIOR TO GUINEA BIRDS.

"Dunvagit, Ireland, Jan. 13.—Dear Sir,—I write to thank you for the beautiful bird you sent. It is a splendid songster. We are all delighted with it. Nothing the worse for its long journey. It is superior to any birds sold here at one guinea. I will recommend you to all my friends.—Lindsay, to W. Rudd."

CAREFUL ATTENTION.

"113, Mosstown Rows, Annbank Station, Scotland, Jan. 8, 1913.—Dear Sir,—Just a note to inform you that I received the birds all right, and I am highly satisfied with them, and was well pleased with the careful way they were packed, and also the attention that was given my order. Mr. Rudd, I may say you are a true and honest gentleman.—Yours truly, Hugh Nimmo, to W. Rudd."

PARROTS for pleasure and profit, 7d., by C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published), 2d.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

TALKING Amazon green Parrot, splendid plumage, every feather perfect, tame, can be handled like a kitten, plainest speaker ever heard, saying distinctly fully 150 words, long sentences, sings "Pop Goes," "Polly Perkins," whistles tunes, counts 1-2-3-4-5, spells P-O-L-LY, greatest mimic living, willingly sent approval before payment, £3 15s.: E. Milton, Eagle Chambers, Liverpool. (376)

BUDGERIGARS and Cockatiels are among the most popular foreign birds, and C. P. Arthur has had a lifetime's experience with them. His book, "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," will show you how to keep them, feed them for health, how to breed them, and how to teach them to talk. The price of this valuable handbook is only 6½d., post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

WAXBILLS! (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased at from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list frequently published).

ENTRIES absolutely close on Saturday, Jan. 25. There will be no extension, and no whip-up cards will be issued. Exhibitors are respectfully requested to send their entries as soon as possible after the receipt of the schedule, and not wait until date fixed for entries closing. They are also requested to dispatch their birds by the night trains on Wednesday, Feb. 5th, or by early trains on Feb. 6th, arriving at the London termini not later than 2 o'clock (afternoon). All birds arriving after Thursday, Feb. 6th will have to be marked "Too late for competition." The show officials will be at the Palace to receive birds on Thursday morning, Feb. 6th, at 10 o'clock. The entrance fee is 2s.

THE PRIZE-MONEY is as follows:—1st 12s., 2nd 9s., 3rd 6s., 4th 3s., or gold, silver, and bronze medals to value at winner's option. Extra prizes will be awarded in particularly well-filled classes. Cash prizes will be sent, unless instructions to the contrary are given within three days of show.

ADMISSION.—There is no extra charge for admission to the show beyond the ordinary charge made for admittance to the Crystal Palace

SHOW MANAGEMENT.—All entries must be made to Mr. J. W. Ramsden, 11, Josephine-avenue, Brixton, London, S.W., who will dispatch tickets, labels, etc., and also pay prize-money and sale money. The show will be under the sole management of Mr. Ramsden, who will accept orders for stalls and advertisements, also dispatch birds at close of show.

FEEDING THE BIRDS.—During the show seed-eating birds will be fed upon seeds supplied by Messrs. James Carter and Co. ("Good old Carter"), High Holborn, London. The insectivorous birds will be fed upon yolk of egg, and insectivorous food supplied by Messrs. Trower and Co., 442, Caledonian Road, London, N.

JUDGES' LUNCH.—The L. and P.O.S. annual judges' lunch will be held in the Grill Room of the Crystal Palace on Friday, Feb. 7th, Chairman, Geo. Crabb, Esq.; covers at 1.45 p.m. Tickets for the lunch (2s. 6d. each) may be had of the big exhibitors and friends, or the Show Manager. Lunch will be over in time for the opening of the show. Ladies are especially invited.

CAGE BIRDS will have its usual stall at the Palace, and we are making arrangements to send by telegram or postcard results of the judging; further particulars will be announced in due course.

An Expert Opinion.

Several readers have written in the past to ask whether one or other of the specialists upon our staff would for a small fee give them a private opinion upon the merits, or mating, etc., of birds they are exhibiting at the Crystal Palace Show. We shall be pleased to arrange this. Exhibitors desirous of taking advantage of the offer must send to CAGE BIRDS Offices a stamped addressed envelope, together with sixpence (postal order) for each bird (Canary, Hybrid, British, of Foreign) upon which they wish to receive an opinion, when a letter will be sent them in due course

L. & P.O.S. ANNUAL DINNER.

A Very Enjoyable Function.

The practice of holding an annual dinner prevails amongst many cage bird societies, but we know few more enjoyable gatherings of the kind than the yearly meeting of the London and Provincial Ornithological Society. For one thing, the catering is always on an excellent plane, the entertainment provided first class, and the company of the cheeriest. This year's dinner was no exception. Held at the Holborn Restaurant under the presidency of Mr. George Crabb, a large assembly of members and friends met to celebrate the continued progress of the society, and, forsaking for the nonce that keen competitive exhibiting spirit that usually animates them, condescended to social intercourse and genial pleasantry.

It was particularly gratifying to the members of the society to observe so many leading lights of other London societies in their midst, notably Mr. R. L. Crisp, whose association with the cage bird fancy in connection with his splendid work on the London Cage Bird Association has meant the serving of its best interests. Another pleasant feature was the large number of ladies present. We append a list of names of a few who were present—Mesdames Ramsden, Couzens, Riddell, Matthes, Bullen, Bungay, Harris, Richardson, J. Cooper, N. Cooper, E. Litchfield, E. Males, Lamb, Davey, Trower, Kiesel, Robson, J. Oldaker, G. Oldaker, Law, Bamber, Shearer, Madewell; Messrs. G. Crabb, J. W. Ramsden, G. H. Couzens, F. S. Matthes, H. K. Picard, R. L. Crisp, F. Carl, C. R. Bullen, Geo. Graham, J. Bungay, G. A. Harris, G. Mortlock, L. J. Richardson, J. B. Richardson, J. Ward, J. F. Percival, R. J. Pretty, W. Salter, A. H. Campbell, G. F. Males, E. J. Lamb, Davey, T. A. Trower, W. Kiesel, J. Robson, V. H. Todman, C. F. Gill, J. Oldaker C. W. Law, R. Bamber, W. Shearer, E. Allison, G. Madewell, J. P. Anderson, A. H. Blake.

The Chairman, in proposing "Success to the L. and P.O.S.," referred briefly to the sad loss the Society had sustained by the death of one of its oldest members, viz., Mr. Dobson, and sympathetically referred to the absence, on account of the serious illness of his wife, of Mr. T. Heath another old and very popular leading figure of the L. and P.O.S., and one of its founders. The Society had had an interesting year, and although its balance was slightly reduced, owing chiefly to the heavy expenses in connection with the autumn show at the Holborn Town Hall, its work was progressing, and its future prospects of the brightest.

Mr. J. W. Ramsden, on rising to reply, was greeted with loud applause. The L. and P.O.S., he said, had made a policy for itself of always keeping its expenses inside of its income, and of having a balance to its credit, whilst doing the utmost that was possible for the advancement of the Fancy, and their shows at the Crystal Palace and elsewhere proved that it was possible for this to be done. In connection with the Palace a good deal of discussion had recently occurred concering the suggested alteration of dates, and from an exchange of views he had had with several provincial fanciers he was inclined to think that to open the show on the Wednesday and close it on the Saturday might prove of benefit to all parties. He could give no undertaking on the point at present, but would like to know everybody's views. He thanked one and all for the hearty manner in which they had responded to the toast of the Society, and for the reception they had given to himself.

Full justice having been done by all to a well-selected menu, and the loyal toast having been duly discharged, the proceedings opened with a pianoforte solo by Mr. Herbert Endell. An excellent musical programme was filled by the talented artistes: Misses Nance Haines and Winifred Hamilton, and Messrs. F. Gregory, Fred Gibson and Stanley Collins, the musical items being interspersed by the toasts of "The Visitors," proposed by Mr. Couzens, response by Mr. Blake, and "The Ladies," proposed by Mr. Anderson. The singing of the National Anthem brought to a close one of the most enjoyable evenings which have ever been spent by the members of the L. and P.O.S. and their delighted visitors.

Prizes of 1s. and two of 6d. each will be given weekly for the best three anecdotes about birds written on postcards. Two stars indicate the Winning Contribution, one star the runners-up.

*A Token of Affection.

In my small outdoor aviary I have, among others, a cock Chaffinch, which I bought when young. Nearly every day a little hen Chaffinch comes down and seems to be having a talk with him. One day, to my great delight, I saw the little hen Chaffie, after hunting about for some time, bring an earwig and pass it through the bars to him. Of course he ate it most greedily.—A. F. Bell (age 13), Grays, Berkhamsted, Herts.

My Pet Linnet.

I have a little Linnet,
    That's as tame as tame can be,
For it will let me stroke it,
    And it perches on my knee.

I call it "Pretty Dickie,"
    And I know he loves his name,
For if I say, "my Pretty Dick,"
    He sings with might and main

*Home Once More,

Last week, when I was feeding my Goldfinch, it flew out of the cage, and as it happened, the bedroom window was open, so out it went! The next morning was very cold and chilly, so I left the window open, thinking it might come back. I took the cage up and left it by the window. Just a little after I thought I could hear it singing. I went out, but nothing could be seen. In a little time after I went upstairs. What a surprise I had—it was there singing, on the bed frame. —John E. Williams (age 11), Lancashire Hse., Cerrig-y-Dowdion, Corwen.

Crystal Palace Show.

Mr. Law, hon. sec. L. and P.O.S., asks us to request intending exhibitors at the Palace show to write direct to Mr. J. W. Ramsden, show manager, 11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton, London, S.W., for schedules, as all the arrangements in connection with the Palace show are entirely in Mr. Ramsden's hands.

Blackbird Wears a Gold Bracelet.

Wm. Best, a farmer, living near Ballyconnell, Co. Cavan, shot a few days ago a Blackbird which had a gold ring on one of its legs. The ring is now worn by Mr. Best's daughter on her watch guard, and bore some initials which were undecipherable. It is believed that the bird was a pet, and that the ring was placed on its leg for the purpose of identification.

NORTHERN BORDER & S.F.C.C.

Monthly meeting held Jan. 6th, Mr. W. Smith in the chair. The lecture had to be postponed as Mr. T. Robson was called away on business. Mr. Johnstone moved and Mr. Montgomery seconded, that we have three classes for each section, champion and novice, the classes to be: (1) clear or marked; (2) Green; 3, Cinnamon.—M. C. Potts, Hon. Sec.

BURTON-ON-TRENT C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Jan. 7th, at Staffordshire Knot, Mr. Hathaway in the chair. After correspondence had been dealt with, a judging competition took place, Mr. Lee proving to be the winner. BUFF CK: 1, Ford; 2, Hathaway; 3, Wood; vhc, Springall; hc, c, Lee. YELL. HEN: 1, Ford; 2, Springall; 3, Hathway; 4, Wood. Messrs. Bond and Freer judged. Next meeting, unflighted yellows and unflighted buffs.—A. Wood, Sec.

AYR AND DISTRICT C B.C.

A meeting of the Social Committee was held Jan. 12th, at 42, Green Street, Mr. John Kelly presiding. It was agreed that we have a social in the form of a "smoker," to be held March 5th (date of annual general meeting), in the Academy Hall, Ford Street, and the Secretary was instructed to have admission tickets printed and distributed among members for sale. The price of admission was fixed at 1s. It was agreed that each member be allowed to bring two friends. Final arrangements to be made at a later meeting. I trust members will give this venture their most loyal support, and so make the function a success.—James Sloan, Sec.

SPRINGBURN, POSSIL PK. C.B.C.

Annual general meeting held in Reid Hall. There was a very good attendance, Mr. A. Sloan (President) in the chair. The financial statement was read, and showed a balance of £1 8s. One new member was made. Mr. A. Sloan was again elected president; vice-president, Mr. T. Penman. Sec. and Treas., J. Waugh. Committee: Messrs. J. MacLeod, J. Crawford, J. Swan, M. Donaghy, T. C. Dowell, T. Penman, F. Taylor, J. McMillane, C. Hughes, J. Brown, D. Morrison, A. Gordon, J. Fyfe, W. Downie, J. Cousin, F. Williams, W. Dunlop, and J. Dunlop. Next meeting and monthly pair show, Feb. 12th, at 8. A hearty vote of thanks to the Chairman brought the meetiug to a close.—J. Waugh, Sec. and Treas.

HOLMFIRTH C.B.S.

Annual meeting held Jan. 3rd, at headquarters; chairman, Mr. G. Bray. The society finishes the year with a balance of £1 1s. 4½d. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mr. C. R. Hampshire; Vice-Pres., Mr. H. Charlesworth; Sec., Tom Smith; Treas., G. Bray; Auditors, Messrs. N. Sandford and J. C. Beaumont. Resolved that contributions in future be 3d. per month, payable quarterly, and that instead of having contribution cards, a receipt will be given for each payment. It was decided that 4 of the highest birds of each exhibitor shall count for points. It was decided to hold six members' shows during 1913 as follows: Two in Feb., one of these on a Saturday afternoon; one each in March, July, Aug., and Oct. The classes for show on Feb. 7 are: Yellow cock, A.V.; buff cock, yellow hen, buff hen. Judge, Mr. A. Lawford.—Tom Smith, Sec.

FIFE AND KINROSS N.P.C.

Annual meeting held at headquarters, Jan. 11th. The following were appointed office-bearers for 1913: President, T. Wildridge; Vice-Pres., A. Ramsay. Secretary and Treas., A. Dickson. The prizes won during 1912 were presented: Cup most points over season and gold medal, also spl. most points and medal best cock Lochgelly, A. Ramsay (Lassodie); runner-up for cup, spl. most points at Cowdenbeath and medal best hen Kelty, A. Dickson (Kelty); most points Kelty and medal best cock, D. McConville; spl. most points Bowhill, D. Grewar, Lochgelly, promised 5s. to runner-up for cup next show season. It was agreed that patronage next season be only granted to societies who support our club best with members. Any communications for Fife and Kinross Plainhead Club should now be sent to me, addressed as follows: A. Dickson, 37, Adams Terrace, Kelty.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B.S.

Meeting of the Council held at the Flying Dutchman, Leeds Road, Bradford, January 11th, Mr. F. Armstrong (President) occupying the chair before a moderate attendance of Union delegates. The President, before commencing business, wished the members of the Council a very bright, happy, and prosperous New Year, which was heartily reciprocated by the delegates. The first business was a decision to apply by tender for the contract to supply Union gold medals. The following firms were proposed for the Secretary to write to: Messrs. Fattorini and Son, Uttley and Co., Morbey and Neades, Hutchinson (Edinburgh), Sweeney's (Shipley). The Queensbury Society having notified Secretary, after the ballot for Union judges had taken place, that they intended to hold an open show next show season, it was decided that as these had all previously been arranged, they could hold one providing they took the last show date for their open show next season, afterwards to fall to their original date vacated, after the last show they held, and that if they did hold one next season they should then move up two according to rule for the show season after. The Council further decided that providing Queensbury hold a show, they shall take the first reserve judge after all other shows are fixed up. If the Queensbury Society had decided earlier, and notified the Union Secretary before the ballot for judges had taken place, they should have held their show on Saturday, November 28th next. The Council had therefore no other alternative but to do as stated above. Decided to appoint two scrutineers for the annual ballot to be taken the last fortnight in February, and Messrs. R. Wilkinson and C. E. Walker were appointed to that position. May I here remind the respective secretaries of Union societies that all nominations for officials and alterations to present rules, or suggested new rules, should be sent in on or before February 1st, as the sub-committee will meet on the 3rd to go through all recommendations sent in. One of the Union delegates brought forward a request from his society for a ruling as to the fixing of perches in the Yorkshire show cages, as complaints had been frequently made that the perches were not fixed alike. After a protracted discussion, it was decided that the following particulars as to perches should be recommended to be placed on the ballot papers, that the two bottom perches be fixed on the fourth wire from each end of cage, the centre perch to be fixed on the centre wire, or the ninth from either end. All perches to be placed with the tapered end of perch uppermost. The Council then discussed many important suggestions thrown out by several of the delegates in respect of the meagre support given to the Union shows held at the latter part of the season, and some capital ideas were brought forward, many contending that we had too many shows, others that the manner in which some societies arranged their classification made all the difference between success and failure; others that the specialist clubs splitting their competitions and giving patronage to two shows on one day had a tendency to drive exhibitors away to other shows, and many remedies were put forward as likely to solve the problems at issue, which no doubt will mean a few of them going on to the ballot papers for Union members to consider. These discussions are very valuable, as they give a clear insight into the internal questions which are constantly cropping up and hindering progress in many affiliated societies, and as free and open discussion is essential to clear these matters up, they all tend towards the common good of the Union and its members.—H. Hill, Sec.

RUNCORN B.B.A.

Meeting held at headquarters, Jan. 10th, before a large attendance of members. Business: Balancing up for the past year, which was very satisfactory, having a nice balance in hand. Election of officers for the year 1913: President, Joseph Guy; Vice-Pres., J. Sutton; Treas., C. Bootes; Sec., E. Rone, 16, Perrey Street, Runcorn.

LOCHGELLY C.B.S.

Meeting held in the Drill Hall, Jan. 15th; Mr. Thomas Wildridge presided. The secretary gave his statement on the members' show held on 28th Dec., and the members were well pleased and surprised at learning that we had a balance on the right side of 7s. 6d.—a great success for our first show, although some of the prominent fanciers could not see their way to patronise same. Specials and prize-money were duly handed over to winners.—R. Muir.

MIDLAND COUNTIES Y.C.C.

The competitions of the Midland Counties Y.C.C. were brought to a conclusion at Loughborough on January 4 after a well-contested struggle in each section. The winners are as follows:—Champion: Silver challenge cup, Mr. Percival Lane, 96 points; pair of oil paintings, Messrs. Wells and Clempson, 88; silver medal, Mr. P. V. Williams, 81. Novice: Cup, value two guineas,, Mr. J. Clay, 51 points; cup, value 30s., Mr. G. Salt, 50; silver medal, Mr. J. Hearnshaw, 43.—Beck and Andrews, Secs.

HARTLEPOOLS C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 8th. There was a good attendance. Lord Furness was elected president, and the vice-president and others officers are as last year. The financial position of the society was considered very satisfactory, as at the end of the year there was a balance in hand, which constitutes a record. The open show was fixed for November 8th, and we hope, seeing that our date has been altered, that other Northern societies will avoid clashing, as was the case last year. It was decided to purchase staging, and we are sure that our exhibiting friends will appreciate the step we have taken to place our show in the front rank. Messrs. Battye and Mundell were selected as judges. --Woodhead and Pyman, Hon. Secs.

NEWCASTLE N.C.C.

Bewick's "Duchess"; best young Crest, John Broad; best young C.B., Messrs. Greenwood and Burson; Sheraton's E.P. tray, best old Crest, Messrs. Greenwood and Burson, "Nulli Secundus"; Bagnall's E.P. cruet, best old C.B., R. S. Bewick; Wilson's E.P. jelly dish, best young Crest, John Broad; Elliott's ornaments, best young C.B., Messrs. Greenwood and Burson; Morrison's cup most points, Dobson and Son; Anderson's carvers, second most points, J. G. Hutchinson; Marshall's clock, most points in members', J. Riseborough; Wood's clock and ornaments most points by a novice member, Ed. Richardson; Parrish's dressing-case second most points by a novice member, J. Morrison.—J. G. Hutchinson, Hon. Sec.

BORDER FANCY C.C.

Annual general meeting, held in Corn Exchange Halls, Grassmarket, Edinburgh, Jan. 1, President, Mr. Jas. B. Richardson, presiding over a large attendance of members. Balance-sheet for 1912 was brought forward, which showed the income with surplus from 1911 to be £55 16s. 8d., and expenditure £40 12s. 7d., which left a balance of £15 4s. 1d., this was considered satisfactory. Mr. Richardson was again elected president, and Mr. Jamieson hon. sec. and treas. All the district delegates were re-elected, Mr. Gilchrist being appointed delegate for Coldstream, and Mr. Fendley for Muirkirk, Messrs. H. Bennet and Mr. P. McKenzie Kelso were asked to audit books. The first motion was that all drinking glasses in show cages should be of the small pattern, an amendment that they be as formerly was put, after some discussion the motion was carried. The next motion was rule regarding birds wearing rings, that it should be rescinded or left an open question, an amendment that rule remain as at present was agreed to. A motion that all show cage bottoms should be covered with sawdust or rough seeds, one material only to be used. After some of the members had spoken on the matter motion was rejected. The next motion was when a judge is judging a class that numbers on cages should be turned away from him so that he could not see numbers. Members could not see how this could be done, and motion was allowed to drop. A motion that no confined show get club patronage unless there be eight members of club competing, it was decided to allow present rule to stand. The next motion was that colour feeding be allowed in Borders, and rule relating to same be withdrawn from club rules. After some considerable discussion an amendment that colour feeding be debarred and rule regarding same be allowed to stand was carried. The next business was that two members in partnership be allowed to win six medals in one show season, as they are each paying usual members' subscriptions. Decided that they only be allowed to win three medals as formerly. A few new members were admitted, and the meeting closed with a vote of thanks to the president.—M. Jamieson, Hon. Sec. and Treas.

ONCE again the pleasant duty devolves upon us of presenting a Birthday Issue to our many readers. The flight of time has been held to be a "mixed blessing"; and may be from certain aspects of the human view-point such is truly the case. But, happily, it has its compensations. So far as CAGE BIRDS is concerned, the passing of another year has left it in a position of increased popularity, enjoying the favours of a circle of readers wider than ever before in its history, and holding fast to its place as the leading journal for bird-keepers, a place it strove hard to attain and intends—with the continued co-operation of yourselves, kindly readers—to strive equally hard to maintain. We are, believe us, deeply appreciative of your good-will, without which, of course, our best efforts would count as naught, and venture to express the hope that we may continue to deserve it during 1913, and for many long years to come.

Get your "Filup" Feeder in good time.—(Advt. 79).

Secretaries please note that Merthyr Tydfil F.S. will hold its open show this year on Oct. 22nd and 23rd.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.).

Our Fanciers' Association is going well, writes Mr. J. Thomas, Bugle. We are getting many recruits for the Fancy.

We are asked to notify the following changes of address:—Mr. Alex. M. Gardiner to 6, Reid's Buildings, Newtongrange.

Mr. Ed. Ball, 220, Ormskirk Road, Wigan, has taken over the secretarial duties of the Wigan and District Cage Bird Society.

My wife, I am glad to say, is now making slow progress towards recovery, writes Mr. Geo. Gardner. It has been a hard struggle, but she is decidedly better.

Members who have recently joined the Hanley and Dis. C.B.S., writes Mr. C. J. Robinson, Sec., are: Mr. G. Chadwick, Mr. S. Wright, Mr. W. Wright, and Mr. B. Wood.

Please accept my best thanks, writes Mr. W. Schofield, for your excellent report of our recent show, the Eastern Counties C.B. Society, held on 26 and 27 December last, at Ipswich.

The City and Suburban's Young Bird Show, writes Mr. V. Wynn, will be held on Saturday, July 5th, and the annual show, Nov. 14th and 15th (Friday and Saturday). Secretaries, please note.

In your report of the 21st Dec., writes Mr. H. Wood, hon. sec., Kent County C.B.A., there is an error; you have put Messrs. Soames winner of the Mule cup. It should have read Mrs. Soames, Bromley.

All prize-money won at our last show has been paid, writes Mr. J. R. Meikle, sec. Scottish National C.B.S. We tender you our very best thanks for the magnificent report you gave of our show in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS.

We are informed that prize-money has been paid in respect of the following shows: Anyone who may have been overlooked should apply to the respective secretaries: Workington, Meadowfield, Annfield Plain, Gateshead, Dublin S. County.

I have resigned the office of secretaryship to Glossop, Hadfield and Dis. C.B.S., writes Mr. E. Thompson, and all future matters concerning the society must be addressed to our newly-elected secretary, Mr. Joseph Hulmes, 16, Sheffield Road, Glossop.

I beg to thank, writes Mr. J. Walsh, Blackburn, all who have written to me expressing their sympathy with my loss of birds through the fire. I have had letters from fanciers from all parts of the country, and I could not personally answer them all.

The Fieldfares seem to be particularly wild this winter, no doubt because food is plentiful, and they have no need to venture near buildings. These birds mostly roost on the ground, generally in the middle of the field, excepting upon very windy nights when they will pack upon the side mostly sheltered by the hedge. All birds dislike wind, and seek sheltered valleys in rough weather.

Mr. J. T. Cheetham, Oak Street, Smithey Bridge, Rochdale, writes that he has taken over the secretaryship of the Smallbridge C.B.S., in place of Mr. Lanyon resigned, and hopes for the same support and help from the members as previously ungrudgingly given.

Mr. J. A. T. Woodall writes that the five handsome challenge cups are to be competed for on January 18th, at the Sheffield O.S. members' show, in Foresters' Hall, Trippett Lane. The new sec. of the society, vice Mr. T. Bishop, is Mr. E. C. Job, 19, Vauxhall Road, Wincobank, Sheffield.

I am sorry, writes Mr. T. C. Jones, if fanciers did not receive their birds back on Saturday night from Brandon. There was a two hours' delay on the line between Durham and Bishop Auckland on Saturday night. All birds were at the station in good time to reach home same night, had not the breakdown happened at Willington.

I regret, writes Mr. J. P. Leeming, that owing to giving up the Fancy, I have resigned my position of secretary and treas. of the Preston O.S. I beg to thank all who have helped to make my work a success and a pleasure to me. I hope they will extend to my successor, Mr. T. Barton, Church Street, Preston, the same support and courtesy that I have received.

Under the auspices of the Edinburgh and Dis. C.B.S., a grand smoking concert is to be held in the Old Union Hotel, 112, Lothian Road, on Saturday, 25th Jan., at 7 p.m., when it is hoped a large turn-out of members and friends will be present. Fanciers should not miss this grand "Nicht wi Burns." Tickets to be had from the secretary, Mr. J. C. Charlton, 33, Watson Crescent.

OBITUARY.

With much regret, writes Mr. F. Broadhurst, I announce the death of Mr. Chas. Oliver, chairman of the Macclesfield and Dis. C.B.S. He passed away on Friday last, January 10, after a prolonged illness. He was also a member of the N.P.C., and was a successful exhibitor at most of the shows. On behalf of the Macclesfield and Dis. Society I extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Oliver in her great bereavement.

Owing to a temporary difficulty in manufacture of my new non-rustable punched bar, writes Mr. T. Stanley, Birmingham, I regret the necessity of discontinuing my advert., as the orders were coming in faster than I can cope with them, under the circumstances. It is impossible to reply to all enquiries. I hope to dispose of all orders during the next eight days. I hope to advertise again shortly, but have no need to at present.

Will you kindly convey through the columns of your valuable paper, writes Mr. T. F. Wilson, Sec. Yarm, Eaglescliffe C.B.S., that all prize-money in connection with our show, held on the 11th January, was paid out within half an hour after judging, and we sincerely thank all exhibitors who kindly responded by giving us a bumping entry. On behalf of the society I wish every fancier a happy and prosperous New Year.

A large batch of original testimonials reaches us from Mr. J. Sandiford, the well-known dealer, of Preston, which have been sent him by customers well pleased with the manner in which he has executed their orders. They are all of recent date, thanking him for birds sent, many of which, we note, won a number of prizes in keen competition—a sure test of the grand value supplied.

Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show, February 7 to 11. Schedules have been posted. Any intending exhibitor not having received a copy should write for one. Roller fanciers should support the three classes provided. A win at the Palace enhances the value of an exhibitor's stock by 50 per cent.—J. W. Ramsden, Show Manager, 11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton, London.—(Advt.)

As I have several new members, writes Mr. C. W. Law (Brimley House, Woodhouse Rd., N. Finchley) down for election, I shall be pleased to hear (latest date Tuesday 21st, 1st post) from any friends who desire to join us with the object of showing as members of the L. and P.O.S. at the Palace; 6 silver cups and 40 specials of 5s.; these specials are confined to members; also reduced entry fees.

We have received, write Messrs. Woodhead and Pyman, secs. Hartlepools C.B.S., an anonymous offer of prizes for our members' shows this year, and the person making the offer has asked us to reply through CAGE BIRDS. We should therefore be glad if you would insert in your next issue the following: "Ragtime." We have pleasure in accepting your offer of specials for novices at our table and open shows, Woodhead and Pyman.

With this issue every reader should receive an art Supplement, and three coloured plates—one by Mr. Norman entitled "Our Gem Portrait Gallery of British Birds," one by Mr. Goodchild, entitled "Values in Foreign Birds," and one selected from our stock of surplus plates.

Mr. W. Hodson, hon. sec. Dulwich and Peckham C.B.S., writes that the annual general meeting will be held at the Reinder Hotel, Jan. 28th. Owing to pressure of business it has been impossible to hold the meeting at an earlier date.

We regret to hear that Mr. J. Hodder, the well-known Norwich Plainhead enthusiast, has been ill for some weeks, but happily he is now fast recovering his usual good health.

Owing to ill-health, Mr. J. E. Dingle, of Liskeard, is compelled to part with his cages and birds (advertised this week) as by his doctor's advice he is leaving on a voyage to Australia. We wish him a speedy recovery.

Our next annual open show, write Messrs. Forse and Son, Hon. Secs. Leyton C.B.S., will be held on November 13th and 14th, to avoid clashing with Cheltenham Show, which we notice has been fixed for our original date. We should be greatly obliged if other show secretaries will endeavour to avoid clashing, as our show will again be open to all England, and we hope to make it even more successful than the last.

We have on many past occasions referred to the enormous business built up by that noted bird-specialist, Mr. W. Rudd, of Norwich, and further convincing evidence of this comes to hand this week in the shape of a pile of letters sent him by his customers, thanking him for the birds and goods supplied, and promising him future support, owing to their great satisfaction and the reasonable prices charged. Mr. Rudd has a high reputation for fair dealing and courteous business methods, and it is always pleasing to see these things meet with their reward.

The annual subscription, 2s. 6d., to the South Co. Dublin C.B.A., writes Mr. D. Smyth, hon. sec., becomes due this month. We intend holding the general meeting early in February, when show dates, etc., will be arranged. Many thanks to Mr. J. F. Morgan, for congratulations through CAGE BIRDS, re our first show, also to the many exhibitors who wrote to me personally. It is interesting to note that although our show did not come up to our expectations, we were able to pay prize-money within six days, which speaks well for a hard-working committee.

Our Christmas Competitions.

The full results of the competitions put before readers in our Xmas Double Number will be announced next week.

Corrections in Show Reports.

At Waunarlwydd, Mr. G. P. Morgan won 4th in Nor., not Muscott, as reported; at Tredegar, Mr. G. Edwards, not Bevan, won 1st in Mule class.

New Society for Tiverton.

Mr. J. Dummett writes asking us to state that the preliminary meeting will be held at Harris's Refreshment Rooms, on January 27th, not 26th, as stated in his letter published in our correspondence columns of last week.

"Cage Birds" 1913 Annual.

We shall be glad if secretaries will kindly return at once the forms sent them asking for full particulars of their societies. A large number have reached us, but a few still await attention. We would ask all advertisers to carefully note the important announcement on page 7 of this issue.

A Successful Young Crest Hen.

Allow me, writes Mr. G. F. Adamson, to thank you for the pleasant surprise I had on getting January 4th issue, to find sketch of my young Crested hen placed along side of the champion of the show on front page. She has only been shown four times, being 2nd City of Glasgow, 2nd City of Perth, 1st Kilmarnock C.B.S., 1st and winner of Scottish Crested Canary Club gold medal for best young Crest at Scottish National. I wish your paper continued success.

The Red and Black Tanager.

It is very gratifying to me to know that you are honouring my Red and Black Tanager by giving an illustration of it by that very talented artist, Mr. Goodchild, in your ever popular paper CAGE BIRDS. I will take this opportunity of wishing it many happy returns of its birthday, and a continuance of its great prosperity. It is certainly a proud position for my bird to occupy so prominent a place on this notable occasion. As regards the habits, etc., of the Red and Black Tanager, I know but little; as far as I can gather, it is not only new to the show bench, but is also new to English Aviculture. (Of course, I stand to be corrected). I feed it just the same as a Scarlet Tanager (which it closely resembles in its ways) viz., the usual spongecake sop, a little insect food, including one or two mealworms, and plenty of fruit. It appears to be quite a hardy bird, and has been in my possession about three months, previous to which it belonged to Mons. Pauwels.—C. T. Maxwell.

Wild-Bird Life.

Stalking Wild Fowl.

Sheets of water situated some way inland are always objects of interest to those who study the doings of wild birds the year round. Although there are no nests to locate among the sedgy growth and shelving banks in the winter, there is, nevertheless, a variety of bird life either resident for a time or coming and going; the movements of the birds being regulated by the climatic conditions or the degree of seclusion they are able to find in any particular spot. Rough seas and storms cause the wild fowl and waders of all kinds to seek the comparative shelter of the tidal rivers or the lakes and ponds further inland. Although upon the rivers there is considerable activity in the way of barges and boats constantly sailing up and down, and working to their destination with the tide; as a rule the people on board of them are far too busy with their own affairs to heed the doings of the birds. Anyone who has frequented one of these rivers for any length of time cannot but notice how birds of all species seek each other's company during the winter months. There is security in numbers. The sportsman can more easily stalk half-a-dozen waders dabbling upon the muddy foreshore within gunshot distance of the sea wall, with no other birds in sight, than when the air is full of different species, crossing and re-crossing the wall and marsh land bordering the sea. Wild birds are keen to note any unusual movement among their fellows, and if at all suspicious do not wait for confirmation of their suspicion but take wing immediately. Many times a brace or two of Wild Duck or other fowl, without another bird in sight, may be located, but as sure as one commences a fatiguing stalk through the mud and water along the wall to get within distance, then some unseen bird is put up out of the gripway, and scurrying off with a whistle or loud alarming cry, he will effectually frighten all the birds within hearing. These in turn will alarm flock after flock, so that the air for half-a-mile around is full of bird life, and one wonders where all the feathered creatures could have been hidden. Birds are naturally curious, and in their flight, wheeling round and round, will frequently fly close enough for the sportsman to get a shot.

THE WILD DUCK.

A Crest Show that Paid.

All prize-money, writes Mr. J. G. Hutchinson, hon. sec. N.C.C., was sent out within five days after show, and I am pleased to state that there is a balance in hand, which will prove to sceptics that a show of Crested Canaries can be made to pay when the necessary classification is provided.

The Strike and Gateshead Show.

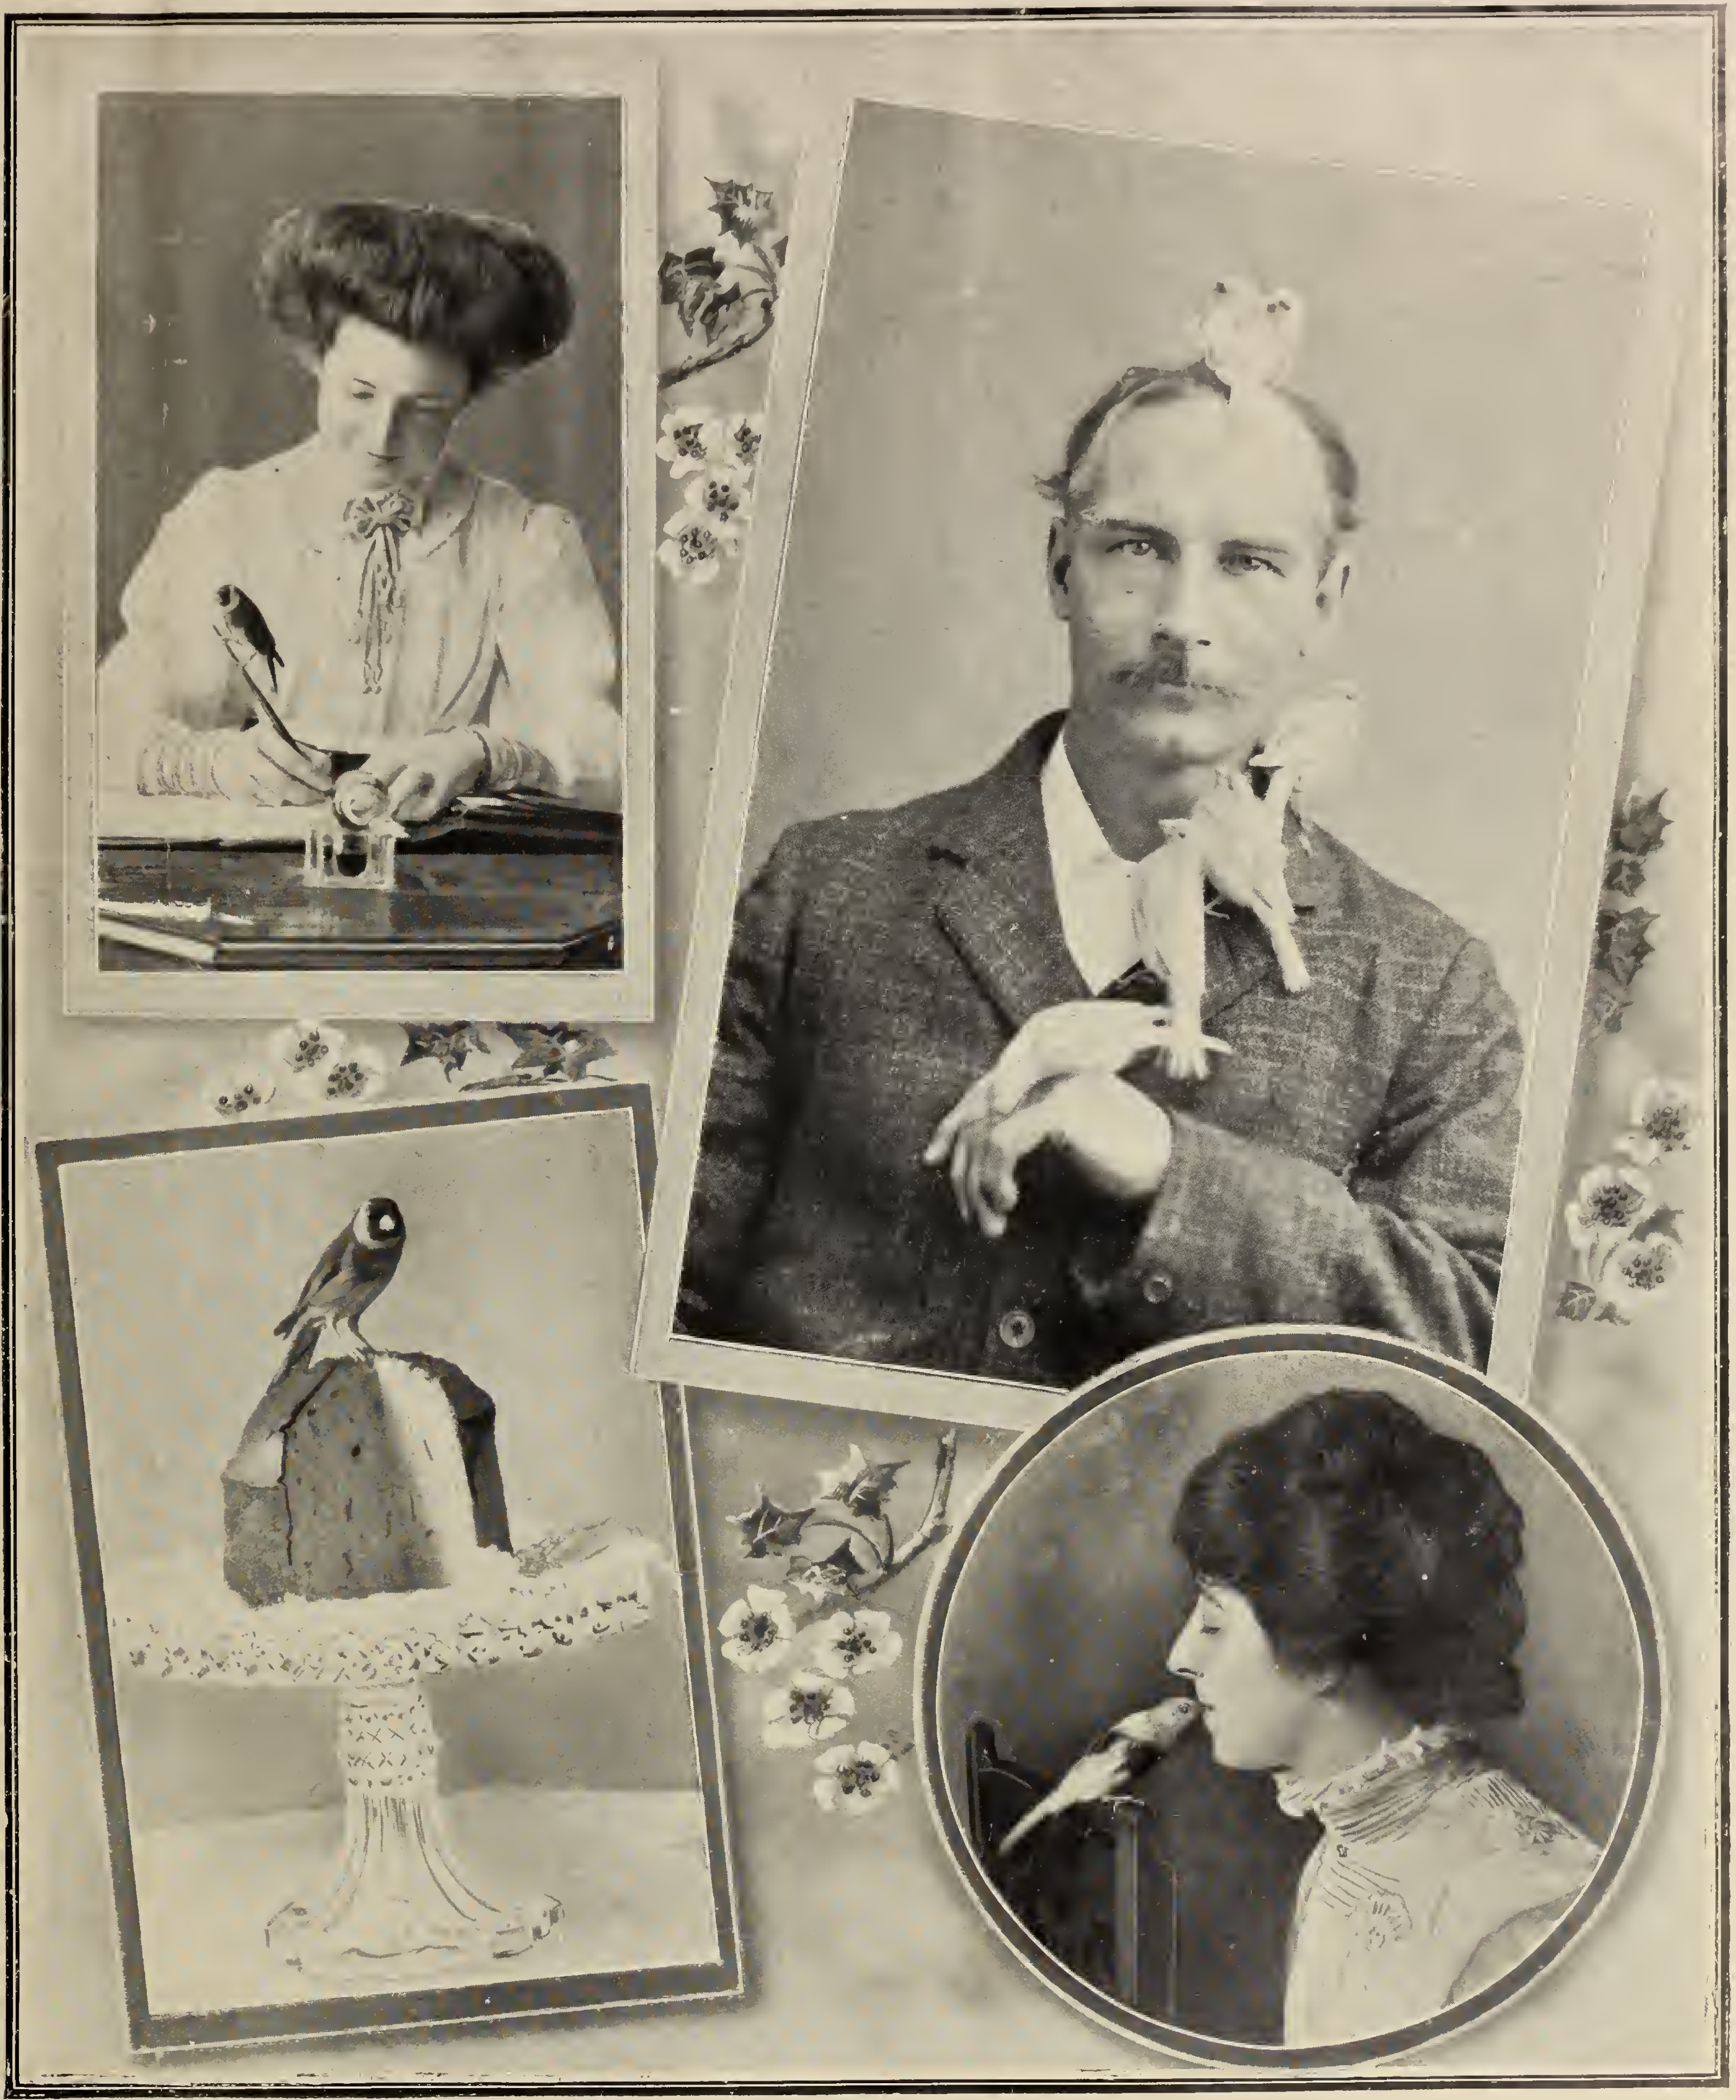
As the late strike dealt us a severe blow, writes Mr. J. G. Greason, sec. Gateshead C.B.S., 24, Newman Terrace, Gateshead, we are organising a prize-drawing, and trust that the Fancy at large will support us in our efforts to meet outstanding liabilities. I shall be pleased to forward tickets to any kindly disposed fanciers and secretaries willing to assist us.

The Fancy in West Stanley.

The show reported in CAGE BIRDS, Jan. 4, was not that of the West Stanley C.B.S., writes Mr. W. Elliott, the sec.; it is connected with the Empire Workman's Club, and should have been reported as the Empire Club show. We wish this and the Victoria Club every success. They will be the means of recruiting the Fancy in West Stanley, and will very much help our open show on Nov. 7 and 8.

Well-Known Judge's Hard Luck.

I am sure, writes Mr. H. R. Macdonald, that the many friends of Mr. A. Welling., of Prescot, will hear with regret that since his return from the Scottish National Show he has been confined to his bed with typhoid fever. He therefore begs the indulgence of all exhibitors and fanciers who may be corresponding with him, as he is quite helpless and very weak indeed, and not able to answer letters. Any very important ones will be attended to by a friend or a member of the family.



BIRDS THAT ARE "PALS."

My Orphean Warblers

By the Rev. C. D. FARRAR.

No. 33 of the series of articles "Through a Birdroom Window."

A very rare visitor to our shores is dealt with by this gifted writer, who describes how he himself was responsible for the wrecking of a cherished plan.

ABOUT four years ago I was making my annual holiday in London; and was naturally on the lookout for new and strange birds. To attain my end I naturally visited the East End of London and there I found something I never expected to set eyes on. I entered a big bird shop well known to all my avicultural readers, and there spent some two hours in gazing happily round and talking to the courteous manager, an old friend of mine. I thought I had seen and discussed everything in the shop, and I was just going out when up on a high shelf near the door my eye caught sight of a cageful of little birds; but the light was dim, so I could not make out what they were. I accordingly lifted them down and carried them to the light for clearer inspection. I was, however, no "forrarder," as I hadn't the least conception of what they were. When I turned to the manager and asked him, and received the laconic answer, "Orphean Warblers," I was not much wiser. In fact, to tell the honest truth, I had never heard of such birds.

A FOUNTAIN OF PLEASURE.

Nothing gives me so deep and sincere a satisfaction as a bird shop, but wealth will never be mine, and I shall never be able to buy all the birds I want. If, however, I behave myself and respect the Decalogue, when I die I hope I shall go where birds will be in plenty. How anyone with money can visit a big bird shop and not come away with pounds and pounds worth of birds is, as the late Lord Dundreary used to say, with his inimitable drawl, "just one of those things which no feller can understand."

In the present case my great fear was that these birds would be beyond my slender purse. Had I not given the show completely away? Here was a well-known breeder of foreign birds, who did not even know what these birds were. Surely the dealer might have said—and not unfairly—"The Lord hath delivered him into my hands!" Fortunately, my friend was in a merciful humour, or he was tired out with answering questions. At any rate, the price he asked astonished me by its moderation, though I managed to conceal my satisfaction, I think. As I watched him put up these birds, I felt as grateful as that native of India, who wrote to a benefactor: "If I were to make shoes of my skin for your Excellency in exchange for these favours, I would think that I had not trespassed the bounds of my gratitude."

WELL-KNOWN IN SCOTTISH PLAINHEAD CIRCLES.

Mr. W. Grewar, of Lochgelly, a noted breeder and exhibitor of the Norwich, photographed with his brother outside his bird house.

I have forgotten to say that there were four Orphean Warblers altogether, and I need hardly tell my readers that I took the lot. I was going to run no chances, and I determined that if I couldn't breed them nobody else should have a look in. I was horrified then, as my readers will imagine, when a few days after getting home I saw more Orphean Warblers advertised by a rival firm! Of course, I had to write off for them; but what was my disgust to receive a couple of hen Blackcaps.

THEY NO DOUBT CAME IN USEFUL.

It reminded me of the story of the Rajah of Travancore who, fond of jujubes and bonbons, and seeing an advertisement to the effect that a large consignment of jupons had arrived in Madras, jumped to the conclusion that they belonged to the same category, and became the owner of I know not how many dozen of steel crinolines! When I opened the cage that day and saw my hen Blackcaps I thought of the Rajah's face as he gazed on the crinolines, and I roared with laughter. I said nothing—I knew it was no good. Probably the man had sent them in perfect good faith, and, at any rate, a couple of nice hen Blackcaps were bound to come in useful some day. They did; but as Rudyard Kipling says—that is another story!

I was rather doubtful about the feeding of my Orpheans; so I asked the dealer what he had been giving them. He went to a box in his office and produced some soft mixture, which looked to me "fearfully and wonderfully made." But, as the birds looked very fit on it, I thought it would be wisdom to buy some, and I must say that events justified my action. "Looks ain't everything," as the old woman said of the Curate, "but he has lovely innards." It must have been the same with this mixture; although it was nothing to look at, much resembling dirty meal, it had wonderfully sustaining virtues, and for years I was never without it by me.

The tasteful display of special prizes at the last Members' Show of the Bootle and District C.B.S.

Before I left the shop I asked the dealer what he thought about the sex of the birds, as to me they looked very much of a muchness. It takes a lot of time and watching to sex birds correctly, and I had only had a few minutes in a very dark shop. He told me that in his opinion they were a cock and three hens; in fact, he offered to make a bet on the subject. I could not help recalling the story of the Hindoo who wrote to the local magistrate anent a fine imposed: "Your Honour may be right, I may be wrong, I may be right, your Honour wrong. Let your Honour give me back the fine, and then on the day of Resurrection, when all hearts will be open, if I am wrong I will most gladly then return your Honour the money!" I felt that too many things might happen before the question of sex could be decisively settled. I might die; the Orpheans might die; he might die—and then where would the bet come in?

MALE SWIFT "CAUGHT" ON THE NEST.

This establishes the fact that both parents take turns in incubating the eggs and brooding the young.

THE HOUSEMAID'S THREATENED DOOM.

I took the Orpheans home with me to Yorkshire at the end of my holiday. In the meanwhile, I got leave to keep them in the boarding house in South Kensington where I always stop, and I carried them up to my bedroom, and threatened the housemaid with the most dreadful penalties if she left the door open, as there are three cats in the house. I softened my threat by the present of half-a-crown; and then I went about my business with an easy mind.

THE HUNTING CISSA: A GEM FROM INDIA.

This gorgeously coloured and beautifully marked bird was shown by Mr. J. Frostick at the Horticultural Hall Show. In a state of nature the ground-colour of its plumage is blue, but in captivity it changes to a light bluish-green tint.

THE CREAM OF OUR CANARY HYBRIDS.

Each of these noble Hybrids secured first prize at the great New Year show of the Scottish National C.B.S., and has won numerous honours all over the country. On the left is Mr. A. Gilchrist's dark jonque Goldie-Canary, "Border-King;" Mr. A. Shellam's jonque Canary-Bullie is depicted at the top, and the bird underneath is the clear buff Goldie-Canary belonging to Mr. R. Jamieson, jun.

The birds were really in wonderful condition for softbills, and the tails and wings were unbroken. As soon as I got them safely home, I, of course, rushed to the bookcase to read up the subject of Orphean Warblers. I have always such books handy. Every bird-lover should keep them handy as Sairey Gamp kept her bottle, so that every visitor may refresh himself as often as he feels "dispoged." Not seldom a wayside snack of literature forms the initial of serious and fruitful study. It was, I know, so in my case. "Gedney's Cage Birds" gave me "bird fever"; and I have never lost it. I picked it up quite by chance on one of Smith's bookstalls.

BEAUTY ANALYSED.

On consulting my books this is what I found. "In general colour the male is slaty-grey above, a little clearer on the back of the neck, the quills of the wings blackish brown, edged with ashy-grey, tail feathers blackish, and slightly tipped with white, head dusky blackish with a dusky cap, throat and under surface white, the sides of the breast and flanks ashy grey with a beautiful pink tinge, beak dark brown with a yellowish base to the lower mandible, feet and claws lead colour, iris pale yellow. The female rather browner than the male, and not so distinctly grey; the breast marked with creamy buff; the head not so distinctly black as in the male. The young are very like the old females. In size the Orphean Warbler is a good deal bigger than the Whitethroats. Four reported occurrences of the Orphean Warbler in England are recorded; one was shot at Wetherby, near us, in 1848. Another was caught at Holloway in 1866, and lived for six months in captivity. Female shot near St. Leonards, 1903, and young bird picked up near same place in 1905."

I put the Orpheans into a nice garden aviary with a perfect natural "wilderness" just outside the bars, in which I fondly hoped they would one day go to nest. As it was late July when I put them into their new home, I thought it would be wiser not to put any opportunity of nesting before them till another year—I would let them look and long! It was a scheme formed at a distance, which, as Johnson remarks, "makes rivers look narrow and precipices smooth." It certainly did so in this case; for before the future came these rivers had become impassable and these precipices unclimbable.

Everything went well for a time, and with the soft food I brought home, and an abundant supply of fresh maggots, the Orpheans seemed happy as the day was long, and were always gaily flitting about much like our common or garden Whitethroat. They have the same habit of raising the crest and swelling out the throat. In keeping softbills there is only one thing I don't like: the stench of the maggots. I can smell it even now as I write; but have I any right to grumble at one of my best friends?

A FAVOURITE PASTIME IN THE PARKS.

The feeding of the graceful Swans is a delight that never palls upon the younger generation.

And now I must make a confession. Nobody likes to say he is wrong, but sometimes it has to be done. It must be here. I ought to have let these birds go to nest as soon as I got them home. It was the natural time; warm, bright sunshine and an abundance of insect life. Opportunity is a fine thing; press it while you've got it and just at the right time. I only wish there were some way of knowing when the right time has come! Alas, I missed my opportunity, and it never has come back.

"WHEN THE LEAVES BEGIN TO FALL."

I thought there would be no difficulty in keeping my Orpheans through the winter in a sheltered birdroom. I had kept far more delicate species under similar conditions; why not these? As the autumn days drew on, I found that day by day the roof of the flight was covered with summer migrants going south. There were Whitethroats, Garden Warblers, Wagtails, Grey and Yellow, and many others. Had I wished I could have got together quite a nice collection of the tiny beauties, but I hadn't the heart—they looked so bonny and happy.

As the result of these visits, my Orpheans grew more and more restless every day; night and day they were never still, but always wildly stampeding about their enclosure, seeking for some way of escape to join their comrades outside. I am dreadfully soft-hearted, as my readers know, and one morning I could stand it no longer; so I opened the door and let them go free, and I believe honestly the sight of their joy almost compensated me for the loss of that possible medal. They dashed out into the garden with all the avidity of a school-miss for a forbidden novel. For a few days they lingered about their old home, but then the frosts growing insistent, reminded them that it was time to be off to warmer and sunnier climes. One of my happy memories will always be of the months that I spent with my Orphean Warblers.

TWO CELEBRITIES OF THE SHOW SEASON.

The upper figure is the very charming Blue Niltava which made a first appearance on the show bench at the Horticultural Hall Show, exhibited by Mr. H. D. Astley, M.A., F.Z.S. The other lovely example of bird-life is the very rare Red and Black Tanager exhibited by Mr. C. T. Maxwell.

SEVEN FOREIGN BEAUTIES.

By WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.

(Author of "Aviaries and Aviary Life.")

Interesting facts concerning the charming creatures depicted on Mr. Goodchild's fine coloured picture, entitled "Value in Foreign Birds," which accompanies this issue.

ONCE more in the cycle of years it falls to my lot, as another Birthday issue is due, to endeavour to practically interest the readers of our popular journal. Truly, the theme is an inspiring one, and as I sit with a proof of Mr. Goodchild's beautiful drawing before me—" Seven Foreign Beauties," I have dubbed it—each rivalling the other in gorgeous beauty, a " Cardinal " and a " Bishop " gracing the foreground, I hope I may be first permitted to compliment Mr. Goodchild on what he has achieved ; the pose of each figure is a natural one, and each figure is a true portrait of the living bird. In some of the figures the limitations of colour printing make it impossible to depict the full brilliance of the sheen seen in the plumage of the living bird, but this fault, if fault it be, is on the right side, for purchasers of living specimens will in each case find the brilliance of the living bird to be a little in excess of that depicted on the plate.

THE GREATER BIRD OF PARADISE (PARADISEA APODA).

A few years ago the portrayal of one of these gorgeously apparelled Crows would have been pronounced unsuitable for the supplement of a popular journal, but, though they will never be really common, they have appeared of late years on the show bench, and specimens of this, as well as of other beautiful and rare species of Birds of Paradise, occupy the cages or aviaries of several aviculturists. In the aviaries of Mr. E. T. Brook, of Hoddam Castle, a finer collection even than those of zoological societies has been gathered together. To Mons. Pauvvels, of Belgium, belongs the honour of first placing this grand species on the English show bench.

SECOND TO NONE IN BEAUTY.

In gorgeousness of colour Birds of Paradise may have equals, but they have no superiors. Their plumes and shields transform them into marvels of grandeur, and when this is enhanced by their courting display, when the plumes and shields are shaken out and extended, and their full beauty displayed before their admiring mates, or in defiance before a rival, these magnificent creatures are at once objects of interest and admiration. When displaying before their mates, or a rival, every feather seems to quiver with life, and the whole bird is apparently a bundle of nerves ; but if they begin to " sing " (! ! !)their raucous voices almost detract from their beauty.

Excepting the King Bird of Paradise, all this group are pugnacious, and must be separately housed. With some species, even male and female cannot be kept together all the year round—I have seen them slaughter a small bird and make a meal of it, the same fate overtakes any mouse which comes within their notice and reach. In captivity they do not require much heat, but they do need exercise and fresh air, and, whether kept in cage or aviary, it is essential that there should be a sheltered corner to which they can retire to escape strong light or for a siesta.

SOLVING A SEX PROBLEM.

This photograph shows very clearly the sexual differences in the heads of the male and female Goldfinch Note the rounded skull, short beak, small blaze and greyish black collar of this hen. In the cock the skull is longer and flatter, the beak longer and stouter, the collar jet black, and the blaze extends to the outer edge of the eye.

NEIGHBOURS MIGHT OBJECT.

A pair of these birds in an aviary with a closed house not less than 6 ft. sq. and 8 ft. high, with a flight of the same proportions would be a most interesting feature of the park or grounds of any estate, or the garden of any dwelling house, provided neighbours were not so close as to be disturbed by their attempts at music. The flight might well contain a fir tree reaching to the top, and as large a Portugal laurel as can be transplanted. A cage for this species should not be less than 3 ft. square and 4 ft. high, with several pieces of natural branches as perching accommodation, and here, even if condemned to perpetual bachelorhood, a Bird of Paradise will delight his owner with his marvellous displays as various emotions possess him. He gives evidence of his emotions not only by these grand and interesting displays, but also voices them, and that in no half-hearted manner.

Their menu should consist of insectile mixture, ripe fruit, live insects, and berries, such as privet, elder, rowan, etc. A description of plumage is entirely uncalled for with the life-like portrait of the species on our coloured plate.

“TOMMY” AND HIS PET ROOK.

These Photographs of Private Haysom and his tame Rook were taken in the grounds of the Royal Naval College, Osborne, Isle of Wight. The Rook at night sleeps in the trees surrounding the College and has never been in captivity. Strange to say, while its owner can practically do anything with it he likes, the bird will not let anyone else touch him. When Private Haysom wants Master Rook he has only to go to the trees and call, when down comes the bird and perches on his shoulder. So well does it know its owner that it can pick him out from any number of soldiers. These Photographs were sent us by Mr. W. White, of East Cowes.

SEVEN FOREIGN BEAUTIES.

THE BLACK-CHEEKED LOVEBIRD (AGAPORNIS NIGRIGENIS).

Lovebirds are not favourites with everybody, and, irrespective of its beauty, I have heard even this particular species spoken of as an “insignificant little Lovebird,” but to my mind it is the most beautiful of all the Lovebirds. It is not always amiable towards other species or to Budgerigars, yet in many cases Budgerigars and Black-cheeks have been bred in the same aviary. They are perfectly hardy, and may be kept out of doors all the year round. Some five years ago this species was unknown to aviculture, but to-day it is almost common, and with some it has bred freely; nevertheless, though now reasonable in price, and its plumage very beautiful, it has never “caught on,” like the Budgerigar, for instance.

One calls to mind the excitement Black-cheeked Lovebirds occasioned when first exhibited, the deserved admiration they received, and the prophetic utterances (scarcely realised) re prolificacy of breeding, which utterances were, in many cases, inspired by the presence of eggs in the show cages.

A FIELD FOR INVESTIGATION.

I rather think one of the causes why they have not become general favourites with bird-keepers, is the sex problem, no definite plumatic or other outward constant distinction being known, which involves, of course, the consequent difficulty of securing a true pair. At present I only care to commit myself to advising my readers, if they have the opportunity of picking from a number of adults, to choose two birds in which the beaks and heads vary a little in form and size. If readers who are unfortunate enough to lose adult Black-cheeks, would be kind enough to send the bodies to me immediately after death, so that I might ascertain the sexes by dissection, preserve the skins, and, later, make the comparison of a series of both sexes, I should feel greatly favoured. When sending a body please state colour of the iris and other soft parts before death.

I know of several instances in which this species and Budgerigars have been successfully kept together, and they are more interfering than pugnacious; their ill-humour seldom goes as far as murder: nevertheless, before settling down to nesting, they are given to invading every husk or log in the aviary, to the utter discomfiture of other birds unable to put them to flight.

They do well in a crowd, and what more interesting sight could one wish than to see a flock of several pairs and their families disporting themselves in a garden aviary, on the wing, or about the branches, or attending to their domestic duties; under such conditions they are usually fairly prolific, and thrive without giving much trouble. They require a larger nesting receptacle than a Budgerigar, as they line it with straw, exhausted millet sprays, leaves, and any other similar rubbish they can get at. A roomy natural log or small barrel is the best for them. They do not carry the material into the nest in their beaks, but tucked amid the plumage of the lower back, and are most interesting to observe when engaged in the duties of building “Black-cheek Castle,” the home of their future families.

HOW TO KEEP LOVEBIRDS.

Budgerigars and Lovebirds enjoy sipping moisture from grass stems or branches rather than drinking from the orthodox drinking vessel, and their aviary should contain a portion which is roofed in with netting, and in a dry season the garden hose should be turned on this portion occasionally. In the way of diet, canary and white-millet will meet their simple requirements, with a few oats occasionally, but they should have an unstinted supply of millet sprays when feeding their young. Broken biscuits, and fruit are also very wholesome, but usually are not largely partaken of. In addition grit, cuttle bone and greenfood must be regularly supplied. The plate will give a better idea of their plumage than any written description.

THE GOULDIAN FINCH (PŒPHILA GOULDIÆ)

The exquisitely beautiful Gouldian Finches, in spite of all the difficulties of establishing them, draw as many admirers as ever, their rainbow-hued garment proving an irresistible attraction to many. Except in a few special instances, their span of life appears to be about four years, though my notes prove that they have lived six and eight years in my own aviary. In a cage they are somewhat lethargic in demeanour,' and in the aviary also this is true to a certain extent, though they have many intervals of activity, as well as being ready, when given suitable conditions, to nest and reproduce their kind.

During the summer of 1912 I saw in Dr. Scott's aviary at Wallington a nest of this species, which was built in the middle of a tube made of virgin-cork, the parent birds entering to feed their young by a hole in the base of the cork spout, as well as by either end.

REARING THE YOUNG.

Gouldian Finches rear their young almost entirely on seed and greenfood. Undoubtedly in a large aviary some insect life is captured and carried to the young, but this is really not essential, neither do they take much insectile mixture, but some pairs take a fair quantity of milk-sop. This, if they will take it, is very beneficial to them, and I always keep a saucer in the finch aviary.

Now a few words as to general treatment. On arrival each bird should be caged separately for a few days to recoup; they can thus rest, exercise, or feed unhampered by companions, and have more chance of recovering from the effects of importation. “Service water” does not appear to agree with caged Gouldian Finches, and they should either be given soft (rain) water or boiled service water. At this period, spray millet should be given freely, as well as canary and white millet, with small quantities of paddy rice and crushed oats. Also a little milk sop; all will not take it, but I have known cases where birds practically in extremis have recovered when they have been induced to partake of same. If so treated and kept free from draught, the majority will be brought round.

CAUGHT NAPPING.

Another clever photograph (copyright) by Mr. S. Crook. A Tawny Owl is seen indulging in a mid-day “forty winks.”

Gouldian Finches are shade loving birds, and such shelter should be provided in any flight, either by a bush (Portugal laurel is a good one) or by a shelf with branches directly underneath. Canary, white millet, spray millet, will form the main dietary; paddy rice and kibbled oats in smaller quantity; greenfood, as much as they will take; also milk-sop, if they will take it, either regularly or at intervals. A pinch of a mixture of lettuce seed, grass seed, cornflower seed, mignonette, rape, gold of pleasure, blue maw and summer rape in equal parts, is a wholesome occasional change. Grit and cuttlebone should be regularly supplied. A lump of rock salt should be in cage or aviary, and be regularly damped. The Red-headed Gouldian Finch is not a species, but merely a colour variety; in plumage it is the same as the figure on our plate save that the black mask is replaced by one of rich-ruby red.

ONE OF OUR WINTER GUESTS.

The Fieldfare, which comes to us from the North with the winter's frost and snow.

THE PARADISE WHYDAH (STEGANURA PARADISEA).

Among the Whydahs are many beautiful and striking species, yet few surpass this species, perhaps as freely imported as any, either in beauty or attractiveness. Certainly the Paradise Whydah lacks the gorgeous hues of the other birds of our plate, yet the beautifully-harmonised velvety black, creamy-white, and mahogany red of the male when in full dress, together with the arrangement of his caudal plumes, mark him out at once for admiration and notice.

FOURTEEN-INCH TAIL-FEATHERS.

About February, or early March, he loses his beautiful nuptial dress, and for a time is little brighter in plumage than his soberly coloured mate, whose plumage is of much the same colour and pattern as that of a Corn Bunting, with dark eye and crown streaks. In a young bird the caudal plumes often do not extend to much more than six inches, but they increase with each succeeding year, ultimately reaching a length of thirteen to fourteen inches; as they increase in length they also become narrower. Out of colour they are to be purchased for 2s. 6d. to 4s. 6d. a pair, and even at this time the sexes may be easily distinguished, for not only is the cock larger, but he is also more distinctly streaked than the hen and his eye-stripe is more buff in hue; the base of his beak is also broader than that of his mate. Mr. Goodchild has perfectly depicted the pose of this bird, and the arrangement of its caudal plumes as it alights after a flight. On the wing, these are carried curved, and when the bird is completely at rest they occasionally hang limply down almost at right angles with the body.

FAMILIARITY BREEDS CONTEMPT.

The Paradise Whydah is hardy and harmless, but there are qualifications to both these attributes. As regards the former, he is better removed to an inner flight in November, as he doffs his nuptial dress in February or March in this country, and many are lost at this time if left out of doors. Again, although among the many specimens I have possessed I have never known one to harm the smallest Waxbill, and the small fry in my aviaries appear to be quite unconcerned by their presence, nevertheless, if a male in full dress be turned into a mixed aviary, the birds are badly scared by its caudal plumes and dash about wildly in all directions, often to their own hurt. Whydahs, therefore, should be introduced into the aviary when in winter dress (out of colour) and the birds then take no notice of them when the caudal plumes become full grown in due course.

The cage for this species should not only be roomy, but the lowest perch should leave the long tail-feathers clear of the bottom of the cage, and the food and water hoppers should be placed within reach of these perches. In the aviary such precautions are not necessary, for with space at their command they keep their tails in perfect condition throughout the season; when running about on the ground they carry their tails arched and quite clear of the ground, and even at the end of a wet season the tail plumes, when shed, have been picked up scarcely frayed or soiled.

THE APPLE OF THE SCOTSMAN'S EYE!

Two ideal Scots Fancy Canaries, the modern type of the "bird o' circle." A foul-marked bird (on the left), and a clear.

A HEALTH DIETARY.

They do well on canary and millet seed, being very fond of spray millet. Greenfood and one or two live insects per diem should be supplied; some individuals will not take the latter, but usually do so readily when donning the nuptial dress, and some form of animal food certainly helps them through this critical period. In the general aviary they also help themselves to a little paddy rice and oats, and an occasional sunflower seed. Grit and cuttlebone, also water for drinking and bathing, must be regularly supplied. It is an African species, ranging over N.E. and S.W. Africa.

THE CRIMSON FINCH (NEOCHMIA PHAETON).

A beautiful, but very pugnacious, Australian species, and not safe in a mixed series. In captivity some cocks will murder one hen after another, though even such a male has bred in an open flight, when introduced to a mate in the early spring. Impossible ought not to be in the bird-keeper's vocabulary—so gorgeous and beautiful a species is worth taking some trouble with. Dr. Hetley, of Norwood, had a brood of Crimson Finches successfully reared in a large cage, standing in one of his sitting-rooms, but the male parent did not tolerate the presence of the young for long, once they were able to fend for themselves. However, after one has said all that is possible in its favour, one is bound to confess that its demeanour is almost universally malicious, and it must always be kept under strict observation.

NEEDS LIVE-FOOD.

The general colour of the male is the richest crimson. Unfortunately, this colour seldom reproduces well in a painting, but save that the crimson of the living bird is much brighter, the figure on our plate is true to life, and an abundant testimony, as is the whole plate, of Mr. Goodchild's technical skill and artistic talent. It is not at all a delicate species, but needs a fair amount of live-food to keep it fit, though canary, white millet and spray millet will form the main dietary—much greenfood, such as seeding grass, chickweed, groundsel, etc., is also eaten. While procurable it would be well to confine the live-food to such smooth caterpillars, spiders and small beetles as one could catch, supplemented with live ants' eggs, wasps' grubs, and any other larvæ and pupæ obtainable, according to the season, falling back on a moderate use of meal-worms for winter use.

In a wild state the Crimson Finch builds a flask-shaped nest in a small tree, bush, or even among tall strong grass stems. In captivity it will construct a similar nest if there are growing trees in its flight, or will make use of any handy box that meets its expectations, constructing a dome-shaped nest therein. The female is paler and browner than the male, washed strongly with grey on the back, throat and breast, the flanks are thickly spotted with white, and the centre of the abdomen is pale buff.

CAGE BIRDS
EH! LAD. BUT YOU HAVE GROWN!
Tom A

HIS ELEVENTH BIRTHDAY!

I HAVE had the pleasure of inspecting quite a large number of coloured plates of birds since my connection with the Cage-bird Fancy began, and as regards a considerable number of them it has been my good fortune to be called upon to pen the accompanying letterpress. Many I have thought most admirable examples of artistic skill, particularly so when viewed from the bird-keeper's standpoint; but none has impressed me with so definite a sense of superlative all-round excellence as the creation of Mr. Norman's facile brush which is before me as I write.

The difficulties of the scheme are apparent. No fewer than fifty species have to be portrayed in miniature with an exactitude calculated to please the critical eyes of the readers of CAGE BIRDS, the great majority of whom are familiar with every detail of contour and coloration that goes to make up the birds of their Ideal—the birds they have seen at the shows; may-be happily have succeeded in placing upon the show-benches—or acquainted with the appearance and bearing of the majority of the little creatures as they flit about the country side.

In my opinion, Mr. Norman has succeeded amazingly well. His present plate is surely one that will be treasured for long years to come by thousands of bird-keepers—its value as an educational factor and as a work of reference is too obvious to need mention. It is, in short, a triumph; and that my brother bird-lovers will agree with me in this, I have no manner of doubt.

Our old friend CAGE BIRDS, too, merits a word of appreciation. The design of the plate is unique so far as our hobby is concerned—nothing like it has ever been placed before bird-keepers—and I happen to know that its production has involved a great expenditure of money, an amount, in fact, that would considerably astonish my readers were I to set it down in cold type. To the colour-printers also a meed of praise; they have had a difficult task in endeavouring to render accurately the varied tones of colour represented in the plumage of so many birds, and right well have they coped with it.

And now to my own notes, concerning which I can only say that I hope they may be considered worthy of the plate which calls them into being. If I am wrong in any particular, or should any details be at variance with the experiences of others, I hope readers will not scruple to write and say so. I have met people who seemed to think I knew everything; but unfortunately I don't.

A Bird with a Golden Voice.

BLACKCAP WARBLER (Sylvia atricapilla).—Length about 5½ inches. Common local names: Nettle-creeper, Hay-jack, Mock Nightingale, etc. A summer migrant, and, like the Nightingale, returns to old haunts. Frequents large gardens, hedge-rows, copses, and small woods. Widely distributed, but rare in North of Scotland, and very local in Ireland. Builds a neat but frail nest; favourite sites, bramble bushes, privet, etc., hedges. Materials: Grasses and root fibres, and often cobwebs, lined with fine roots and horse-hair. Eggs, 4 to 6; ground colour varies from yellowish-olive to olive-brown (or reddish), spotted, blotched and streaked with dark brown; vary greatly, some having a white ground. Nesting period, May and June.

Two broods are usually reared. The hen has a rusty-coloured (rufous) cap. The fledglings resemble the hen, but are more olive-brown, and lack the grey on the neck; the young cocks acquire the black cap at the autumn moult. Alarm note, a sharp "chuck," often repeated. Song, very melodious; bubbling phrases, now loud, now low, flute-like and varied. Shy bird, flitting timidly from cover to cover.

In captivity it thrives well and sings the greater part of the year. Diet: Insectile mixture; live food; fruit and berries. A great fruit and berry eater, it must have these items freely. Has been bred in an aviary.

A Favourite with Everybody.

LINNET (Acanthis cannabina).—Length about 5½ inches. Common local names: Brown, or Grey, or Rose, or Whin, Linnet, Lintie, etc. A resident, and one of our most numerous and most familiar Finches. Frequents fields, waste land, and commons, especially where gorse abounds. Builds a neat nest; favourite sites, gorse, heather, thorn bushes, shrubs, etc. Materials: Moss, grasses and fine twigs, lined with wool, sometimes a few feathers. Eggs, 4 to 6 (usually 5); ground colour, bluish-white, spotted and streaked with red at the large end. I once found an all-white clutch. Nesting period, April to late in June.

Two broods, I think, are generally reared. The hen lacks the crimson crown and breast; further, she is not nutty-brown on the back and wing-butts, and is thickly streaked (pencilled) on the breast, while the white edging to wing-flights and tail is not so broad as in the male. The fledglings resemble the female, but are not so heavily streaked, and are softer in ground colour. Song varies considerably in individuals, but at its best is sweet and pleasing, nicely varied, and continuously uttered. "Calls" when in flight. The hen will sing when caged—freely, but very "jerkily."

A very popular, and deservedly so, cage pet. Has been bred both in cage and in aviary. Crosses readily with the Canary; also with the Goldfinch, Siskin, Greenfinch, hen Bullfinch, etc. Linnet-Canary Mules are exceptionally good and free songsters. Diet: Teazle, linseed, summer rape, and canary; hemp, maw, and charlock occasionally; wild-seeds of almost all kinds; shepherd's purse, chickweed, plantain, groundsel and dandelion greatly appreciated.

SKYLARK (Alauda arvensis).—Length about 7½ inches. Local names: Laverock, Lark, etc. Is both resident and migratory; and a very common and numerous bird, known practically to everyone. Frequents meadows, commons and downs. Builds on the ground a nest of dried grass, sometimes using a little hair. Eggs, 3 to 5, usually 4; ground colour, greyish-brown, thickly clouded (especially at the large end) with grey and rusty-brown; at odd times the ground colour has a greenish tinge. Nesting period, middle of April to beginning of July. Two broods are usually reared.

The hen is like the cock in colour and markings, but is invariably smaller and more "meek" in appearance, while the cock has appreciably longer wings, a longer spur, and a longer "topping" (crest) which he raises frequently. The fledglings are softer in colouring, and have a peculiarly "fluffy," downy appearance. The song I need not attempt to describe; it is universally admired. Has a curious "chirrupy" kind of call, or alarm, note. In a cage the hen will often sing quite well.

Fact, and not Sentimental Fiction.

This species is a favourite cage-bird, and, contrary to what some good folk would make believe, takes readily to cage life, lives for many years, ails not at all, and sings with great freedom. Has been bred in aviaries, and in an outdoor place very little larger than a good-sized flight cage. Diet: Insectile mixture; live food; little seed frequently (canary and coarse oatmeal, with now and again maw and cracked hemp); chopped green-stuff (especially clover grass) is excellent.

CHOUGH (Graculus graculus).—Length about 16 inches. Common local names: Sea Crow, Red-legged (or billed) Crow, Cliff Daw, Cornish Chough, etc. Both resident and migratory; mainly the former. Frequents cliffs near the sea; restricted to certain localities in South-West of England, Wales, Isle-of-Man, Ireland, some of the Scottish islands, etc. Builds in holes in the cliff face (occasionally in ruins) and in caves. Materials: Sticks outside, roots, grass, heather, wool and hair inside. Eggs, 3 to 6 (4 or 5 being the usual number, I understand). Ground colour, creamy-white, spotted and marked (varying much in this respect) with grey and brown. Nests during May, and I believe has only one brood.

The hen is somewhat smaller than the male, but similar in plumage. The fledglings are a dull black, and have the legs and beak yellowish-orange in colour. I have known Alpine Choughs (a Continental species), which have shorter, yellow bills, to be sold as young Cornish Choughs. No song; but the bird has a ringing and not unmusical call note, and "clatters" away not unlike a Starling.

Something like a Hybrid!

The Chough is a favourite exhibition bird with some fanciers, but its size and the consequent expense of sending it about, tell against it; a good specimen, however, is fairly certain to "catch the judge's eye." Is hardy and lives for many years. Cannot trace it as having bred in captivity; should produce a fine Hybrid mated with the Magpie (!). Diet: A coarse soft-food mixture, with plenty of crissel (dried meat) and table scraps, varied with cooked liver or sheep's heart and shell fish of various kinds; chopped up green-stuff; live food.

GOLD-CRESTED WREN (Regulus regulus).—Length about 3½ inches; our tiniest bird. Common local names: Kinglet, Bee-bird, Tidler, Miller's Thumb, etc. Both resident and migratory. Found practically all over the United Kingdom, and in goodly numbers. Frequents gardens, plantations and woods, the tops of yew and fir trees being favourite haunts. Very "acrobatic," skipping about and hanging from twigs in the manner of the Tits, with whom, in fact, it often consorts. Builds a most beautiful nest of moss, lichen, hair, spider's webs, etc., lined with feathers, and usually suspends it under a branch of a fir, yew or pine tree; it is nearly round, and has a side entrance. Eggs, 5 to 10. Ground colour, creamy-white, spotted with light reddish-brown. Nesting period, April to June. Whether it has a second brood I cannot say for certain; but I think not.

The hen is duller in colour than the cock, and her crest is yellow instead of orange, while the blackish streaks at either side of it are more pronounced. The fledglings are much like the hen in body colour, but entirely lack the yellow crest. The cock has low, sweet, trilling little song. The call-note, however, is amazingly loud and shrill for so small a bird.

The Gold-crest is often kept in captivity, but ought not to be attempted by other than an experienced bird-lover, as it needs the best of food and constant attention, without which it soon succumbs. Diet: A high-grade insectile mixture, containing plenty of best quality ants' eggs; live food liberally (flies, green caterpillars, live ants' eggs, small spiders, and the like). Several bird-keepers have succeeded in house-moulting this tiny creature (I experienced no difficulty in doing so myself, using live ants' eggs as the staple item of food) but I fancy my skilful friend, Mr. S. H. Mays, easily holds the record in this direction. He moulted one particular specimen five times (if my memory serves me correctly) and this bird regularly visited the Palace show and was always well up in the prize-list; once, at least, capturing the cup for best Britisher in the show.

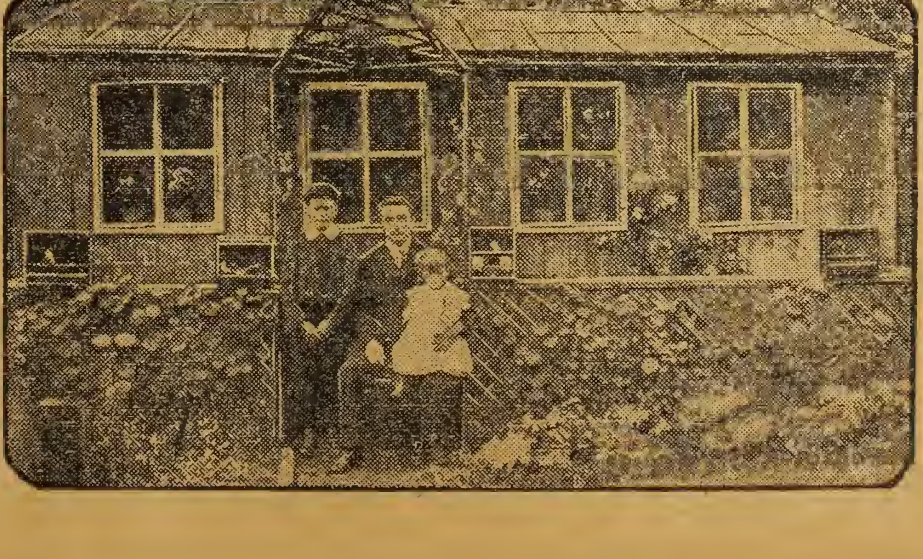
An Accomplished Winter Songster.

The Wren, says a correspondent to the "Daily Sketch,' is strangely under-rated among our winter songsters. The blithe carol of the Robin, the Starling whistling from the chimney-pot, the chirping Sparrow on the water-pipe, the Lark shrilling upwards to the watery winter sun, even the thin pipe of the Hedge-sparrow—all these are familiar to our writers in prose and verse. But very few of them seem to have noticed or even to have known the Wren, and then only as a very small bird, bright brown in colour and cock-tailed in attitude, which slips mouse-like through the bushes. They seem to be quite unacquainted with the Wren as our most brilliant singer in winter, often pouring out a gushing stream of liquid notes bearing more resemblance to those of the Canary than any other British bird. It is also more distinctly recognisable than any, beginning almost always with four laughable notes which sound like "Sip, sip, sip, sip," then bursting into a full trill of music, and ending with the same four notes. Besides being more musical, its song is more complete and finished than that of any other bird which sings in winter; and the effect of the song is heightened if you are able to see the singer, as he suddenly pops up to a prominent twig, looking absurdly small for the owner of so large a voice.



BUILT BY ITS OWNER.

Mr. J. E. Record, of Walsall, erected this fine bird-house entirely by himself, and last season had good results at his first attempt at breeding.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

Canaries.—Claude St. John. British Birds, Mule and Hybrids—G. E. Weston. Foreign Birds—Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., M.B.N.H.S., &c., Wild Bird Life—H. Norman.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

CROOKED HIND TOE (G. H. Thurley).—The hind toe being turned sideways would not disqualify the bird for competition on the show bench, but it would certainly reduce its chances of success. It would tell against it more or less according to the extent of the deformity, and its apparent disfigurement, the amount of competition, and to some extent according to the judge's view of these deformities. If the competition happened to be keen, and the deformity is very noticeable, the bird's chance of winning would be very remote, I am afraid.

BARE PLACES (E.S.S.).—Catch the bird and examine it carefully, especially under the wings and around base of neck to see if it is troubled with grey lice, also examine cage well for red mite, and if either pest is present take steps to eradicate it. If there are no signs of insects treat bird for a month the same as advised to "Newport, I.W." in this issue, but instead of the quinine tonic give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid in the water. Give a staple diet of plain canary only, and keep cage floor well strewn with clean gritty sand.

OUTDOOR BIRDROOM (F.B.S.H.).—Certainly, if you have a well-constructed wood building, lined with thin boards, and the space between the boards filled in with sawdust or wool-waste, you can with perfect safety keep practically any variety of canary in it without any artificial heat whatever. The only condition is that you select only stock which has been bred and kept under normal conditions of temperature to begin with. Your own stock would answer this requirement. It would be an advantage to raise the floor a few inches off the ground, but this is not absolutely essential unless the ground is undrained, and often sodden with moisture. Any spell of nice mild weather from middle of February onwards would be the best time to make the change of quarters.

SOFT MOULT (Newport, I.W.).—Keep the bird in a comfortable temperature, and not overheated, and see that it is free from cold draughts. Then feed as follows for a month or so, which should set matters right:—In addition to the usual seed give half a teaspoonful of crushed stale sponge cake, slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed every second day for a fortnight. On the alternating days give either a spray of watercress or a morsel of banana, and a pinch of maw seed, and add to the drinking water as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece. Allow bird to bathe on mild days if it wishes to do so. At end of first fortnight dissolve half a drachm of ammoniated citrate of iron and quinine in an ounce of sherry, add a teaspoonful of glycerine, and give 20 drops of this mixture in the drinking water two days in every three until the feathers cease dropping out.

A RESTLESS ROLLER (In Doubt).—The bird is certainly showing signs of going in moult very soon. Keep it in a comfortable temperature, but do not overheat it, see that it is quite free from cold draughts, and throw a light cover over its cage for a week or two. Allow it to bathe on mild days if it wishes to do so. In addition to its staple diet of canary and rape, give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake, slightly dusted with flowers of sulphur, and sprinkled with maw every second day for a fortnight. On the alternating days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts niger, millet, teazle, and linseed, and also add to the drinking water 20 drops of whisky, five of syrup of saf[illegible], and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece. At the end of the first fortnight stop giving the sulphur, and the drugs in water, but continue giving the mixed seed and sponge cake for a month or six weeks. It is quite possible the song may improve after the moult. Set the bird near a good singing cock for a few weeks if possible.

SHAKY WHEN RESTING (B.P.).—The few particulars you give do not convey a very definite idea of what is wrong. The bird may be of a weakly constitution, or the place where it has been caged may be damp or draughty, or it may even be pestered with insects. Catch it and examine its plumage well to see if any grey lice are present. If so, your course is obvious. If there is no sign of insects give a morsel of bread and milk, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it and sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and broken groats. Give a spray of watercress three times a week if obtainable. In the drinking water add four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week. If this does not set matters right please write again and I will advise you further.

OUT OF CONDITION (H.L.H.).—Thanks for report. Am glad to hear bird is so much better. Have patience for a little while, and the song will doubtless return in a short time. Discontinue all medical treatment now, and in addition to staple diet give half a teaspoonful of summer rape every second day, and twice a week on the intervening days a morsel of bread and milk, sprinkled with soft sugar. On the other days give a morsel of banana, sweet apple, carrot, or watercress. Make a little paste as follows and keep a piece stuck in wires for bird to peck at for the next few weeks. Place in a hot saucer a tablespoonful of honey, teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion, as much chlorate of potash as will cover a shilling, and half the quantity of grain of paradise, mix thoroughly and add meanwhile sufficient finely powdered biscuit to make a fairly stiff paste. When cold it may cut into cubes to stick in wires.

FOOD AND MATE FOR ROLLER (Old Reader).—I do not remember receiving a previous query from you. If I have it has certainly been answered, and you must have overlooked the reply. For the ordinary singing Roller a staple of two parts canary to one part summer rape is best. A pinch of maw, or of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, teazle, and linseed, with just a sprinkling of mustard seed added to the bulk, or a morsel of bread and milk, egg food, or sponge cake, banana, or sweet apple, and a variety of green salads in season are the best tit-bits. The latter, of course, are for occasional use, one or the other now and again, and not to be all given together. In a general way the plainer the diet the better, provided it is wholesome. For full details get the Nutshell booklet, No. 10, 2½d. post free. The best mate for it would be a Roller hen—a buff hen if the cock is a yellow, and vice versa.

CANARY QUERISTS

should consult St. John's "Canary Breeding for Beginners" (7d.); House's "Canary Manual" (1/2); Battye's "Yorkshire Canaries" (1/1½); House's "Norwich Canaries" (1/1); Weston's "Stock Book" (7d.); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping (1/1); Norman's "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); Ramsden's "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); "Seeds and Foods for Cage Birds" (1/2); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 5 "The Pet Canary," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 10 "The Roller," No. 23 "The Border Fancy," No. 24 "Green Canaries." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free, from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

TO CLEAN A DIRTY BIRD (H. Barnett).—Once a bird has become grimy in its plumage nothing short of hand-washing will restore it to the beautifully clean spick and span condition you admire in bird-shops or at shows. When birds are kept in a kitchen, or elsewhere in an atmosphere where dust and smoke are prevalent, the cages need washing occasionally to prevent the plumage becoming begrimed, and the birds should have a bath daily if they show an inclination for bathing, in all ordinary cases. This preserves their cleanliness a much longer period, but it is practically impossible to keep them over a long time in the spotless condition you admire so much without handwashing. This operation requires some skill and practice, so I cannot advise you to attempt it. Try a daily bath, and washing cage and perches occasionally for a month or two. It will make a good deal of improvement.

STANDS WITH MOUTH OPEN (P.C.).—The attacks you describe are not fits at all in the ordinary sense in which the term is used. They are simply attacks of extreme nervousness, and if you investigate the case carefully. you may be able to discover and remove the cause. The bird is doubtless alarmed at some object or movement when it acts as you describe. tI may be the presence of a cat, dog, or some other creature, either in the room, or the street, if it can see through a window. I have even known a large spider on a wall or ceiling at some distance cause such alarm. Or it may be due to some strange dress, especially a picture-hat, or some temporary object in the room, or, again, it may be due simply to moving its cage. Only one on the spot can discover the real cause. When this is done avoid the cause as much as possible, and deal with the bird in the same judicious gentle manner as advised to "S.R." on Dec. 14. This is all you can do in such a case.

BARE ON HEAD (L.Y.).—These bare patches are very frequently inherited by crested birds, and no treatment is likely to be of any use in such cases. The only thing to be done is to endeavour by judicious mating to avoid the same fault appearing in the young. It is quite possible the bare patches existed prior to the end of breeding season, and you did not notice them until the moult made them too pronounced to be overlooked, or they might really have been better covered whilst the bird was young, and, consequently, had not quite so much substance as she would possess at the end of summer. In mating her be careful to select a bird with very good breadth and length of head feather, and plenty of it, and particularly avoid a bird not well furnished at back of skull, and one whose parents—either one or both—were known to possess these faults.

LOSING TOE NAILS. (E.G.).—Thanks for your letter and further particulars. It is a most peculiar condition of things, and I cannot suggest anything more than I did in my last reply. I fail to gather from your letter anything seriously wrong with your method of washing, and can only suppose that the toe nails which ultimately drop off get a wrench in some way, which I know will bring about the same result. It may be that the birds which suffer—I take it that all of them do not suffer loss of toe nails—are of a delicate constitution, and the circulation weak. Have any of the birds which have never been washed lost the nails in this way, and is it possible that they get them fast in the wires of cages, or round perches to cause the loss? Have you only began to finish drying off birds over the range during the time that these losses have come about? Think things over a bit and see if you can discover any material difference in your method of washing and drying. Above all be careful in wrapping and unwrapping birds during drying, not to snatch the toes if they happen to grip the flannel. In any future case try bathing foot as soon as bird begins to hold it up daily for a few days in a warm solution of Wych Hazel. Then dry, and anoint toes with a little Lanocyllin.

SWELLING ON TOE (Mrs. B.).—Bathe the toe for a few minutes in a warm solution of extract of wych hazel. When quite clean, if there appears a "head" on the swelling, carefully prick it with a clean needle, and gently press out contents. Continue bathing for a few minutes longer, then dry, and anoint with Lanocyllin. Repeat the anointing once a day for a few days until place is healed. Be very careful in handling bird and bathing foot, as there is some risk of the claw being lost.

GREEN FOOD FOR CANARIES (Young Amateur). Chickweed, lettuce, dandelion, flower heads of groundsel, watercress, young leaves of chicory, rape, and other similar seedlings, tops of inner leaves of celery, green plantain stalks, also banana, apple, carrot, grapes, and various other sweet edible fruits and berries, afford abundant choice of green food and tit-bits at various seasons. Why not get "Canary Breeding for Beginners," 7d. post free, or Nutshell booklet, No. 5, 2½d. post free, which will give you full details of foods and tit-bits, or better still "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants for Cage Birds," 1s. 2d. post free, all of which our manager would send you.

COLOUR FEEDING (Jake).—It is quite too late now to think of colour feeding until next moulting season. Birds can only be colour-fed during the moult when they are growing new plumage. You must begin giving colour with the soft food a short time, say two or three weeks, before they begin to drop their plumage, and continue it regularly right through the moult. About middle of August is the time to think of colour feeding, and if you watch our columns at that time you will find lots of detailed information how it is done. Our advertisement columns, at the same period, will show you where to get the colour food. To be fully prepared get the little brochure on "Colour Feeding," 3½d. post free, from our manager, and digest its contents during the next few months.

TAIL MOVING (Nemo, Gateshead).—As a rule it indicates the incipient stage of asthma. Your feeding might be a little more generous. Keep it free from cold draughts, and heated impure air, such as hanging near the ceiling or near or over burning lights in the evening. In addition to the staple seed diet give a pinch of summer rape every second day, and on the alternate days for a month give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw. In the drinking water add six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence for three days. After this give 20 drops of the following mixture every second day for a fortnight:—Mixture: Two drachms each of glycerine and oxymel of squills, one drachm each of ipecac. wine and chlorodyne, and eight grains of iodide of potassium.

ROLLERS (E.A.C.B.).—(1) In the vast majority of cases all the names you mention are meaningless terms, and attached indiscriminately to one and the same breed of canary—the German, as it was formerly called, but now more popularly termed the Roller. At best these terms indicate different qualities or classes of song. A Schoolmaster is so termed because it is, or should be, an exceptionally well-trained and accomplished singer, which is, or may be, used for tutoring young or less accomplished performers. But all these terms are very loosely employed, and therefore should not have too much importance attached to them. (2) All the varieties may be interbred, with only this qualification, that if you want to breed a highly-trained pure hollow-roll strain, for example, you should not introduce less developed songsters with a great variety of notes and "changes." (3) Most highly improbable, and I would dispute the possibility. This, however, is a question about which you should consult our Mr. Weston.

ABOUT ROLLERS (A Novice).—(1) The only advantage of the B.R.C.C. ring on Rollers over a Roller not wearing this ring, is that the rung bird would be able to take part in certain competitions and compete for certain special prizes on the show bench, which a bird not wearing this ring would be ineligible for. (2) Of those you mention, a well-trained Glucke; that is, a bird proficient in good and pure Glucke tours, would be considered the best; but for everyday wear, so to speak, popular opinion would doubtless go in favour of a well-trained Siefert or St. Andreasberg. It is quite a mater of individual taste. (3) Rollers are judged solely by their vocal performances. Colour and other fancy points count nothing. Therefore, it is not, as a rule, necessary to wash them before showing. No fancier would care to show a dirty unpresentable specimen, and if a show specimen got into this condition, it would doubtless be given a "tubbing" before being exhibited.

MATING LIZARDS (Grateful).—Gold and silver in Lizards are terms synonymous with yellow and buff respectively in other varieties, and in mating them you should follow the usual course of mating yellow and buff, or, as we should say in speaking of Lizards, a gold and a silver. Occasionally, for some special object two golds or two silvers are mated, but this in a variety having so many other highly technical features as the Lizard, is a far more risky job for a beginner to tackle than almost any other unorthodox breeding, and you will do well to stick to the beaten track for the present. A broken cap should be mated with a clear cap, and a bird much over-capped, or with the cap extending on to the face, may be most advantageously mated with a non-capped bird or one in which the cap is almost entirely absent. It is impossible to go into all the ins and outs of Lizard breeding in this column. There is no work dealing solely with Lizards, but you would find them dealt with in House's "Canary Manual," 1/2, post free, and in Part XII. of "Our Canaries," either of which our Manager could send you.

MATES AND CROSS FOR NORWICH (Ajax).—(1) You do not say what the mother of this hen was, but I presume you have some reason for suggesting the cinnamon tick came from the green cock. I would advise you to mate her with a clear yellow, bred from clears, and free from any cinnamon blood —at least for two or three generations. Have as much rich natural colour as you can get, and good plump shape, with plenty of substance, but do not go away from the pure Norwich type. You should get some birds full of quality of feather from such a pair. (2) This bird is a variegated, but is doubtless from an even-marked strain. Select as mate for her a big, stout, clear buff bred from an even-marked strain. Get plenty of size in this bird, consistent with true Norwich type, and let it be as boxy in plumage and short in flights and tail as you can get. (3) To cross a Lancashire Plainhead with Norwich would be sheer waste of time. Instead of getting a good show bird, you would utterly ruin the stock, and have several years' work before you to breed the cross out again. You will find plenty of material in the pure Norwich to improve size without crossing in this drastic fashion.

CHOICE OF ROOM (A.B.C.).—The chances are very greatly in favour of the bathroom being the worst possible choice, so if you can spare the birds a corner of the attic where there is a fair amount of light, and no dangerous cutting draughts direct on the cages, I would certainly advise you to choose this position in preference to the bathroom. As the birds have hitherto been kept in the kitchen, you will have to be a little careful about moving them, or they will be thrown in moult. If in a warm corner of the kitchen, move them when the weather is mild, as far as possible from the source of heat, consistent with keeping clear of cold draughts and sudden extremes of temperature. Then take advantage of a spell of nice mild weather towards end of February or early in March to move them to the attic. The birds should not be mated until after removal.

OUTSIDE AVIARY (A. T.).—It would have been better had you enclosed a rough sketch of the proposed birdroom. As it is, I do not know whether it is a span or lean-to roof, so I can only suggest a position in each end near the highest angle of roof as perhaps the best positions for ventilator exits. It would be as well to whitewash or distemper the inside walls, but I see no necessity to cover the glass with whitewash. As the glass appears to be fixed in movable frames, it will be much better to move the frames from the front of aviary when the weather becomes sultry, replacing the whole or part at night when it seems advisable to do so—that is, always replace enough to prevent a very serious fall of temperature at times when the nights are still chilly, but when sultry nights follow hot days, leave enough down to maintain an atmosphere free from birdy smell or stuffiness. You are keeping the birds fairly cosy, having this change in view. You should gradually bring them down to the normal temperature when weather becomes mild, unless, of course, you mean to heat the outside aviary.

SEX AND COLD (Reg.).—(1) Unless this bird quickly finds a voice now, I should begin to seriously doubt its being the right sex, notwithstanding it having "a bold look." Give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it and sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed every second day for a fortnight. On the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, and teazle. Keep a cube of the paste advised to "H.L.H.' in this issue, stuck in the wires. If this does not bring it out—well, put it among the girls. (2) See that this hen is kept free from draughts. Do not overheat her, nor yet keep her quite cold. Give a little sponge cake prepared as for the cock above every second day for a week or fortnight as may seem necessary, and add to the drinking water on the alternating days 20 drops of the mixture advised to "Nemo, Gateshead," in this issue.

CEASED SINGING (Southport).—The bird may have been kept up to concert pitch in song for a few months, and is now taking a short rest, which, most likely, your feeding and treatment is partly responsible for. You should get the nutshell booklet on the Roller, No. 10, to see full details of management. Meanwhile, see that it is kept free from cold draughts and heated impure air from burning lights in the evenings. Give a staple diet of two parts canary to one part summer rape. In addition to this, give the sponge cake, mixed seed, and the paste as advised to "Reg." in this issue, for a fortnight. Give a spray of watercress, if obtainable, about every third day, but it must be perfectly free from frosted or decaying portions.

LUMP ON WING (H.S.).—Touch the substance with a small feather dipped in tincture of iodine four times, with an interval of three days between each time. If this does not cause it to dry up and fall off in the course of a week or so after last dressing, examine the lump closely and see if it has a narrowed neck at the junction with the wing, so that a ligature tied around the base would remain there instead of slipping off, as would happen if there is no "neck." If this is the case, tie a ligature of fine silk around the base. Tie rather tightly, but not overdo it, and leave it alone afterwards. The substance will then drop off of its own accord after a time—perhaps only a few days afterwards. Certainly it will be of use for breeding if it remains healthy and does not go into moult. The lump will not affect it for breeding, but as you say it has not moulted, there is some risk of it dropping into moult in spring. Maybe it moulted gradually whilst flying loose in room, and you did not notice it.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

Answered by WESLEY T. PAGE, F.Z.S.,

BUDGERIGAR (Young Reader).—It is merely a case of waiting for the next moult. I expect while awaiting sale, the long feathers got broken off in confined quarters, and consequently unless you gently pull out the broken (short) feathers, these will not be replaced for some months yet—in due course they will be naturally shed at moulting time, and replaced by the normal tail feathers of the species. "Young Reader" would do well to get our Nutshell "Budgerigars," 2½d., post free from our Manager, which would tell him how to treat, feed, and breed this species.

GREY PARROT (T.L.).—Give this bird a little boiled maize, boil till soft, drain away all water, and well dust with flowers of sulphur before supplying to the bird. Note: the above must be prepared fresh daily, as it soon turns sour. Give a laxative—one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia, in its drinking-water, as required to keep the bowels moving very freely, but there must be no appearance of diarrhoea. On other days—that is, when not giving the magnesia, put half a teaspoonful of hypo-phosphates in the drinking water, and continue this for some time. In addition to seed mixture offer ripe fruit, suspend this on a hook, so that the bird can take it as it hangs, and in like manner keep a piece of cuttlebone within its reach. Foment its legs and feet with hot (not hot enough for discomfort) water daily, dry with a soft cloth, and then paint with neat whisky. Treat this for a month, and then report progress.

BREEDING IN A CAGE (K.T.C.).—Foreign Finches do not as a rule breed in a cage where several pairs are kept together. I advise you to get a pair of Zebra Finches, to use twiggy branches for perches, and to put in at one end, a Hartz travelling cage (from any dealer), remove all fittings and hang up at back of one of the twiggy branches (heather sprays are good, also privet sprays); do not be too curious as to their doings. Diet: Canary and white millet seed in equal parts, also an occasional millet spray, greenfood, grit, cuttlebone, water for drinking and bathing. These birds are hardy, but must not be subjected to draught; they must have light and air. The portion of your kitchen where the temperature is most even and cool, will suit them best, and the cage must be kept below the level of any gas lights.

YELLOW-FRONTED AMAZON (S.H.B.).—I should think your bird is certainly a male, if not, the cause you assign to the trouble is altogether wrong, but, assuming it is a male, and you are correct as to cause, I can only suggest lowering its tone a little, by putting one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia as often as is required to keep its bowels moving very freely, yet the voidings must not be allowed to become watery-loose. Is it tame enough to be allowed out of its cage for decent periods? If so, a little liberty might tend to check the habit. You might also try four doses of the sedative given below, with seven days between each dose—3 grains of bromid of potassium dissolved in say two teaspoonfuls of syrup, stir this into the daily supply of drinking water. Shall be pleased to hear how it progresses.

AILING BARBARY DOVES (Pincote).—You have evidently got some contagious diphtheric or other throat trouble among your birds, and the only satisfactory thing for you to do is to call in a vet. that he may personally diagnose the trouble, and either advise a remedy or tell you they are past remedy. Personally, from what I can gather from your note, I am inclined to advise you to have them all destroyed, to have the aviary thoroughly cleansed, and disinfected, and if the floor of the aviary is earth, to remove the top six inches and replace it with fresh material. Another alternative is to have one of the worst birds killed and send it to our Mr. Yates for post-mortem examination (see rules at head of P.M. column). Give full particulars when sending the body. The trouble is evidently contagious, and must be thoroughly stamped out, and I advise the latter course so that you may definitely know what trouble you have to meet.

FOREIGN BIRD QUERISTS

should consult Page's "Foreign Birds for Beginners" (1/1½); Arthur's "Budgerigars and Cockatiels" (6d.); Arthur's "Parrots for Pleasure and Profit" (7d.); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); Dr. Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure them," No. 9 "The Disinfection of Cages, Bird-rooms, etc.," No. 14 "Gouldian Finches," No. 16 "Avadavats," No. 17 "The Grey Parrot," No. 18 "Budgerigars," No. 19 "The Pekin Robin," No. 20 "Waxbills." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet St., London, E.C.

WHAT PARRAKEET? (R.H.L.).—I think your bird must be the Quaker Parrakeet, only I should describe the grey area as grey and not slatey-grey, and the beak I should call brownish-flesh colour. Except for these small points, probably referring to the same colours described by two individuals, your description fits the above species, and I really do not see what other species it can be. It is a hardy species, and odd birds kept singly in a cage usually become very tame. I know of one individual at least which is taken out of doors on its owner's shoulders, takes a fly round, and goes back to "durance vile" again on shoulder.

TREES FOR AVIARY (Geo. Morris).—Such birds as Canaries, Goldfinches, Bullfinches, etc., make it almost impossible to keep deciduous trees or bushes in the aviary, as owing to constant disbudding their life is a short one. However, here is a list: Deciduous: privet, golden privet, golden elder, hawthorn, hazel, all English fruit trees, and willow. Evergreen: Portugal laurel, aucubas, euonymus, box, cupressus, fir, sweet bay, and berberis. Climbers: Rambler rose, everlasting pea, hop, honeysuckle, wild clematis, ivy, convolvulus. Herbage beneath bushes: Dock, cow, parsley, mallow, grains of all kinds, and annuals such as cornflower, mignonette, etc.

CAGES (Constant Reader, J.D.L.).—A cage 2ft. long, 12ins. deep, and 15ins. high, is a good stock cage for a pair of small Finches, and if suitably furnished with a twiggy branch at each end, with a cocoanut shell nest at the back of each branch, the birds would probably breed with you, and certainly should flourish and keep fit. Re show cages, you would do well to send to some large maker advertising in our pages for his list and choose from the cages marked either for small Finches or Waxbills, some like them a little larger, say 15in. long, 8ins. deep, and 9ins. high; others are about 9ins. long, 6ins. deep, and 10ins. high. Waxbills look well staged in the regulation cage, but some like the longer pattern, and include a rush nest for the birds to sleep in, and the birds certainly appreciate it. Note our adverts. in "C.B." re coloured plates on sale.

BREEDING IN CAGES (H.C.B.).—I should not interfere with foreign Finches, as one does with Canaries, by removing eggs, etc. It is best to leave them to themselves, only taking the eggs away when the incubation period—12, 13, or 14 days with most species—has passed. You have Zebra and Ribbon Finches. The following are all likely breeders in cages: White Java Sparrows, Silverbills, Bengalese, Bib Finches, Bronze Mannikins, Alario Finches, Magpie, Mannikins, and Saffron Finches. The following have all reared young in cages, but such events are not common: Long-tailed Grassfinches, Gouldian Finches, Bicheno's Finches, Crimson Finches, Orange-cheeked Waxbills, Parson Finches. The above will give you an idea as to what may be attempted; in all cases it will be a wise proceeding to screen the nest receptacles by a twiggy branch.

SILVERBILLS AND FINCHES (Silzcor).—I should put the Zebra Finches and Silverbills in the aviary, and retain the Cordon Bleus in one of the cages. In the larger space they will most probably occupy themselves otherwise than in plucking each other. Keep a mild spray or two hanging in the aviary; this will give them some occupation, and if you have plenty of twiggy branches about the aviary, with the centre of the flight left open for wing exercise, they will then cease this vice. Hang up a couple of Hartz travelling cages, after pulling out the fittings and cutting away one of the bars to form an entrance hole. Also put up a couple of husks and two small boxes, about 6ins. square, with an oval hole at one side near the top, with a spray of twigs in front of it.

BUDGERIGARS (J.S.).—If you get our Nutshell "Budgerigars," 2½d., post free, from our manager, you will find an illustration on the front which will show you the marking of the plumage. The sexes are alike as to plumage, but the cere round the nostrils is blue in the male and ruddy-brown in the female, when in breeding condition. If one of your birds is all green without any dusky marking on the upper parts or head, it is either a female Madagascar or Blue-winged Lovebird. The booklet will tell you all about how to breed, both in cage and aviary, also how to feed, treat, etc., and I advise you to get it. The bird has caught a chill, I think; for one day make its drinking water quite saline with Epsom salts, and follow this with ten drops of oxymel of Squills in the drinking water daily for a week; after this put it on a course of hypophosphites, ten drops daily in the drinking water for a month. Keep the bird out of all draught, yet where it can get light and air.

BUDGERIGARS (E.L.J.).—This bird must be caged separately, and instead of sand on the cage tray, finely broken peat moss litter would be better. Twice a week put half a teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water, and on the intervening days the same quantity of hypophosphates. The feet should be bathed (soaked in hot water, but not hot enough for discomfort), and the swellings, so long as skin is unbroken, painted with tincture of iodine after the surplus water has been wiped away with a soft cloth. Any sores should be similarly cleansed, and then anointed with a little zinc ointment. In addition to seed, supply a small piece of lettuce. I should keep it isolated from healthy stock.

MATING (W.W.F.).—If your birds are all the green variety or all yellow Budgerigars, all that is necessary is to put in an equal number of each sex and leave them to choose their own mates, but if you wish to have an odd pair of yellows among a lot of greens, or vice versa, then the odd pair should be thoroughly mated and become attached to each other before being put into the aviary. The result of crossed unions—greens and yellows—is that nearly all the resulting progeny are typical greens, with only an occasional yellow appearing.

AGE FOR BREEDING (Bunting).—Young Budgerigars are very precocious, and will often attempt nesting when six months old, but the young of such precocious unions are of little use, mostly proving weaklings. Providing you do not let the youngster attempt too many nests this year, he will be sufficiently advanced for use by the spring as he will then be nine months old. Personally, I believe in not permitting a bird to go to nest till he has passed the twelve months, but with a fully adult hen I think you will be all right.

SAFFRON FINCHES (B.F.G.).—Saffron Finches are mostly quarrelsome, though I have had amiable pairs, but the latter are more the exception than the rule, which is a pity, for they are beautiful birds. I cannot, however, take the risk of advising you to put them in the aviary with your other birds. Very often male and female do not agree together in the same cage, and I have known both sexes to kill their respective mates. In nestling plumage the sexes are practically alike, but I have a note in my bird book that some of the young were a little more tinged with yellow than the others, and that one of these at any rate was a young male. It has been some years since this species was included in my aviary. They are not difficult to breed. Their pugnacity is most pronounced towards birds of a similar colour to themselves. As as rule they can be safely kept with such birds as Weavers (except the Hyphantornine group, which resemble them in colour), Java Sparrows, Thrushes, and Budgerigars.

DAMAGED BEAK (T.T.).—Sometimes it is a case of decay, but not, I think, with your bird. The beak has evidently been damaged, and the broken part will ultimately be renewed. So long as the bird keeps fit and well, this is a sign that it is taking plenty of food, but if the damage should interfere with its cracking seed, then you must give some boiled maize daily (only keeps fresh one day), till the damaged part is renewed. But if the bird is plump and fit, adhere to the regular dietary. Keep cuttlebone, also a piece of a thick branch in the cage. If the hook of the upper mandible is of abnormal length it must be shortened (cut back), but care must be taken in doing so, as a vein comes to nearly the tip of the normal beak, and if this be cut into it bleeds badly, and hampers the bird for a time in feeding. If such an accident happens, touch the wound with Friar's Balsam, and keep the bird occupied till this has dried on, and the bleeding stopped. Our Nutshell, "The Grey Parrot," 2½d. post free, from our manager would help you.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

SEXING THE TWITE (Puzzled).—The bird you have is a hen, I feel sure. The sexing of Twites is a very simple matter. The cock bird on the rump has a distinct ruddy patch of colour—one has only to put the tips of the wings to one side to see it at a glance. The rump of the hen Twite is greyish. The rest of her plumage, too, is ashy-brown; whereas in the cock it is a warmer brown, in real good specimens a very pleasing tone of rich brown indeed. The Twite has no pretensions to be styled a "singing bird," but what notes it has are not unpleasing. It is very bright and lively in disposition, and often known to breed with Canary hens, also occasionally with hen Britishers in captivity. Your hen might possibly breed if mated to a cock Goldfinch; the result, if any, would be good and fairly valuable Hybrids.

LOSS OF LINNETS (E..).—There is, as I suppose no one needs telling, a percentage of deaths among all species of fresh-caught birds, and this is not entirely avoidable, for all birds (even of the same species) are not alike either in disposition or constitution, and do not possess the same "resistive power" to meet and successfully cope with their changed food and circumstances. The same thing is seen among animals of all kinds, and among human beings, too, whom circumstance takes into foreign climes. All one can do is to try, by offering food as near Nature's food as possible, to bring the percentage of loss down to the minimum—it really ought to be very small indeed. Newly caught Linnets must have some "soft seeds" to feed upon. These are conveniently found in seeding shepherd's purse, plantain, chickweed, groundsel, thistles, and the like; also soaked summer rape and charlock, given when just commencing to germinate or sprout, must be supplied. They should be offered maw seed, linseed, canary, teazle, and slightly cracked hemp (fresh made every day). For half-a-day on every second day let them have water made slightly saline with sulphate of soda—a teaspoonful dissolved in a pint of water. Even the stock mixture itself can be soaked, if necessary. Soaked teazle, too, is very good.

CONCERNING THE WAXWING (Wing Tips).—The Waxwing is most certainly an insectivorous species: the fact that it eats berries does not bear on the question, i.e., cannot entitle it to compete with the recognised seed-eating birds. Waxwings must go into the insectivorous classes, but precisely which has to be determined from the schedule, most shows differing in their classification and its wording. Feed on a good insectile mixture. A suitable food is made of game meal (without grit), or finely crushed puppy cakes, six parts, ants' eggs, dried flies, and ground silk-worm pupæ, two parts, meat meal one part, by measure. Damp with a little water, cold boiled potato, grated raw carrot, finely chopped watercress, lettuce, chickweed, etc., varying them frequently, and according to the season. Add half a hard-boiled egg to the daily food portion occasionally—or a teaspoonful of preserved egg flake. Give a few mealworms daily, and any other insect life as in season. They are enormous feeders, and being indolent and neglectful in the matter of taking exercise, usually manage to get as "fat as pigs." A mild dose of sulphate of soda is useful occasionally; also a fly round a good-sized aviary or room. Fruit, such as banana, sweet orange and apple, grocer's currants, raisins, etc., chopped figs and dates, is much relished, and should be frequently given mixed with the stock food. Berries, too, the bird is passionately fond of, and black, privet, elder, haw, etc., should be freely given whenever obtainable. Plenty of variety in the diet is absolutely essential. I remember a friend of mine saying he gave his birds crushed canary seed and coarse oatmeal. I have never done so personally, but should not hesitate to try, and should add maw seed, too—mixed, of course, among the soft food. Let it bathe freely.

THE SKYLARK AND THE BATH (A. M. Jones).—Larks do not bathe quite in the sense that most other birds do. A dust bath is what they need for regular use. Fill a dish or box of suitable depth with a mixture of dry road dust and very fine sharp sand. In this put a teaspoonful or so of any harmless insect powder. These birds delight to "ruffle it" amongst such a mixture. During suitable weather my birds were very fond of paddling about in a tray of water placed in their cages. (I had tin false bottoms made on purpose.) They also took delight in a fresh-cut clover turf, which had had the garden sprinkling pan passed over it. Another fancier wrote in "C.B." that he covers the water tray which he runs in his cages with ripe chickweed, and the birds paddle on and poke about amongst that—rather a nice idea! To give a bird an "extra special" cleansing at any time (say the day before you are sending him to a show), spray him lightly with clean soft (or rain) water, and while he is damp sprinkle his plumage well with sharp, gritty sand (not mud, mind you). After he has shaken and plumed himself he will look a picture. If soft water is not available, add one or two drops of Scrubb's cloudy ammonia.

PREPARING FOR HYBRID BREEDING (Midlothian).—You are "taking time by the forelock," eh? I always consider that a small flight, with the nest-box up in a well-shaded corner, is the best of all places for breeding Hybrids. A big cage, however (say not less than 3 feet by 18 by 12 inches), is also very good; or even a large double Canary-breeding cage, with the centre slide withdrawn. The nest (or nest-box) should be screened in any case, either with dead broom, gorse, fir, etc., or brown paper, fixed over one corner of the cage front. The easiest and best way to provide acceptable nesting material is to go out and collect and store old (but good) Greenfinch, Linnet, etc., nests—in fact, practically any Finch nests—and pull them to pieces when wanted. Thrushes and Blackbirds' nests are all right at a pinch; with the help of a nest-bag, in addition, at all times. Many hen Bullies (and other British hens, too) will build in (sort of re-line) an old Blackbird or Thrush nest when nothing else will tempt them, and lay their eggs therein, too, seldom dropping them on the floor. A suitably sized sod of clover grass (or turf), something like that given to Larks, with a shallow, cup-shaped depression beaten into it, will also invariably induce them to build thereon; or even a heap of dried grasses. To avoid mould (through damp) a piece of half-inch mesh wire netting should be tacked on to two strips of wood and be fastened in the breeding cage, on a level with the first cross-bar (and consequently the perches) from back to front. The piece of netting will, of course, be cut to size according to the depth of the cage. The sod should be placed on this wire netting platform. Some twigs, etc., can be twisted into the meshes so as to form at the front an effective and natural-looking screen. The old Thrush's or Blackbird's nest could be slung up in the same way; in fact, there are many little dodges one can think out. In a flight (small aviary) hen Bullies will sometimes favour a wood nest-box, and sometimes an old nest; while I have known many decline both, and build on shelves, etc.—several actually on the floor. Wicker (Roller Canary) travelling cages, with the front and inside fitments knocked out, are also often favoured.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

L.T.—The trouble is of a parasitic nature and contagious; it is not uncommon. Cages should be well disinfected, perches also before re-occupation. A five per cent. solution of phenol is a most efficient disinfectant.

Edward Greene.—The liver was in an advanced stage of fatty degeneration, and death arose from toxic poisons, generated as a result of the disease.

B.W.—Glauber salts in solution, and a change of diet might have effected a cure before the disease became too advanced. The liver was infiltrated with fat, and death arose from inflammation of the bowels as a sequel.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

A.M.—We quite agree that a wooden box should have been used, and on so long a journey some soaked bread, as well as seed, should have been placed inside. Are you sure there was no delay in delivery on the part of the railway company? It seems a vry long time for the birds to have been on rail. If the sender did not make proper provision for the journey, he is, of course, most certainly responsible for the result of his own neglect.

One Who Wants to Know.—The payment of carriage is a matter of arrangement between buyer and seller; if birds are sent on approval, the usual practice is for each party to pay one way (the owner if they are returned). You can insure birds with the railway company by paying an extra fee (1½ per cent. on the declared value). In the travelling box put seed, and if the journey is a long one, a piece of bread moistened with water. Tie up in brown paper, making two or three small air-holes at front, and use a proper live-bird label (we sell them) for writing the address on.

CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE

OUR HOBBY AND THE SENTIMENTALISTS

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

PATRONS—

RAVEN, Esq., Nottingham; MALCOLM ROBERTS, Esq., Baron's Court; LACY RAMSEY, Esq., Oporto; M. THOMSON, Esq., New Zealand.

I referred last week to a letter received from the well-known judge, Mr. G. Gardner, and I now have pleasure in reproducing the letter in question:

"I would like to draw even closer attention to one phase of this crusade by the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals against bird-keepers. Whether we realise it or no, the Society is employing a very powerful weapon in the form of sentiment. It is a fact that a great deal of sentiment does obtain on this matter; and it is a fact that the sentimentalists are on the increase. In my travels up and down the country, and in conversation with many people, non-fanciers principally, I have noted that there is a strong inclination to uphold the views held by the Society. It is a difficult matter to convince a person unaware of the way in which birds are tended in captivity, that it is not cruelty to keep a Goldfinch or a Linnet, a Chaffinch, or a Mountain Finch, a Blackbird, Mavis, or Missel Thrush, a Nightingale or a Blackcap, in a cage. They immediately conjure up a vision of woodland and of dell, of spinney and of copse. They seem to see the "Storm-cock" swaying to and fro on the topmost branch of a leafless tree, and to hear his wild song as he pours it forth against the moaning of the wind. They seem to hear the 'Gales at eventide; and to see the Goldies amongst the thistles. And then! Aye; then! they see a cage a few feet in size—probably less, with boarded heavens instead of a broad blue canopy—and the die is cast. It may be easy of explanation by fanciers, and they may satisfy other fanciers. But what we have got to do to justify our position, is to convince the great outside world that we can keep birds as happy and as healthy inside cages as they are generally considered to be in the open air. Do not let us hide from ourselves the fact that the Society is not idle. It has a catchy cry. It's chord is sympathy. It is making headway in high places in this direction. What are we doing to present the counter case? Do not misunderstand me I quite appreciate your labours and your influence But I appreciate also the fact that the number of cage-bird fanciers should be legion who work to counteract a stupid nostrum that has wealth at its back and a catchy cry as its trumpet. Every fancier should be wide awake and alert. I only utter a warning word.

GEO. GARDNER.

My friend Mr. Gardner only voices what I have over and over again explained in these columns. It is sentiment, and sentiment alone, that is the ground of the opposition of the sentimentalists to the hobby of keeping birds in captivity. On the question whether birds are happier in captivity than in nature I hold very strong views, and I have never hesitated to express them in these columns. I have had many birds, and have known many others, which have absolutely refused their liberty when it has been offered to them, and any issue of our journal CAGE BIRDS will afford evidence in support of this. Our paper is read, I know, by many who agree with the sentimental societies, and I commend to their notice the illustrations appearing in this, our eleventh Birthday Issue. Is it conceivable that suffering is involved in the keeping of such pets as are pourtrayed in the current issue? Do they think that the talented Blackbird mentioned in the letter of our correspondent "W.A.L" is suffering agonies, or "beating out his life against the bars of his prison"? Do they impute that Mr. Frostick is telling untruths in his article on "The Hunting Cissa"?

Mr. Gardner says that the sentimentalists are making headway in high places. So is the hobby of bird-keeping. Never were there so many people in what are called the upper circles interested in the hobby of cage-bird keeping as at present. Quite a number of the exhibitors at any bird show are members of the gentler sex. Titled people are Presidents, Vice-Presidents and supporters of Cage-bird Societies. Clergymen, in very considerable number, are among the upholders of the hobby. Many well-known clergymen are members of the Foreign Bird Club, and of the Avicultural Society, and many also take an appreciative interest in the doings of recognised Cage-bird Societies, as witness the report of the last meeting of the City and Suburban A.C.B. published in our current issue.

In reply to the last paragraph of Mr. Gardner's letter, I would only say that in CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE members, its Associate members, and those who have signed a declaration not only to administer to every want of their pets, but to use their best endeavours to ensure that others do the same, we have already a body of true fanciers running into many thousands, and I hope I am not presuming too much in saying that the hobby of bird-keeping is in a much stronger position to-day than that of only two years ago.

I have many other items to which I should like to give attention, but I must not take up too much space in such a number as our present one, and must defer further notes until next week.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

VICE PRESIDENTS.—An annual subscription of not less than Half-a-Guinea shall constitute the subscriber a Vice President.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS.—The payment to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE of a legacy of £20 and upwards shall constitute the administrator or executor making the payment an Honorary Life Member. A form of bequest will be sent, post free, on application.

ORDINARY MEMBERS shall pay an annual subscription of Two Shillings and Sixpence.

JUNIOR MEMBERS.—Members under the age of fourteen years at the date of joining shall pay an annual subscription of One Shilling.

Leaflets setting forth the aims and objects of the LEAGUE will be forwarded, post free, to any reader upon application.

BADGES.

Neat and unobtrusive badges are supplied to members, without any charge beyond their subscriptions as above The badges may be had either in button form, or mounted in rolled gold in two forms, one as a brooch for ladies or for cycling caps or coat lapel, and the other as a pendant for bracelet or watch-chain. The kind required should be specified clearly.

CERTIFICATES OF MEMBERSHIP.

Certificates printed in seven colours, and suitable for framing, are supplied at One Shilling each. Each certificate bears an enlarged facsimile of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE badge and Motto, and is signed by the Secretary.

CAGE BIRDS FREE TO PATRONS.

A copy of CAGE BIRDS, the official organ of the LEAGUE, is forwarded to patrons weekly, post free.

Members are entitled, if application is made at the time of joining, to a free copy of a sixpenny pamphlet on British Bird Culture, or a similar treatise on Canary and Hybrid Culture.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

The Cups at Leeds Show.

Sir,—In your issue of Jan. 4 your report of the Leeds show reads :—"Leeds cup, Mr. W. A. Wilson and Mr. E. Norton tied." Will you please rectify, as I was the winner. Also I won the President's cup.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—In heavy snow to-day, Jan. 13, at a farm near Milngavie, about five miles from Glasgow, I caught a cock Greenfinch, bearing a ring marked, Witherby, High Holborn, L35. I should be pleased if Mr. Witherby would state in CAGE BIRDS where it was ringed.

New Society at Burnley.

Sir,—Allow me to thank you for publishing the notice of a meeting for a new society for Burnley. This meeting was well attended, and we decided to have our first members' show in a few weeks, with classes for novices, and one for professionals, and we invite all those interested in any kind of cage birds to give in their names and addresses. We are arranging a course of lectures and washing exhibitions, also Linnet and Lark singing contests. Subscriptions one shilling per quarter.

Perches that Keep Down Red Mite.

Sir,—I am sorry my letter re red mite seems to have been misunderstood by Mr. Graham, and probably others as well. My contention is that prevention is better than cure. It is evident from Mr. Graham's letter that he does not think so. Why should he provide homes for them, when by following my plan there is no fear of having them at all? He says that given a home like this (viz., elder perches) red mite will never trouble any other portion of the cage. Perhaps not, but I maintain they will trouble his birds at night, disappearing with the first streak of dawn to the home of rest so kindly and thoughtfully provided for them. What have other readers to say?

A Pleasing Sight at Yarm Show.

Sir,—It was pleasing to see the young secretaries, Messrs. Wilson and Wilford, and their willing band of workers, many of them quite young, looking so cheerful and bright. So thought many others besides ourselves, as we quietly looked on. It shows clearly what can be done when a few willing workers are united with one object. A friend of ours who wished to claim a bird found he had not brought sufficient money, and asked the secretary to take the money out of his winnings. "Oh," said Mr. Wilson, "your money has gone. "By gum," said our friend, "that's smart." So it was; and we received ours by first post. No wonder shows meeting with success under this kind of management. Wishing CAGE BIRDS the greatest of success, and tendering you our thanks for your courtesy.

COOK AND HOOD.

A Handsome Outdoor Aviary.

Sir,—As promised, I send you herewith a photo of my aviary, which seems to answer very well indeed. Judging from the antics of three pairs of Canaries and four Greenfinches, which inhabit it, I am perfectly satisfied it is the best way to keep birds of any kind. When I commenced with Canaries (2 hens and 1 cock) last summer, I soon found out that to keep them thoroughly clean and healthy in cages entailed a deal of trouble. Being late in starting, I only got one lot of youngsters (three lovely birds). These made a nice addition to my stock, and instead of making another cage, from hints I received from CAGE BIRDS and Mr. H. Norman's book on Aviaries, I resolved to make the life of my birds as natural as I possibly could. I utilised a small space, 6ft. 6in. x 5ft. for the bird room; then outside of it I fixed a framework, 6ft. long x 2ft. 6in. wide, with a circular top all covered with ½in. wide netting. This runs into an octagon shaped house, 6ft. 6in. high x 4ft. 9in. over all, each of the eight sides 2ft. long. Three of the sides (next the corner) I close boarded; three sides and a half covered with netting; one side and a half left open up to the top of the framework. I put a square window, about 2ft. 6in. x 2ft. 6in., in the bird room, which faces South, also a small door, which I keep open during the day. The main door into the bird-room goes from the backyard. In the bottom of the octagon house I formed a dish with concrete and cement, 12 inches deep by 3ft. diameter, the sides sloped; in this I have stones built up in the centre round the foot of a fine cypress tree, which reaches to the top of the dome. Its branches almost fill the house. Near the tree a ¼in. lead pipe, with four very fine holes in it, throws a fine spray of water over the stones, which are covered with moss and water plants. I have also provided an outlet, a syphon pipe, carried into the drain. By this means the water, being changed 3 or 4 times a day, is always fresh. When the water is within an inch of the sink top, the syphon acts, and empties the dish, then air enters the syphon and stops it, when the water gradually rises again. In the bird-room I have three tiers of cages, in which I kept the birds until I finished the aviary. When I liberated the Canaries I found they did not enter the room at nights, but sat perched in the outside aviary, so that I had to go with a light to pick them off and put them into the proper places in the cages, the nights being too cold. Then it occurred to me that if I put a small tree in a corner of the bird-room, they might take to that, and I found it was just what they wanted, as every night when I go to look for them they are all perched on the branches of the little fir tree. The Greenfinches prefer the octagon house and perch on the tree close under the dome. I am not quite sure about keeping to this system during the breeding time, as from what I read of the experience of others, the cage is best for breeding. However, I shall keep a look-out in CAGE BIRDS, where there is everything to guide me. I hope my scheme may be of interest to your many readers.

String For Net Making.

Sir,—If there is any kind reader of CAGE BIRDS who would tell me where I could buy the proper thread to make nets with, and to arm them when made, I should be extremely obliged both to you and reader. Thanking you in advance, and wishing "our" paper every success.

New Society for Treorchy.

Sir,—At a meeting held at the Cardiff Arms, Treorchy, December 13, there being a good attendance, it was carried unanimously that a society be started for the purpose of catering solely for the interests of cage bird fanciers, to be known as the Upper Rhondda Cage Bird Society, and open for membership. Mr. E. Edward has consented to become president, also the following gentlemen as vice-presidents: E. Hall, Dr. Armstrong, Dr. Tribe, Dr. Barret, W. Jones, J.P., J. Ryan. The election of officers resulted as follows: Chairman, H. Powell; treas., H. Watts; sec., E. Richards; assist. sec., P. Curtis; committee, D. Thomas, A. Thomas, D. George, J. Curtis, H. Watts. Decided that entrance fee be 1s., and 3s. annual subscription. We are having a table show next month, also a lecture; all fanciers are asked to help in making the society a success.

Can Bronchial Affections Be Cured?

Sir,—In answer to "Despair," I can honestly say that I have cured a valuable Yorkshire of a nasty bronchial cold so far, and that by using a human remedy, Sitten's Poor Man's Cough Balsam, a 7½d. bottle will last a long time; dose for birds, 5 to 6 drops in their water daily. I will forward an address from which the remedy may be obtained to any enquirer sending a stamped and addressed envelope per the Editor. Trusting this will be of some use to "Despair" and others.

Bromley. C. R. BULLEN.

Sir,—Sad indeed is the tale of "Despair." I read with much interest a letter under above nom-de-plume in CAGE BIRDS, for January 11th, and I hope an expert will reply to it. I, too, had a Canary last year that I expected would stand a very fair chance of obtaining a prize at a show, but the bird developed a bronchial trouble, and got worse and worse, although I dosed the little creature with medicine that I thought might cure. Alas! after the last moult I found that it was perfectly useless trying to cure what I now consider must be an incurable complaint, and so I chloroformed him. I have had cage birds for more than twenty years, and that was the first time any one of my feathered pets got any bronchial affection, as far as I remember. Once was enough. I for one am looking forward to a reply from an expert, and I trust it will be forthcoming in an early issue of "C.B."

The Catching of Tree Creepers, etc.

Sir,—I had the pleasure of conversing with your esteemed contributor, Mr. J. Steel, at the Scottish National, and much regret that he had not time to give me his opinion on Light Mules, whether the lightness is attributable to the Canary alone; also his idea, on breeding, with a view to the producing of light muling hens. I see a correspondent has been enquiring through your columns how to take Tree Creepers. I noticed that Mr. J. Steel explained this very fully in his article from Field to Show Bench, an article I greatly enjoyed.

New Society for Idle.

Sir,—Consequent upon a feeling of the fanciers of Idle and district for some time past that a society was needed, a representative meeting was held at the White Bear Inn on Jan. 8. Mr. J. Chippendale having been voted to the chair, it was moved that a society be formed, to be called Idle and District C.B.S., and this was carried unanimously. Mr. Dan Best gave a hearty welcome to the new society to hold the meetings at his house, signifying in real Yorkshire style his intentions to make the society a success. A further meeting will be held at the above on January 22, at 8.30, when the 20 present members will give all fanciers a bumping reception. Come and join us.

The Date of the Crystal Palace Show.

Sir,—The few fanciers who have written suggesting an alteration in the days on which the Palace Show is held, viz., Tuesday to Saturday, do not appear to consider the welfare of the birds, or the opinion of exhibitors. Many good birds are absent from the Palace Show because they would be away from home so long. Exhibits are sent to the show on the Thursday (some on Wednesday), and this means almost a week in the show cage, and two long railway journeys for seventy-five per cent. of the birds. Now it is suggested to tack another day on this, for that is what it would mean to provincial exhibitors. I am afraid that it would result in a decreased entry. If it is considered advisable to make any alteration, I would suggest Thursday to Monday. This would make no difference in the time the birds would be at the show, and I should think more people would be likely to attend on the Thursday than on the Tuesday, as at present. I also think it would be desirable if the show was held a week or two sooner. Many breeders like to give their birds a rest, after an arduous show season, before pairing up for breeding. It would also enable many fanciers who would like to visit the show to take advantage of railway excursions, which are running to the pantomimes during January.

J. Pitchford.

Sir,—I am very pleased to see Mr. Ramsden's letter in Cage Birds, and that he will submit my proposal to his committee. I quite understand that Saturday is a popular day, and should not be at all surprised to hear that a thousand catalogues were sold on the Wednesday also. Anyhow, I trust there is no harm in the new days being tried for one year at all events. One thing I should not approve of, that is, the proposed Sunday labour, and hope this could be arranged differently. Now, fanciers, buck up and send your post cards along, if you wish for the alteration, now that Mr. Ramsden has kindly given us all the opportunity.

Short Entries at Scottish Shows.

Are "Clique Judges" the Cause?

Sir,—I crave a small space of your valuable paper in reference to last week's letters. My reason for doing so is that I wrote the first letter last year advocating the selecting of Fife judges, not so much for Fife, but shows all over Scotland, my contention being that Fife had a large share of the best shows, and always engaged outside judges, but very few shows engaged the Fifer. A week later another letter appeared on the same subject; the writer went one better than me—he named a few fanciers who could officiate at shows. Now the first part of "Plainhead's" letter infers to outsiders that I may be "Lover of Justice," seeing it was known that I did join hands, as "P.H." puts it. I am not "Lover of Justice," but I quite believe all he said. Plainhead" makes a bad job of it trying to patch up what can't be undone. He takes Lochgelly for instance. Now, owing to Lochgelly's date being a good one (the only show, I may say), a novice judging could command a large entry. The outstanding birds that "P. H." takes notice of for quality, could not command a ticket under a specialist judge; that has been proved beyond a doubt this season. I need not go further into this matter, as I have neither the time, nor yet has the Editor the space, to spare me. "P. H." goes on to blame the model cards, and gives us a sum or two—old news to us, for we all know who gets it, and who always got it. I am right glad I am a real Plainhead fancier, not a nom-de-plume. Out of every ten fanciers, nine will go for model cards. "P. H." knows that, too, by his society meetings; so do I by our own meetings, and I think I have more experience than "P.H." in that line. Now, Mr. Plainhead, I put it to you, can you blame the young fancier or the men that have been years in the Fancy before ever you took it up, when they see the same men winning at the various shows, the one judging this one, and vice versa, a thing that never happened before? Cage Birds reporter "gave the show away" a few times, and who could blame him? The whole thing is a disgrace to the Border Fancy. I know for a fact that the birds were named which would win the medals at a certain two shows (a guessing competition). It came off all right. I will not name the shows; I will tell you any time you ask me, if you care to do so. "P. H." goes further astray when he blames the station with a fifteen minutes' walk; nonsense. He says he has been watching many "Lovers of Justice." Allow me to inform him that there have been more than you watching. In conclusion, I am now very sorry that ever I asked through you paper last year to give the Fifer a chance, as I am a little surprised at the result. Still, I have one great consolation—I am a Plainhead fancier. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for taking up the above subject, as I think nothing but good will result.

The Blackcap Warbler in Ireland.

Sir,—I noticed "Subscriber's" letter of enquiry regarding Blackcaps when reading your valuable columns. On this dark, wild January night I am sitting at the fire in a well-lit room, with two Blackcaps singing as loud as they can in cages behind me. I never find Blackcaps any trouble; they seem to have no diseases. I give them steamed currants, a little apple, and soft mixture, the same as recommended in "Nutshell" No. 25. They have been singing since October, and will sing on to July.

H. B. Rathbone.

Sir,—I may say that I have no difficulty in keeping them whatever. A cage 24ins. long, 14ins. high, 8ins. deep, is a nice size. Arrange 4 perches (of different thicknesses) so that the lower ones do not get soiled when the bird is above. Let the food and water vessels be inside the cage. They should be of glass, and in duplicate, so that one can be in use and the other soaking until wanted. I use an egg food glazed china drawer for the fruit. Put clean sawdust on the drawer every other day, and keep the perches clean. Cleanliness is essential to success. Now as to food. Give a change once a month; say a month a first-class insectivorous food (no rubbish), then a food made as follows: 1 part crushed Osborne biscuits, 1 part dried flies, 1 part ants' eggs, ½ part fine crissel, ½ part currants (soaked and dried). Make crumbly moist; it is fatal to give any food too wet. Always keep the birds supplied with ripe peeled banana—they love this—or pear, baked apple sweetened, grapes, etc. In summer vary this with any soft, ripe fruit. Occasionally give a spider or bluebottle, more especially if the bird is out of sorts. I find live food is not an essential to their well being; I have not given any to my bird for quite two months. I keep my bird in the breakfast-room in winter, and in summer place the cage in a shady spot away from cats, in the garden (taking the bird in at night). Don't spare the bath all the year round. During the moult be more liberal with insects, and occasionally put as much Glauber salts as will go on a sixpence in their drinking water. My bird sings beautifully from October to July, and now is in full song, which is a pleasure to listen to, it being so beautifully soft and flute-like.

Canaries' Claws Drop Off After Hand-washing.

What Can be the Cause?

Sir,—The following query raises a most uncommon and peculiar point that I venture to ask, with your permission, whether any of our medical readers could throw light upon such happening. Also have other fanciers met with a similar occurrence?

Claude St. John.

Sir,—I have washed birds for many years, but during the last two years have lost several birds for show by the toe-nails turning black and dropping off after washing. I lost several last year, but more this year. I use three waters. The first I bring to a lather with the soap, the heat such that I can keep my elbow in it in comfort, and use a camel-hair brush. I dry them in fine flannel, about 18 inches from a clear fire. They are there about 10 minutes, and finished in a box cage over the range. Sometimes I notice a bird hold its foot up just after the wash. Sometimes it is 3 or 4 days after. From then it takes about 3 weeks for the claw to come off, and it never grows again. I have now in my room a yellow hen that I have washed several times. It was third at Wimbledon. On its return I washed it for Frome Show, which was held on December 12th, but seeing it held its foot up, I did not send it. It lost one claw a week ago, and one this morning, and there is one more to come off. I would like to know what is the cause of it.

The Secretaryship of Kippax Linnet Club.

Sir,—Allow me a little space in your valuable paper re the report of the Kippax Linnet Club meeting. I notice the Secretary states they are trying hard to establish a good club. I hope they are successful; but with their plan of working I am afraid it won't come up to their expectations. I was invited on Feb. 21, 1912, to issue notices to try and get the members together, and at the meeting I was elected Secretary. The Club was practically defunct at that time; there had been no meeting from July 1911 until February 1912. Of course, it was started again with a new name and headquarters. I called a general meeting on Nov. 16, 1912 and only the President, Treasurer and myself were present. We decided to have our first sing on Saturday, Jan. 4, 1913, to be an open contest. I see by the report that they have elected a new Secretary, not that I care one atom about it, but unfortunately I did not attend. Had I have known, I would have tried to be present at that sing. If this is their way of doing business I am afraid that Club won't carry on long. I have not been notified to return the books, etc., I have in my possession, nor have I had any information from any member—only what I have seen in Cage Birds. I fancy that some of the members must arrange their meetings on a Sunday morning walk, or by the fireside. This sort of business will never pay, though I wish them every success and trust they may have a prosperous season.

A Wonderful Blackbird.

Talks, Whistles, and Mimics.

Sir,—At the Prince of Wales Hotel in Clapham Road, London, is to be seen and heard probably the most accomplished Blackbird ever known. It has been my pleasure to know many birds that have possessed exceptional abilities, but I have never known one to approach this extraordinary bird. To all appearance it is just an ordinary bird of its kind, excepting that its beak and ceres are very nearly white. It is only when it is displaying its talents that one recognises that Mr. Brook, the genial host of the Prince of Wales, possesses a bird which must be quite without an equal. Mr. Brook is well known as a fancier of high distinction in Homing Pigeon circles, and takes no inconsiderable pride in being the possessor of three beautiful Pheasants, which he keeps in lovely condition in an aviary on the roof of his hotel, but his Blackbird is quite his most cherished possession. The bird whistles, in a fine, mellow, resonant ring, which is a revelation of a Blackbird's resources, the well-known song, "The Swannee River," and before one has time to take more than a sip of one's refreshment at the bar, he breaks out with "If you want to know the time, ask a Policeman," and this with such distinction that one wonders whether he knows what Ruskin said, "Work is only done well when it is done with a will." If a customer calls at the hostelry at six a.m. for an early cup of coffee, he is greeted with, "Are you working to-day." Many other sentences are comprised in the repertoire of this wonderful bird, and his imitation of the call of his arch enemy, the cat, makes the Prince of Wales a rendezvous for all kinds of animals. He reminds me of the writer, who said, "The secret of success is to do all you can without thought of fame."

TIMELY HINTS.

Two prizes of 2s. 6d. each (cash or our books to value, at option of winners) given weekly to the senders of the two best Hints. All hints must be WRITTEN ON POSTCARDS, with sender's name and address at foot,

Keeping Red Mite Down.

I find that cotton wool, cut into pieces about 3ins. square, and hung on the cage fronts (or placed anywhere where infected) will keep red mite and bird lice down. If examined in the morning, it will be full; then burn the wool.—J. H. Taylor (Melton Mowbray).

Straightening Cage Wire.

Perhaps this will be a novel way of making cage wire straight. Procure a piece of wood about 6in. x 3in. x ¾in. Cut the length of wire required. Put the wood over the bent place in the wire, afterwards placing your foot on the wood. Move your foot quickly backwards and forwards several times. Result: Wire as straight as a die.—H. J. Lloyd (Notting Hill).

Preparing Moss for Nests.

The best way to wash moss for nesting material is to put it into a colander, and place it under the tap, nearly covering the mouth of the tap with your finger, so that it ensures a good force of water. This will wash all the grit out of the moss, and will not splash much if it is held close to the tap. It may then be drained and put into the oven and dried, then stored in a hamper or bag.—R. Blake (Ross).

Preserve Wild Food and Keep British Birds in Colour.

Procure a good supply of the berries your British birds are partial to (rowan, privet, etc.). According to the quantity obtained, bottle them up in wide necked (sweet) bottles, glass stoppers to be used to make them airtight. Then bury them in the ground a foot to 18 inches. This process keeps them fresh for months.—T. Jackson, 1, Townhill Road, Dunfermline, Fife.

Save Time in the Bird-room.

[Winner of Half-crown Prize.]

Now the time is at hand for getting the breeding cages, etc., in trim, I submit my method of painting cages; it is a time saver, and is effectual, in my experience. Prepare cages as usual, wash, dry and sandpaper. Get the paint of the desired colour, and put ordinary varnish in the paint; give 2 coats, and that will suffice. It is well not to have paint too oily, mixing, say, ¼ pint of varnish to a pound of paint. This will save 1 coat, namely, the varnishing or enamelling, after painting is done.—W. Southgate, 1, Hardy Road, Parkstone, Dorset.

A Noiseless Sand Tray.

Every bird-keeper knows what a nuisance the scratching of the sand-tray is when pulling it in and out, especially during the breeding season. Many a hen drags an egg, or a young one out of the nest in her fright during cleaning operations. Here is an idea to prevent the scratching. Get two pieces of elastic or rubber (a pair of children's elastic garters will do). Tack or glue one piece at each end of the sand tray on the under side, running from back to front. You will then find the tray work smoothly, and without noise.—P. Shawcross, 704, Atherton Road, Hindley Green, nr. Wigan.

How to Save Goldie.

When the fresh-caught Goldfinch you have been building your hopes on, goes soft, and his head goes under his wing, remove his cage to a quiet, comfortable corner, take away stock mixture and give thistle seed, knapweed, and maw seed. Put 6 drops of syrup of buckthorn in boiled water (when cold) for half a day. Run through your knapweed and thistle heads, and collect all the maggots you can find. During the day rouse up Mr. Goldie, and hand-feed him with, say, six maggots each time, and you will be surprised to find in a day's time that Goldie is taking a new interest in life.—James Palmer (Edinburgh).

Getting Bullies on Seed.

Bullies as a rule are hard to keep alive, because people give them dry hard seed, and some birds are not able to crack it. I have kept Bullies all my life, and have hardly lost any. I soak my seed in hot water for about ten minutes, then pour the water off and wash with cold water, then dry it with a towel and add a little dock seed. I do this for a few days. I have done this for Linnets also. If the birds won't take any notice of seed, I get it in my hand, just wet my finger, and get one or two seeds on it and give them to the bird. The same with water. Dip your finger in and give it. Many a good bird has been lost just for the sake of a bit of trouble.—D. White (Hale).

THE CAT AND THE AVICULTURIST.

By W. E. TESCHEMAKER, B.A.

The names in the following narrative have been altered, for obvious reasons, and some of the happenings have been exaggerated, but, in the main, and in almost all its details, it is a simple record of fact to which nothing has been added.

I LIVE in Salton, which is an insignificant little village with barely a thousand inhabitants. People have often asked me why I live in Salton, but I have never been able to think of a good answer. For eleven months of the year Salton slumbers, but at the commencement of August cabs and motor-cars come rumbling across the bridge which connects us with civilisation, and for one crowded month the place is not only choke-full but actually gay. In all too short a time, however, the last Swallow of our short summer has flitted away, the last dollar that Salton can possibly extract from its visitors has been extracted, and the village slumbers once more. I think the real attraction of Salton must be its surroundings. In the first place, we have the sea—ever changing, ever mysterious. Secondly we have a river, which, at high tide, is a really fine sheet of water. Lastly, but by no means leastly, we have grand old Dartmoor. If one is worried by petty troubles and annoyances of this twentieth century, one has only to put one's pipe and a few sandwiches in one's pocket, trudge away to the moor and cast oneself down among the heather, amid the eternal silence of its frowning granite "tors," and in a single instant the hands of the clock are put back, and we are transported through the centuries—for here we have Nature as she was before the hand of man defaced this fair land of England with bricks and mortar.

A Paradise of Old Maids and Cats.

The population of Salton, as I told you, is small, and seems to consist chiefly of old ladies. Every old lady has at least one cat; some have two or three, and some as many as half a dozen. Thus the cat population must be, at a moderate estimate, at least as large as the human population. Salton cats have no regular meals. During the month of August, when, as I have explained, cash is plentiful, the above-mentioned old ladies sometimes buy a pennyworth of liver for their cats, but during the rest of the year the latter get a little milk and water (with a strong accent on the water), and are turned out at nightfall to forage for themselves. There seems to be a sort of tradition that cats catch mice, or, if they do not catch mice, they ought to catch mice, and therefore ought to be more or less self-supporting. In this way it comes about that every night of the year there are innumerable cats wandering about in Salton, seeking what they may devour, and most of them, after filling the aching void at adjoining refuse-heaps, come to pay me a visit.

I have never been able to understand exactly what the attraction of my garden is; it is just an ordinary garden, but nevertheless, when invitations have been sent out for any special cat party, it would be hardly possible to throw a boot out of any window without hitting several cats. The "swarry" always winds up with a free fight, reminding me of a story, which was rather popular in Scotland at the time when I lived there, of a Scotsman who had been invited to a local subscription dance, and replied, solemnly shaking his head, "Na, Na, I canna fecht" (fight). However, on the principle that a spice of danger lends zest to any sport, it is just possible that the real attraction of my garden is the local tradition (baseless, of course), that it is not a very safe place for cats. For I must tell you that I am an aviculturist, and, as we all know, between cats (and their owners), and aviculturists there is, and probably always has been, a bitter feud.

Dark Deeds in the Olden Days!

I have sometimes asked myself how cats and aviculturists got on together in ancient Egypt, for in that country, as you probably know, the cat used to be regarded as sacred, and to slay one even accidentally was to incur the gravest possible penalties. Are we to believe that the bird-fancier in the days of the Pharaohs allowed the prowling feline to make away with his pets without protest, or is it possible that at the midnight hour, when the silver moon shed her radiance over the towering Pyramids and on the shimmering waters of the majestic Nile, a stealthy figure might have been seen now and again cautiously to approach the river bank and hurl something weighty into deep water? Personally I have little doubt that there are stones at the bottom of the ancient river to-day which could tell a tale.

But perhaps you may think that aviculture is quite a modern hobby, and that there were no bird fanciers in ancient Egypt. If so, you make a great mistake, for, if you will go to-day to the Temple of Seti at Abydos you will see there on a stone slab a clever sketch by a very early artist of a pair of clap-nets. There they are, staves, headlines and all, just like those we use to-day, and probably set just in the same way, though the artist evidently had somewhat mixed ideas on this particular point. Still, as we all know, the bird-artist of the year 1913 is sometimes far from accurate, so we may easily forgive a little thing like that to an artist of the year 1366 B.C., for this was the date when King Seti the First commenced his reign. In this way we have preserved for us the fact that there were clap-nets, bird-catchers, and bird-fanciers in Egypt three thousand three hundred years ago. Is there anything new under the sun?

As between myself and the Salton cats, the feud has been both a long and a bitter one. I made out a list one year of the losses I had sustained in the matter of birds (many of them rare and expensive) from cats, and I found that the little bill came to £10. Now my aviaries have been standing for eight years, and you will therefore not be far wrong if you arrive at the conclusion that the Salton cats have cost me no less than £80 in hard cash. But what I have felt far more than the monetary loss has been the cruel death of pets to which I was personally attached, of broods of nestlings left to starve slowly, without a parent to feed them, and of high hopes of breeding a rare species dashed to the ground

I shall never forget one night in which a whole gang of cats managed to penetrate to the breeding aviary. I had a good many foreign Doves at that time, and these became absolutely panic-stricken. The hubbub caused by the cats springing against the sides of the aviary, and by the unfortunate birds, who were knocking their brains out inside the latter, woke the household. The next morning the aviary presented a sickening sight. There lay my favourites, some dead and many dying, some with their eyes torn out, and some with their scalps torn completely off their heads; eggs and young birds were scattered about the ground, and my greatest treasures, a brood of the very rare Yellow-rumped Finch (imported that year for the first time), which were just ready to fly, had completely disappeared. I was so upset about it that I almost decided to give the cats best and pull down the aviary. However, an aviarist must be made of sterner stuff than this, or he will never do very much with his hobby.

Ordinary Cats and Super-Cats!

If one wishes to succeed with anything one must first have a system; so I took the cat problem in hand systematically. In the first place I cut down some trees, from which my enemies used to spring on to the roof of the aviary, and I then overhauled and improved the wire entanglements which protected the sides of the latter from assault. Lastly I devoted my attention to the Salton cats individually and collectively, and I arrived at the conclusion that, from the aviarist's point of view, cats may be divided into three classes, i.e., common (or garden) cats, abandoned cats, and super-cats. Now, the common or garden cat digs up the flower-beds, makes the night hideous with its vocal efforts, and is in many ways a most objectionable animal, but, if the aviary is fairly well protected with fencing, etc., it is not actively aggressive. The abandoned cat is a much more dangerous animal, and needs careful watching. It has to depend entirely on its own efforts for a living, and is a strong, daring, and expert hunter; but there is this to be said for it, that it hunts for food, and seems to realise that a whole night's work devoted to chasing the unfortunate inmates of an aviary round and round and up and down will only yield in point of actual results two or three very small birds—in other words, it is a professional hunter, not a sportsman.

The super-cat is a very different animal. It is generally a sleek, well-fed individual, which has taken up aviary-baiting as a sport, and to procure that sport it will face any risk and leave no stone unturned. To enjoy that sport it steals away night after night, and, well knowing that there is a price on its head, eludes traps, guns, and poison with an intelligence that is absolutely uncanny. It is a curious thing that, so far as my experience goes, the aviarist is never troubled with more than one super-cat at a time. The latter seems to keep its own particular method of surmounting the defences of the aviary to itself and will allow no rival to share its sport, but, if a super-cat should by any accident disappear, in a very short space of time another will take its place.

I well recollect my father telling me that he was once quartered with his regiment at a station in India where there were a temple and an enclosed sheet of water, containing some sacred crocodiles which were fed by the priests with offerings of meat. A certain number of the crocodiles (I have forgotten the exact number, but we will say that there were three) were of immense size, and the rest were quite small, and did not grow any larger. But whenever one of the three super-crocodiles died from any cause, it had always been found that the remaining two elected one of the small ones to take his place, and at once the latter would commence to grow amazingly, and soon be as large as the other two. In the same way, I always find that if a super-cat disappears, my troubles soon recommence, for another quickly takes its place and becomes just as cunning and just as destructive as its predecessor.

A Typical Wing-Marked Norwich Plainhead.

"Peter" Introduces Himself.

I will now tell you the story of one particular super-cat which caused me more annoyance and loss than any of its predecessors or successors. One moonlight night I returned home rather late, and thought I heard a disturbance in the winter aviary, which is situated in a small walled garden at the back of the house. So I proceeded to investigate. The wall surrounding the aviary is 8 ft. high, and above that there is a length of netting 2 ft. wide, stretched outwards, horizontally, which one would think no cat could possibly surmount. There are some standard bee-hives under the wall, and by standing on one of these I could get a good view of the top of the aviary. There was a good deal of fluttering, and I could hear the flighting notes of Shorelarks, which had evidently been alarmed by something, but, as part of the aviary was in deep shadow, it was not easy to see what that "something" was. The Shorelarks kept flying round, bumping their heads against the netting in their efforts to soar, and presently one of them became entangled between the top of a shrub and the netting which formed the roof of the aviary. Instantly a huge black tom-cat leapt out of the shadows and hurled itself upon the unfortunate Lark. The ferocity of the powerful brute as it tore at the netting with teeth and claws made me fairly shiver. I ran back to the house, hastily loaded my small air-gun, and returned just in time to draw a steady bead. At the thud of the tiny bullet my enemy uttered just one swear-word, galloped across the aviary, jumped on to the roof of the stable, scrambled up the ridge, shot down the other side and disappeared into the night. Inquiries elicited the fact that this particular feline had just been imported into Salton by two maiden ladies; that he was a London cat, and answered to the name of "Peter."

A GROUP OF OLD-TIME WINNERS.

A drawing by Harrison Weir, taken from the "Illustrated London News," of notable breeds at the Show held in Nottingham at the beginning of the year 1858.

The accompanying letterpress states that 65 Canaries were on view (in addition to poultry, pigeons, etc.). The writer says: "We give the long, thin, and decidedly not beautiful Belgian; the old and favourite yellow-jonque, the beautiful variety called the London Fancy, the rich-coloured and delicately-formed Lizard, and the Goldfinch Mule, all of which are first-prize birds; but refrain from giving our opinion which possesses the most beauty, as it is entirely a matter of taste. Suffice it to say that the show was highly creditable, and had a large share of admiration, especially from the fairer sex, who gazed long and untiringly at the sweet little children of song." The birds depicted are: Mealy (buff) Goldfinch Mule (on extreme left); Gold Lizard (extreme right, at top) and Mealy London Fancy (directly underneath); the three centre birds are Belgians. The illustration was sent us by Mr. Geoff. Benson, of Liverpool.

Early Preparation for the Breeding Season.

By CLAUDE St. JOHN.

Just the advice the novice and amateur are looking for is dealt out in this article written by "Cage Birds" popular expert upon the Canary and its management.

THE turn of the year should mark a busy time for the fancier who desires to begin the approaching season under circumstances most favourable to a successful end. The rush of the show season is nearly done. Towards the end of January a very helpful lull occurs. This gives the fancier, be he never so deeply interested in exhibiting, a splendid opportunity of thoroughly examining his stock and weighing mentally all their good and bad points, and setting apart the stock required for breeding. He does not, of course, forget to provide for accidents and casualties that may occur between this time and the breeding season, by setting apart a few reserve birds to provide for such contingencies. This is work that demands some careful thought—hence the present lull may truly be termed a helpful one.

When this business of selecting and estimating the merits and failings of one's stock has been carried through, all surplus stock should be cleared out as speedily as possible. Just now there should be a ready sale for the latter, and the fancier is wise to take advantage of the demand to reduce his stock to the low ebb he wishes it to be at when the breeding season is about to commence. That point should be indicated by the number of pairs the breeder intends to mate up, allowing a few extra odd birds as a reserve to fill up vacancies arising from causes which cannot be foreseen.

Don't Stint the Birds of Room.

The number of pairs must of necessity depend upon each individual's accommodation, but it is a mistake to fill up the space at command to its fullest capacity. Plenty of room should always be allowed for the expansion of one's stock during the run of the breeding season. It must not be forgotten that what has the appearance of a very thinly populated room in March, may with a fair measure of success be a "full house" before the end of June, with perhaps a few more broods coming on which are destined to become so many danger units from a health point of view—the evil of overcrowding is apt to begin at the most dangerous season in the year Another point in favour of the early disposal of all surplus stock is that the way is clearer for the overhauling of the room and all its appurtenances, which should immediately follow this work of selection and dispersal.

The spring cleaning should be no less thorough and complete than that which he usually views with dismay in the domestic establishment, but it is essential for him to get this annual overhaul done several weeks in advance of the actual spring. Upon its thoroughness depends much of his success during the coming summer and autumn. He will be spared much anxiety, and the comfort and condition of his birds will be infinitely advanced by determined effort now. This, of course, refers chiefly to attacks of insect pests; but there are such dangers as the germs of infectious diseases lurking about ready to rise up and deal death broadcast at any time when the room gets thickly populated, and the weather becomes very warm. These dangers may be very largely neutralised by a general turn-over and clean-down now.

How to "Spring Clean" Properly.

Do not imagine that because such things as red mites are just now conspicuous by their absence that they do not exist. Like the proverbial poor they are always with us. And if the fancier allows himself to believe now that he has no red mites, and fails to attend thoroughly to this cleansing work, he will assuredly find himself confronted with trouble towards the end of the summer, when prudence forbids the taking of drastic measures to eradicate them, as the stock at this time must not be subjected to great disturbance.

It is best to take advantage of the first spell of mild sunny weather after the beginning of January to overhaul the room, as by so doing there is less risk of the birds being exposed to chills during the operations. If the birds can be removed to another room, and a few spare cages brought into use for a short time, it will be a great convenience. But whatever plan is adopted one should aim at carrying it right through from beginning to end without a break, and avoid as far as possible all contact between that which is cleansed and articles awaiting treatment. After moving cages, etc., the walls should be thoroughly cleaned.

Papered walls are about the least suitable for bird rooms, but if it is not intended to alter, or re-paper it, the walls should be systematically rubbed down with fairly large chunks of crust from a crumby loaf. This not only cleans the paper nicely, but by rubbing with a firm pressure, and going over every spot the great majority of any colonies of red mites harbouring on the walls will be crushed out of existence. Any tears or damage to the paper should be carefully repaired, to avoid forming harbours for insects under loose edges of paper.

The best dressing for the walls is undoubtedly limewash or sanitary distemper; they can then be washed down with a disinfectant, and have a fresh coat put on each year. A solution of Jeyes' Fluid (1 in 100) or Izal, makes an excellent disinfectant wash, which may be liberally applied with the distemper brush and allowed to dry before applying the new coat of distemper, or limewash, as the case may be. This solution will practically be obtained by adding three tablespoonfuls of the fluid to each gallon of water.

The cage racks and floor may also be well scoured with this solution and carbolic soap. When the staging has dried, go over the joints with a small brush dipped in turpentine or pure Jeyes', allowing the fluid to run into the joint, this will prove invaluable in destroying the few refugees that may have escaped the operations so far. The great point is to leave no spot untouched.

Overhauling the Cages.

Now turn attention to the cages. It is here that the convenience of a few extra cages is felt. If the birds have been housed temporarily in some other room they should, of course, undergo treatment before being returned. If this has not been possible they will doubtless have been moved to some other part of the room whilst the staging was being overhauled. In that case they should be kept clear of the wall, and disturbed as little as possible until taken in hand for cleaning. Given a spare cage or two, these can be overhauled out of the room, well dried, and placed on the rack, when the birds may be placed in them, and the vacated cages taken out to be dealt with.

One word of caution here. When placing the first clean cages on the rack see that there is a supply of cleaned and disinfected vessels ready to put on them. It is a matter that is very easily overlooked, but the tiniest little cracks in the joints of the seed-boxes or other vessels kept in or on the cages, not infrequently harbour insect pests at this time of year. All ordinary cage appliances lend themselves exceedingly well to the most perfect form of cleansing and disinfection—to wit, boiling for a few minutes. Even glass vessels may be so treated if put into the water cold and then brought to boiling point, the water being allowed to cool somewhat again before the glasses are removed. Wooden seed-boxes, either with or without glass fronts, may be treated the same, and if kept quite immersed whilst in the water no warping will occur. The varnish will suffer, but that is of very little moment, as a bottle of varnish-stain costing a few pence will restore quite a goodly number of boxes.

Close Up the Crevices.

The process of overhauling the individual cages is very similar to that adopted on a larger scale for a room. Give a thorough good cleansing, in the ordinary way, as a first step. It is a wise precaution to burn all the debris from the cages with as little delay as possible. Do not give possible tenants a chance to get away and settle in new quarters. Next, well wash out the cage with a 1 in 100 solution of Jeyes', or Izal, paying particular attention to all likely insect harbours, and when dry go over the joints, etc., with strong disinfectant.

If there are cracks, or gaping joints, about the cage, fill them at this stage with putty, softened, if too hard, with a little copal varnish—outside cracks may be filled with the same medium coloured to match the wood. Finish by distempering (or paint or enamel as may be preferred). If the insides of the cages have been previously enamelled so as to be washable, it may be only necessary to thoroughly wash them with the disinfectant; a small brush and some carbolic soap may be employed to do the work well. Then, when dry, the dressing of the joints, etc., with strong disinfectant or turpentine, would complete the job, and when they were quite dry and furbished up they could be at once replaced on the staging. But even with enamelled cages, if the joints have opened so that it has become necessary to fill them up, it is a wise plan to add another coat of enamel to make a good job of it.

Order from Chaos.

When the whole of cages and their ordinary fittings have been got through and the room once again begins to look ship-shape, nest-boxes, pans, brackets and nursery cages should be brought out and undergo a similar process of overhauling, cleaning, disinfecting, and repairing, where necessary. Never leave slight repairs, such as bent, twisted, or displaced wires, to be done at the moment the articles are wanted for use. Some day comes a sudden demand for them, when one "thinks things," because words are inadequate to express all one feels. Therefore, when you come across these trifling defects needing attention, make a point of "doing it now."

Easy and Effective.

Nursery cages if not well cleansed and disinfected when put away last season, should be treated in the same way as the breeding cages, and put away when perfectly dry, ready for use at any moment. All the other appurtenances may be treated by the boiling method, which is by far the most generally useful and effectual for the purpose in view. After this the nest-pans should be fitted with linings and made ready for use when required.

To add the finishing touch to this work of preparation, turn out the remains of last season's supply of cuttlefish, nest-bags, etc., and discard what is soiled or rendered of doubtful utility. Cuttlefish is so absorbent of moisture, and is so cheap, that it savours very much of folly to keep it over from one season to the next. As regards nesting material, now it is turned out and examined, it is a good plan to bake it well in a moderately hot oven, dusting flowers of sulphur well amongst it before placing it in the oven. Then, if any stray insects have found their way into it they are readily destroyed, and prevented from working mischief later on. Do not argue that insects could scarcely have got into such a place. One never knows, and the trouble is so small that it is far better to give the nesting material, and not the insects, the benefit of the doubt.

A NOTED CREST-BRED CANARY.

This fine, almost clear. Buff has won many prizes, including first at the last Horticultural Hall Show. Its owner is Mr. T. Gilbert, of Coventry.

HOW IT ALL HAPPENED!

AN EPISODE AT A BIRD-SHOW.

Chronicled by GEO. GARDNER.

"What a delightful colour those Canaries are, Reggie, dear! It is a shade of gold that seems almost impossible to obtain in hair, or in fabrics. I wonder if I could glean any information as to how the owners succeed in obtaining that particular shade?"

Reggie listened attentively to his lady-love, and after meditating, replied: "You see, darling, the difficulty is great. The owners of these beautiful birds give them a special kind of diet. They eat food that is carefully prepared; and their drink is also such as to aid the food in its action upon the colour of the feathers as they grow. It is so different to obtaining it in dress material."

A Joy for Ever.

Reggie felt it was too delicate a subject to broach the matter of his darling's hair—her wealth of auburn locks of which he was so proud and the other fellows so madly jealous! He cared little that much of that which came forth in all its magnificence in the morning, disappeared at night! A thing of beauty is a joy for ever! So he ventured simply to leave the case where it stood. Not so Miss Mabel.

"Tell me more about these Canaries, Reggie, dear," she persisted, "It is so interesting, because I might be able to eat and drink so that my own hair would come that lovely colour and grow in profusion." Reggie endeavoured to cover his confusion by changing the subject.

"Do not worry, darling," he replied, "your eyes are your glory, and your sweet disposition is your crown"—(aside: "leaving the old man's banking account out of the hunt!")—"But listen, darling, to the song of the birds!"

"It is thrilling, dear! Look at that one over there, how it swells its little throat and pours out its melody. But, Reggie, just look. Here is one in dainty dress that has a ring on its leg. What is that for?"

Reggie was "stumped" again for a moment, but eventually replied: "You see the Canary with the ring on has won a prize!"

"Yes, I noticed that, Reggie, but what is the ring there for?"

Hooking the Fish.

"Well, darling," answered Reggie in desperation, "if I must tell you, and you won't mind, the ring on the Canary that has won a prize denotes that she is married!"

With a rosy blush tinting her cheeks, Mabel shyly made reply: "Oh! Reggie, and if I were to get married and wear a ring, do you think my own tresses would come that colour and that I should win a prize?"

Reggie rose to the occasion bravely, "Yes, dearest, you would win one who cares only for you and nothing for the colour of your hair, and I should win my darling Mabel." (Aside: "And a chance to tap the old man's banking account!") Then a tiny hand stole into a manly palm, while for the nonce the show-room became transformed into a lover's paradise, and the question of sweet (or hot) pepper was left to assimilate until St. Valentine's day!

INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS: ITS CURE AND PREVENTION.

By T. JOHNSON (Southport.)

Some very valuable hints on avoiding and combating a trouble that is a bug-bear to many Canary Breeders.

EVERY fancier has at some time or other in the height of the breeding season, when birdy-men have met together either by accident or design, overheard some such conversation as the following. Says Mr. A: "Well, Mr. B, how many youngsters have you on the sticks?"—"Oh," answers Mr. B, "I don't know that I have anything to swank about; nine youngsters from twelve pairs isn't anything great. How many have you got? You don't seem over-pleased with yourself."

"I've got nothing to feel pleased about, I can assure you; I have had 24 youngsters on sticks from nine hens, and have lost them all but six since."—"Ah! that's bad; how do you account for it?"—"I don't know; I can't account for it; they just seemed to die one after the other at about from five to seven weeks old. Sometimes, on going into the bird-room, instead of finding one dead I might, just as a break in the monotony, find two. Otherwise, they all seemed to die the same way."

The Diagnosis.

"I am sure you have my sympathy. Did you notice any symptoms? It sounds like inflammation."—"Well," they used to sit at the seed-box, or the egg-pot, and eat and eat till you wondered what became of all the food; and as for drink, why, they never seemed to have enough water. Then they seemed to get diarrhœa and have great pain in passing the excrement, which was very watery and of a yellowish-brown colour."

My readers will probably have overheard this, or something very similar, many a time; maybe some have been the principals in a like conversation. However, we can commiserate with both parties, and although a man with bad feeding hens is to be pitied, who shall say that one who rears lots of youngsters and afterwards loses them is not more in need of our sympathy!

The symptoms mentioned are those which we always find present in the disease known to fanciers as "inflammation of the bowels," or "going light," but which a medical gentleman, who is also a fancier, tells me is correctly called "gastro-enteritis." I had at one time thought it was some kind of a fever, owing to the rapidity with which one death followed another; and I think we, as laymen and fanciers, owe a great debt of gratitude to one who, as a man of science, condescends to put us right in a matter of this sort. Some there are who would, with their superior knowledge, smile with contempt at our amateur efforts at investigation.

What Are the Causes?

Various are the causes attributed by fanciers, as being responsible for the disease of "going light," or, as we will now term it, "gastro-enteritis." Some breeders aver that the giving of green food after the young leave the parents is the cause, but I have seen birds affected with the malady that have never touched green food after weaning. Personally, I never stop giving green food to my youngsters, in more or less quantity, from leaving the parents right through the moult, and I have never known any ill effects accrue. It always appears to me illogical to say that green food can be a good food for a young Canary of from three days old to a month, and yet, when that same bird gets a month old, the same food is harmful.

Some might argue that the green food, being swallowed by the parent, is pre-digested. That, again, to my mind, is illogical, because as a rule, green food is not given until after the young ones are three days old, and the hen at that time will go direct from the green food and feed them; and one must be gifted with an elastic imagination to admit that merely swallowing green food is digesting it. Of course, it is understood that the green food is never allowed to get stale in the cages, else we should indeed be courting disaster. But given the right sort of green food in moderation, say a dandelion head or young leaf, or spray of watercress, or a sprig of shepherd's purse or seeding grass per bird per day, the young birds will suffer no detriment—indeed, quite the reverse. I am aware that in the foregoing, I differ from some fanciers, but I am one of those who take their lessons from personal experience, and I think that the time is not far distant when the old fallacy of green food being the cause of this disease will be exploded.

Impure air and dirty cages are causes of the disease. If a breeder will go into a bird-room which is badly ventilated, on a hot, sultry day, such as we experience during the summer, he will soon see that the air is vitiated, especially if the cages are not cleaned out regularly. Such a place must be absolutely full of disease germs. Other causes of the disease are stale water, sour egg-food, and egg-food getting scattered on the cage bottoms and coming in contact with the excrement, afterwards being eaten by the young birds.

A Sad Case in Point.

Overcrowding will also cause the birds to become affected. I well remember a summer or two ago visiting a fancier's birdroom on a very hot day. It was a pokey little place. He had about a dozen hens down on their second clutch of eggs, after a good first round. They were of the common singing variety, were considerably overcrowded, and he had no accommodation for the youngsters he had bred. I counted thirteen young Canaries in an ordinary double breeding cage. I repeat, it was a hot day; and I ask you to imagine the odour that greeted us as we opened the door. Of course, it goes without saying there was no ventilation. I remarked to him that he would have some trouble with those youngsters if he didn't get them separated. He was building another place for them at the time, but as he was one of those lackadaisical fanciers (luckily, they are few) whose motto always seemed to be "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof," he was, of course, late with his work I told him if he didn't get it finished quickly, he would have no need of it—at any rate, not until the second round was ready.

Sad to relate, I proved a wise prophet. In a few days those youngsters started to die off, until he had scarcely one from the first round left. They died from "gastro-enteritis," brought on through vitiated atmosphere due to overcrowding and bad ventilation. His method of feeding was all right, except that he didn't give green food after weaning.

The Effect; and the Method of Cure.

This disease is contagious, differing from an infectious disease, inasmuch as the latter would carry off all the birds in the room in a short time, whereas a contagious disease only affects those birds which come in contact with it. For instance, say we had four birds in a cage, and one of those birds became affected with the disease and was not at once isolated, it is certain that the other three would sooner or later, probably sooner, become affected. How? Why, through the diseased bird's excrement getting on to the feet and being transmitted ultimately, by way of the perches, to the other birds. It is, perhaps, needless to add that a diseased bird's excrement swarms with disease germs, therefore every precaution should be taken by any breeder who is so unfortunate as to have a bird suffering from this complaint.

The first symptoms shown are a decided looseness in the bowels, and an appearance of pain when passing the excrement. The bird will sit on the perch in a huddled up shape, and there will be an absence of that brightness of manner so peculiar to a healthy lot of youngsters. It is generally the weakest of the brood that is affected first; but if taken in hand at once, I have no hesitation in saying that a cure can be effected if the following directions be carried out.

As soon as a young bird is noticed "off colour," it must be moved into a cage that has previously been well washed out with a disinfectant fluid (of course, after the cage has become dry). Perches and all utensils must also undergo a similar cleansing. Cover the cage bottom with sawdust that has been previously prepared in the following manner: Add about a teaspoonful of Joyes Fluid to a quart of water and well sprinkle the sawdust with this solution. A quart of solution will be about enough for half a bucketful, and the sawdust must be thoroughly incorporated with the solution. Give some grit in a tin inside the cage.

The Fascination of Producing Something New.

A FEW WORDS ON MULE AND HYBRID BREEDING.

By JAS. SPARKS (St. Helens).

VERY few bird fanciers escape the fascination of Mule breeding. The uncertainty of it, and the ambition to produce something new hold the fancier like a spell. The novice sometimes begins with the idea that all that is required is to put a cock Goldfinch and hen Canary in a breeding cage, give them a nest, and then sit down to await results. Usually he either gets a succession of clutches of unfertile eggs, or a houseful of "sparrows."

The usual pair to begin with is a cock Goldfinch and hen Canary, who are comparatively certain to produce some sort of Mules which are saleable, with most beginners a great point in favour of this cross. The Mules, too, are handsome, and make good songsters. Many people prefer a Goldfinch Mule to a pure Canary for singing purposes, as their note is not so high and shrill; also in a house their plumage seems to keep and look cleaner than does that of a light Canary.

Is the Hen entitled to the Credit?

It seems to have now been established that the secret of producing light, or lightly-marked, Mules, lies in sib-breeding. This means that the hen Canary from which you breed must have come from birds which have been bred for several generations from closely-related ancestors, i.e., a sib, or in-bred, strain. It reflects honour on a Mule breeder if, instead of purchasing his muling hens, he builds up a reliable strain of his own. The method I recommend of building up a light muling strain is as follows: Obtain from a recognised breeder a pair of Yorkshires with plenty of Cinnamon blood in their veins. Let them be out of the same nest, or off the same parents. Also get a pair of large, well-shaped, rich, natural-coloured Norwich Canaries. Let these be related, also, and get clear birds, too. Pair the Yorkshires together and the Norwich together.

In the following year pair a young Yorkshire cock with a young Norwich hen; or a young Norwich cock with a young Yorkshire hen. Prepare a diary, and keep a record of the young. Then, in the following year, mate these young ones so that no two birds of a pair are from the same parents. Never pair two yellows together. The young will be bred weak and short-feathered enough as it is. To keep size in the strain, mate two buffs occasionally. Continue on these lines for a year or two, and then try one or two hens with Goldfinches. It is a good plan to mate a pair of Norwich, and inbreed their young; then, when the principal strain begins to deteriorate, bring these in. It will put new stamina into the strain.

It is desirable, but not essential, that Finches should be house-moulted for muling. At any rate, they must be perfectly steady. Choose large Finches, and get them to eat plain canary seed. It is advisable to take a nest of Canaries from the hens before introducing them to the Goldies. By so doing, you get the hens keen on breeding, and also have some of their young to perpetuate the strain. Further, Goldfinches do not begin to breed until about the end of April. You will, too, know the capabilities of the hens as feeders, and can act accordingly when you have young Mules. Use a large roomy cage, with a sliding partition. If the Goldie is mischievous, separate them for the greater portion of the day. Put the cage in a light, airy situation. Supply the Finch with plenty of wild seeds, and give an abundance of fresh green food, especially the early dandelion.

To breed dark exhibition Mules what is wanted is a strain of large, romping, rich-coloured hens (size and colour are very important in a dark Mule.) Green Canaries are much used for colour. If a breeder merely wants Mules for singing purposes, he can run a vigorous Finch with two common, healthy hens. Both Goldfinch and Linnet Mules are very good singers, and can also be taught to whistle short tunes.

Where the Foster-Mother is Useful.

For breeding between two British birds Bullfinch hens are, of course, very valuable. They will, when steady, lay in an ordinary breeding cage, and sit their eggs as faithfully as Canaries. It is, however, better to put their eggs (or some, at least) under trusted Canary hens. If you want to use other hens, besides Bullfinches, it is better to hand-rear them or rear them under Canaries. They can then be got to lay in a cage, but cannot be trusted to incubate their own eggs. We must use foster-mothers. Hen Canaries can be used, but if the breeder happens to have some common hen Mules, which are practically valueless in other respects, they will do the work splendidly. They are paired with cock Canaries, and when they lay, their own eggs (which are invariably clear) are thrown out, and the valuable eggs are put in their place. Or if a nest of young are not being fed by their own mother, they are transferred to the hen Mule, who will generally take to them at once.

Hens that are not hand-reared usually won't lay in a cage. For these we must use a small room, or large flights. Even then, it won't do to have several pairs in one room or flight. Some kind of foliage must be put in. Pine branches, cut in February, are very suitable for this purpose, as they do not then shed their leaves. Nests are placed in various suitable positions, and nesting material strewn about. The birds may, however, ignore the artificial nests, and build one themselves. Wild seeds and green food should be supplied in abundance, and the conditions made as natural as possible. Before turning the birds into the room it is advisable to put them in a small box cage in order to get them familiarised.

Fields and Pastures New.

I have briefly tried to point out to novices the lines on which to work. Perhaps some will think that to establish a strain of Canaries to breed exhibition Mules will take many years. So it will, but that need not keep them off the show bench. They can, meanwhile, breed dark Mules, or Hybrids between two British birds. The novice, in this branch, has an equal chance with the veteran. They can also try for honours in new fields. Hybrids between British Softbills have not yet been produced. Then there are Hybrids between foreign birds. I think that some very handsome Hybrids will be produced in the foreign bird department. The fascination of hybrid breeding chiefly lies in the excitement and glory of attempting to get the hitherto unknown. The bird lover who takes a deep interest in his hobby, and who can exercise patience, is the one to take up hybrid breeding.

Which Canary is "King of the Fancy" to-day?

By J. HODDER, (London, E.)

Our contributor thinks the title rightly belongs to the Norwich Plainhead, of which he is a very successful breeder and exhibitor; and concerning the mating and management of this variety he here gives some valuable hints.

IN my opinion the King of Canaries to-day is the Norwich Plainhead. A real good specimen, and such are not numerous, has always had a crowd of ardent admirers at any show I have ever attended. I do not think there is any variety of Canary to-day that is so popular and is bred so extensively as the Norwich, and this is largely due to his agility, his robust constitution, and his wonderful shape, quality of feather and colour. It is a real delight to see a good bird move from perch to perch showing off every good point—his beautiful large round head, and well placed bold eye, nice round well filled back, short thick neck, deep chest (as "round as a ball"), clean waist, nice short pipe tail, and glorious deep colour.

I fancy I hear someone say, "colour again; why so much stress on colour?" My answer is, I do not say colour is everything, but we must remember the Norwich Plainhead is essentially a bird of colour, and that is one point in which he excels over all other breeds of Canaries and no amount of colour feeding will produce the desired depth of colour unless it is bred for by judiciously using green blood, i.e., pairing marked birds to clears.

Money Is not Everything.

I was describing what I consider a first-class specimen—a lovely sight. Few of such birds are bred, but we do see real good ones now and again. Well, says the amateur, how can I get such a bird as you have described? There are some, perhaps, who would answer: Take a short cut to success and buy one. Claim him at catalogue price—anything from £10 to £20. I would say that this is an expensive process, and rather hazardous, too, because unless you know exactly how to treat the bird and keep him in first-class condition, without over-doing it, you will have cause to regret your large outlay, once he gets out of condition. How often do we hear it said that so and so has bought so and so's champion, but that nothing has been heard of the bird since. It is a waste of money to buy expensive birds unless you know how to manage them.

Practical experience is a great teacher in all matters, and especially in the management of Canaries. Now I would say to the amateur, gain experience, begin quietly, spend your money cautiously, have just as many birds as you can manage, and no more. Don't let your enthusiasm carry you away, or you may have regrets later. Pay attention to what may appear small matters of this kind, and it may save you the bitter disappointment of thinking of a large sum of money expended on your hobby with poor results, maybe through having too many birds or insufficient knowledge to carry breeding operations to a successful issue. I say begin cautiously. Get a few pairs, pay a reasonable price for them and get them as typical as you can for the money you pay, and be careful how they have been bred, so that you may know how to pair up the next season, etc.

How Time Is Wasted.

About pairing up: Try to remedy the defects of one bird with the good points of the other. It is of course obviously useless to pair up two birds with small heads and hope to breed birds from these with large heads; or two long-feathered birds, and hope to breed tight feathered birds from them; or two very long-sided birds and hope to breed short specimens. And it is just as much a waste of time if you pair up two very pale birds, bred from clears, and hope from such a pairing to breed hot-coloured birds.

Norwich breeding requires time and thought, care and attention. When the breeding time comes round I give many hours of anxious thought to the pairing up of my birds, because I know upon this largely depends my success or otherwise for that season. I like to get my birds in the best of condition by the time breeding operations should commence. To ensure this the cocks require a little careful feeding up from about the end of January, a little egg food, once a week, and mixed seed, as follows:—1 part German rape, ½ part maw, ¼ part hemp, ¼ part niger, ½ part gold of pleasure. Give about a teaspoonful per bird. I find the singing of the cocks brings hens into condition, but I always give the hens a little niger seed from the middle of January, as it prevents egg binding. Another good preventive of egg binding is mutton suet stuck in the wires for them to peck at for a few weeks before breeding begins and for a few weeks afterwards.

When Yellows Preponderate.

If you want more Yellows than Buffs among your young birds pair a Yellow cock to a Buff hen, as colour is influenced more by the cock, and I have proved more Yellows are bred in this way. Still, a good proportion of Yellows are often bred from a Buff cock and Yellow hen. Don't pair up unhealthy birds, as it is only a waste of time, as they perpetuate their weakness in their offspring, and they will only give you trouble, and probable die off in the moult. Give all your birds good roomy cages, with the bottoms covered with coarse pitch-pine sawdust, and plenty of good grit in jars placed inside the cages for them to peck at (it is astonishing what a quantity of this they will get through).

When the birds have commenced breeding operations, I feed up more liberally than usual for a week or so, notwithstanding the fact that I have been gradually bringing them on for weeks. I have proved this to be necessary, as the cocks somehow or other get out of condition at the end of the second week, and often become ill unless these preventive measures are adopted, hence the unfertile eggs and a host of troubles.

When your hens are sitting don't be too anxious if they do not happen to hatch their young on the 13th morning after setting them. I have known them to hatch on the 14th and 15th mornings early in the season. Leave the hens absolutely alone while sitting; don't upon any account interfere with them. Some hens won't stand it, and I believe many bad feeders are made this way, through sheer nervousness, lest you should be coming to the cage. So they sit tightly on the young and won't come off to feed and give the young any air; and so they die, whereas they might all have been reared if you had not been so anxious.

If you have a naturally poor feeding hen, or hens, you can often save the young by dividing them between other hens that are good feeders, and have young about the same age. Of course, there are other methods of dealing with bad feeding hens, which I have fully dealt with in previous articles of mine, published in this journal, and which space will not allow me to deal with now.

Leave Hen and Brood Alone.

When the young birds arrive, don't go to the nest at once, leave the hen with them, and if you treat her kindly, after a day or two she will soon gain confidence, and let you see them without being greatly perturbed. I like hens to feed well on egg food the first week, as the young grow faster and are more fat and plump than if fed on seeds. Give sweet apple as a "green food" early in the season, as watercress and other true green-foods are likely to have frost on them, which, of course, would be fatal to young birds.

When the young begin to look after themselves don't give them too much water. I prefer boiled milk or milk sop till they are seven or eight weeks old. By these means hundreds of young birds are saved that would probably otherwise die. Give egg food in the same strength as when with the old birds, until they are six weeks old; then gradually reduce the egg and give more bread or biscuit, as the case may be. I clean out the young birds' cages daily, as they may pick up a bit of sour food, become suddenly ill, and die.

Young birds begin to moult when they are about 10 weeks old. Be sure and have them in large flights as I am certain they grow faster, become larger birds than if kept in small cages, and they come a better colour. If you should have a "plucker" or pluckers, tie some pieces of tape or string inside the wires of the cage. This will divert their attention from the feathers and amuse them. If this does not cure, remove the culprit and put him in a cage by himself.

In conclusion, I would say, have healthy birds. Give them the best seeds, give them roomy cages, plenty of ventilation without draughts, keep room, birds, and cages scrupulously clean, don't be too anxious, but leave nature to do its own work, and success will be yours. I wish all my fellow fanciers a prosperous season during 1913, and abundance of success on the show bench.

THE HUNTING CISSA.

By JOHN FROSTICK.

Notes upon the subject of the beautiful painting by Mr. Goodchild reproduced on page 18 of this issue.

ALTHOUGH I do not possess any bird at the present moment that could properly be described as a "talker," nevertheless all our birds do talk, and that quite plainly to us (my wife and I), who understand what they say, and who appreciate their efforts to show us how they enjoy our company, and welcome our presence amongst them. All true lovers of birds will, I am sure, have noticed this tendency on the part of their pets to attract attention from those who administer to their wants, and are careful to supply all that is necessary to ensure their charges' every comfort and happiness in captivity. That birds are happy and contented under such conditions has been proved times out of number, scores of cases having been noted where they have been given their liberty and have returned to enjoy the advantages of cage life.

A Joyous "Good Morning."

When we turn the handle of our bird-room door in the morning, what a commotion there is, every bird on the qui vive, all anxious to say good morning, every one in his peculiar way. The foreign Finches set off in a regular laughter, and sound their "toy trumpets" in great delight; the merry trill of the Blackbird transports us in a second miles away to our beloved native country lanes; the Bullfinches are in a desperate hurry to kiss the tips of our fingers; the Dartford Warblers cock up their tails, erect their crests, and fly round their roomy cages with their scolding cry of "Cha-Cha-Cha," in a greatly excited manner. A Goldfinch swirls his tail round and with his beak held haughtily aloft, exclaims, "mind your back"; the Mexican Jays cry out, "Aunt M-a-r-y," pip-pop! pip-pop! pip! pip! pip; and last, but not least, we get the most enthusiastic welcome from the subject of this paper, in the glorious Hunting Cissa, with his "Hulloa, Biddy," Hip! Hip!! Hurrah!!!

It takes no great effort of the imagination to translate the birdy language into these words, and without sympathy no one has any right to keep any living creature. Were I a wealthy man, I would doubtless build palatial garden aviaries, like those owned to-day in ever-increasing numbers, I'm glad to say, by the nobility and rich merchants, and which I am often privileged to inspect; but though I sometimes envy my more fortunate confreres of their possessions, I generally come to the conclusion that my humble bird-room teaches me greater lessons in bird life than the most elaborate wire palace ever built.

Some birds are more suitable for cage life than others, and the Hunting Cissa is one of those eminently fitted for such an existence. "Biddy" was the "pick" of an excellent consignment of Indian birds that arrived in London at the beginning of last year. About a dozen Cissas landed in fine condition, and one of its fellow-passengers is now in the London Zoo.

The Hunting Cissa (Cissa sinensis, or venatoria) inhabits the south-eastern districts of the Himalayas, with the exception of Assam, Silhet, and Tenasserim; in Sikim it is often found living at an elevation of 12,000 feet, so our climate ought not to unduly affect it, and in my opinion it is a tolerably hardy species.

A Vision of Beauty.

I have never seen a picture of this bird, and I doubt if many of your 50,000 subscribers have ever beheld one until to-day. Therefore, it will be better to describe this extremely beautiful bird in detail. In length it is about 15½ inches, of which 8½ inches belong to the tail; the wing measures 6 inches; the predominating colour is a delicate chrysophrase green, shading here and there into blue or bluish green, shading into yellow upon the head; the black bridles are prolonged to the nape, where they unite, thus forming a kind of ring. The wings are a beautiful deep red or crimson. The feathers upon the head are elongated into a crest. The beak is strong and about as long as the head, of a brilliant vermilion colour, as are also the feet, which are large and strong, with formidable claws.

Jerdon says that it wanders from tree to tree in search of delicate leaves or insects, and that it also eats grasshoppers. It hunts small animals after the manner of the Shrikes, and is expert in pursuit of its prey.

The Cissa is the most carnivorous of any Jay I have kept, with the exception of the North American Blue Jay, Cyanocitta cristata, and I quickly found that a diet of the best insectivorous food mixed with cold boiled potato was not sufficiently sustaining, so now it has in addition as much fresh, raw beef daily as it likes to eat, and this forms its staple food. My friend Mr. Frank Finn tells me that in India these birds kill and eat snakes and lizards, and that he believes they would eat fish; probably they would, but I've never tried them. A dead mouse is a great luxury, and I supply them regularly; dead sparrows are eaten, but not relished; a dozen mealworms are a treat, and I give all the cockroaches (blackbeetles) I can obtain, a few grapes, and cut up banana complete the menu.

"Biddy" After the Bath.

"Biddy" lives in a large cage, which is furnished with stout perches to fit its feet, and it has ample room to display its plumage, which is almost as wonderful a sight as its vocal attainments are amusing. When it is in a good humour, generally after its matutinal ablutions, it elevates its crest, expands its wings, and spreads out its tail fan shape, and seems to know quite well that it is thus an object of extraordinary beauty.

Like many other birds, after a moult in captivity, the natural wild plumage undergoes a change in colour, in this case the prevailing green colour is changed into a pale greenish-blue. The other colours remain the same, and the general effect is by no means deteriorated.

I have a faint recollection of once seeing a rather bedraggled specimen of the Hunting Cissa exhibited at the Palace, but though I have searched through my catalogues of all the important shows for more than twenty years back, I can find no verification of it, therefore, as a show bird the Cissa is rare, and my example, if not a "first appearance," is certainly the second and only perfect specimen ever exhibited. It requires a fairly large show cage; my bird's cage measures 26in. long, 15 wide, and 20in. high and is enamelled inside pearl white, which I think shows the bird to the best advantage.

CRAGHEAD C.B.S.

Meeting held Jan. 4. It was decided to hold a table show for British birds at the Punch Bowl on Jan. 18; seven classes. Mr. Knowles, Grange Villa, has kindly consented to judge, and has also promised to give a good medal. Mr. Calvert, South Moor, is also giving a medal for the most points. Alf. Dawson, sec.

LEINSTER O.S.

Under the above title, a new cage bird society has been formed in Dublin. An enthusiastic meeting was held Jan. 10, with Mr. J. J. Cloke in the chair. Arrangements were made for further meetings and the completing of the list of officers, also the raising of money to carry on the organisation. Show dates have been provisionally fixed for Oct. 28 and 29. Fanciers desirous of helping on the society should communicate with the hon. sec., C. Holley, at 66, Fitzroy Avenue, Dublin.

MUSSELBURGH O.S.

Annual general meeting held at Cossar's Tea Rooms, Jan. 3. Mr. Alex. Moffat presiding. It was decided to change annual show date to the first Saturday in December, and to advertise in CAGE BIRDS, and put in show dates fixed. The following office bearers were elected:—Pres., Alex. Moffat; vice pres., Jas. Smeaton; sec. and treas., A. Hoyle; committee, Messrs. J. Lawson, J. Little, D. Moffat, A. Young, C. Watt, A. Fleming, W. Burns, J. Sykes, C. Sykes, T. Taylor, R. Lees, Jas. Skinner; auditors, Messrs. Jas. Smeaton and Jas. Skinner. Next meeting Cossar's Tea Rooms, Jan. 25.—A. Hoyle, Sec.

PARTICK C.B.C.

Monthly meeting held in the Trades Hall, Anderson-street, Partick, Jan. 10, Mr. Park presiding over a large turn-out of members. Sec. read balance-sheet, which showed a total income of £30 19s. 10d., and an expenditure of £24 12s. 11½d., leaving a balance of £6 6s. 11½d. Mr. Park then left the chair in favour of Mr. T. Fraser, who was well received. Agreed to hold breeding pairs show Feb. 7, classes to remain same as last year, points specials to count as in former years. The following judges were elected: Mr. Wm. Hutchieson, Mr. R. Heggie. Agreed to hold Burns' night on Jan. 28 in the Bank Restaurant. The following fanciers were duly proposed and seconded for membership: Messrs. D. Wylie, Wm. Smith, P. McNicol, J. Murray, Leitch, and J. Arthur. A vote of thanks to retiring office-bearers for their good work throughout the year, and to Mr. Fraser for presiding, brought the meeting to a close.—Wm. Priest, Sec.

GATESHEAD C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held January 8. Mr. Tindale took the chair over a record attendance. Evidently the recent strike has not damped the ardour of the Gateshead members. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the officials and stewards for their brilliant work during the recent show under such trying circumstances. The secretary's report upon the show revealed a heavy loss, which would have been worse had we cancelled it at the eleventh hour. Several suggestions as to the best means of meeting the trouble resulted in an agreement to have a prize drawing. Several prizes were offered and soon totalled to fifteen. Tickets will be sent out to members as early as possible, and I trust everyone will make an effort to sell them quickly. Mr. Tindale informed the members that at the annual meeting he would have to resign his position as chairman owing to going into new business which would occupy most of his time. I will be pleased if members will let me know how many tickets they can manage to dispose of; also hope they will try to push books into the quarters most likely to sell, and unknown to the secretary.—J. G. Greason, Sec.—(Kindly write on one side only of each sheet of paper.—Editor.)

MIDLAND COUNTIES YORKS. C.C.

The Club have been fortunate in securing the services of Mr. J. Sheppard, of 129, Floyer Road, Small Heath, Birmingham, as Secretary. Heavy business prevents Messrs. Andrews and Beck from continuing, and their past splendid services will be missed. The Society is very flourishing, and many new members have joined. The novice has plenty to attract him in the various competitions. The lucky winners of both champion and novice cups will be duly announced at the general meeting at headquarters, the Crown Hotel, Station Street, Birmingham, next month. The Chairman has received from other towns many good ideas to further the general interests in the club. From Loughborough many have offered to join, but require a small Sub-Committee to be formed, with the headquarters' permission, so as to gather together and discuss the various items of interest in the Club. It is intended to hold a general rally of members once during the season at headquarters and as many times as possible at the various shows where patronage is granted. The members feel also that fresh ground should be covered to prove to the secretaries of the various Midland shows which have no novice section in their schedules, the loss they sustain. We have only to point to Hanley, Stoke, Wolverhampton and Birmingham to prove this. Intending members should send names in at once to the General Secretary, the fee being only 2s. 6d. per year.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

Annual general meeting held at 60, Paddington Street, W., Jan. 13, Mr. Shepherd in the chair. Mr. Dickinson announced that Mr. Shepherd had presented to the association a handsome new minute book, and the donor was accorded a hearty vote of thanks for his kindness. A touching letter was read by Mr. Wynn from Mr. Warwick, referring to the sad loss of his wife. A vote of condolence was put to the meeting from the chair, and the whole of the members offer him their deepest sympathy. An unusual amount of correspondence was read, including letters from the hon. sec. of the London Federation offering prizes for the disposal of tickets for the Federation show of the 17th and 18th inst.; from the British Roller Club, thanking the association for the arrangements made for them in their forthcoming international show to be held at 60, Paddington Street, on February 7 and 8; from Mr. John Frostick with a handsome donation of one guinea for special prizes in the British section at our pair show on the 25th inst.; also letters from Messrs. Harris, Lazarus, Copeland, Botting, Thurley, McMillian, Rumbel, Wright, Ponsford, Bamber, Stewart Grahame, and Messrs. Carter and Co. Resolved to take up the usual advertisement in "Cage Birds Annual." An unanimous vote of thanks was accorded to the whole of the officers for their services in the past year. Mr. Shepherd and Mr. Dickinson suitably replied on behalf of the officers. The result of the voting for officers for the year 1913 was announced as follows:—President, the Dean of Carlisle; vice-presidents, the Rev. Dr. W. D. Morrison, the Rev. Rosslyn Bruce, M.A., B.D., and Jacob Mackley, Esq.; hon. solicitor, S. Gluckstein, Esq.; hon. auctioneer, A. Tredinnick, Esq.; chairman, W. Shepherd, Esq.; vice-chairman, F. Knight; sec. and treas., Mr. V. Wynn; assist. sec., Mr. F. Thynne; auditors, Messrs. C. Prior and A. W. Curtis; scrutineers, Messrs. E. C. Offord and W. A. Shepherd; staging stewards, Messrs. W. G. Saunders and H. R. Lowe; Council, Messrs. Pooley, Saunders, Offord, Weston, Burton, Curtis, A. W. Hart, Davis, Dickinson, Martin, Sayer, and Prance. The result of the Border judging competition was announced as follows:—Messrs. Offord and Clark tied for first place and F. Knight followed up. Medals were presented to the above by the chairman. The following alterations to rules were carried:—Show Rule No. 11 to be deleted; Show Rule No. 9, delete the word "gift" in the last paragraph, and in Rule No. 13 delete the bracketed paragraph. Show dates for the year 1913 were fixed corresponding to those of last year. The following gentlemen were elected by the members to be voted for judges at the annual and pair show:—Messrs. Robson and Crisp, Canaries; Messrs. Frostick and Alban Silver, British and foreign. Mr. S. J. Wright was elected a member of the association and Mr. T. E. Ponsford was nominated for election. Members, please note: the pair show takes place on Saturday, the 25th inst. Entries close on Jan. 20. I have much pleasure in stating that our much respected Mr. Wynn is once more taking full control of the show, and as an encouragement for future continuation, it becomes the duty of all members to ensure the show being a success by being very liberal with entries and doing their utmost to make the show successful, as it is well known that visitors and friends are always welcome at the City, etc. The annual general meeting was adjourned to next meeting night. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed a most pleasant evening.—F. Knight.

KENT COUNTY C.B.A.

Meeting held at Barton Road Boys' School, Jan. 8., Mr. Raynor, chair; Mr. Reeves, vice-chair, and several committeemen. Correspondence read, general business gone through, balance-sheet prepared for auditors, secretary will send one to all members with voting list as soon as possible.—H. Wood, Hon. Sec.

HEBDEN BRIDGE AND CALDER VALLEY O.S.

Annual general meeting held at headquarters, the White Horse Hotel, January 9, Mr. Wm. Spencer in the chair. The balance-sheet was presented, and showed the affairs of the society to be in a flourishing condition. Specials given for the series of shows held during 1912 were won by the following members: Most points, champion, 1st J. W. Ingham, 2nd A. Barnes, 3rd A. Pickles; most entries, Messrs. Spencer and Maiden; Mr. Jefferys' rose-bowl, A. Barnes; most points novice, 1st J. Bevan, 2nd L. A. Broadbent. Officers for 1913: Chairman, Mr. W. Spencer; vice, Mr. S. H. Jefferys; treas., Mr. A. Barnes; auditors, Messrs. J. Maiden and L. A. Broadbent; hon. sec., A. Pickles.

LONDON C.B.A.

Meeting held at The Feathers, Great Chapel Street, Westminster, Jan. 8. Mr. J. Dewhurst in the chair. A lengthy discussion took place as to holding an annual dinner; this will be finally decided at a special meeting, notice of same having been sent to all members. Mr. Wallington was elected a delegate to represent the L.C.B.A. at the London Federation. An anonymous gentleman who is greatly interested in the keeping of Budgerigars, and was disappointed at the poor entries at the last annual show, to encourage this variety, kindly offered through Mr. J. Dewhurst, to guarantee a class at the next annual show, viz., 20s. 1st, 12s. 2nd, 7s. 6d. 3rd, 4s. 6d. 4th, which was greatly appreciated by the whole of the members present. It was decided to hold a pair show. Mr. John Robson being elected to judge, the date of the show being left to the secretary owing to the difficulty of finding a suitable place to hold same. The attendance of every member is desired at the Federation show, which takes place on the 17th and 18th inst., at the Church Institute, Paddington Street, to ensure the show being a complete success, and as a slight appreciation of the honorary work of the secretary, Mr. J. Wright Dewhurst. Members please note the next meeting will be the annual general meeting, due notice will be sent to all and notified in the Press. To enable the meetings for the year to be a success the secretary will be glad to receive any suggestions, papers, or offers to lecture or demonstrate on any subject of interest to the Fancy.—W. H. Mugford and F. Knight.

PRESTON O.S.

The fourth annual dinner and concert was held in the Tokio Cafe, January 9, and was in every way a great success. About 30 members sat down to a most enjoyable dinner, to which ample justice was done. After dinner the members were entertained to a very successful concert provided by some of the old favourites, assisted by others. During the interval Mr. Dent, chairman, presented to the late sec. and treas., Mr. J. P. Leeming (on behalf of the society), a handsome silver Rose Bowl, as an appreciation of his work for the society during his seven years of office as treas., and the last two as sec. and treas. Mr. Dent spoke very highly of his work, and alluded to the good position financially in which the society now was. Mr. Leeming thanked the members for their kindness and appreciation, and reminded them that without their help and support the good results would not have been attained. Mr. T. Leeming received from the members a silver matchbox as an appreciation of his work as assistant sec. After Mr. T. had suitably replied, Mr. Dent presented the cups and medals as follows:—Mr. T. Barton, three cups and medals; Mr. J. Pyke, cup and medal; Mr. D. Metcalf, cup (best bird in the gift class); Mr. J. Nickson, gold medal best young bird at the first feather show; and medals for points to Messrs. H. F. Marsh and J. Knowles. The concert programme was then completed. This social, beginning in a very small way, has improved every year, and this one was voted to be the best ever held. This year the greater part of the expense of both supper and concert was provided for out of the society's funds. The arrangements reflected great credit on the gentlemen who had the work in hand, viz., Messrs. T. H. Dent, H. F. Marsh, T. Barton, the new sec. Votes of thanks to the artistes, committee, and chairman, and the hearty singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King," concluded at a very late hour a most enjoyable evening.

Despite the amount of space devoted to club reports this week, pressure on our columns has compelled us to hold over accounts of several meetings until our next issue.—Editor.

CHORLEY C.B.C.

General meeting, held at the Albion Hotel, Jan. 8th. There was a good number present, from which a committee was formed. A great Chorley bird fancier was elected to take the chair. We intend holding a members' show on Feb. 8th, and hope to have a good one. The name of the society is the Chorley and District Albion Cage Bird Society. H. A. M. Gregg, Sec., 22, Grime Street, Chorley.

MIDDLESEX O.S.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 9. Special prizes, rose bowl, and medals, etc., were presented to the respective winners. Balance sheet, showing 1/8 in hand was adopted as read, and the following officers were elected for 1913: Pres., Rev. F. Roberts; vice-pres., Messrs. R. Bamber, C. A. House, P. J. Jamieson, John Robson, T. L. Salter, and Dr. J. D. Windle; chairman, Mr. J. R. Higgins; committee, Messrs. H. Burrows, R. Cambers, A. Crockett, C. Huxley, W. H. Phipps, J. Shepherd (late of Newcastle), J. Smith, W. Taylor, and F. Wright; assist. sec., T. H. Fletcher; sec. and treas., Jeffery Jefferis, "Beck Lodge," Hayes, Middlesex. The membership is steadily increasing, and any fancier residing in Middlesex is invited to join, and please note there are three cups to be won outright this year, 1913. Entrance fee is 1/-, and subscription 4d. monthly. New rule cards shortly, and any fancier who would like one has only to communicate with Jeffery Jefferis, Sec. and Treas., Beck Lodge, High Road, Hayes.

ORMSKIRK C.B.S.

Sixth annual meeting, held in the Church House, Jan. 6., Mr. Johnson, jun., presiding over a good company. The following officials were re-elected:—Chairman, Mr. Johnson, jun.; vice, Mr. G. J. Johnson; auditors, Messrs. E. A. Walker and T. Mawdsley; hon. treas., Mr. J. W. Johnson; hon. sec., Mr. T. H. Tiffen; all the present members forming the committee. Over £2 10s. was reported to the credit of the society. Presentation of prizes made an interesting function, the chairman, in handing the cup and medals to Mr. Walker, commented on the good feeling that each member had shown in the competition, Mr. Walker suitably replying. Several young fanciers have intimated their intention to become members, and to instruct them in the art of staging birds in faultless condition, a washing demonstration is being arranged for the February meeting, and lectures for subsequent meetings. A gold medal, to be awarded to the runner-up for cup, and three silver medals have already been promised for the next annual show, a successful breeding season being all that the members require to make it a record one.—T. H. Tiffen.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

One of the most successful and enthusiastic meetings ever held under the auspices of the above society was held at headquarters, Rose and Crown Hotel, Jan. 7, Mr. T. Dawn, the chairman, presiding. The members commenced the New Year well by rolling up in full force. The business of the evening was of very great importance, and was as follows:—Adoption of balance sheet for 1912; auditors' report; syllabus for 1913; and other important business. The balance sheet, when read, gave the greatest satisfaction, and well it might when a balance of £47 13s. stands to the society's good, and this after only two years' working. This, of course, has only been obtained through the keen business way in which the officials tackled their various duties. The auditors' report was one of the best, they pointing out the businesslike manner in which the society's affairs had been conducted. The next business of importance was the syllabus for 1913. This should prove more successful even than last year, and is constituted as follows:—Table shows of old and young Canaries, British, Foreign, washing exhibition, lectures on Norwich, Yorkshires, etc., lantern lectures, etc., etc. A copy of syllabus will be forwarded as soon as printed for publication. Several more specials were promised for members' show to be held Jan. 18, when we are anticipating a record entry. From information received, the foreign section will be a show in itself. It was decided to hold our annual dinner in February. Further notice of same will be announced in Fancy Press. Don't forget next meeting—table show of matched pairs of Canaries, champion; Class 2, novice; no entry fee. Judge, Mr. Spencer. Prize money 5s., 2s. 6d., and 1s. 6d. fixed. Six new members were elected.—John A. T. Woodall, Press Correspondent. (We have received the balance sheet, showing full details of expenditure and receipts, and the society is to be congratulated upon the eminently satisfactory condition of its finances.—Ed.)

READING AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Annual meeting, held Jan. 8th, at Palmer Hall, before a very good attendance. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, The Right Hon. G. V. Palmer; vice-pres., L. G. Sutton, J.P., Howard Palmer, J.P., S. Pike, Esq., G. H. Acton, Esq., F. Couslade, Esq., C. E. Keyser, M.A., J.P., Alfred Palmer, J.P., A. W. Sutton, J.P., H. D. Astley, F.Z.S., M.B.O.U.; treas., G. H. Acton, Esq.; auditors, J. P. Lawrence and E. J. Smith; chairman, J. Brooker; committee, Messrs. Yates, Dearlove, Maisey, Vince, Munday, Smith, Lawrence, Hayward, Avis, C. Cox, Albury, Tremlett. sec., W. H. Pyke, 102, Radstock Road. Two new members were elected, Messrs. G. Biles and Medcalf. Hon. Sec. brought forward balance-sheet for the year, showing a balance at bank of over £14. This was, of course, considered very satisfactory. Arrangements for pair show on Feb. 5th were then settled. There will be 10 classes, comprising champions, amateurs, and novices, and a lecture on birds, after judging, by Mr. Geo. Gardner. Young bird show will be held on July 16th, with Mr. Gardner again as judge. Entries for pair show were very poor last year, so to encourage more entries this time six members are giving 2s. 6d. in each section for most points, and we hope members will do their best to give the judge something to lecture on. Postcards are being printed with full details, and will be posted shortly. Any fancier wishing to be present please send me a card, and I will reserve a seat for them. A protest had been entered against a bird shown at recent show on the ground that it was not bred by the exhibitor, but after a discussion it was decided that a misunderstanding had arisen, and the member's assertion that he had bred the bird, and could prove it, was accepted. The Hon. Sec. has had to get a new hat three sizes larger since this meeting owing to the many complimentary remarks passed on him by the members, but he is very pleased to find so many members working so well together for the good of the society, which has been such a great encouragement for him.—W. H. Pyke, Hon. Sec.

The report and balance-sheet is to hand, and we have pleasure in congratulating the society upon the very satisfactory state of affairs therein disclosed.—Ed.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Meeting held Dec. 30. As usual, there was a good attendance, which is very gratifying to the officials. The members heard with deep regret of the serious illness of our esteemed chairman, Mr. H. George, who instead of being present at the members' show on Boxing Day as he expected to be, was undergoing an operation for appendicitis, all were pleased to hear that this has been successful, and that his health is now improving. The Secretary was requested to convey the members' sympathy to Mr. George, and a wish for his speedy recovery. After clearing up the accounts of the members' show, the Secretary announced that Mr. J. Bagshaw had kindly promised to give a washing exhibition at the meeting held Feb. 3. It was also decided to have an essay competition, competitors to choose any subject they like, that is connected with the cage bird fancy, and the writer of the best paper to have free membership for the coming year. If every member will make up his mind to participate in the scheme, and not leave it for others, it will prove very interesting and instructive. Papers are to be handed in at the February meeting. Now members, let us see what you can do. I hear of several fanciers who are intending to join the society for the coming season, those desirous of doing so, should send in their names at once, and take advantage of the benefits of membership of the Jan. 20, at Red Lion Hotel, Stoke, to elect officers for 1913, receive balance-sheet, statement of accounts, and other important business.—J. Pitchford, Sec.

ASHTON-UNDER-LYNE O.S.

Ninth annual show held in the P.S.A. Rooms, Albion Street, Dec. 23. There was a goodly number of entrants, a noticeable feature being the healthy appearance and vivid colouring of the birds exhibited. The society has among its patrons Sir Wm. Max Aitken, M.P., and Mr. J. Wood, M.P. Sandiford's medal was won by Mr. W. Green, and Mr. H. Foden's spl for best unflig. Yorks, Mr. G. Ackland. Mr. A. Wellings judged to the general satisfaction.

CAMPBELTOWN O.S.

36th annual show, held in the Argyle Drill Hall, Campbeltown, Jan. 1 and 2. 20 classes were provided for cage birds; entries in this section totalled over 100. We were sorry to see in Scotch Fancies no entries, as this used to be a hot-bed for the bird of circle, also all Norwich Plainhead classes have been mixed among common Canaries. Crests and C.B. were a good level lot all over; Border Fancy the same, the leaders in this section could hold their own in any competition in Yorks.; some very creditable birds were shown; some of the birds in this section had to stand down owing to not being staged to the best of advantage. Mules and British contained some nice exhibits; the judge must have had some difficulty in coming to his decisions, especially in Linnet class, the best in this class getting special for best cage bird, a bird of real merit, not one of the biggest, but all there for type, steadiness, and grand breast work, just failed a trifle in colour, 2nd running him very close, only losing in type and sweetness to leader. It was amusing to see the judge taking this bird out for best bird in hall against the Scotch Grey cock, a Palace winner, and a Flying Homer. Mr. Campbell made a good fight for his Lintie, but had to give in to the Scotch Grey, a beauty in faultless condition. The society is fortunate in having such an excellent list of patrons. More excellent arrangement could not be made at any show, everything went like clockwork. Special mention should be made of Mr. Ollar, the hard-working president, for his untiring efforts to make everybody feel at home, and to make the show a success; also the vice-presidents, Messrs. McInnes, McSporran, McArthur, treasurer (Mr. Weir), and secretary (Mr. Duncan). Although it is only three weeks since Mr. Duncan took the reins he acted like a tried veteran all through, and was well supported by a hard-working committee, Messrs. Downie, J., D., and J. McLean, Graham, McPhee, McNair, McPherson, N. J. Ollar. The judge was Mr. C. Campbell, Glasgow, and we heard few comments on his awards.

ROUND THE SHOWS.

CITY OF BRADFORD C.B.S.

Thirty-second grand annual exhibition of Canaries held in the Leverham Street Council Schools, January 11th. President, Sir Geo. S. Robertson, K.C.S.I., M.P.; Chairman, T. Fortnam; Treas., Fred Ludbrook. The hardworking committee were the following well-known fanciers: Messrs. J. R. Taylor, W. Helliwell, G. Hunter, P. Jenkinson, E. Litson, W. Morement, J. Roe, J. Wythell, and the Hon. Sec. and Assist. Sec., Mr. F. Rhodes and Mr. J. Horsfield. Some rare birds were benched in the Yorks. section. Mr. C. Clegg's buff hen is a real beauty. Messrs. Bailey, Ogden Bros., H. H. Towers, L. Dykes, F. Crabtree, Joe Thomas put down grand teams of birds in the champion classes. In the amateur classes for Yorkshires Messrs. Hall and Whitwham were the successful exhibitors. Some grand birds were benched in the Yorkshire Union Novice classes; Messrs. Padgett, Naylor, Wood, Gledhill, Beaumont came out on the top. The attendance, owing to the bad state of the weather, was on the small side, a snow storm raging all the day, which made it very unpleasant for foot passengers. Mr. W. Mundell, Bradford, placed the cards.

WOOD GREEN F. & F.A.

Annual members' show, held in the Assembly Rooms on Jan 4, and was a decided success. The hon. secretary, Mr. G. Harris, is a splendid organiser, and he has the assistance in the secretarial duties of Mr. T. Callegan, who is also well up in the routine of the duties. In addition, Mr. Wilson was here, there and everywhere, rendering efficient aid. A more suitable hall could not have been selected; it has the advantage of a grand light, and is spacious and lofty. The quality was excellent, and the competition very keen. Cup for best bird was won by Mr. Pettit, with a really good saddle-marked Dark Crest. The same exhibitor also annexed special for 2nd best with a grand-headed variegated Crestbred, and Mr. Jones 3rd special with an evenly marked dark Crest, a very creditable performance for amateurs. Mr. Tickner won 4th special with a very smart buff Norwich, and the special for best in novice section was deservedly taken by Mr. Tolfree, with a typical Yorks. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

CHAMP. NOR.: 1, sp., 2, 3, 4, Tichner, rattling team of typical birds, clear buff, beautifully fed, and rare silky feather leading, closely followed by a bonny shaped variegated buff hen. AMAT., BORD.: 1, 2, 3, 4, Warner, good team of these natty little birds, sweet headed, jaunty yellow green leading. YORKS.: 1, Jones, buff, flat in colour, but good pose. CREST: 1, cup, 3, 4, Pettit, already referred to: 2, Jones, smart Crest, also alluded to above. C.B.: 1, sp., 2, 3, Pettit, really fine team, all high-class; 4, vhc, Jones, also good. A.O.V.: 1, 2, Jones, neat and typical Borders. NOVICE YORKS., CL. OR TKD. CK.: 1, sp., 4, Tolfree, both typical birds, well shown; 2, vhc, Nuttall, former stylish and full of nerve; 3, Cobden, great length, but a trifle coarse; hc, Sonster. A.O.V. CK.: 1, Tolfree, Smart and quick in position: 2, 3, Cobden, grand length; 4, Sonster, neat, but small. HENS: 1, Tolfree, typical yell., of nice length; 2, Tolfree, buff, neat; 3, Cobden, stylish. NOR.: 1, 2, 3, 4, Griffin, all full of quality, especially the winners, one or two fail trifle in head. GOLD OR BULLFINCH: 1, Cobden, nice face, good bars and buttons, steady; 2, Pettit, best flush, very smart, would have won but had rubbed feathers off over beak, evidently in the wires: 3, Griffin, neat Bully. GREENIE OR LINNET: 1, 2, Griffin, good Linnet and Greenie; 3, 4, Pettit. A.O.V. BRIT. OR MULES: 1, Pettit, nice Redpoll-Canary; 2, Deuchfield, good Thrush.

GUILDFORD F.A.

Annual show held in the Drill Hall, January 14th. The entry was not large, but a few birds were staged in all sections of more than average merit. Norwich contained some good ones, particularly the leading birds in the yell. (Mr. A. E. Silk, Emsworth) and buff classes, the latter was capitally staged by Mr. J. Kilby, of Caterham. The bird looked bonny, much better than when we last saw him, and should score many wins for his new owner. Yorkshires were good, and the Hybrid, fit for any show in the kingdom, while a few good British made a nice little collection. Our section was located on the stage near the entrance, and we would ask the cage bird representatives on the committee to do their best to have our pets staged in a more cosy corner (say, the opposite end of the hall). Mr. G. Russell-Cox acts as Secretary, the cage birds being looked after by Messrs. L. Stevens, C. Pope, F. Killick and J. Reed. Mr. J. Robson judged.

The Critique.

BUFF NOR. (6): 1, vhc, Silk, fine bold bird, grand type and sub., stands well on perch, bold head and front, sound col. and qual., bonny and typical; 2, Kilby, well-known green, grand bird for col. and subs., rare stock bird; 3, Lees, neck mkd., rare size, good head and front, well braced wings, neat tail, nice qual.; hc, Edwards. BUFF (5): 1, 3, Kilby, bonny bold bird, nicely rounded neat head, good full neck, in capital condition, a good win, 3 good qual., capital type and subs., beaten head by winner; 2, Silk, bold, grand subs., stands and moves well, broad skull, but inclined to brow, nice qual.; vhc, Miss Edwards; hc, Springett. YORKS. (10): 1, Yates, smart and shapely, capital length and style, neat head, closely braced wings, grand qual. in the pink; 2, 3, Hawes Bros., smart racy one, showing a bit more leg, grand shoulders and back, lovely qual. and a bit more polish than winner, better filled at throat, 3 beauty for style and qual., neat head, grand wings and clean cut, wee bit open in front, still good; vhc, hc, Rosser; c, Boyes. HEDNESFORD F.A.

Annual show held Jan. 1st, this year allotting classes for cage birds, these being controlled by the C.B. section. It was a regrettable fact that the event was not advertised. Many good fanciers in the surrounding neighbourhood had not even heard of the show, and the open events had to be unfortunately cancelled, although of a liberal nature for a first attempt. The Market Hall makes a splendid room, with plenty of light, whilst the show secretary, Mr. C. Dawson, was most courteous. Mr. J. A. Tonks judged, and gave every satisfaction.

NORTH SHIELDS C.B.C.

Second annual show, held in Griggs' Cafe, Dec. 26. Entries were well up to last year, 194 birds being on exhibition. Competition in many of the classes was very keen. The management of the show was carried out by the chairman, Mr. W. Hunter, ably assisted by the following: Messrs. Couchman, Armstrong, Wilson, Buglass, McVay and Thompson, and others. Mr. R. P. Fox, secretary, had everything in clockwork order, his unceasing efforts being the cause of the great success that the show attained. Mr. J. Johnson, Wallsend, ably acted as judge, his awards satisfying even the keenest critics. In open classes Mr. W. Hunter took 1st, 3rd, sp. for Linnets, Mr. McVay being a good second. Mr. J. Jobling, 1st and sp. in Larks. Mr. R. McVay being again second, and Mr. H. Potts 3rd. Special interest was taken in the open Lark class. Twelve very fine specimens were on view.

RUGBY AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Fourth annual Christmas Show, held Dec. 27, at the Old Court Room, Town Hall, Rugby, and was what some would call a "mixed success," inasmuch as the entries were the highest on record, and the Canaries a bit above the average, but the weather played its usual dirty trick of being as dirty as possible. It is rather unfortunate that a young society, trying hard to get on, should have a drenching wet day, as has happened for both shows this season. However, the birds were entered and most all of them came through all right. The show was arranged by the Hon. Sec. and several improvements were made on last year. A number of specials were kindly given by local tradesmen, and were much appreciated by the committee, and the fortunate winners. Three gate prizes were given; the first being a pair of Canaries, second a Canary and cage, and third a Canary. Another noticeable item was the advertisement of Cage Birds League, on the catalogue cover (and schedule) inserted by the local hon. sec. Mr. E. H. Hulse, of Leicester, judged the Canaries, and gave much satisfaction. He is up to his work and very eager to help societies along by assisting them in the judging. He would be well advised to bring his name more prominently in front of societies next season. He had several classes with little to choose between the first three, and the exhibitors were well satisfied. Mr. T. Hough, Rugby, judged Foreign and British, and got through his work well, and improved his good name amongst the members. Supt. Clarke (of the Rugby Police) staged a fine unflighted buff, which got the special for best bird in show, and several other good birds. Mr. F. Ager put down a finely marked Goldfinch in his team of British birds. It is pleasing to note the names of several new members in the "money," and it is to be hoped that they may go on as they have begun. The thanks of the society are due to the hon. sec. (Mr. J. W. Veasey) for the work he put in. He was hardly recovered from a severe illness when he started his arrangements, and one cannot help but wonder how he got through.

KEITH.

Annual show held in the Longmore Hall, Jan. 8. The Canaries were comfortably staged in a room by themselves, which is by far the best system, at a mixed show. Entries showed a slight increase, and quality was all that could be desired. Mr. R. B. Kennedy makes an ideal sec. and treas., and deserves every credit for the able manner in which the show was conducted. He is ably backed up by the show manager, Mr. Charles Ralley, who was at everyone's beck and call. British were a very creditable lot, Mules and Bullies being the two strongest classes, Bullies being very hard to separate. The society rose bowl for best Canary in show was won by Mr. A. Macdonald's "Beauty," a nice nat. col. yell. cock, of great size and subs. and lovely qual. There was a grand turn-out of visitors, and we hope the venture will prove a financial success. Mr. John Lyon, Aberdeen, judged, and his awards gave entire satisfaction to all.

LOCHGELLY C.B.S.

Club show held Dec. 28. Unfortunately some of the leading fanciers could not see their way to patronise same, owing, no doubt, to their intending to exhibit at the Scottish National. At the same time some of us are inclined to think that the manner in which the specials were placed was not approved of by the majority. Mr. J. J. Dewar judged, and in all cases gave excellent awards. General satisfaction throughout seemed to be the order. Border gold medal was won by A. Muir; Crest silver medal, J. McGregor; matched pairs, A. Muir; special for best Norwich P.H., D. Dursire; best British, W. Whiteford. The show was well attended throughout the day.—R. Muir, Sec.

CARSHALTON.

The Carshalton and District F.A. held another successful show in the Parish Room, Jan. 9. Cage birds were staged in the warmest part of the building, and made quite a brave show. Quality all through was above the average, especially in Norwich classes. The competition for the challenge cup and other specials was exceptionally keen, Mr. Saunders, Sutton, winning the cup with a very typical clear yell. Norwich cock, a well proportioned bird of good quality and colour, the runner-up being a yell. Yorks. shown by Mr. Soper. These two exhibitors also won the specials for best Norwich and Yorks. The Yorks. hen spl., went to Mr. Truelove, for a good buff marked bird. Mr. Sidney Hudson once more carried out the duties of show manager, with his usual ability. His special hobby is pigeons, but he is such a thorough fancier that all sections receive equal attention. The show was well attended by visitors. Mr. H. Norman judged.

WIBSEY C.B.S.

Last of a series of members' shows, held Dec. 28, at the Horse and Groom Inn. Owing to the bad weather only 68 birds were staged in 15 classes. Mr. R. Garnett judged, and his awards were well received. Winners in the various sections are as follows:—Cl. and Tkd., A. Holden, 1; W. Mann, 2; Bairstow and Chapman, 3. Gr. Mkd.: D. Sutcliffe, 1; L. Hudson, 2; C. Bastow, 3. Cinn. Mkd., W. Mann, 1; W. Hillas, 2; W. Jowett, 3. Cup, W. Mann. Best bird and best vhc bird, A. Holden and L. Hudson.

BANKFOOT C.B.S.

Final show in connection with this season's competition was held December 28. The leading positions have been keenly contested throughout the year, and only by placing a quantity of quality birds down for competition have the respective leaders been able to hold their own against their less fortunate club-mates. Several "best bird specials" have been given during the year, and without exception no member has been able to secure more than one of these coveted prizes. From this it will be seen that the shows have been no "one man show." For the final show the largest entry of the year was recorded (62). Mr. F. Self, Clayton, judged in his usual painstaking style, and his awards proved to be entirely satisfactory. The winner of most points, along with the society's rose bowl was Mr. C. Hardaker, who counted 99 points, Mr. G. Hudson being in hot pursuit with 97. Hard on the latter's heels came Mr. S. Smith with 95 (after an unfortunate start). Mr. J. Lawson wins 4th prize, Mr. J. Mitchell 5th and Mr. J. Crowther 6th. A very valuable special allotted to the selling class section has up to the last show gone a-begging. This was eventually won on the post by Mr. F. Gelder (23 points); second prize in this section, Mr. W. Ormondroyd. Winner of special for best cock at last Saturday's show, W. Ormondroyd; best hen, S. Smith.

ROCHDALE (Amalgamated).

Held Dec. 14 in Parish Church School, open to members of the following societies:—Rochdale Good Intent, Smallbridge, Littleborough, Heywood, Bury, Middleton, and Oldham. Mr. R. Barrass, of Rochdale, judged, and we heard no dissatisfaction; 163 birds were staged, and everything points to the show being an annual event and a movable fixture, the previous show having been held at Bury. The show was well up in quality, some really good birds being staged. Mr. P. H. Barlow, of Heywood, had quite a field day in specials, being responsible for most entries in show, also winning spl for best bird, best Nor., most points in show, and most points in Yorks. Other spl winners were:—J. Newell, Lancs., Yorks, Hampshire Lizards; C. Wilson, Nor.; J. Meadowcroft, Nov.; J. Gorton, Crests; J. Hulton, Brit.; J. Addison, A.O.V.

TUNBRIDGE WELLS.

Annual show held in the Grand Hall, January 8 and 9. The hall is a very fine building, with good top light and plenty of artificial lighting during the evening. Entries this year were unfortunately below that of other years. Quality, however, was good, particularly in the Yorkshires, which contained some birds of exceptional merit. Messrs. Hawes Bros. sent in a good team, and Mr. O. T. Crawhall a few, all the way from Newcastle, his winner in the buff class being much admired. Norwich as a whole were below the Yorks. in merit, although a few really good ones were among them. A few high-class hybrids and good British made up a nice collection. Mr. Wibley makes a first class secretary, having his work well in hand, and is ably assisted by Mr. Allen. The birds were comfortably staged and well looked after by the stewards, among them being Messrs. Wraight, Bellamy, Knapp, Richards, Hayward, and T. Allen. Mr. Robson judged.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. CK. (5): 1, C. E. Silk, smart yell., nicely rounded, good neck and back, and very hot col.; 2, Miss Norbury, bigger, bolder bird, rare substance, paler in col., almost non-fed, grand back, would have looked better in a proper cage; 3, Allen, rare subs., good chest and back, neat head, wash would improve him; 4, Foster, smart bird, capital size and type, grand wings, full head and neck, nice col. BUFF (5): 1, Richards, massive grand full head and neck, capital wings and tail, A1 qual., rare chest and back; 2, Ellis, fine bold one, shade long in barrel, but plenty of subs., good head, capital qual. of feather; 3, Frost and Rogers, head ticked buff, rather better type, shorter and fuller, lovely qual. of feather, beaten only in col.; 4, Foster, neat, capital full head and neck, grand qual. UNFLIG. (6): 1, vhc, Ellis, neat, nice head, back, and good wings, neat tail, hot col., fine feather; 2, Lees, lovely thick-set bird, grand head and neck, nice full front, good back, nicely braced wings, neat tail, A1 condition; 4, r. Wickham, typical, beautifully proportioned, good cap-marked head, nicely rounded all through, A1 qual.; 3, Bellamy, big, bold cl., nice full head and neck, good wedge shape, capital quality. HEN (6): 1, C. E. Silk, a real beauty, lovely type, beautiful head, nice full front, grand wings and tail, A1 qual. and col.; 2, Ellis, another typical varieg. bird, grand full body, short and thick set, hardly so full in head as winner, still a good one; 3, Lees, Sinclair, quite as good on points, not the subs. of winners, lovely quality; 4, Wickham, grand, nearly green, wonderful type and subs., we thought close on winner; r, Kerr; vhc, Kerr. NON-FED (4): 1, Ellis, good cl., neat and typical, capital head and wings, lovely qual. feather; 2, Frost and Rogers, similar, tkd. on thigh, bit fuller in head; 3, Noakes, nearly green, well rounded, good wings; 4, Price. YORKS. YELL. CK. (13): 1, hc, Hawes Bros., 1st beauty for length and type, grand position, well up on legs, fine shoulders, not the tightest of wings, but grand qual.; 2, r, Auton Bros., another beauty, rare length, grand head and neck, beautifully rounded, capital wings, A1 qual., we liked; 3, Crawhall, smart, upstanding bird, good head, capital wings trifle soiled, with a wash might have been higher; 4, Chandler, smaller, but lovely type, and as tight as wax; vhc, Venness; hc, c, Wraight. BUFF (11): 1, Crawhall, magnificent, exhibit, grand position, well up on legs, tightly braced wings, in the pink, a topper; 2, 3, R. Hawes Bros., grand length, hardly so smooth in front as winners, nor so nice in head, but lovely qual., 3rd nice slim type, beautifully rounded, grand length, well braced wings, A1 qual., rare legs, res. a beauty, we liked immensely, grand qual.; 4, Ballard, smart bird, hardly so long as some, but good head and shoulders; vhc, Venness; hc, Fulford; c, Wraight. UNFLIG. (10): 1, 2, Hawes Bros., smart, neat yell., well up on leg, lovely head, good shoulders and back, grand qual., 2nd another grand yell., shade larger, perfect position, grand head, in the pink; 3, Frost and Rogers, eye tkd., grand length, nice clean run, lovely head and back, perfect wings; 4, Fulford, smart, well up on leg, beautifully rounded, must have pressed; r, Lord; vhc, Auton Bros.; hc, Wraight; c, Vidgen. HEN (9): 1, Foxen, real beauty for type and quality, beautifully modelled, perfect head, good shoulders, well braced wings, in the pink of condition; 2, Bousfield, cinn. mkd., wonderful size, nice qual. feather; 3, hc, Hawes Bros., lovely wing mkd., grand type and style, nicely rounded, fine qual.; 4, Crawhall, beautiful buff, perfect type, tight as wax, A1 wings, a real topper; r, Wraight; vhc, Wraight; c, Auton Bros. NON-FED (7): 1, 4, Cross, smart, upstanding bird, nice type and size, lovely qual., 4th a bit wild, wonderful length, would make a good one if handled; 2, 3, Bousfield, good one, shade fuller in build, but grand qual. feather, 3rd smart cinnamon mkd., grand length, good wings, shade wild or might have gone up; res, Wraight; vhc, Venness; hc, Lord. CREST (4): 1, 4, Foster, shade small in build, but carries neat well formed crest, good front and well filled back, nice droop all round, capital subs., 4th neat one, lovely qual. of feather; 2, 3, Hayward, green, grand size, rare thick mop, wee bit untidy, but plenty of it, 3rd grand body, neat crest, of good shape, capital droop all round, good centre. C.B. (4): 1, 2, Hayward, big, massive bird, grand subs., rare width of skull, nicely domed and thatched, well lashed, 2nd another beauty, grand subs., shade better rise than winner, looks well packed and beautifully lashed; 3, Newman, big one, well lashed, hardly so nicely domed as winners, plenty of feather. BORD. (11): 1, 3, Burton, wing and cheek mkd. yell., sweet type, neat, well rounded head, inclined to be a bit flat on back, still a good one, in lovely order, 3rd lovely clear, grand type, nice free mover, good col., just beaten for polish; 2, res, Rev. Soames, smart, neat, typical green, nice size, and good wing, grand depth of col., good qual.; 4, Frost and Rogers, sweet buff, good size and type, neat head, would improve with a wash; vhc, hc, c, Aitken. HYB., LIGHT (6): 1, 2, Lamb, lovely eye and tail mkd., nice size, very shapely, good touch of blaze, grand qual., well put down, 2nd wing mkd., beauty, close up only, beaten in col., smart charming exhibit, lovely qual.; 3, Lees, mkd., nice type, rather pale in col., good size; 4, Hurst, very smart, heavily mkd., capital size and lovely shape, good sound col., A1 qual.; r, Winter. DARK: 1, 3, Howick, big bold Canary-Bullie, good shape, grand depth of col., very sound, dense cap and wings, 3rd another Canary-Bullie, beaten size; 2, Lamb, lovely Goldie, capital size, very typical, A1 blaze, nicely mkd. wings, well polished; 4, Bousfield, fine bold buff Goldie, grand size, lovely blaze and wings, A1 qual., a topper. A.O.V. (4): 1, 2, 3, Lamb, well-known Goldie-Bullie, Goldie-Redpoll and Siskin-Greenie, all in very fine condition. GOLD. (9): 1, Harris, grand bold bird, fine size and type, rare frill, nicely cut blaze, well up in col., rich tanning; 2, r, Jupe, another beauty, hardly the finish of winner, otherwise quite equal on points, good wings; 3, Marriott, smart bird, lovely clean cut blaze, and both of tannings, fine wings, nice qual.; 4, Plummer, grand size, well formed blaze, hardly so rich in col. as winners, capital wings; vhc, Gregory; hc, Ellis; c, Bignall. BULLF. (8): 1, Wickham, beauty for type, rare full head, and neck, grand front, neat, well formed cap, A1 wings bars, sound rich col.; 2, Miss Bousfield, hardly so cobby and massive, grand cap, good silvery back, nice wings, rich breast col.; 3, Bignall, smart bird, in rather dark cage, good type and nice rich col.; 4, Jupe, lovely bird, but bit wild, grand cap, will make a good one; r, Wells; vhc, Harris; hc, Aitken; c, Walker. LINNET, ETC. JUVENILE: 1, Miss Dawes; 2, Miss Pearson; 3, Master Morse.

FALMOUTH C.B.A.

Annual show held in the Town Hall, Jan. 8—a grand place for a cage bird show, plenty of room and good light, and the staging was excellent. The show was favoured with ideal Cornish Riviera weather, plenty of sunshine. Norwich and Yorks. sections were well filled, and some grand typical specimens were staged. Cinn. classes were small, but the winners were good. Goldies and Bullies were a fine lot, Mr. Coombe's Finch again coming out on top—a grand specimen. We cannot speak too highly of the management: it was perfect. Mr. Medlin, the sec. and show manager, had everything well in hand, and was very obliging to everybody. Members' classes contained some grand specimens, which would do well in the open. The winner of the shield and best bird in members' classes was Mr. Medlin's unflig. varieg. yell., which will be heard of again. Mr. Redwood (Newton Abbot) judged.

ELGIN P.P. AND C.B.A.

27th annual show held in the Corn Market Hall, Jan. 1. The hall is of a good size, well lighted from the top, and free from draughts. The birds were well staged in the centre of the hall. Entries came up fairly well, and there were some grand specimens staged. There was a nice display of Border Fanciers, and also of Norwich in the natural colour classes, but the British birds were very poor this time. The show was well patronised by the public, and there were present many well-known fanciers; there is every probability of it proving a financial success. Everything was in first-class order, and things went smoothly all day. Much credit is due to the obliging and energetic secretaries, Messrs. Garden and Sinclair, assisted by an able and hard-working committee. Silver cup for best bird was won by Mr. A. Ironside, with a clear yellow colour-fed Norwich. Silver cup for best local by Mr. R. Garden, with a buff varieg. Norwich. Mr. Jas. Kerr, Dundee, was elected judge, but was unable to attend, and Mr. K. Maclean, Forres, judged in his place.

YARM.

Fourth annual show held Jan. 11, was a record show for Yarm. True, there was not a very long list of classes, but what a really fine entry, nearly 300 birds, and so late in the season too! Four money prizes, a large number of valuable specials, and the support of the Yorks County B.B. and M.C., brought about this fine result in the main. There is a fine set of fancier members who take a keen interest in the society and its shows, and they give of their very best during the show. The show is supported by a fine list of patrons. Mr. J. Henderson is chairman; Mr. E. Wilson, vice; committee, all members; sec. and treas., T. Wilson; asst. sec., L. Wilford. The show was held in the County Council Schools, which as a matter of course are well lighted and seated. The birds were well staged in good time, and judging got through by a little after one p.m. It speaks volumes for the promptness and efficiency in the management that all the prize cards were on cages, and all the exhibitors present up to 2 p.m. had received their prize money. Some had been paid for the earlier classes, before all the judging was finished. Surely this will be remembered when next Yarm show comes round. Norwich were very strong, and birds of the highest merit were present in numbers equal to the average of the best shows of the season. Yorks. were a grand lot, but not quite so heavy classes as Norwich. Competition was very close and keen, Hybrids in two classes contained some of the cracks of the day, Britishers were super excellent, quantity and quality reigning supreme throughout the section. The Foreign class contained a marvellous Blue-wing Sugar Bird in magnificent order. Goldfinches were fine, Bullfinches 23 of them and such a grand lot as is rarely seen outside the Palace. Linnets were excellent all round. Redpoll, Twite, and Siskin class brought 24 together, and they required a lot of care to sort out. Greenfinches were very nice. Brambles and Chaffinches might have been of higher merit. The show was an eyeopener to visitors who came in from Stockton, Darlington, and more distant towns, for a one day show. Mr. Cowgill judged Canaries, and Mr. Houlton the remainder, and all fanciers present seemed smilingly pleased.

EPSOM AND EWELL F.A.

A splendid display of Yorks. and Norwich was staged at this show, held in the Lecture Hall, Epsom, Jan. 7. The management is excellent, and no man could perform the duties of hon. sec. with more ability, courtesy, and kindliness than Mr. A. W. Breeden. From top to bottom, no detail was left unattended to, and success, so well deserved, was certainly achieved. The hall is a splendid building, lofty, and well lighted, albeit cosy and comfortable. The stewards were unceasing in their efforts for the comfort and welfare of the birds, and everything passed off satisfactorily. The challenge cup for the best members' exhibit was won by Mr. A. J. Kilby, with a romping Norwich bird, which won in a grand class of 15 exhibits. Mr. L. Bousfield put down a rattling yellow Yorks., which was not eligible for the cup, or it would have won; and as a guide to the quality on show, it may be mentioned that such exhibitors as Messrs. G. W. Saunders, C. E. Silk, Hawes Bros., A. T. Stroud, W. R. Terry, Soper, and Mrs. Ballard, sent exhibits. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged, and his awards generally were well received.

NOR. (15): 1, cup, 3, Kilby, winner his well-known yell. green, in fine trim, 3rd lovely buff, fed to the hilt, grand shape, full of qual., just little rough from washing probably, or it would have made a bold bid for the cup; 2, vhc, Saunders, leader rattling tkd. wing yell., heaps of qual., rich col., compact in feather, but cut just a trifle square at rump, a good one; r, Kerr; hc, c, Silk. YORKS. (15): 1, Bousfield, rattling yell., up like a dart, clean at front, nicely folded tail, good length behind, and well up on its legs, fine all down taper, very smart Yorkie; 2, 3, r, Mrs. Ballard, fine team, leader cl. buff, splendid pose and feather, excellent action and clean cut all the way, 3rd varieg., very racy, but not so finely proportioned quite; vhc, hc, Hawes, two grand birds, had their chest frills up, which put them back, or the result might have been different; c, Poingdestre. CHILDREN'S CLASS (6): 1, sp, Miss Daisy Belle Bates; 2, Miss Winnie Dancer; 3, Miss Hilda Lodge; vhc, Miss Gwendoline Soper; hc, Master Percy Sharpe; c, Master W. G. Randall.

LONGTON C.B.S.

Annual members' show held at the Swan Hotel, Jan. 4 Entries were not very good, but the quality was excellent. Mr. C. Birks judged, and his awards were well received. Being an old member of the society, he kindly gave his services free. Winners of specials:—Best Buff Nor., J. Bagshaw; Buff Yorks., R. Ratcliffe; Yell. Nor., N. Leese; Yell. Yorks., J. B. McMurtrie; Unfli. Yell. Nor. Nov., N. Leese; Ditto Yorks., J. B. McMurtrie; Best Goldfinch, Best Linnet, J. Peake. Points and other spls by McHickman and J. Davis. NOR. YELL.: 1, Leese; 2, 3, Filkin. Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

TREORCHY.

Only twelve classes were provided for cage birds at the Welsh International Show, which was held by the Treorchy Fanciers' Society, in the Drill Hall, Pentre, Jan. 9. Late in the season though it be there was a very nice entry of high-class stock, the quality being of great merit, and the competition keen right through the section. Special for the best bird fell to a very handsome four-pointed buff Goldie Mule, shown by Mr. H. S. Davies, a bird of grand type and quality, and well finished right through; Goldfinches, as is usual in this district were beautiful, but the entry hardly equalled some we have seen in the valley. The winning bird owned by Mr. J. H. Jones, was a gem, being very rich in blaze, and clean in his cheeks and buttons, and the same might be said of Mr. A. Harries' Greypate, a bird of wonderful colour and marking, and which should have a big future before it if carefully moulted. The arrangements were most ably carried out by the following committee of enthusiastic fanciers:—Messrs. W. Allen (chair), A. H. Capper (vice-chair), R. A. Jones (treas.), W. H. Lewis, Dd. Thomas, R. Lewis, J. John, G. Watkins, Price, Davies, Dl. Thomas, F. Lane, J. Jones, T. Shepherd, E. Evans, S. A. Jones, A. Evans, D. Thomas, T. Daily, and Jack Phillips. Mr. J. H. Barnett made a most indefatigable and courteous secretary, and did his utmost to make things move well, as did the stewards, Messrs. Jack Davies and G. Watkins. Mr. C. A. House judged, and his awards were generally well received.

The Critique.

CAN., NOR. (8): 1, E. Richards, grand qual., varieg. buff, capital head, rare shoulders and wings, beautiful colour, and very stylish; 2, vhc, Bollius, grand yell. wing tkd., lovely col., full of qual., neat wings and tail, very stylish; 3, H. FOR., LARGE and SMALL, both cancelled. LOCAL (9): 1, c, E. Richards, long, reachy, yell. York., good head, neck, and wings, very nice feather and style; 2, Curtis and Son, wing tkd. buff Yorks., rare shape and style, nice feather; 3, Breeze, dark jonque Goldie-Can. Mule, of good shape, size, and col.; 4, Rowlands and Jones, varieg., yell. Goldie Mule; vhc, Watkins; hc, F. Nicholas.

DUNOON AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

Fourth club show held New Year's Day. Entries much the same as last year, about 150 birds being on view. Competition was keen in most classes, except Scotch Fancies, which seem to have fallen on evil days in the district. Norwich were a grand lot, the principal awards falling to Mr. Melville, the sec., with a fine team. The Andrew cup for best young Norwich was not competed for, owing to a misunderstanding. Borders were the feature of the exhibition, and here again the sec. was well to the front with a fine lot. The rose bowl for best young Border was won by D. Stenhouse with a foul buff cock, the runner-up being a fine yellow hen belonging to Mr. Melville. British were distinctly good, the Siskin shown by Mr. McIntosh, a novice, being a champion. Mr. Wm. Lambie judged, and gave every satisfaction, while the sec. and his assistants had everything in good order.

The Critique.

SCOTCH FANCIES (6): 1, 2, 3, 4, D. Stenhouse, 1st yellow pied hen, fine nerve and reach, thin through, 2nd buff pied cock, good bird, but unsteady. NOR. CK. (8): 1, 4, Melville, grand yell., hot fed, best bird in hall, 4th monster, very heavily feathered; 2, 3, Moodies, 2nd short thick buff, 3rd fine size, but rather long. HEN (10): 1, 3, Melville, good buff, thick, and cobby, and a grand hen, our choice for 1st; 2, P. Clark, fails in size to winner; 4, D. Moodie, good size. NOR., YOUNG COL.-FED (8): 1, 2, 3, 4, Melville, fine buff cock, a bouncing buff, a yell. hen, very typical, will improve, and 4th fine bird, pale in col. YOUNG, NON-FED (7): 1, 2, Clark, nice bird, fine wings and tail, 2nd similar; 3, Moodie, lacks size to the others; 4, Kennedy, bit rough in feather. BORD. CK. (7): 1, 2, Melville, champion, grand colour and pose, nice wings and tail, 2nd fine front, lacks polish of winner; 3, 4, D. Stenhouse, slimmer bird; 4th looked like a hen. HEN (7): 1, 3, 4, W. Melville, 1st fine yellow, correct size and type, 3rd good bird, our choice, 4th nicely drawn cinn.; 2, P. McLean, with better head might have gone up. CK. YOUNG (19): 1, 2, Stenhouse, winner of rosebowl, runner-up for best bird in hall, 2nd bonny green; 3, 4, Melville, both nice type. HEN (15): 1, 4, Melville, well drawn yell., correct size and type, 4th beautiful buff, in fine order; 2, 3, D. Stenhouse, nice buff cinn., beautiful markings and an almost even mark. A.O.V. (3): 1, Moodie, C.B., plenty feather; 2, 3, McIntosh, both Yorks. GOLD. OR BULLF. (10): 1, McIntosh, Goldfinch, small but in grand order; 2, Clark, good Bullie; 3, Moodie, fine Bullfinch hen, some liked for 1st; 4, Stenhouse, good Goldfinch, bit unsteady. LINNET, ETC.: 1, McIntosh, grand Siskin; 2, Moodie, bonny 'Poll; 3, 4, Stenhouse, nice coloured Twite, and good Linnet. A.O.V. BRIT.: 1, 2, D. Moodie; 3, Stenhouse, all Greenfinches. NOR. NOV. (8): 1, 2, 3, 4, Kennedy. BORD. NOV. (9): 1, 2, 3, 4, Kennedy. MULE OR HYB. (4): 1, 2, Clark, nice coloured Goldfinch, and good Greenfinch; 3, Stenhouse, Goldfinch; 4, McKinnon, Goldfinch. GIFT (9): 1, Melville; 2, 4, Stenhouse; 3, McLean.

MEADOWFIELD (Co. Durham).

First annual open show, held Jan. 11., in the Club Hall, a grand place for a show, lofty and large, with any amount of light, and kept at a suitable temperature. Being the initial venture, the classification was not an extensive one, only six classes being provided. These brought forward an entry of about 70 exhibits, which is to be considered fairly satisfactory, under the circumstances. Quality was superb, all the winners having previously secured the highest honours at the principal northern shows. Norwich were a very choice lot, both in numbers and quality, the winners being very true to type. Yorks., although not so strong in numbers, also contained some grand specimens, while the British section was really splendid, the Goldfinch and Bullfinch class being the pick, some stormers being staged here. Foreign birds were a nice lot, and attracted a good deal of attention from the visitors to the show. The staging was very nicely arranged, and reflected the greatest credit on the management. Mr. George Reed, the genial and well-known judge of Linnet singing, undertook the duties of show manager, and got through his work in a most creditable manner, and to the satisfaction of everybody. He was grandly supported by a keen body of fanciers, consisting of the chairman, Mr. Sam Jones, treas., Mr. J. Robson, and Messrs. J. Attees, W. Hunter, G. Hunter, J. Briggs, and R. Hodgson. The genial sec., Mr. T. E. Jones, had everything in grand order, and everything went off without the slightest hitch. The society is to be congratulated on having so capable a fancier in charge of the clerical work. A word of thanks must be accorded to Mr. W. Rutherford (Crook) who rendered valuable assistance to Mr. Jones during the time of the show. We understand that the society will probably enlarge the classification another year, and we see no reason why the club should not make a name for itself. The show was well patronised, and will, no doubt, prove a financial success. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged.

The Critique.

NOR. (13): 1, 2, Wilson, leader, cl. yell., grand size, lovely shape, short and thick set, grand back and chest, thick head and neck, nice col., lovely wings and tail; 2, cl. buff, fine size, short and cobby, nice head and neck, deep chest, good col., short wings and tail; 3, Butler, cl. yell., scarcely so thick set as leader, red hot col., good qual., nice size, good wing and tail carr., well cleaned under; 4, vhc, Briggs, var. buff., leading, but long in barrel, grand size, rare head and neck, rich col. and qual., nice carr.; hc, c, Mills. YORKS. (8): 1, Nattrass, cl. yell., grand length, straight as a gun barrel, beautifully drawn, nice col. and qual., good shoulders and waist, grandly braced wings and tail; 2, 3, Twinsco, pair of nice ones, leader cl. buff, fine length, nice position, well rounded back, nice col., neat head, well carried wings and tail; 3, wing and eye mkd. yell., bit shorter than leader, grandly rounded, red hot col., nice head, well braced wings and tail, lacks the fine position of leader; 4, Saunders, cl. buff, not the length, or so well finished behind, nice shoulders, good head, nice wings and tail; vhc, Nattrass; hc, Middleton; c, Bailes. GOLDF. or BULLF. (16), a wonderful class: 1, Almond, Goldie, medium size, lovely blaze, beautifully clear cut, and pure in col., grandly tanned, rich body col., grand condition and polish; 2, vhc, Tomlinson, Bullie, plenty of size, fine shape, good breast col., grand back and wing bars, good clean cut, dense col. cap, in grand condition; 3, 4, Dixon, Goldie, leading, larger than leader, nice blaze, though not the same expanse or rich col. of leader, grandly tanned, nice wings, fine condition; 4, Bullie, not the size of 2nd, grand breast col., rich and pure in tone, lovely clear cut cap, bars broken on one side, otherwise a topper; hc, Nixon; c, Sanderson. LINNET (10), a grand lot: 1, 2, Dixon, leader, fine size, lovely shape, beautifully pencilled all over, lovely back, well laced flanks, grand col., in tip top condition; 2, not quite the size or shape of leader, beautifully pencilled breast, but scarcely the same grand lacing on head and back, nice col., fine condition and feather; 3, Bainbridge, big and shapely, nicely pencilled breast, grand chest, not staged so well as it might be; 4, Boyd, nice size and shape, scarcely so steady as leader, good col., nice pencilling, but not quite so distinct as those above it, nice condition; vhc, Hodgson; hc, Sanderson; c, Stubbs. A.O. BRIT. (8): 1, c, Dixon, Waxwing, fine size, lovely col., not so perfect in waxes as we like to see them, but otherwise in perfect condition, lovely bloom; 2, Butler, Bearded Tit, fine size, lovely col., grand moustachios, nice tail, lovely feather, trifle unsteady; 3, Mills, very nice Lark, fine size and shape, good col., well pencilled, nice bold head, good condition and feather; 4, Clemmetts, Song Thrush, fine size and shape, god col., well spotted, nice condition and feather; vhc, Bunt; hc, Parnaby. FOR. (8): 1, Butler, Ceram Lory, in lovely plumage, colour pure and rich in tone, shown in grand condition, not a feather out of place; 2, 4, Almond, leaders, lovely pair, Fire Finches, beautiful col. and plumage, charming and vivacious, grand feather, a nice attraction to visitors; 4, grand Lavender Finch, in exquisite feather, lovely col. and condition, put down in rare form; 3, vhc, hc, Christer, Red-naped Lorikeet, wonderful combination of colours, but in scarcely the same grand tight condition we have previously seen him; vhc, hc, Christer; c, Rutherford.

ALWAYS USE OUR

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES,

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

EGGERTINE

The best Egg Food ever known for Rearing and keeping in Health and Song all kinds of Canaries, Goldfinches, Nightingales, etc. Invaluable to those having an Aviary. This food will positively rear young Canaries without any chopped egg or other preparations, far better than egg alone, and is decidedly the Best Food ever brought before the public. For getting hens into breeding condition its effects will be found wonderful. It is made fresh every few days, hence, unlike any of the preparations made from foreign yolk of eggs, Eggertine being made from New Laid English Eggs and other valuable ingredients on the premises. Tins, post free, 1/3; larger, holding three times the quantity, post free 2/6. Give it one test trial and be convinced.

A PERSONAL VISIT

to a bird dealer's establishment is often a matter of impossibility, but this need not make the slightest difference to you if you place your order with me, as I send everything I sell on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or "Cage Birds" deposit system, and unless fullest satisfaction is received, birds only have to be returned, and back comes the whole of your money. I now have a splendid stock of genuine Worcestershire cock Goldfinches in perfect health and condition, and thoroughly on hard seed, at 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-. Few specially selected cocks, well caged, steady and in free song, 3/- and 4/- each, three 7/6; few genuine exhibition specimens, with full complement of show points, 5/- and 7/6 each. (Please note: Real cocks cannot be sold at less than above prices.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/- each, three 2/6; splendid lot netted cock Bullfinches, in faultless plumage, 2/- and 3/- each; hen Bullfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each; grand lot of genuine cock Linnets, every bird warranted rose red-breasted, 9d. each, three 2/-, six 3/6, twelve 5/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling or contest singing, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6, six 4/-; exhibition specimens, 2/6 each; magnificent lot of netted cock Siskins, in pink of health and feather, 2/- each, three 5/-, six 9/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 2/6 each; few exhibition specimens, yellows, with large bibs, 5/- and 7/6 each; Hen Siskins, 1/- each, three 2/6, six 4/-, twelve 7/-; cock or hen Redpolls, 8d. each, three 1/6. Few very large red-breasted cock Redpolls, 1/- each; handsome lot cock Skylarks, all big, bold Worcestershire birds, not French flight birds, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially selected steady cocks, in song, 1/-, 1/6, and 2/- each; cock Greenfinches, 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; special travelling cages, 3d. per three birds extra. Linnet, Goldfinch, Bullfinch, and Lark cages, 6d. each, 5/- dozen. For full list of trap-cages and catching appliances, send stamp. Please note, all birds are guaranteed to have been properly netted in County of Worcestershire, by catchers employed solely by myself, and none are sent out until feeding freely and well on the usual seed mixtures, no soaked or crushed seeds being necessary for birds purchased from me. I guarantee sex in every instance, and if you do not happen to be an expert in sexing birds yourself, nothing would please me better than for you to have my birds judged by a competent man. See Roller Canary column for testimonials, etc.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST

strain, most amazing results last breeding season by purchasers of my champion Norwich, in almost every case a winner was bred; everywhere fanciers are talking about the almost marvellous results, such as no other strain ever will or can achieve. Scores of well known winners sold direct from my rooms, which contain the finest stud of Norwich only ever got together; champion stock pairs from 20/- to 60/-; single cocks and hens, yellow and buff, from 8/6 to 40/; all small surplus stock sold to a well known dealer. The cream only in Norwich, with blood which tells; the proof you can test at a moderate figure, for the very highest class. Don't waste another season by picking up a bird here and there, a great mistake, but send direct to me and have a pair or single bird, which you can rely on breeding something out of the ordinary; send at once; see show reports. Kindly note: That grand buff, 1st Frome, pronounced by all who saw it a living wonder, and afterwards sold for £10, was purchased direct from Judge Silk, Whitstable. (401)

CHILLCOTT'S ROLLERS

Owing to ill-health, Mr. A. C. Pattison, late of Gravesend, has disposed of all his Rollers to Mr. A. Chillcott, of 151, South-avenue, Southend. Most of the 1912 birds are bred from two £5 cocks, bought direct from Mr. Randall; these are bred from the champion cock claimed at club show by Dr. Read at £10. A few of these grand birds for disposal at reasonable prices; enquiries solicited. Some good stock cocks for sale from 12/6. (204)

All Bargains

At the prices quoted below. Have on approval, and test the bona-fides of this statement. Never excelled at prices, if ever equalled, which I believe they have not. A good singing cock for 6/-. Don't be "gulled" by purchasing mongrels sold as Hartz Rollers. Specially selected, with better notes, 7/6. Hens, 2/-. Genuine Seiferts, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. Pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 25/- upwards. Hens, 3/6. Pairs, 7/6, 8/6. Cages, 3d. extra. A few exceptional birds, 30/- and 40/- each. All kinds of cages for same.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

ever since I first introduced the Leipzig Roller to the English market, the demand for them has steadily increased, and now they have a far larger sale than all other strains combined. I have repeatedly said that they are absolutely the finest songsters in the Roller world, and I want you to test the truth of my statement by having one on a week's trial—an ordinary Roller at a higher price from elsewhere, test them side by side, and if in your opinion the Leipzig Roller is not far and away the better bird, return it to me and I will instantly refund the whole of your out-of-pocket expenses. I have nothing whatever to gain by making an offer like this unless I knew my birds were everything I say they are. At present I have an exceptionally large stock of genuine Leipzig Roller cocks, all in full song day and gaslight, with long, hollow and double rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, flute and gong notes, etc., etc., and guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or discordant notes whatever, price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Special Bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell rolls, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Few genuine Glucke-bred contest Rollers, fit for immediate contesting, 15/- each. For those who like a loud noisy songster I have some splendid loud, vigorous singing Hartz cocks, in full song, price 5/6 each, three 15/-, seven 31/6. These are real ceiling-lifters, and just the thing for public bar or coffee tavern, where plenty of loud, noisy song is required. Roller cabinet cages, with loose fronts and folding doors, made specially for my Rollers, 2/6 and 3/6 each. Please note all are sent on full week's trial, either on receipt of cash, or if same is deposited with Editor of CAGE BIRDS, and unless bird gives every satisfaction, and realises your every expectation, back comes the whole of your money without question or comment. Please notice what my customers say about the Leipzig Rollers they have had:—"4, Brynn-st., Lower Ince, Wigan. Jan. 2nd.—Sir,—Received Roller safely, and am well satisfied. He was not put into fresh cage 10 minutes when he started to sing grand.—Yours, E. Foreham." "Eldorado-rd., Cheltenham, Jan. 2.—Sir,—I have now had the Bandmaster Roller a week, and must tell you I am very pleased with him. He has great power in sustaining the high full notes, and also has many beautiful changes, and as far as my knowledge goes, I believe he is very good on the Glucke.—Yours, M. Manley." "17, Henley-st., Lincoln, Jan. 4th.—Sir,—It gives me very great pleasure in acknowledging safe receipt of Roller this morning, and I admire you, especially in your promptness. The bird is a lovely songster, and commenced to sing almost as soon as I got it home, and continues to do so in quite a sweet and melodious tone. Its song and change of notes quite eclipses the ordinary Canary, and I am well satisfied. Again thanking you.—Yours, G. Moore." "104, Cherrytree-rd., Elsecar, nr. Barnsley, Jan. 6th.—Sir,—Received Roller safely, and it started singing 15 minutes after arrival. I am well pleased with it.—Yours, W. Oakly." "Selby, Yorks, Jan. 3rd.—Sir,—Roller arrived quite safe, and I am delighted with him. Thanks so much for sending such a good one. Your advertisement is quite true to the letter.—Yours, A. Nettleton." "62, City-rd., Kilt Green, Pemberton, Wigan.—Sir,—The Bandmaster you sent me fortnight ago has turned out a marvel; he has got some grand notes with him, and I am very pleased with it, and thank you for the way you treated me.—Yours, R. Mather." Hundreds more letters similar to above filed for inspection any time. All genuine Leipzig Rollers are stamped on wing, "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and I am the only importer of them, so send orders direct to ensure getting the real thing. See British Bird column. (409)

and the value cannot be equalled elsewhere either in Show or Stock Birds.

And, knowing what I have, and my great desire to give such value as is next to impossible to be obtained elsewhere, is the reason of the unbounded satisfaction given year after year; and the fact that I have received more testimonials than any man living. I have also published more than any person or firm in existence. I know also that price is a great object to many; but a high quality and a low price is still a greater consideration to the purchasing public. Note the following prices and make a comparison of these prices; but, above all I want a comparison of birds, to test the full value. Some good show birds at specially low prices; also in the stock are cinnamons, cinnamon marked, and greens.

YORKSHIRES.—Cocks, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-. Pairs matched for Breeding, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 9/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. Hens, 2/3, 2/6, 3/6, 4/6, 6/6, 8/6. CAN I OFFER YOU anything fairer than a most cordial invitation to come and inspect my stock? You need not announce your visit. Come on any day but Sunday, my rooms will be open, and you can rest assured of a very hearty Yorkshire welcome. I have 12 large rooms stocked from ceiling to floor, and you will be speedily convinced of the truth of my claim to have

The Largest and Finest Stock of High-Class Birds in the United Kingdom.

As regards the quality of my stock, see report of Sunderland show in this issue. With 10 entries my birds won special for most points champion Norwich section, special for most points in Champion Yorkshire section, diploma for best Yorkshire in show, and numerous other honours. See also report of Bradford West and other shows. I am now in a position to offer really marvellous value in Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Border Fancies, Mules, Lancashires, and other varieties as follows:—

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 6/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

WINNING YORKSHIRES.—I have a few real gems ready for immediate benching, sure winners at small Shows, at 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, or 50/- each, Cocks or Hens. These can win their cost in prize money, and will make reliable breeding birds at the end of the show season.

I have also a few real toppers, able to hold their own in hottest open competition. Kindly state wants. The following are taken from scores of Testimonials recently received, and which considerations of space alone prevent me from publishing:—

4 FIRSTS, 4 SECONDS, 5 THIRDS, and DIPLOMA.

Adelaide Road, Dublin, Dec. 25, 1912.—I am writing to thank you for the birds you sold me last January. They have bred me some capital youngsters. This is my first year as a breeder and exhibitor, and I consider the following results extra good: 4 Firsts, 4 Seconds, 5 Thirds, 9 Fourths, and Diploma for best bird shown by a novice at the Y.C.C. of Ireland's Show. All the birds I have exhibited have been bred from birds I purchased from you.—Robert McKeon to Joe Thomas.

2 FIRSTS.

Balgonie Terrace, Fife, Dec. 23, 1912.—I write to congratulate you for the birds you sent me. Our show was held on the 14th, and I got two Firsts with the two birds, beating all my local friends. Your birds deserve more than you claim for them. They are real gems, and I shall always recommend you to my friends.—Alex. Wishart to Joe Thomas.

To every customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or cash returned in full.

CHAMPION NORWICH PLAINHEADS. THE BULL-DOG STRAIN.

This strain needs no bounce. It has made a name for itself and is still going strong. (See reports of Sunderland and other Champion shows in this and last issue.) My customers also are winning every week with birds supplied by me. Testimonials in proof of this are filed here for the inspection of all my visitors. I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellow or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, ready for benching and able to win their cost in prize-money; also real good Stock birds, for breeding own winners, at 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Few good Sib Hens for Light Muling, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, direct from Germany, with good length of song and many changes, in fact, trained to perfection and in full rolling song by day and gaslight, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; specially selected schoolmasters, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

Siberian Cock Goldfinches, splendid birds for muling, 5/-, 5/6, 6/-, 7/6 each. Large Sib.-bred hens, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

For full particulars of all other varieties, send a postcard for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please; I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers.

YORKSHIRE BREEDERS' SOCIETY

Buy from the breeder, who, knowing the strain (which is a vital point in breeding), can supply birds to breed winners; sets (cock and two hens), 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, and upwards; cocks from 5/-, hens from 3/6 and upwards; cage, 3d.; cash or deposit; also easy payments arranged to suit genuine fanciers; apply: Secretary, 40, Spring Cliffe, Manningham, Bradford. (397)

WE STILL HAVE THEM

At Bradford National show we won silver cup for best Yorkshire, silver cup for most points, championship diploma for best Yorkshire, champion diploma for best in classes 1 to 10, half-guinea for best unflighted; half-guinea for best in champion classes. We have a few pairs, same strain exactly, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- 60/- per pair; single birds proportionate; also a few big winners for sale reasonable. There is a good chance of these breeding a knock-out, as blood will tell. For proof of our strain, read the following (this is one of hundreds): —Dec. 3, 1912, 3, Grove Road, Redland, Bristol.—Dear Sirs,—I thought I should like to write and let you know I was 1st and 3rd in the bowl class at Bristol with your strain, 32 birds competing, winning the Bristol 10-guinea silver bowl with a young bird I bred 1912 from a pair supplied by you. The same bird also won the cup at another show in Bristol. Thanking you for all past favours. Very pleased to have found such honest fanciers.—Believe me, yours very sincerely, E. H. Stonelake. Special invitation to any fancier, or birds sent on approval; stamp reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley-hill, Bradford.

Require no misleading bounce; there are none better in the Fancy; for over 30 years we have bred and sold some of the biggest champions shown, winning thousands of prizes and championships at leading shows, winning four 1sts, three 2nds, 3rd, 4th, and championship for best in show Crystal Palace, 1910-11; owing to spinal illness, have not shown this last season, but have sold some of the biggest champions out, which are proving unbeatable. We are only keeping a few for stock, so have a wonderful good lot of Yorkshires for sale, the best of type, full of style, and swagger, and feathered like wax, winners for keenest competition; pairs from 15/-, 20/-, 30/- upwards; hens, a few real gems, full of style and feathered to perfection, from 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-; few special stock pairs, the best living, which are seldom for sale; we guarantee satisfaction: approval: cash or deposit: Messrs. Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (383)

TALKING Green Amazon Parrot, four years old, champion plain talker of over 180 words, long sentences, splendid mimic, laughs, cries, dances, spells P-o-l-l-y, counts 1-2-3-4-5, whistles "Pop goes," sings Polly Perkins, etc.; tame as a kitten; £3 15s., including cage; approval before payment: E. Ashcroft, Houghton-st., Liverpool. (404)

FOREIGN birds for beginners, 1/1½, by W. T. Page, F.Z.S., etc., Foreign Bird Expert to "Cage Birds." A highly instructive manual. It contains a magnificent coloured plate and a number of black and white illustrations. Indispensable to all keepers of Foreign birds. Replete with useful hints: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

PARROTS, lovely Amazon, beautiful pet, talks, laughs, sings, shake hands, scratch poll, comes on finger, suitable for lonely person, only 70/-, including cage; also nice grey coloured, begun talking, 35/-, including cage, fortnightly instalments accepted; four months' talking warranty; stamp for particulars: Mr. Copp, Wardrobe Stores, Dartford. (408)

"SACCHO," extraordinary clever and plainest speaking African Grey Parrot living, real masterpiece for talking and imitating, learning any sentence so very quickly, age 3 years, thoroughly acclimatised, plumage rather rough through inattention, otherwise a marvellous bird; £3 10/- accepted, including cage: guaranteed, heard talking any time: Pool, 25, Marlborough-st., Gainsborough. (409)

FOUR good grey Parrots, £4 each; 2 green-checked Amazons, 2 Salle's Amazons, 3 Venezuelan Amazons, 6 Macaws, 5 Crowned Cranes, 1 Sarus Crane, 2 Brush Turkeys, 2 Thisses, 1 White Heron, 1 White Pea Hen, 1 pair Curly Crested Guineafowls, 2 pairs Passerine Doves, 5 pairs Cuban Colins, 1 pair Stone Partridges, 6 Blue-headed Jays, 1 Hodgson's Barbet, etc.: Albert Edward Jamrach, 180, St. George-st., East.

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

OBITUARY.

It is with sincere regret, writes Mr. Geo. Havver, Sec. Blaydon-on Tyne C.B.S., that I have to announce the great loss our chairman, Mr. J. Hands, has sustained by the death of his wife on Sunday night last, leaving behind a family of nine to mourn her loss. I am sure that fanciers will extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. Hands in his great trouble.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. Muir, sec. Lochgelly C.B.S., that I report the death at the early age of thirty-one, of Mrs. Reid, Park St., Lochgelly, the wife of one of our members. After a short illness she passed away on Tuesday evening at seven o'clock. We tender to Mr. Reid and his sorrowing relatives our heartfelt sympathy in their sad bereavement. Four little children are also left to mourn a mother's loss. Of a kindly and amiable disposition, her death will be greatly regretted by all who knew her.

Mr. T. Watson, Birkenhead.

I regret to announce, writes Mr. W. T. Howlett, assist. sec. Birkenhead C.F.A., the death on the 15th inst. of Mr. T. Watson, Birkenhead, which occurred only after a few days' illness. On behalf of the Birkenhead C.F.A., we extend to Mrs. Watson and family our deepest sympathy in their great bereavement.

Mr. W. E. Jeffries, Leigh.

We regret, write Messrs. Deer and Cundy, secs., Southend and Southern Counties O.S., to inform you of the death of our late member, Mr. W. E. Jeffries, of Leigh, late chairman of the Southend and Southern Counties Ornithological Cage Bird Society. The members of the above society wish to express their deep sympathy with the wife and son.

Mr. J. Jennett, Sheffield.

I am very sorry to record the death of Mr. J. Jennett, one of the oldest members of the Sheffield C.B.S., writes Mr. J. Woolhouse, Assist. Sec. He had been ailing for some time, and finally underwent an operation for cancer of the stomach. He passed away on January 16th, in his 60th year. The Sheffield C.B.S. has lost a good member, and everyone will be sorry to hear the sad news. We extend to our departed brother's wife and family our sympathy in their hour of trial.

Mr. P. A. Jack, Peterhead.

We regret to have to announce the death of Mr. P. A. Jack, late sec. of the Peterhead Cage Bird and Pigeon Association, of which he was the original founder. He called the first meeting of the Association and was its secretary for five years. In grateful recognition of his services the Association sent a beautiful wreath, and at the funeral it was represented by Mr. Charles Cross, the present secretary. Mr. Jack left a widow and family of four sons and one daughter, for whom the deepest sympathy is felt.

Mr. W. Lewis, Merthyr Tydfil.

It is with deep regret I have to inform you, writes Mr. Edwin Thomas, Sec., Cardiff C.B.S., that Mr. W. Lewis, Merthyr Tydfil, has passed away after a long and painful illness. He was one of the few remaining Scotch Fancy exhibitors. On behalf of the Cardiff C.B.S., I extend our deepest sympathy to Mrs. Lewis and family in their sad loss.

Mr. J. H. Jones, Merthyr Tydfil, also sends a sympathetic reference to the death of Mr. Lewis. Mr. Lewis throughout his long illness made daily enquiry as to the welfare of the birds of which he thought so much. The Cardiff C.B.S. sent a beautiful wreath as a token of respect, and many of Mr. Lewis's old fancier friends attended the funeral. Mr. Jones refers to the great number of prizes won by his deceased friend, and concludes by saying: "He had been in the cage bird fancy about forty years, and there are only one or two of the old school remaining amongst us to day."

GREAT SUCCESS OF OUR BIRTHDAY NUMBER

A few opinions which have reached us from readers.

We are very much gratified that our Birthday Number of last week should have met with such a splendid reception at the hands of our readers. Our only regret is that pressure on space will not permit us to acknowledge this week all the kindly congratulations which have reached us. The sale of this issue, it is pleasant to be able to add, was a record one; the circulation of CAGE BIRDS, we may say, now leaves all past figures well in the rear, thus evidencing in indisputable manner the hold our journal has upon the affections of birdkeepers. We return sincerest thanks to all our friends.

I found the Birthday Issue very entertaining.—Miss Joyce (Cheltenham).

The Birthday Number is a masterpiece, and rare good value.—P. McIntyre (Belfast).

Your Birthday Number I consider is a grand threepennyworth.—John Rukin (Rawtenstall).

I congratulate you on the splendid Birthday issue. Many happy returns! T. Jephcott (Bradford).

Your Birthday Number has capped all previous ones; it is simply A1.—Harry Ingram (Hindlay Green).

Your Birthday Issue is very fine, and the plates, photos, and pictures most interesting. —Miss Penton (Willesden).

We would like to say how pleased we are with your Birthday Issue of this week.—Messrs. Dutton (Manchester).

Congratulations on splendid achievement this Birthday Number, and many happy returns.—T. Stanley (Handsworth).

The Birthday Number is splendid and the plates are extra good. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—H. Dyer (Benwell).

Birthday Number very good. I wish you the season's greetings and a doubled circulation.—W. H. Harris (Dorchester).

I like your Birthday Number better than any I have previously seen. The plates and the supplement are fine.—W. Cowan (Leeds).

I congratulate you on the grand Birthday Number, which I must say is the finest I have ever seen.—J. Aldersdale (Eastleigh).

Your magnificent Birthday issue of CAGE BIRDS, with the lovely coloured plates, is a real budget for all bird lovers.—J. Sansford (Weymouth).

I congratulate you on your splendid Birthday Number, which is quite a record. The coloured plates are especially good.—W. H. C. Boswell (Watford).

The Birthday Number was a great "treble event"—plates, articles and supplement are all winners. Many happy returns of the day! —T. Clark (Harpurhey).

I like the Birthday Issue immensely—the plates are truly beautiful. I spent a pleasant day devouring the contents and admiring the supplement.—J. Spencer (Birmingham).

The Birthday Issue is just fine, and the plates very beautiful, that of the British birds filling a want, especially with the excellent article accompanying it.—W. Smart (Glasgow).

Your Birthday issue is excellent. The coloured plates are splendid, and reflect great credit on your able artists. I wish CAGE BIRDS and its staff every success.—S. Beaty (Alderley Edge).

You have given us another "stunner" in the Birthday Number. You keep going one better in coloured plates. The one with the British birds on it is a treat to behold.—J. H. Mitchell (Alfreton).

The coloured plates of foreign and British birds are very fine; my congratulations to Messrs. Goodchild and Norman, also to the Editor, for the budget of good things.—P. E. Royce (Highbury).

I was very pleased with your Birthday Number, and, being a British bird lover, the British plate was most acceptable, and ranks first in my collection of coloured plates.—A Ward (Deeping St. James).

We thank you very much for the grand Birthday Issue of CAGE BIRDS, which we are sure cannot help but please all. The coloured plates have surpassed all others.—T. W. Christer and Sons (Chopwell).

Your Birthday Number was the most pleasant surprise I have had this year. Your coloured plates and art supplement are things of beauty, and I regret we do not get more of them.—Robt. Croom (Gateshead).

The Birthday Number is grand. The plates are a splendid piece of work. I have shown it to different friends and they say it's wonderful for the money. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—F. King (Cambridge).

I must congratulate you on your Bithday Number. I think one plate alone is worth the money, saying nothing about the valuable information we receive in it. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—A. Lawton (Sheffield).

I was well pleased with the Birthday issue; it is beautiful and the plates perfect.—W. Laugdon (Bethnal Green).

Good old CAGE BIRDS! What a fine issue! Hearty birthday congratulations. May you have everything you wish for.—L. Short (Cheltenham).

May I offer you my congratulations on that magnificent production, CAGE BIRDS Birthday Number? It is undoubtedly a masterpiece, and a credit to all concerned. The coloured plates are delightful.—H. Hill (Bradford).

What a lovely plate of foreign birds Mr. Goodchild has given us. As a lover of these birds, I think it the gem of this splendid issue. The articles are very good, and interesting, and the art supplement A1.—Miss A. Lloyd (Bexhill).

I enjoyed the Birthday Number very much, the Supplement and all the articles being "cert. prize-winners." I have already taken both plates to be framed. May CAGE BIRDS have many more birthdays. It deserves to succeed.—Peter Brown (Gourock).

Allow me to congratulate you on your great Birthday Number. British bird lovers will ever be indebted to you for the portrait gallery of British birds. Your artist, Mr. Norman, has excelled himself; nothing better has ever been produced.—J. B. Clarke (Ascogbank, Rothesay).

Allow me to congratulate you on the 1913 splendid Birthday Issue. I am an old reader of CAGE BIRDS, and it gives me great pleasure to see the advancement made year by year. I sincerely hope that good fortune will pursue CAGE BIRDS and its workers.—Albert Gay (Quinton, Birmingham).

The last Birthday Number was grand in every detail. How I enjoyed the articles by the Rev. C. D. Farrar and Mr. Teschemaker. Another valuable feature is Mr. Weston's information in brief, which I intend to file for future use, along with Mr. Norman's plate, which I am framing.—E. McKenna (Edinburgh).

I should like to compliment you on your Birthday Issue, and on the British bird plate. I think that if you continue the idea by giving one or two further plates dealing with other British birds, you will compile a set which will be a boon as a work of reference for Nature lover and aviculturist alike. —L. P. Luke (Brighouse).

Glad to receive Birthday Number, on which we most heartily congratulate you, as this issue excels all previous ones. It is simply a masterpiece. Long may CAGE BIRDS reign, and its circle of readers continue to widen, as it is the foremost and most instructive journal for all lovers of our feathered pets.—McGillivray Brothers (Bo'ness).

I must really thank you for your wonderful Double Number of this week. It is like a book of gold to me, with its fine coloured plates, supplement, and interesting articles (especially that fine plate of different kinds of British birds). I do not think that any other number has reached such a height of perfection as this one.—F. MacPherson (Oban).

Heartiest congratulations on your Birthday Issue of 1913; it is far above expectations. The Coloured Plates are very interesting, especially the plate representing British Birds, which should find a place in all bird-rooms and aviaries. Glad to say other bird fanciers of this town are delighted with the issue, and wish you every success in future.—George Grant (Victoria Rd.).

The art supplement and the coloured plates of the Birthday Number were very much admired by me. Mr. Norman's British bird plate and the admirable "Brief Biographies" by Mr. G. E. Weston makes an ideally instructive combination, which I intend to keep by me for future guidance. I had many a laugh at Mr. Teschemaker's very entertaining contribution.—W. G. Eastlake (South Kensington).

I was greatly surprised, and more than pleased, with your valuable Birthday Issue. I must thank you very much for same. I also wish CAGE BIRDS every success. I shall show it to my friends. The beautiful coloured plates should be the means of bringing others to be constant readers of CAGE BIRDS, from which I find many handy little recipes etc., during the breeding season.—James Jefferies (Bristol).

Your Birthday Number is a treat, and I think excels anything previously given. The plates are simply superb, and your artists and printer deserve the thanks of the Fancy for their efforts on our behalf. It is worth far more than what you charge for it. The plate depicting the most popular of our British birds was a happy idea, and well worthy of framing, which no doubt many will do.—[illegible] (Leith).

The Birthday Number is magnificent.—W. Cumming (Forres).

The Birthday Number I consider a rich treat.—A. Wright (Hackney).

I think this week's issue is extra special, the plates of Mr. Goodchild and Mr. Norman being something grand, while the art supplement is most interesting, not forgetting the articles, too. Many happy returns.—A. Ross (Bolton).

I must congratulate you on your splendid Birthday Number. It is indeed excellent. I should imagine it must have had a good sale, as I wanted a few extra copies and had to apply at several bookstalls before I was successful in getting them.—J. Rogers (Bromley).

I have now taken in your valuable paper CAGE BIRDS for several years, and I can honestly say your present Birthday Number eclipses all your others. The coloured plates are the finest I have yet seen, and nobody ought to begrudge the small cost.—R. G. Leigh (Chelsea).

I must say how pleased I was with the Birthday Number of CAGE BIRDS. The Coloured Plates were simply grand. I have been a reader of CAGE BIRDS for years, and consider no Canary breeder should be without it. I wish it all the success it so honestly deserves.—R. Evens (Kingsbridge).

I am a novice fancier of Roller Canaries, and a reader of CAGE BIRDS, which, I am pleased to say, is my leading paper. I have benefited greatly by its timely hints, etc., and I show it regularly to my friends. I can safely say that your Birthday issue is truly magnificent throughout, and a red letter 1913 number. Any novice Canary or British bird fancier, however blunt he is, will readily be sharpened by following CAGE BIRDS articles. My bird room is looking nice and bright with your art supplement and coloured plates and the coloured plates of past issues.—Jno. Seddon (Atherton).

I received the Birthday Number of CAGE BIRDS on Saturday, and was surprised when I opened it. The "Gem Portrait Gallery" is absolutely grand, and alone worth treble the price. The foreigners are also very nice, and the way you have depicted the colours is wonderful. I have shown the issue to a good many of my friends, and they are going to get it. I am going to frame my plates, and very nice pictures they will make. I have been a reader of CAGE BIRDS for over five years, and hope to continue so. I wish you and all the staff a prosperous New Year. —Fred Challoner (Peckham).

Your Birthday Issue of CAGE BIRDS is simply grand. A wonderful budget for the 3d. charged. It must have cost a lot to produce such splendid coloured plates. The British bird fanciers, I feel sure, must be delighted with the Gem Portrait Gallery, which does your artist great credit. Then the plate of foreign birds is simply lovely, and makes one wish to have such lovely specimens in their possession. Altogether, with the art supplement, it is a wonderful Birthday Number, and those that remember and possess the tiny first issue can only look and marvel at the progress of CAGE BIRDS.—G. W. Saunders (Sutton).

BURNLEY AND DISTRICT O.S.

We are having our first members' show on Feb. 8th at the Star Inn, Church-street, with nine classes, four for novices, three for professionals, one British, and one selling. Last day of entry Feb. 5th. All members wishing to exhibit at this show must attend the next meeting to be held Jan. 30th at the above place. All fanciers are welcome. W. Redman, Sec., 2, Allan-street, Burnley.

CITY & COUNTY OF PERTH O.A.

Annual general meeting held in Laidlaw's Rooms, Leonard-street, Jan. 13. The financial statement of the club and open shows was read, and showed a loss to the club. Office bearers for 1913 were elected: Pres.: Mr. A. G. Forest; vice-pres.: Mr. R. F. Duncan; treas.: Sergt.-Inst. Fullarton: Sec.: J. L. Smith; auditors: Messrs. Todd and Blythe; committee: Messrs. D. Brown, A. Borrie, J. Keir, W. Bruce, R. Campbell, R. Crawford, W. C. Smith, J. Watson, J. Cranna, W. Munro, D. Roy, G. Wylie, G. Dunlop, D. Carstairs. It was agreed to hold an open show this year, date to be fixed next meeting, and to have a pairs' show on Feb. 8, at three, in Laidlow's Rooms, classes for Crests, Plainheads, Borders, Hybrid, and Muling pairs, small British birds, any variety.—J. L. Smith, Sec.

VALE OF LEVEN C.B.C.

Annual meeting, held in the Village Schoolroom, Alexandria. Auditors' report having been submitted showing a membership of 89, and a very successful financial year, office-bearers for ensuing year were elected: Hon. President, A. Gilmour, Esq.; hon. vice-president, J. W. Bull, Esq.; president, Mr. A. W. Donaldson; vice-pres., Mr. Wm. B. Gillies; sec. and treas., Mr. A. H. M. Lean, Ladyton Cottage, Bonhill; auditors, Messrs. J. Hannah and Wm. B. Gillies; representative committee, Alexandria, Messrs. J. Campbell and J. Liles; Bonhill, Messrs. J. Hannah and J. McEwan; Jamestown and Balloch, Messrs. P. McAdam and G. M'Call; Renton, Messrs. J. Roxburgh and W. Binnie; Dumbarton, Messrs. A. Nicholson and D. McBride; Helensburgh, Mr. Wm. Davidson. Rules were carefully gone over, and several minor alterations made. Agreed [illegible] show of matched pair Canaries. Mr. J. Nicholson appointed to judge Borders and Scotch Fancies, and Mr. Hannah Yorkshire, Norwich, Crest, etc. Twenty-eight new members were admitted amid great applause.—A. H. McLean, Hon. Sec.

BORDER CITY (Carlisle) O.S.

Annual general meeting held at the Silver Grill, English Street, Jan. 8, and a good number of members were present. Mr. Geo. Davidson in the chair. Secretary read his report for year 1912, mentioning in same Pair Show, Judging Competition, Rambles and Open Show. The balance-sheet for 1912, which shows a credit balance of £5 14s. 3d., as against £1 19s. 8d. in 1911, was duly adopted on the motion of T. Holmes, seconded by J. Robson, sen. Prior to election of officers, three new rules were passed. The following officials were appointed:—Pres., Major Spencer Ferguson, Mayor of Carlisle; sec., John C. Bell (23, Botchergate, Carlisle); treas., Geo. Davidson; committee (for three years), Messrs. T. Holmes, T. J. Robson, and R. Macartney; (two years), Messrs. G. Higgins, T. Johnstone, and H. C. Palfrey; (one year), Messrs. Fred Bell, J. Robson, jun., and Jno. Robson. The open show was next discussed, and it was decided to stick to our old date, the last Wednesday and Thursday in October, namely, the 29th and 30th (will northern secretaries please note, and so avoid the clashing of dates, which we had in several cases last season). Several names were proposed as judges, and sec. was instructed to write same gentlemen for terms, etc., the matter of appointment being left in hands of committee. T. J. Robson proposed a hearty vote of thanks to Mr. J. Chaplow for the use of his room at past meetings. This was carried unanimously. C. S. Traill was proposed as a member. A vote of thanks to the chairman and secretary concluded a successful meeting.—John C. Bell.

BRIGHTON AND HOVE C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held at headquarters, Cheapside, January 8. Mr. C. Pearson took the chair. The auditors, Messrs. A. Goble and H. James, submitted the balance-sheet showing a small balance in hand after paying all expenses of the year, and the previous year's printing account for that annual show. The club also has a good quantity of staging and trestles in store. The hon. sec., Will H. Gibb, reported on the year's work, giving details of the monthly shows held, also the judging competition, and announced that the last annual show had broken all records. Officers were elected as follows:—Pres., Capt. G. C. Tryon, M.P.; vice-pres., Lord Newlands, Hon. John Gordon, M.P., Dr. G. B. Thwaites, W. R. Campion, Esq., M.P., Herbt. Langton, Esq., M.R.C.S.; chairman, Major Frank Johnson; vice, Mr. C. Pearson; hon. treas., Mr. J. East; hon. auditors, Messrs. A. Goble and H. James; hon. solicitor, W. Graham Hooper, Esq.; hon. assist. Sec., Mr. G. B. Absalon; hon. sec., Will H. Gibb; committee, Messrs. D. Dean, F. Dandridge. A. Flook, E. Holley, J. Boxall, G. Pinyoun, J. E. Gravett, W. Miles, S. Sparks, W. Wall. Seven new members were elected. Rules and regulations for 1913 were passed, and classes made for the members' annual show to be held at headquarters, January 31; Mr. W. Swaysland judge. The following fanciers offered specials for competition at that show. Silver cup, Messrs. Cadman Bros., Messrs. H. Luckley, D. Dean, H. T. Gibb, Will H. Gibb. F. Dandridge, A. Goble, H. James, H. Akehurst, W. Cadman, E. Holley. Meetings and shows will be held monthly on the 2nd Wednesdays during 1913, from which it is expected much good will accrue to fanciers.—Will H. Gibb, Hon. Sec.

CITY OF BIRMINGHAM C.B.S.

DERWENT VALLEY C.B.S.

Meeting held January 4, in the Church Hall, Hamsterley, Mr. G. Barkas in the chair. Moderate attendance of members. Balance-sheet for 1912 laid before the meeting and passed, but was not satisfactory from a financial point of view, as we found ourselves 9s. on the wrong side. The hat was taken round, and the deficiency was promptly made up, squaring us up for the year. We are very pleased to come through with such a small debit. It is a great pity so many northern shows are held on the same date. Decided not to hold an open show in 1913, but that we hold a members' show on November 15th to try and replenish the funds a little. Officers elected for 1913 as follows: —Chairman, Mr. G. Barkas; vice-chairman, Mr. M. N. Gardiner; committee, members; assist. sec. and treas., Mr. R. Johnson; sec., Mr. E. Jamieson, 59, High Westwood, Hamsterley Colliery, Co. Durham. Secretaries and others, please note secretary's address.—Lindsay and Marsh.

WATFORD C.B.S.

Annual meeting held at Essex Arms Hotel, Jan. 7. Mr. R. J. Pretty, chairman, presided over a good turn up of members. The Hon. Sec., submitted the balance-sheet for the year. The annual show balance-sheet showed a balance on the right side, and the sheet for the year showed a balance in hand of about £4. The sheets were handed round to the members for inspection, and comment was general on the highly satisfactory condition of the society, the Hon. Sec. being congratulated on clearing a debt of about £4 to a profit of about the same amount, which is a credit to him. Office-bearers were elected as follows:—Chairman, Mr. R. J. Pretty; vice, G. Swain; hon. sec., W. Rackley; committee, Messrs. W. Buckingham, Bunce, Campbell, Cox, Dumbleton, Fox, Findley, Knight, Sear, Wombell, and T. Wright. It was arranged to have a judging competition of matched pairs for breeding instead of an ordinary pair show, at a date to be arranged in February. Mr. J. Goodall to judge. A discussion took place about having an open show, but it was advisable not to have an open show this year, but with another good year we may be in a position to have an open show. Mr. R. J. Pretty then presented the medals, etc., to the winners at the annual show, and votes of thanks to Mr. F. Easterling and Mr. Campbell for their kindness in giving the medals, and to the Chairman, closed a most enjoyable evening.—W. Buckingham, Club Reporter, pro. tem.

NEWCASTLE-UPON-TYNE C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held January 9th, Mr. T. C. Crawhall in chair. The sec. reported a loss of £1 2s. 3d. on social, but through the generosity of Messrs. Crawhall, Tindale, Holden, R. W. Smith, and W. McKenzie, it was reduced to 8s. 9d. I shall be pleased to receive any subscription, however small, towards the deficit, from any member who is disposed to give anything, as I should like it cleared off, if possible, before the balance-sheet goes to printers. Judges for open show were nominated, and will be elected at next meeting in February. Prize-money for members' classes was paid to those present who were entitled to same. Decided to bear half the cost of timber for show with Gateshead Society. Messrs. Atkinson and Potts were elected as scrutineers in connection with election of officers for 1913. A table show took place with the following result:—YELL.: 1, Smith; 2, Holden. BUFF: 1, Holden; 2, Smith; 3, Fryer. HEN: 1, Smith; 2, 3, Holden. YORKS., YELL.: 1, Dix; 2, 3, Crawhall. BUFF: 1, 3, Crawhall; 2. Dix; 4, Mirley. HEN: 1, Dix; 2, 4, Crawhall; 3, Mirley. BORD., YELL.: 1, Espie. BUFF: 1, Espie. A vote of thanks was accorded the judges, Messrs. Tindale, Potts, and Curry. There will be a table show at March meeting with the following classes: Linnet, Greenfinch, Softbill, Goldfinch or Bullfinch, Siskin, Redpoll or Twite, and A.O. Hardbill, Java or smaller, larger than a Java, and A.O. For. Softbill. Mr. A. Holden won special for most points, given by Mr. Crawhall. Nominations were received for officials for 1913. Please note the annual meeting is on February 6th.—J. W. Reed, Sec.

SOUTH BIRMINGHAM O.S.

Monthly meeting, held Jan. 8th, before a splendid gathering of members. Chairman Willmott occupied his usual place, supported by Vice-chairman Hughes and a full committee. Before commencing business the Chairman wished those present the best of good wishes for the coming season, and a very prosperous one for the society. We had commenced, he said, in good style, as three new members were down for proposal, Messrs. Basely, Smith, and Garry, who were duly elected. Sec. then read report of the past members' show. Although he had to estimate the cost of the printing tickets and catalogues, there would easily be a profit of about £1 10s. (Applause.) Considering the terrible weather it was, said the Chairman, a splendid result. The resignation of Messrs. Day and Child were accepted. Before taking nominations for officers the Chairman requested the members, before proposing any name, especially of those who were not there that evening, to make sure the nominated member would act. The following were elected unanimously: President, Dr. Taylor; chairman, E. T. Willmott; vice, J. Hughes; treas, W. T. Harding. The following were proposed for committee, Messrs. Burke, Raby, Clay, Bayliss, Constable, Hall, Wright, Perks, Swinden, and West. On being put to the ballot the following were duly elected: Messrs. Burke, Raby, Perks, Constable, and Wright. Auditors, Messrs. Hall and Perks. Show manager for 1913, J. Wright. Sec., J. Sheppard. Mr. Burke proposed a very hearty vote of thanks to the past officials. Considering the way the past year's work had been done, they had been a credit to the society. The Chairman moved, on behalf of the officials, a vote of thanks to the members for their appreciation of the work done. All had done their best to make the South Birmingham the premier society. Although the total of names appearing on the books stood at 74 that evening, he should instruct the secretary to approach any who had not paid up to the end of the year, and so make sure how we stood in regard to official numbers of names on list. The evening's business concluded with a very hearty vote of thanks to Mr. Leckie for the use of the room, and the improvement of the lighting of same, also to show manager Wright for the excellent way he had managed all shows in 1912. Mr. Wright suitably responded. We hope all will make an effort to attend the February meeting, when, besides the balance-sheet of the year, a novel debate is being prepared.—J. Sheppard, Sec.

My sole address for bird business is 43, Rae St., Stockport, writes Mr. F. Cockerill.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.).

The annual subscription (2s. 6d.) to the Yorkshire C. and C.B.S., of Ireland, becomes due this month, writes Mr. C. Lattimore, the Sec.

Secretaries and friends please note I have purchased two houses in Sheffield, and gone to live in one myself, 75, Scott Road, Pitsmoor, writes Mr. R. D. Parlett.

All prize-money has been paid for the Craven Arms and Ludlow Show, writes Mr. J. Creasey. Not one class filled, but we had the best of quality, if not quantity.

Will secretaries who are including Field-moulted Linnet classes in their schedules forward one to us? write Messrs. Bell and Nelson (7, Main-st., Frizington, Cumberland).

Mr. J. C. Barnes (Sheffield), we hear, has been appointed judge of the Sheffield O.S. Nest Feather Show, July 5th, also the open show of the Coventry Godiva C.B.S., held October 25th.

Buck up, fanciers, writes Mr. H. C. Peerless, and if you are in favour of the Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show dates falling on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday in 1914, please send a post-card to that effect to J. W. Ramsden, Esq., at once.

Mr. W. E. Allen writes that he has resigned the secretaryship of the Grantham and Dis. C.B. Society. All future matters concerning the society should be addressed to the newly-elected secretary, Mr. H. Lowther, 26, Agnes Terrace, Grantham.

I wish to inform you, writes Mr. Arthur Hudson, 9. Methuen Street, Vickerstown, Barrow-in-Furness, that I have been elected secretary of Barrow and Dis. C.B.A. Therefore, all communications in connection with the above association should be addressed to me.

We hear from Mr. Ramsden, show manager, Crystal Palace show, that Mrs. Askham will present a drop action silver pencil for best vhc Mule or Hybrid. Donor not competing. Also that the Crystal Palace Co., are enclosing the sides of the show, so as to exclude all possibility of draught.

Mr. A. Brown's name was left out of list of nominated judges for our annual show, writes Mr. W. Elliott, sec. West Stanley C.B.S. It was my mistake. I hope all members will turn up on Saturday, 1st prox., at the club room at Commercial Hotel for the final selection of two judges.

Kindly convey through the columns of your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, my thanks to Mr. Clelland, secretary, and the officials of Larkhall Society, for the quick return of my birds from show, writes Mr. Thos. Bell (Bo'ness). I think if they would give more cage bird classes they would have even more success.

All prize-money has been paid and specials and prize cards have been posted, writes Mr. J. Jeffrey, Sec. Sunderland Show. The following are corrections in catalogue: Class 22, Novice Border: Special won by T. Davison, not J. G. Greason, and Class 39, Foreign, P. Arnott wins special, not A. C. Young.

The Anfield, Everton and Dis. C.B.S., writes Mr. R. R. Wright, has elected to the chair a true Yorkshire sportsman in Malcolm E. Wilson, Esq. (Halifax), who presents a handsome 5 guinea gold medal to run in conjunction with the 50 guinea challenge cup. Mr. A. Nimmo (Liverpool), winner of the G.C.A. cup and other trophies, has joined the society.

We shall be glad, write Messrs. Burton Bros., 126, Lee Road, Lee Green, S.E., if you will state in CAGE BIRDS, that, owing to the resignation of Messrs. Barton and Barton, we have been appointed secretaries of the New Cross and Dis. C.B.S., and hope that all members will give us the same support in the future as they have given the late secretaries in the past. We shall be glad to hear from fanciers wishing to join the society.

Secretaries please note, write Messrs. Metcalfe and Deacon, Hon. Secs. Liverpool O.S., that we are holding our open show on Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st next, in St. Martin's Hall, Scotland Road. We have engaged four specialist judges.

The Southend and Southern Counties O.S. will hold an open show, all prize-money guaranteed, on Nov. 4 and 5, in a large room adjoining the "Blue Boar" Hotel, Prittlewell, kindly lent by Mr. Hunt. Messrs. Deer and Cundy, hon. secs., write hoping that other societies will not fix same dates. There will be a members' pair show on Feb. 12.

Post your entries to-day for the Crystal Palace Cage Bird Show. Send with same an advt. for breeders' card page; price 2s. 6d.; the cheapest advt. ever offered. Price your birds at the lowest price you are prepared to accept for same. Hundreds of purchasers attend the show willing to buy at reasonable prices. The show opens at three o'clock on Friday, 7th, and closes at four o'clock on Tuesday, 11th.—(Advt.)

WHERE ADVERTISING PAYS.

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once.

Advertise, and see for yourself.

I got 126 letters in all from my small advert. in "Cage Birds"; truly a record!—W. Brown (Ightfield).

My advert attracted widespread attention. Have had enquiries even from Canada, and the most remote districts in Ireland. Surely your circulation must be increasing every day.—C. A. O'Reilly (Dublin).

I wish to thank all those who wrote in answer to my advt. My Plainheads are all gone. I have replied to all those sending stamps; the others are far too numerous to reply to individually.—J. McNaughton (Dunipace).

My last advert. in "Cage Birds" of Bullies and Goldies brought too many replies to answer. I accepted a cash offer. I wish to thank all those I did not reply to. The result speaks well for "Cage Birds."—W. Conie (Raunds, Wellingboro').

Pleased to inform you that I have sold 8 40/- aviaries through my advert. in your last issue. For such a small outlay I consider it is marvellous. Have sent them to England, Ireland, and Wales. I wish "Cage Birds" every success.—J. Martin (Castle Douglas).

In response to my advert. in "Cage Birds" I had replies galore. I was very quickly sold out. I also sold other birds which were not advertised. I have returned all postal orders to senders, which I hope reached them safely. This just proves that "Cage Birds" is THE advertising medium of the Fancy. I wish it every success.—Alfred R. Jay (Southfields).

Please thank, through your valuable paper, "Cage Birds," all those who replied to my advert on Jan. 4. They numbered 37, and it is impossible for me to write them all. This speaks well of your paper, and I advise all bird lovers, sellers, and buyers to use "Cage Birds."—H. C. Bingham (Long Sutton).

Owing to regrettable omissions by our printers in the addresses of two of our advertisers, Mr. H. H. Towers, 8, Colne Rd., Glusburn, near Keighley, and Mr. A. Campbell, 16, Collison St., Nottingham, those of our readers who have replied to the advertisements may either have had their letters returned, or experienced delay.

You must visit the City and Suburban's Pair and Finch Show (it is the best ever held) to-day (Saturday, Jan. 25), at the Church Institute, 60, Paddington Street, Marylebone, W. Over 220 entries; London's unique collection of pairs of Canaries and British and foreign birds. Nothing to compare with it has ever been seen. The "brains" of the bird Fancy will be there, so don't miss knowledge you may be desirous of acquiring. (Advt. 407.)

A wonderful little invention has been secured by Mr. W. Rudd, the noted bird specialist, of Norwich, one for which, when its merits become known, we anticipate a great sale. It should be a welcome item in every bird-room, whether the fancier keeps few birds or many, as it not only saves his pocket (and incidentally, of course, soon saves its own cost). but it makes for the better health of his birds, as it ensures the seed being always clean and free from dust, husks or rubbish of any kind. This invention is a machine well named the "Little Wonder." All that the fancier has to do when feeding the birds is to empty the seed from the hoppers into the machine, and turn the handle, when all the rubbish is "blown" one way and the cleaned seed falls out another way. It is wonderfully simple, reliable and effective. Saves time, trouble and labour, and keeps the bird-room clean (no husks being blown all over it), and the cost is quite small.

Our Gem Portrait Gallery of British Birds

It has been brought to our notice that some faulty copies of Mr. Norman's coloured plate of last week were put into circulation through an error on the part of an employee of our colour-printers. They should really have been thrown out as waste, as the colour values were wrongly rendered, and, in one or two cases, the printing was out of register. We very much regret this. Should any reader have one of these faulty copies, we shall be glad to send a perfect plate free of charge, to replace it, on hearing from him.

A Warm Welcome.

We hear that the members of the City and Suburban A.C.B. have welcomed the return of their valued friend, Mr. V. Wynn, to the posts of hon. secretary and treasurer by according him a record entry at the pair show being held this Saturday (Jan. 25).

After the Colour-food.

Heard at the headquarters of the Sutton in Ashfield and Eastfield Side C.B.S. A certain local fancier, after a visit to the Hurthwaite aviaries, said: "We have some Canaries at our house, but if the other birds are Canaries, then mine must be consumptive!"

Tunbridge Wells Show Report.

The awards in the non-fed Yorks class should read: 1, 3, Cross; 2, Bousfield; 4, res., Wraight, and not as printed in our report. The awards in the Members' classes were: Canary: 1, 3, Wraight; 2, Greenaway; 4, Bellamy; res., c, Walker; vhc, Richards; hc, Hurst. Brit.: 1, 3, 4, Dunning; 2, Borman; res., Tickner.

We are asked to call attention to the fact that the specials (both cash and points) of the Crested Canary Club are being competed for at the Crystal Palace Show, also that the prize-money is guaranteed according to the rules. We hope Crest fanciers will rally round the great national fixture, and afford visitors and the Fancy generally a chance to see a representative collection of the present-day gems of this variety of Canary.

The L.C.B.A. Annual Dinner.

The 24th annual dinner of the London Cage Bird Association will, writes Mr. T. R. Trower, be held at the Sheraton Hall, Piccadilly, on Monday, February 8th, at 7 o'clock; R. L. Crisp, Esq., chairman. Tickets 4s. each, which can be obtained of Mr. F. Knight, 20, Station Grove, Wembley, N.W. First-class musical talent has been engaged. Country fanciers visiting London will be welcomed, and can be assured of a good dinner and pleasant evening.

Our Photographs of Societies.

The supplement of last week contained a number of photographs of gatherings of fanciers, and the following lists of names of those appearing thereon have been supplied us:—Harrogate Linnet Club: Reading from left to right—back row, Messrs. Owing to confusion with the photographer (Slimming, of Cowdenbeath), the picture of the Kelty and Blairadam C.B.A. was inadvertently described as the Cowdenbeath C.B.A.

Excursion from Bradford to Palace.

Intending visitors to Crystal Palace Show from Bradford and District are reminded, writes Mr. H. Hill, that the Midland Railway Co. are issuing excursion bookings from Bradford to St. Pancras, on Friday, February 7th, for 1, 4, or 6 days. Trains will leave Bradford Midland Station at 10.45 p.m., according to present arrangements; see handbills for confirmation or alteration. Every accommodation will be made for passengers by this excursion, Enter at Once.

Exhibitors should not overlook the fact that entries for the forthcoming Great National Cage Bird show at the Crystal Palace are due to close this week-end (Jan. 25). Following the usual custom, no extension of time will be made, and no "whip-up" cards will be sent out. This year a new method of dealing with the temperature of the show arena—a method which, we hear, gave excellent results at the last cat show—will be in force. This promises to reduce the risk of draughts to a minimum, and to ensure the atmosphere being kept at a uniform temperature. Entries and all communications should be sent to Mr. J. W. Ramsden, show manager, 11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton, S.W.

Faithful Service Rewarded.

The numerous friends of Mr. J. H. Scothern, of Nottingham, will congratulate him on the splendid recognition life-long devoted service on his part has met with from the head of his firm. Mr. Scothern some few years ago was a very successful breeder and exhibitor of the Crested Canary, officiated as judge at some of our foremost shows, and was recognised as a leading authority upon the breed, concerning which he wrote many clever articles. The nature of his good fortune is conveyed in the following paragraph taken from a daily contemporary: "A bequest of 10,000 £1 shares in his business is made to his manager, John Henry Scothern, by the will of Mr. W. G. Gregory, of Clumber House, The Park, Nottingham, a lace manufacturer, of Messrs. W. G. Gregory. The bequest is 'in recognition of his faithful services to me.'" Mr. Gregory, who was seventy-nine years old, left estate of £129,090 gross value." Mr. Scothern, we may add, was a very popular fancier, and everyone who knows him will wish him well.

Absolutely Your Last Chance!

THE BUSINESS OPPORTUNITY OF THE YEAR!

Beyond doubt CAGE BIRDS 1913 Annual presents all who cater for the needs of fanciers with an unequalled opportunity to do big business throughout the year. At the request of a number of intending advertisers we are accepting advertisements for a few days longer.

The Power of the "Annual"

No other medium ever published will so surely convince ambitious bird-keepers of the need for a complete outfit, and in the result a keen demand will be created, amongst the readiest and biggest buyers in the Fancy, for good cages and appliances, sound seeds, foods and medicines, and for stock and exhibition birds of every variety.

Those advertisers whose announcements accompany the wonderful articles showing the need for the above essentials will receive first consideration, especially as in no small degree the ANNUAL will be regarded by its thousands of readers as a guide to those whose transactions are reliable.

Big Benefits from Small Outlay.

ANNUAL publicity is at once the cheapest and most profitable ever offered. A full page costs only about 6d. per week. Rates are: Whole page 20s.; half-page 10s.; quarter-page, 5s.; one-eighth-page, 2s. 6d., for trade advertisers and judges of cage birds. Then for the breeders, cards are inserted following the only review of their respective varieties during the past show season, at 5s. per inch, 2s. 6d. per ½ inch.

A free copy of the ANNUAL will be posted to all spending 5s.

If you sell cages, appliances, seeds, foods, medicines or birds, let the ANNUAL help you to sell more than ever you've done. If you are a judge, let the ANNUAL bring you a full list of engagements.

ANNUAL publicity will do all these things, and will also increase the membership and scope of any society or club that is enterprising enough to take advantage of it.

But Bear in Mind.

You must send on your order AT ONCE if you wish to stake a claim in the vast rich field of business that CAGE BIRDS 1913 ANNUAL will begin to open up at the Palace Show.

See the further particulars given on another page in this issue. Or, if in doubt on any point, write The Manager, CAGE BIRDS ANNUAL, 154, Fleet Street, London. E.C.

INFLAMMATION OF THE BOWELS: ITS CURE AND PREVENTION.

Take all seed and egg food away, and give in two ounces of drinking-water for twenty-four hours as much Epsom salts as will lie on a sixpence. Catch the bird and give it one or two—not more—drops of rape oil in its beak. Some prefer castor oil; either will do, but I have had good results from the use of rape oil. I got the "tip" from an old Lark and Linnet fancier, and I have found it answer very well. Some people don't believe in giving medicine direct into the beak. Certainly it is rather a ticklish job; but if it can be managed at all, I prefer it, as it is a shorter road to the goal to be reached. But for those who object to giving oil in the beak, I advise leaving the Epsom salts in the water for two full days..

There are some fanciers who, on finding a bird ill, will simply give the bird some milksop and a pinch of maw seed, and expect it to get better; never thinking to give the bird a dose of salts. They might just as well sow the wind. In nine cases out of ten they certainly will reap the whirlwind. What causes this disease? Unhealthy surroundings. What causes the bowels to become inflamed? Why, the bacillus in the intestines. Therefore, before any reasonable fancier can expect a cure, he must remove both causes of the complaint; first, by clearing the germ from the intestines of the patient through the medicine, and secondly, looking to the cleanliness and ventilation of his birdroom.

The Medicine and How to Give It.

After the salts have been given the necessary time, give in the drinking water ten drops of tincture of quinine, and six drops of aromatic sulphuric acid, until the patient seems to be entirely clear of the disease, when half a teaspoonful of compound syrup of hypophosphites may be given in place of the other medicine every alternate day for a fortnight, to enable the patient to get thoroughly strong. Of course, it is understood that these quantities are intended for the two ounce drinkers; and under no circumstances should the quantities be exceeded, or the remedy may be worse than the disease, if that is possible.

As I have mentioned previously, all seed must be withheld for two or three days, and no egg-food must be given until the patient is entirely well, or, at least, free from the disease. Feed entirely on milksop, prepared as follows (there are many ways of preparing it, but I prefer it made in the following manner): Take a one pound jam jar, and a medium sized saucepan, one thick tea biscuit and a round of stale bread. Fill jar with bread and biscuit (broken up) to within an inch of top, and pour milk and water (in equal parts) to just cover the bread. Add one teaspoonful of sugar. Put jar in saucepan half filled with water and boil over a slow fire for nearly an hour, when the sop becomes like a thick jelly. It may then be allowed to cool, and is ready for use. It will require stirring up three or four times while boiling. If it appears too thick, more milk may be added; but after once making it, one can generally judge whether or not it will be all right. This sop, I find the birds eat readily, and it will last a week almost without going sour.

This food is very easy of digestion, and has no equal for an ailing bird. When the patient has had milksop for two days, it should be showing signs of recovery, when plain canary seed and a pinch of maw seed may be allowed each day; but no egg-food yet for a week.

We will now return to the remaining birds of the clutch. They might not at the time show any signs of illness; still, it is better to be on the safe side. They must be removed to a clean cage, and a dose of salts be given them in the water for twenty-four hours; afterwards medicine as for the ailing bird for another two days. All seeds must be taken away, and a milksop diet must be given for two days, when the egg-food and seeds may be returned.

The cages of all ailing birds should be cleaned out daily, and fresh sawdust put in, else the patients stand a fifty per cent. less chance of recovery, owing to the presence of the germs in the excrement. Always burn the refuse from the cages of affected birds.

Always Be on the Safe Side.

The remaining youngsters, (i.e., other than the brood referred to) should be carefully watched; for one day a dose of salts should be given them all round, with a tonic on the succeeding day. Always remember that, even if a bird is not ill, a dose of salts will do it no harm; and it is always better to be on the safe side.

I should here like to say a few words about that old-time remedy for inflammation—painting the abdomen with turpentine. I have tried this remedy personally—I don't mean on my own person, of course—and I have found it wanting. I had two birds attacked by this disease a few years ago, when I wasn't so well acquainted with up-to-date methods, and turpentine was what I treated them with. I caught the birds, and painted the abdomen with a camel hair brush, and returned them to the cage. After waiting about five minutes, the birds seemed to buck up wonderfully, and they jumped about the cage as sprightly as if they had never known what illness was. I thought well, this is a "bit of all right," and no mistake; those birds are soon cured. So I left them for half an hour. On returning, I found them, as bad as they were before. I thought—well, that's funny; perhaps they haven't had enough. So I gave them another dose. Results were just the same for about another half-hour. But they died. The only logical conclusion I can come to is that the turpentine had the power to ease the pain for a short time, and for a short time only.

Prevention is the Best Poicly.

No matter what the disease may be, nor on what lines a cure is effected, there is one thing that will always beat a cure, and that is prevention; and if these directions are followed by the breeder, the chances of his being visited by the disease are reduced to a minimum, if not to certainty. In the first place, there should be efficient ventilation; and during hot weather there ought to be facilities for extra ventilation in the form of windows to open. My windows are made to slide one behind the other. Further, I have a wire door to replace the ordinary door. I don't mind a little breeze blowing through the windows; on days such as I mean the windows to be open, the wind, such as there is, is usually warm. Of course, I am assuming that the breeder will use his discretion; but I would remind him that fresh air never killed a bird yet.

Use sawdust for the cage bottoms that has been prepared as before mentioned; it gives off a pleasant odour, and keeps the room sweet. Fresh water should be supplied twice a day during very hot weather. Cages ought to be cleaned out not less than twice a week between the end of May and the end of August. Food pots are better if kept sweet by washing once a day in water that has had a little of the disinfectant added, and I always keep a dry cloth hung up in the birdroom for wiping out the food pots at each feeding time.

When Weaning the Young.

When weaning youngsters from the parents, I always use sand on the cage bottoms, until I see them all on food. My reason for this is: If not properly on food, a young bird when hungry will nibble at anything that is white, and might possibly swallow a few grains of sawdust; in fact, I have known a case or two where they have done so. Happily, tardy youngsters are few. I don't experience much trouble in weaning them myself. When I know them to be all on food, I replace the sand with the sawdust, and allow some grit in a tin. I clean the cages out every two days, until they are six weeks old, and give plain canary in hopper with a sprinkling of summer rape on top. They don't often touch the seed until they are five weeks old, but it is there in case they do. I give egg-food fresh three times a day, and crushed hemp in addition.

At five weeks, the egg-food may be reduced to a teaspoonful per bird per day; and at six weeks they are better if put into a flight, as they grow much stronger if allowed to use their wings. Egg-food may now be reduced to a teaspoonful per day for about four birds, until it is time to start colour-feeding. Although not really touching this question, it is assumed that while the youngsters have been in the weaning cage, they have been undergoing a course of training in the show cages, especially in the case of Yorkshires. I always make a practice of hanging a show cage on to the front of their own cage to induce them to run in and out of their own sweet will; and I never miss a day running any likely specimen into the show cage and handling him. A few lessons when young save a lot of labour after moulting.

The Virtues of Milk Sop.

I have omitted to mention that between the ages of four and six weeks, I put about three drops of tincture of quinine in their drinking glasses. Of late years, milksop has become a universal food among Canary breeders. I don't know that it requires any eulogy from me, but a few words as to its use may not be out of place. Some fanciers use milksop as a preventive of inflammation. Personally, I don't think that milksop of itself will prevent it. The real cause of the disease lies not altogether in the food, but in unhealthy surroundings, dirty cages, and food turning sour; and unless these three points are well attended to, no amount of milksop will prevent the disease. Personally, I never give healthy birds milksop, neither old nor young; but I give the youngsters one feed of it after weaning, just for them to acquire the taste, so that they will take to it readily when required.

One or two points are well worth remembering. When you notice a young Canary out of sorts, dont leave it for another day to see if it will come all right. It is quite possible that it may, but it is very probable that it will get worse, and that's why I recommend prompt action. As soon as one is noticed ailing, out with him into a cage by himself, and give him a purgative. Another thing to remember is: The simpler the diet, the better for a youngster suffering from this complaint. That is why milksop is an ideal food, its excellence lying in its simplicity and its ease of digestion. Stimulants and tonics are only required when the patient is on the road to recovery.

SEVEN FOREIGN BEAUTIES.

Interesting facts concerning the charming creatures depicted on Mr. Goodchild's coloured picture which accompanied last week's issue.

THE VIRGINIAN CARDINAL (CARDINALIS CARDINALIS).

A truly regal bird, once quite common on the English market, but since the advent of the prohibition laws of the U.S.A., it has become scarce, almost disappearing from the market for a time, although for the past three years, odd males have been obtainable, with an occasional female appearing now and again.

Take a glance at the figure on the plate; note the rich colouring, and fine (shall I say martial?) contour. What a well-balanced bird it is, both in colour and form! Beautiful as the figure is, intense as the crimson hues are, they certainly do not do more than justice to the glistening splendour of the living bird. As a cage bird some of the intensity of the crimson disappears, and is replaced by a more bricky hue, nevertheless the crimson is not irretrievably fugitive like that of the Rose Finches, for instance, but is speedily recovered, if the bird be turned into a natural garden aviary. I can best illustrate this by quoting an instance: Last summer my late friend, Mr. Tinniswood Miller, whose death we have recently had to deplore, presented me with a cock of this species, which had enjoyed cage-life for several years. Though it had received a natural dietary, and had not been stinted for live-food, the rich crimson areas of its plumage had become more or less suffused and obscured by brick-red. This bird has, in my aviary, assumed the full natural depth of colouration, and is now not one whit less fiery a crimson than the figure on our plate, though the past season proved such a trying one, both to man and beast, being at its worst during moulting time.

When caged, the cage should be a roomy one, and hemp seed should form no part of the dietary; canary and white millet will be the mainstay, with a few sunflower seeds, ripe fruit, and, say, six mealworms per diem. the live food can be varied and supplemented during the summer months, by live ants' cocoons, wasps' grubs, and any beetle, spider, or smooth larvæ that can be captured.

A Valuable Hint when Nesting.

When a pair can be procured they are very ready to nest, and quite as ready to use a box for a nesting site as to build a nest in a bush. If a varied and unstinted supply of live food can be kept up and so supplied to them as to make them work for their living, the majority of their young will be reared, but on insectile mixture, seeds, and fruit alone successes will be few and far between, and the young reared will usually be lacking in stamina and comparatively short lived. I would here remark that it may be taken almost as an axiom with insectivorous species that supplying the live food in such a way that the parent birds must work for their own sustenance and that of their brood tends not only to the general well-being of the adults, but is a great factor towards the successful rearing of the young, while, on the other hand, plenty without effort often spells failure and ill-health.

Generally speaking, the Virginian Cardinal is peaceful towards other birds. Some individuals will attack small birds, but I have seen and possessed many that have been perfectly harmless.

THE NAPOLEON OR BLACK-BELLIED BISHOP (PYROMELANA AFRA).

Weavers, like Whydahs, have an eclipse plumage, and they are clad during the breeding season in gorgeous hues, while for the other part of the year their plumage is sombre brown of various shades, the latter being the garb of the females throughout the year. The Napoleon Bishop or Weaver in nuptial plumage is clad in shining velvety black, brilliant chrome yellow, and brown, which gorgeous apparel he wears for about eight months of the year in this country—the arrangement of the colouration is beautifully shown in the plate. When out of colour the male may be distinguished from the female by his yellow eye-streak. The female is of much the same colour and pattern of plumage as a Sedge Warbler but has a distinct eye-streak. During the breeding season she assumes a slightly warmer hue, and the lighter parts become slightly suffused with yellow.

Fussy, but Usually Harmless.

Some species of Weavers are spiteful in a mixed series, but spiteful Napoleons are few and far between. By their fussiness when in full dress, and somewhat obstreperous behaviour, they sometimes disturb the other cage or aviary inmates, but to no serious extent, unless the birds are really over-crowded—that is, too large a number in a limited space. The species has not been bred in captivity in Great Britain, and the conditions most likely to induce it to do so would be a natural aviary containing some growing bushes and trees, and one corner kept rather swampy to encourage the rank growth of some kind of giant reed-like plants.

The dietary and treatment given for the Paradise Whydah will suffice for this species also. The Napoleon Bishop or Weaver, according to my experience, is quite hardy, and may be kept out of doors all the year round. This short account of the Napoleon Weaver completes my homely discourse, which I venture to hope may prove of some little practical utility to the keepers of, or those desirous of keeping, the species or groups depicted on our plate.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

WHITE SPECKS ON EYES (J.D.S.C.).—The cause of the white specks is the disease known as cataract, and, unfortunately, there is nothing you can do to cure it. The bird will live healthily, and, to all appearances, happily, just as long as though it had normal sight, I would, however, strongly advise you not to breed with the bird, as the complaint is strongly hereditary.

RUNNING TWO HENS WITH ONE COCK (Jack).—This is quite a simple process. It is not advisable to put all the birds together in one cage, unless it be a very large one, or small aviary. The best method is to put up the hens in separate single breeding cages, or one in each side of a double breeder, with the wooden slide between them, would answer almost as well. Keep the cock in separate cage, when pairing time arrives, and the birds are ready for mating, put the cock with the hen that is most forward and ready for nesting. Leave them together until the hen has laid her third egg. Then put her to sit, and remove the cock, and mate him with the second hen. When the second hen begins to sit, remove the cock and cage him alone again until the first hen is ready for him for the second brood. Then repeat the above process. Both hens are, of course, left to hatch out and rear the young by themselves.

A BALD YOUNGSTER (E.K.).—The fact of the hen laying soft eggs last year is no reason why you should not succeed in breeding from her this season, but I would certainly advise you to reject her for breeding if the head and neck plumage be not reproduced before pairing time. A hen which has this trouble permanently at two years old will transmit a strong predisposition to it to her progeny. Treat her for a month as advised to "Newport, I.W.," in last issue, and, in addition, well mix 20 drops of glacial acetic acid in a teaspoonful of glycerine; keep it in a small phial, and slightly moisten the bare skin with it twice a week for a month. Use it sparingly, and do not apply it quite near the eyes.

MATING AND GROUNDSEL (M.Y.P.).—(1) As far as age is concerned, a one-year-old cock and a two-year-old hen should certainly breed quite healthy progeny, provided, of course, that the birds are themselves healthy and robust. It is, in fact, an ideal mating as far as ages are concerned. The relationship, however, is very close, the birds being half brother and sister, so if there is no other object in view than merely making up a pair, you would be well advised to replace one of them by a suitable and more distantly related, or quite unrelated bird. If you have any particular object in view in desiring to mate these birds, there is no reason why they should not have quite healthy progeny, provided they and their parents were robust and vigorous, and the parents were not the progeny of closely-related unions. (2) I should not give groundsel with the appearance of rust on back of leaves. I have never given it myself, so cannot say whether it is really injurious. Except in summer, when things are growing vigorously, and, therefore, fresh and crisp, the only parts of groundsel I use are the very tips or shoots, and branchlets which contain little flower buds.

OUT OF CONDITION (Pit Laddie).—I'm afraid you are going to pay the penalty this season for taking too much out of the hen last year. Her condition, in comparison with your other stock, should be an eloquent object lesson for you. It is not so much that you need patience now as moderation last season. See? But anyway, try what the following treatment for a few week will do. Keep the bird in a moderate sized cage, in a comfortable, but not necessarily very warm place, free from cold draughts. Keep a good supply of clean gritty sand in cage, and stick a cube of hard common salt in the wires for it to peck at. Give a staple of plain canary only. Every second day give separately half a teaspoonful of summer rape, and a morsel of some green vegetable food, if available, or a piece of apple or banana, the green food preferably. On the alternate days give a similar quantity of crushed stale sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with gold of pleasure seed. After the first fortnight stop the oil and sherry, and give the sponge cake only twice a week, filling in the other days with half a teaspoonful of mixed seed. As soon as you can, get crisp young dandelion, give two leaves every second day. Limit the diet to this. In the drinking water give six drops of dandelion juice and as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence every second day for a week, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid, every second day for a fortnight.

MATE FOR CINNAMON VARIEGATED (C. Pollard).—It would have been best to have said what breed the birds are, and also what you wished to produce. There must have been cinnamon blood in the green variegated cock from which the hen was bred, and therefore I would advise you to follow up the cinnamon colour and pair the hen to a clear yellow pink-eyed cock. If it comes from an even-marked cinnamon strain so much the better, and in that case you might if you wish, choose a bird with very light eye-marks, but otherwise clear.

A BAD COUGH (Koft).—This is quite probable, but the suggestion of bird being troubled with a worm in the throat is rather far fetched. Whilst the latter is not really impossible, the chances of its being so are very remote. Keep it in a comfortable place, free from cold draughts and heated impure air, and in addition to the ordinary seed diet give half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cage with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days add to the drinking water the mixture as advised to "Lizards" in this issue.

TWO NORWICH (Goldfinch).—(1) If this hen is one of a group of several in the aviary, it would be best to cage her separately in a fairly large cage for a few weeks, say, a month, and treat her the same as advised in first part of reply to "Crest" in this issue, in addition giving in the drinking water during the second and fourth weeks four drops of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid, every second day. (2) If the growth on leg does not appear any serious inconvenience to this bird, I would advise you to leave it alone. Otherwise, touch it twice, with an interval of four days between, with a small feather dipped in tincture of iodine. If this does not cause it to disappear in, say, a fortnight, prick the skin with a clean needle, press out contents, and anoint place with a little Lanocyllin daily for a week or so.

HENS SHAKING WINGS (Old Reader).—Your letter gives no symptom that could lead one to form any definite opinion as to what may be wrong, and as the hens seem quite healthy, I am inclined to think there is not much the matter. Do the hens make a kind of low twitter or approach each other when they shake their wings as you say? If they do, all that is wrong probably is that the hens are a little too fresh in condition. Try the effect of putting on a diet of plain canary seed with a supply of green food daily—but do not give dandelion leaves—for a fortnight, and every second day in the first week add as much Epsom salts as will cover a sixpence to the drinking water. Give a bath three times a week, if weather keeps mild, and add a few drops of quassia essence to it. If this does not set matters right, write again, and give some details about the birds.

RESTLESS AT NIGHT (Miss Stamper).—The cage is practically certain to be infested with red mites. Examine it carefully, particularly in joints and corners, and ends of perches, probing any likely harbour with a pin on to a sheet of white paper, when the cause of restlessness will doubtless be quite apparent. Thoroughly overhaul the cage as mentioned in article last week, or, if you do not wish to remove bird, dissolve a cube of camphor in the least quantity of paraffin that will suffice, and, after giving cage a good cleansing twice in a week, go carefully over all joints or crevices, and ends of perches, with a small camel-hair brush dipped in this solution, allowing solution to run well into crevices, etc. A few moments later rub over the places with a duster to destroy any escaping insects. Persevere with this for a few weeks, and also add a few drops of essence of quassia to the bird's bath twice a week. Give a morsel of bred and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar, every second day for a fortnight, and add twenty drops of Chemical Food to the drinking water on the alternate days. As regards the sight, the bird is probably blind with cataract, and nothing you can do will be of any avail.

JAUNDICED CANARY (J.S.B.).—(1) Glad to hear this bird is improving nicely. Such cases are usually very slow to recover, so I think the bird has made very satisfactory progress. Continue the same dietary as formerly advised for another month, unless the bird should appear before the end of that time to be getting too plump, in which case, reduce the frequency of the bread and milk to twice a week, and the banana to once a week. Try, however, to get some wholesome green salad, such as young dandelion leaves, lettuce, or watercress, and give a supply of this daily, when the banana may be at once reduced to once a week. If you cannot get green food break open a grape and fix on end of perch for it to peck at. For the next month add the rhubarb and dandelion juice to the water every second day for a week. In the next week give six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of calumba every third day. In the third and fourth weeks repeat first and second respectively. (2) If the young hen is sound and healthy, I see no reason why you should not mate her with your stock. But keep an eye on her and her progeny, to see if any signs of a predisposition to bronchial trouble manifest themselves. If you really knew that the ancestors of the Palace hen you bought had an asthmatic history, it would be very risky to introduce the blood to your stock, but as there may be a reasonable doubt, you may well take the risk in the circumstances, subject, of course, to keeping a close watch over the result.

"CAGE BIRDS," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

BIRDS AND PLANTS (W.S.R.).—(1) Growing tomatoes and rearing Canaries together under glass, is a combination which, in my opinion, is much more likely to meet with failure than success. I do not know of any similar venture succeeding, so cannot speak from personal experience, but I should be chary of taking the risk. The greenhouse if utilised solely, or nearly so, for the birds, could be made to answer tolerably if you started with a hardy and healthy strain of birds that had not been accustomed to artificial heat. (2) In the latter event it would be most advisable to cover the glass roof in summer with "summer cloud" shading—well known to nurserymen,—unless you went one better and covered it permanently with boards and felt. For the winter you should provide movable wooden shutters to cover about two-thirds, or a little more, of the glass sides. Of these you could put up more or less as the severity of the prevailing weather seemed to necessitate for keeping the interior fairly equable.

PECKING AT SHOULDERS (M.B.).—You do not say whether there is any bare place as a result of this pecking. If there is, anoint it slightly every third day for a fortnight or so with Lanocyllin. Thoroughly examine cage, not the bird, for signs of red mite, and if any are found deal with them as advised to "Miss Stamper" in this issue. In addition to the staple diet of Canary and rape, give a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, slightly dusted with flower of sulphur, and sprinkled with maw seed, every second day for a week, and on the alternate days add six drops of glycerine and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny piece, to the drinking water. Stop giving apple, and substitute in its place a little green food, if obtainable, three times a week. Otherwise, give a morsel of banana or raw carrot instead. Allow bird to bathe three times a week whilst weather is mild.

RESULT OF ESCAPADE (Portable, Rochdale).—It is impossible to tell how a shock of this description will affect any particular bird. If the bird is in good health and has grown a new tail, it may very likely tighten up and gradually come into breeding condition in a few weeks' time. It would be a good plan to turn it into a flight with a few more cocks for two or three weeks, then cage it up separately and keep it where it will hear other cocks singing. Give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a fortnight, and on the alternate days give a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, black rape, millet, and teazle. In the water give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tinct. of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight.

BIRDROOM AND BREEDING (Constant Reader, Worcester).—You give no details which enable me to say much about the suitability or otherwise of your outdoor birdroom. The aspect is good, and with wire door and window frames, the ventilation should be efficient, so if the place is free from cutting winds and damp, it should be quite suitable for any hardy variety which has been bred and reared hitherto under normal condition of temperature. Common Rollers, Nor., Border Fancies, or Yorkshires would be suitable breeds. You have unfortunately made your cage rather low, so on the whole you would do best to begin with Borders or Rollers. A good size for a single breeder is 18 ins. by 10 or 11ins., by 10ins. high, whereas yours are only 13ins. high. You must not change the hens about from one cage to another after breeding season commences. See reply to "Jack" in this issue for particulars about running two hens with one cock.

A KIND OF DIZZINESS (Lizards.—Sorry, but your description of symptoms is really too vague for me to gather anything of importance from them. What is the shaking of the head like? Is it a kind of jerky motion while the breath is ejected through the nostrils with a sort of "sniffing?" And is there any panting, wheezing, or drowsiness? You had better write again and describe how the birds are affected as closely as you can. Meantime keep them in a comfortable temperature, not overheated, but free from cold draughts and impure air. In addition to the staple of plain canary, give a morsel of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with maw every second day, and on the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts rape, niger, and teazle, and a morsel of banana. Give a spray of green food if procurable in good condition three times a week. In the drinking water add six drops of dandelion juice and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, daily for three days, and afterwards 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken in the water every second day for a week or fortnight.

DIET AND DOUBLE-CRESTING (Crest).—It would certainly be most judicious to cage the birds in question separately, and keep them on a quite plain diet for a time. This is especially advisable in the case of the cock that is fat and pants. Give a diet of plain canary only for a month, with a liberal supply of green food, such as watercress, lettuce, dandelion, chickweed, or groundsel, if you can get these in good condition. These things can generally be obtained at this time of the year from market gardeners or nurserymen for a mere trifle. Give half a teaspoonful per bird of a mixture of equal parts red and black rapes, millet, niger, and teazle, once a week, and once a week a similar quantity of crushed sponge cake. Add six drops of syrup of rhubarb, and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence, to the drinking water every second day for a week, then miss a week, and give it again for another week. If you mate two Crested birds one year, you may, of course, continue mating the same pair in future years as long as you like, if you still have need for the kind of material they produce, but none of their progeny that have crests should be mated with other Crested specimens. Therefore, if your pair of Crests breed a Crested youngster, as they undoubtedly will do, you would do wrong to purchase another crest to mate with it. Get a good and feathery Crestbred, with plenty of head-gear, broad and long, and a broad skull and short thick beak.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

GREEN PARROT WITH SORE FEET (W.A.J.).—Bathe or soak its feet and legs in hot water, not hot enough for discomfort, then dry with a soft cloth, and anoint with Elliman's embrocation several times weekly; there is evidently some serious cause of irritation, and the above should give relief. Treat as above for a few weeks, and then report progress. I assume you are dieting this bird as advised regularly in this column. You must not give tea, coffee, or milk slops, table scraps, or any kind of animal food whatever.

BUDGERIGARS AND THEIR EGGS (O. Miller).—I am pleased to note you are now getting some results from your birds. It is quite normal for Budgerigars to go on laying while the fledgelings are in the nest; it means the waste of a few eggs, young birds being in the nest, from a newly-hatched chick to one almost fully fledged. The birds usually stop nesting during the process of the moult, and you should not interfere with them. As regards sleeping quarters, do not trouble further than to have one or two spare husks in the aviary. Sometimes eggs are turned out of the husk during a period of frenzy, arising probably from over-stimulation, and at others the birds will regularly clean out the husk and throw out unfertile eggs. Occasionally a clutch is spoiled by getting thrown out owing to a scrimmage with their neighbours.

AILING GREY PARROT (Taylor).—Give this bird one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia in the drinking water twice weekly for a fortnight, then only once a week. On the intervening days give the chemical food. Keep the seed in the cage, but while it cannot eat this try the following: Take a dry crust or piece of biscuit, well sprinkle with sugar, let ten drops of the chemical food soak into it, then pour over it as much boiling water as the crust or biscuit will absorb. Also get a box of honey and borax and put a little in its mouth daily; it cannot possibly do harm, and will assist in keeping the mouth and throat free from slime; you can easily put a little of the mixture inside the mouth from the end of a small stick, which should, of course, be well cleaned before being dipped into the mixture. After a fortnight report progress.

BUDGERIGAR OUT OF CONDITION (G.R.).—Put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's magnesia into the bird's drinking water daily till the bowels have moved freely, but as soon as the voidings become watery-loose, cease the magnesia, and follow on with a course of Byno-phosphates, half a teaspoonful in the water daily till the bird is toned up. Of course, seeing you have had to wait several days for this reply, the bird may have succumbed (very probable) before you see this reply. In such case, the cage must be well scalded out, disinfected, and distempered before being used for other birds, and if you have a spare cage I should suggest doing this at once, returning the bird to it as soon as it is thoroughly dry, and then the spare cage must be similarly treated. Nutshell No. 9 would tell you how to do this thoroughly.

DOVES (Bagge-Brussels).—(1) All Doves are more or less wild when first turned out. It is a good plan to put new purchases on arrival into a roomy box, and hang this up in the aviary and keep them in this for two or three days, then leave the door open and leave them to find their own way out at their leisure. A bird that was banging itself wildly about the aviary should be at once caught, and either caged for a time or have one wing cut (tying the first six flight feathers together answers the same purpose), thus partially taking away the power of flight for a time. (2) Picui or Diamond Doves, or Australian Crested Pigeons, would fulfil your conditions, but I doubt their breeding in a cage; also you must keep the Bantams under observation. I once tried keeping fowls and domestic pigeons together in the same run, but after having several killed, I had to remove them.

VIRGINIAN AND OTHER CARDINALS (Barlow Manicks).—You make no mention of the size of the aviary, but you can keep with the Virginian and Red-crested Cardinals such as Orange-headed Ground Thrushes, Grey-winged Ouzels, Green Cardinals, Rufus-necked Weavers, Cow Birds, Malabar Starlings, the larger Whydahs, also one or two species of Doves, a pair of Quail, some species of Hawfinch, Mocking Bird, and Spectacled Thrush, according to size of the aviary. Of course, it is not suggested that more than one pair of each species be included, and it would require a roomy aviary to house all the above; all are birds of character and interest. See Mr. Weston's column for reply to British bird query.

BREEDING BUDGERIGARS (Wallitorn).—I should leave these birds entirely to themselves; if they are kept free from draught, at the same time the room must be properly ventilated, they will take no harm from nesting at the present time. The only risk you will run is that of egg-binding, mostly occasioned by a sudden chill. However, as you would probably gain but little by interference, I repeat, leave them to themselves. The probability is that if you removed the husk, the hen, if really ready to lay, would drop her eggs from the perch, or deposit them on cage floor, thus you would not escape the risk of egg-binding. Diet: Canary, white millet, spray millet, a few oats, green food, cuttlebone, and grit, will suffice for their single needs. Our Nutshell No. 18, 2½d. post free from our Manager, would help you.

NONPAREILS, WEAVERS, ETC. (T.G.S.).—(1) Your bird will certainly be better brought in at once, but do not make the change too sudden; that is, it would be better in a cool room at first than a heated one. Such weather as we are having is very trying to outdoor birds, far more so than sharp frost or dry cold. In the aviary six to twelve mealworms per day would not be too many, and in the cage I should let it have two in the morning and the same number again in the afternoon. For one day make the drinking water just saline with Epsom salts, and follow this by putting half a teaspoonful of Byno-phosphates in the water till the bird is properly toned up. (2) I take it that the birds you refer to are the Crimson-crowned Weaver

(Pyromelana flammiceps), but the sketchy description given would equally fit the Grenadier. (3) The Pintail Nonpareil is merely a Long-tailed Parrot Finch, and is very difficult to establish, but once this is accomplished, they are fairly hardy, and in southern counties may be wintered out of doors; there are instances of this having been done in the north as well.

BRITISH BIRDS, MULES AND HYBRIDS.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

A SEED SAMPLE (D. Price). I do not see anything wrong with the seed you send, in fact, it looks very clean and nice. That it could have had anything to do with the death of the hen Bullfinch seems somewhat improbable.

MANAGING A SKYLARK (W. H. L., Derby). Your best plan would be to get a copy of the "Nutshell" booklet upon the Skylark. It is only 2d., or 2½d. by post (there is an agent in your town who would stock it). In it you will find information upon every point of management and full details concerning the food.

SEXING A CURLEW (Miss Mussicks).—This question is a little out of my line, the Curlew hardly being a "cage bird." Judging by the books of reference I have consulted, there is no sexual difference in the plumage; the female, however, is invariably the larger bird. I gather that both sexes utter the characteristic note of the species.

MULING IN AN AVIARY (Old Reader).—The place you describe is a fair size and suitable enough in its way, but, as I have frequently stated, I am not enamoured of attempting to breed Mules by means of a number of couples all flying loose together. It is not the best way; it is a kind of happy-go-lucky method, for one has little or no control over the birds. Some hen Canaries will fight like the very deuce when the breeding fever comes upon them should they be left in the company of others of their kind. The same remark applies to cock Goldfinches, most of whom, in fact, "enjoy" pummelling their kith and kin at any and all times. I really think that the best "mixture" for your place would be 3 or 4 hen Canaries, 2 cock Goldies, and a cock Linnet. I hope they will agree and do well.

A MATING PROBLEM (Fussy).—I have never yet seen a Hybrid produced by the mating of a cock Bullfinch with a hen Canary, so am only able to supply you with a guesswork, so to speak, reply. I should not expect to find the colour of the progeny better than in those which had a Canary as the male parent—that is, of course, providing the latter was a really rich-coloured specimen. It is not easy to imagine how some of the best of the present-day Canary-Bullies could be excelled in colour. You could not possibly beat a yellow green, or heavily green-marked Canary hen, of stout (Norwich) build, possessing a broad head. The same description would apply to the Canary cock, too.

A GOLDFINCH'S BLAZE (Mac).—The colour is not likely to improve now until well on into the spring; when the bird comes into breeding condition it may improve. As it is a young Finch, it is quite likely that the blaze will come a much better colour after the next moult, providing you manage to moult him early and quickly, and under proper conditions. The blazes of all birds are "brassy" in colour (more or less), when the moult has just been completed, but they should rapidly deepen until of the desired crimson shade.

IN AN AVIARY (Bugler, Kirkdale).—For my opinion upon the breeding of Mules and Hybrids in an aviary containing a flock of birds, note the answer I give another querist this week. (1) Your place would hold 5 or 6 hen Canaries, and 4 or 5 cock Finches (say, Goldfinch, Greenfinch, Redpoll, and two Linnets). (2) If put into the aviary towards the end of March (during a favourable spell of weather) they should breed this coming season. (3) Don't interfere with the eggs, and feed the hens on the same lines as those kept in cages. (4) Yes; a cinnamon hen would breed the same as any other variety of Canary hen. The Mules would probably be dark, of the usual type (i.e., similar to those bred from green-marked hens, except that I find them hardly so well marked). (5) It would decidedly be better to confine yourself to Canary hens. (6) It is a good idea to run each pair in a large cage for a time before turning them into an aviary. Nothing is lost by so doing; at the same time, it is by no means absolutely necessary.

BRITISH BIRD & HYBRID QUERISTS

should consult Houlton's great work, "Cage-Bird Hybrids" (7/6); Norman's "British Bird Manual" (2/3); or Part 1 "Hardbills" (1/1), Part 2 "Softbills" (1/1); "Aviaries, Bird-rooms, and Cages" (2/3); "Seeds, Foods, and Wild Plants" (1/2); "Secrets of Hybrid Breeding" (1/2); Dr. Creswell's "Hygiene of Bird-keeping" (1/1); Dr Clarke's "Septic or Bird Fever" (7d.); "Colour-feeding" (3½d.); or the "Nutshell" booklets (2½d. each): No. 1 "Goldfinch," No. 2 "Linnet," No. 3 "Skylark," No. 4 "Song Thrush and Blackbird," No. 11 "Bullfinch," No. 13 "Chaffinch," No. 15 "Greenfinch," No. 22 "Siskin, Redpoll, and Twite," No. 25 "Small Insectivorous Birds," No. 26 "Large Insectivorous Birds," No. 6 "Ailing Birds and How to Cure Them," No. 9 "Disinfection of Cages, Birdrooms, etc.," No. 12 "How to Moult British Birds." All thoroughly practical and instructive. Prices quoted are post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

TWO AND SOME CANARIES (E. G. S. Everard).—Norwich hens are more suitable for muling than Roller hens, unless you merely want to breed songsters. The Greenfinch will sing when the breeding season gets a little nearer; it will be a sign that he is in breeding condition, when he will fly about flapping his wings and "breezing" for all he is worth, and paying unmistakable attentions to the hen Canary. Feed him as recommended in the "Nutshell" booklet. I don't see any object in keeping him by himself. Let the two be together until you turn them into the aviary. (2) It is most likely due to the bird not bathing. Invest in a bird spray and use this on him every other day or so. Dissolve a good-sized saltspoonful of boracic powder in each breakfastcupful of water used for spraying purposes.

A QUINTETTE (Haw).—(1) Two or three mealworms every other day are quite sufficient for a Hawfinch, except during the moulting season. (2) Not absolutely necessary for a Greenfinch; not many of these birds, in fact, care a great deal for mealworms. (3) Give the colour-food in a good quality insectile mixture. I seldom experience trouble in getting Hawfinches to eat soft-food during the moult, at which period they seem to welcome and relish it as a change of diet. (4) I have seen some genuine English Hawfinches quite as large as any that ever come over from "Siberia." There is no doubt, however, that the Continental Hawfinches are larger birds taken on the whole, though I have seen many very small specimens amongst them. (5) My own opinion is that British Greenfinches and Linnets are better, on the whole, than those which come over from the Continent.

A CHAFFINCH OUT OF CONDITION (Anxious). You should increase the mealworms to 3 or 4 daily until the bird picks up in condition, and offer some cracked white sunflower seed daily in addition to the seeds you mention; also give teazle in the stock mixture. See if he will eat some soaked teazle, as frequently mentioned in my replies. For 24 hours let the bird have 10 drops of syrup of buckthorn in two tablespoonsful of drinking water. Afterwards substitute a small half-teaspoonful of compound syrup of hypophosphites (any good chemist will supply it) for the buckthorn. Give it fresh daily for four successive days, then on alternate days over a period of about a fortnight.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post-mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this and any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

GENERAL.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

Ebor.—Very many thanks for your kindly efforts on behalf of CAGE BIRDS. If at any time we can be of assistance to yourself, we are yours to command.

A. Spencer.—Always pleased to publish reports; no charge is made. We wish your new society the best of luck.

G. Johnson.—Your letter has been duly forwarded.

T. Gilbert.—Many thanks. Will find a corner for the photo in due course.

J. McCorrisken.—The abbreviations are of terms well-known to fanciers; for instance, unflig. means unflighted; ck., cock; yel., yellow; mkd., marked; var., variegated, etc., etc.

LINGFIELD.

Held Jan. 22, in the Victoria Memorial Hall, a capital building for the purpose. The birds were comfortably staged at the top end, and entries were in excess of last year. There was a nice class of Yorks., some good British, and a really fine lot of Hybrids. The show was ably managed by Mr. Jones. Mr. M. Crust placed the awards.

The Critique.

NOR., BUFF: 1, Terry, bold cl., nice qual. feather, shade long in body, good, clean, bold head, capital col.; hc, Frost and Rogers, very typical, short, capital head, well braced wings, neat tail. CREST OR C.B. (3): 1, 2, Hayward, grand C.B. leading, good width of skull, big, bold body, of capital subs., 2nd fine Crest, neat, well formed, with good centre, good subs. and feather; vhc, Newman, very nice C.B., well lashed, good type and size. YORKS. (9): 1, 2, Wraight, two beauties for type and length, leader hotter col. and a bit better moulded, well up on leg, 2nd real Yorkie, grand length, well braced wings, neat tail, good head, beaten only in colour; 3, Simmons, another smart yell., beautifully moulded, grand wings and tail, well up on leg, tight as wax; vhc, Frost and Rogers, lovely buff, rare length and type, clean as a smelt; hc, Bacon. BORD. (5): 1, 3, Bacon, neat, smart yellow, lovely type, beautifully moulded, grand head, well braced wings, neat tail, in the pink of condition, 3rd typical green, nice size, neat head, well rounded front, tips wings at times, good qual.; 2, Burton Bros. mkd. bird, nice size, neat head and wings, bit stout in build, capital qual.; vhc, Frost and Rogers, smart and typical, might have gone up. HYB. (6): 1, Cheal, varieg. Goldie Can.; 2, Howick, well-known Can.-Bullie, still looking fit; 3, vhc, c, Lamb, his well-known team, dark Goldie leading, Goldie-Bullie, and ticked Goldie-Can., we were quite unable to follow the judge in his placing of the awards in this class. A.O.V. (2): 1, 2, Bulpin, two nice Lizards, leader cl. cap, non-fed, fails in spangling, good wings, wins spl. for best members'; 2, broken cap, we thought better bird of the two, well up in spangling, very fine condition, good body work, capital wing carriage. GOLD. (5): 1, Gregory, nice size bird, good clean cut blaze of capital size, well up in tanning, nice qual. of feather; 2, Newman, another good one, bit wild, nice full blaze, should make a topper; 3, Simmons, extra size, clean cut blaze of good expanse, capital wings; vhc, Wilson; hc, Bignall. we made best in class to-day, well up in col. and polish, full blaze, good wings. BUFF. (4): 1, Bignall, nice shape, good cap and wings, nice tone of col., but not so hot as 2, Newman, big, bold bird, lovely type, marvellous cap and breast col., full of polish, a real topper; vhc, Nash; hc, Bacon. LINNET, ETC. (5): 1, Wilson, neat Linnet, nice nutty col., good wings, fairly well marked, shade small, capital condition; 3, hc, Earl, big, bold bird, beautifully proportioned, sound col., grand wings, a capital specimen; 2, Bacon, good Redpoll, capital size, well mkd., good bib, sound col., in the pink; vhc, Newman.

ANFIELD, EVERTON & DIS. C.B.S.

First smoking concert held Jan. 15, Mr. M. E. Wilson in the chair. There was a good gathering of over 100 present, amongst those present being Messrs. Nimmo Bros., Wilson, R. B. Wright, Steinart, Green, Benson, Young, J. W. Metcalfe, Irvine, Plunkett, Pryor, C. H. Wright, Taylor, Ewin, Maddrell, Kyffin, Bishop, Bell, Royle, Jones, Horner, Lewis, Handley, Skilling, Osborne, Burgess, Ridge, Wray, Parry, Redman, Johnson, Longmore, Shacklady, Green, Blayey, Teir, P. Davis, Tudor, Cooper, Blundell, Redpath, Kelly, Quirk, Williams, Smethurst, F. Jones, Holden, Cutts, Crowe, Sinclair, Noble, Holmes, Burns, Bush, Frankham, Heaton, Walker. Mr. Geoff. Benson in proposing the toast of "The Society," gave a short sketch of its history, giving special credit to the sec. for the very able manner in which he had worked against very heavy odds. Other societies in their formation had had the assistance of old fanciers, but Mr. Wright had had nothing but opposition, and it was really a marvel how he had worked the society up to its present pitch. The Boxing Day show was a huge success in spite of the inconvenience of the day. Mr. Benson went on to say it was the intention of the sec. to start a cycle club shortly for the purpose of getting out into the country to study bird life in its wild state, and also to gather wild seeds for the Britishers at home. Mr. Benson also referred very feelingly to the very sad domestic troubles the sec. had experienced in the loss of his father and one of his children. Mr. Young supported the proposition, and said he heartily endorsed everything Mr. Benson had said. Mr. S. Hadwin proposed the toast of "The Kindred Societies." The secretary, Mr. R. B. Wright, then replied to the toast of the Anfield and Everton Society, and said that owing to his domestic troubles he did not feel very fit for speech-making, but he thanked those present for their kind expressions of sympathy. Mr. Wright then gave a short sketch of how the society had been worked up, and stated that over 100 members, fully paid up, were on the books, and that the society was in a sound financial position. The Lady Mayoress had given a donation of £5, when she opened the show, and the Lord and Lady Mayoress had promised a 50-guinea cup for next season. (When this announcement was made the members sat simply spellbound.) The secretary went on to say that he had received a large number of promises from both Yorkshire and Wales to support future shows. Mr. J. W. Metcalfe replied to the toast of "Kindred Societies," and said the Anfield Society had set a good example in getting local men to judge their shows. The "Visitors and Artistes" was proposed by Mr. G. Holmes in a few well-chosen words, Mr. A. Nimmo replying with a solo, "God Save the King." Mr. Benson, in proposing "The Chair," said they would all agree that Mr. Wilson was quite at home in his new position, and he hoped the members would rally round him and make his year of office a great success. The Chairman, replying, said he would do his best for the society, and declared his intention of giving a gold medal to the first winner of the cup. The musical programme was ably contributed to by the following artistes:—Messrs. H. Green, G. Whitehead, C. Gifford, J. Clements, F. Dreaper, Rudkin, McDuff, McDaff, D. Leamore, Steinart, Burgess, and R. Elliott. During the evening 8 new names were given to the secretary as wishing to join, and anyone writing to the secretary, R. B. Wright, 15, Worcester Drive, Clubmoor, Liverpool, will receive every information. Subs., 2s. 6d. per annum.

Nantwich.—Feb. 7, 8, Hodnett and Sons, Hospital Street. 10 open classes: Nor. 1, Yorks. 1, A.O.V. 1, Mule 1, Brit. 3, For. 1, Sell. 2. Prizes, 10s., 5s., 2s. 6d. Fee, 1s. 6d. Ent. close Jan. 29, to F. Powell, 38, Welsh Row.

NATIONAL GREEN-MARKED NCC.

The competitions for 1912-13 finished at the Bradford West C.B.A. show. There has been some very keen competition this year, and the result is as follows:—The Shackleton trophy, value £10 10s., open competition: 1, Messrs, Ogden Bros., 126 points, the above trophy now becomes their own property, having won it twice; 2. Mr. L. Dykes, 106; 3, Mr. J. Thomas, 87; 4, Mr. C. Morrison, 68; 5, Mr. P. Mason, 56; Mr. E. Stobart 55, H. H. Towers 36, A. Brown and Son 34, J. Bailey 33, H. J. Chittenden 20. Ramsden's special, Ogden Bros.; most points with 3rd prize birds, C. Morrison. Amateurs: 1st, A. M. Craven, 32 points; 2nd, C. E. Hall, 23; 3rd, 4th, and 5th prizes in this competition have not been won, no other exhibitor having competed at the specified number of shows. Junior novices: 1, S. Binns, 36 points; 2, Mr. B. Wood, 28; 3, H. Tasker, 20; 4, W. Long, 18; 5, W. Highley, 17. The above points are counted from catalogues, and should any competitors count their points differently, will they please communicate with me at once, so that the matter may be rectified. Cash prizes will be published later.—E. Clegg, Hon. Sec., Victoria School House, Dewsbury.

To Midland Roller Canary Fanciers.

Sir, Having had several Roller fanciers of Birmingham and district asking if we, the City of Birmingham C.B.S., cannot provide a Roller section for them, it is the intention of the Society to try and do so. Will those fanciers in the district who are desirous of joining, kindly communicate?

A Canary which Lived for Twenty Years.

Sir,—A friend of mine here (Fleet, Hants) has just lost his cock Canary, age 20 years. He bought it in London 19 years ago. It was then supposed to be one year old, but may have been older. I think this should be proof enough for the sentimentalists who are opposed to keeping birds in cages, that it does not in any way shorten their lives, as the bird was perfectly healthy up to a short time before it died.

A Red-naped Lorikeet's Record Show Season.

Sir,—It might be of interest to foreign bird fanciers to hear of the record of our Red-naped Lorikeet. The bird has taken first prizes at the following shows: Blennerhassct, Chopwell, Morpeth, Newcastle (2 firsts), Hartlepools, Carlisle (Border City), Blaydon, and Haltwhistle; second prizes at Alnwick and the Scottish National, and thirds at Gatcshead, Meadowfield, and Sunderland. The nine firsts were awarded by seven different judges. The Lory altogether has been under ten different judges. Surely this is not a bad record for one season.

The Secretaryship of Kippax Linnet Club.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Plows' letter in last week's issue, I wish to inform Mr. Plows he was not re-elected as secretary at the general meeting held Nov. 16, 1912, as there were not sufficient members present to re-elect any officials, so they decided to let it stand over until next meeting. They certainly did arrange for open sing to be held on Jan. 4, which, by the way, was never advertised. Mr. Plows did not attend opening sing, which was his duty; if he had he would not have needed informing about the meeting that was called after the sing to elect a secretary that could devote more time to attend sings. At above mentioned meeting, I was unanimously elected as secretary to succeed Mr. Plows, Mr. O. Potter was re-elected as president, and Mr. J. Wallis as treasurer, so that should satisfy Mr. Plows that it was not a meeting arranged during a Sunday morning walk or fireside chat. Regarding the books, etc., if Mr. Plows wishes the club the success that he professes to do, he will return them the next sing he attends (may it be soon), and I will guarantee the club won't suffer for want of attention from his successor.

Our Gem Portrait Gallery of British Birds.

Sir,—As a student of British birds for the last fifty years, I congratulate you on such a magnificent coloured collection of them as is found in Mr. Norman's plate of last week. It is, as your Mr. Weston says, a good work of reference, and a capital educational factor for the young naturalist. There is only one exception that I take to the accompanying article, which is that we have no "Golden Crested Wren"; it should be Golden Crested Regulus. The Latin name, too, is a little wrong; not Regulus regulus, but Regulus cristatus. I wish you every success in the future.

H. Gould.

Sir,—With regard to Mr. Gould's comments upon the nomenclature of the bird I termed the Golden Crested Wren, this either resolves itself into more or less a matter of opinion, or depends upon which authority one chooses to follow. The latest book touching upon this subject is, I think, that entitled "A Hand-list of British Birds" (published in 1912 by Messrs. Witherby, at 7s. 6d.), one of the chief aims of which is to name each bird "in conformity with the Rules of the International Commission on Zoological Nomenclature." In this trinomials are used to demonstrate the "close relationship of geographical forms of the same species." Thus the bird under notice is termed: "The British Golden Crested Wren, Regulus regulus anglorum," this distinguishing it from the Continental form of the same species. I am aware, of course, that the names put forward by Mr. Gould have been used in the past by numerous ornithologists. Further, I may say that personally I should have termed the bird "The Gold Crest" but as Mr. Norman had inscribed Golden Crested Wren on his plate, I simply followed his lead, it seeming to me a matter of small moment.

The Date of Hartlepools Show.

Sir,—I notice in last week's Cage Birds that Hartlepools Show will be held on November 8, and they are asking secretaries to note, so to avoid clashing. Are they aware they are the ones who are clashing? This date has been ours ever since the commencement of our society, Old Shildon Workmen's Club C.B.S. seven years ago, and you were kind enough to publish through Cage Birds several weeks ago that we still are keeping this date.

Praise for the Officials of Sunderland Show.

Sir,—I feel I should much like to express my sincere thanks to the secretary and committee of Sunderland Show for the splendid manner my birds were packed. In all my experience, which covers a great many years, I never had birds so well packed, and when opened out they were simply as fit as they were at the time they were put in the case, and had sufficient food in the cages to last a couple of days. I wish this was more often the case; it would be some encouragement to keep in the Fancy.

The Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—In your issues of Jan. 4 and 11, letters appear from Messrs. J. F. Morgan and J. Devins, complaining of week-end shows, and as each of them mention Larne I have to enter the field and say a word or two. Mr. Morgan says this Society (Larne) complains of not receiving support from exhibitors from a distance. No doubt he is referring to the report of our show in your issue of Dec. 21; are those not the remarks of the reporter (who who I understand is not a Larne man), and not a complaint from the Society? Larne had not the honour of an entry from Mr. M., so perhaps he does not know that the last show was held on Thursday and Friday as usual; they never had a Saturday show. This year Dublin birds were home by 1 o'clock on Saturday (not bad work). I'm sorry that Mr. Devins had any cause to complain of the treatment received. He has been, I might safely say, one of the best supporters of our Irish shows, and has sent entries every year to Larne. Unfortunately his birds were delayed, when going home from our 1910 show, through the fault of the railway company; they were not despatched from Belfast by their proper train. A member of the Larne Association went with them to Belfast (as they have done every year) and had them delivered early in the day to the G.W.R. If his birds were not returned free this year it was his own fault; his entries came in so late that the Secretary had no time to send him his numbers, much less a risk form. I think all who sent stamped forms got their exhibits back free. Mr. Devins refers to the Specialist Clubs. He is a member of one of them that at one time claimed the title of "The Crystal Palace of Ireland." That society always holds its shows on Thursdays and Fridays, same days as Larne. Why not set their own house in order. They had a very good show this year, but their management was nothing special, seeing that some exhibitors have not yet. received the catalogue they paid for. Another catalogue arrived ten days after the show; it had to be written for two or three times. Mistakes will occur which are to be regretted, but considering all, I think that the Larne Association members deserve great credit for keeping on their show at a loss to themselves; for the past two years they have had to get up a ballot each year in aid of their Society. They don't do like some other Societies, run a show for their own local members and keep the best of the specials for the local classes. The past season was, in my opinion, hurt more by clashing of shows than running them on Saturdays (although I don't approve of Saturday shows). Just imagine four shows on practically the one date! Can this not be improved? I wish all fanciers a prosperous year.

The Early Birds.

Is this 1913's First Brood?

Sir,—I thought it might be of interest to some of your readers to know I have a nest of three Yorkshires hatched this morning, January 21. Am I the first this year? I have another due to hatch on Saturday next, the hen sitting on four eggs.

The Blackburn and District Linnet Singing Association.

Sir,—Allow me to thank you for publishing special meeting at the New Club House, Empire Hotel, Bolton Road. We got about 20 members. Meetings will be held every Friday night at 8. Mr. R. Hayhurst. our late secretary, filled that position for several years, but had to give it up through other business, and I have taken over the duties. Any person wishing to become a member, kindly send his name to me at 57, Johnstone Street, Blackburn, or at the meetings on Friday nights.

Canaries' Claws Drop Off After Hand Washing.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. Claude St. John and "E. G.," I have no doubt whatever myself as to the cause, viz., excessive heat in drying, either in the flannel which comes in contact with the bird's toes, or bottom of the cage while over the range, as the toe-nails are very quickly affected. If "E.G." will modify the heat I think he will find the trouble at an end.

E. J. Davies.

Sir,—A few years ago I had the same thing happen to three of my birds after washing, which I afterwards found out was caused through using too much heat when drying. The birds would fall lame, and the foot would become inflamed, and the toe or toes turn purple; later the toes would dry completely up and drop off. One young hen lost every toe on one foot. I think the mischief is done when your correspondent, "E. G." is finishing them off over the range. I have washed lots of birds since without any harm to them.

The Proposed New Specialist Club for Ireland.

Sir,—Some time ago it was rumoured that the Norwich and Yorkshire fanciers were amalgamated for the purpose of forming a club similar to the late Norwich Plainhead Club of Ireland. In the latter club there were two silver cups, and there was a rule that if the club was dissolved the cups were to be handed over to the Ulster O.A.; but it is now proposed to give one of the cups to the Yorkshire section of the new club. As a subscriber to these cups I do not see what right the Yorkshire fanciers would have to a cup they never subscribed towards, and if fair play is not a thing of the past, I think the cups should be handed over to the Ulster O.A. As Mr. James Stewart was the secretary of above club, I would like to hear his views on above, or any of the subscribers to these cups.

How Can We Make Our Shows Pay?

Sir,—Now that the show season is practically over, one would have thought that most of our show managers would have had something to say under the above heading. As a previous contributor to the subject, I did not write last week, thinking—like Mr. Blincoe—that our secretaries would have been falling over each other to be first in the field to air their grievances, and to give their separate remedies. How are we to account for the apathy shown by our leading men? Is not a subject so important, so vital to their interests, enough to rouse them from their lethargy? Now, secretaries, wake up; dust the cobwebs from your minds. Let us have your views on this most vital subject, and spare not the ink. Mr. Blincoe gets very near the truth when he says that showing is an expensive game when you lose, and not so profitable when you win. I think the only party who seems to win is the railway company. If we could get the railway companies to reduce the fares to and from shows to the ordinary parcel rate, the problem of short entries would be half solved. One of Mr. Blincoe's remedies is the judging of exhibits by points. Perhaps there would be a greater probability of fanciers being satisfied; still, we must not overlook the fact that the system has its drawbacks. For instance, how many judges agree on any one point? No later than the present show season I was one of a group of fanciers—two of whom were well-known judges—surrounding a class at a fairly large show. There was a difference of opinion as to which was the best bird in the class, or rather, which was the best headed bird in the class. Both birds had good heads in the opinion of those present, yet the formation was slightly dissimilar, and those two prominent judges disagreed as to which of the two birds had the best head. The possibility is that if those two birds were competing under No. 1 judge this week he would allow the maximum number of points for the bird of his choice; while under No. 2 judge the week following the other bird would get the maximum. And then the fun would begin. The same remarks apply to other points of a bird. Unfortunately, the difficulty is to get all judges to see alike. Another remedy that Mr. Blincoe would apply is that of less classes for each variety. Undoubtedly that remedy would be efficacious in some varieties, to wit, the one that is the staple breed in Mr. B.'s own district, the Lancashire. Some time ago in a controversy I read that Mr. Naden, an old breeder of the variety, remembered them standing 20 (or was it 30?) deep at Rochdale. I am a few years in the Fancy, and I have visited most shows since I arrived, but I don't remember having ever seen a class of Lancashires that has paid its own prize money. If Mr. Blincoe had these in mind when he wrote that paragraph, I am with him. It is high time the Lancashire breeders trotted their show specimens out, or otherwise consent to to have their classes curtailed. But surely he wouldn't have us curtail the classes of prosperous and progressive varieties like the Norwich, Yorkshire, and Borders? Nay; the tendency is to augment the classification in these popular varieties, the fruits of which I will ask him to note at the shows where the specialist clubs have given their patronage. Not 30, but 50 and 60 deep have they stood this season. I wonder if Mr. Blincoe has unconsciously solved the problem, where he mentions that word "deck-sweepers." It isn't a rare occurrence to read in a show report that two or three men have practically swept the deck so far as the money prizes are concerned. I am aware that these men with long pockets are an acquisition to the Fancy; still, when it is overdone, they have a deterrent effect on the entries at shows. To give an instance, I will mention the Cinnamon classes. For many years now, two fanciers have monopolised the classes, and have practically divided the spoils. Many fanciers look upon them as pioneers. This may be, but no one can say that they haven't a deterrent effect on the entries in the Cinnamon classes, because for a number of years it has been little use any fancier exhibiting when he knew that they would be there. Now, I wonder if it would be better for the Fancy at large if a rule were inserted in our schedules prohibiting any one exhibitor to take more than one prize in a class. If such a rule were to become universal, it would probably have the effect of almost doubling the entries What have others to say?

Short Entries at Shows.

Sir,—I should like to express my views re short entries at shows. At the Portsmouth Fanciers' Show, I entered four birds, and won 1st and one 3rd in selling classes, and hc in the Yorks. hen class. I received prize-money in full, which I acknowledged to the secretary, but mentioned that he had omitted to send my prize cards. To this I received no reply. I again wrote respectfully; I then wrote to the assistant secretary. I still have had no reply. I acknowledge they guaranteed full prize-money, which they carried out, and for which I thank them. I am sure, however, there are many like me who value their prize cards, and if they are treated in this manner, can officials wonder at having short entries at their shows?

String for Net-making.

Sir,—Seeing G. Gibson's letter re string for net-making, I think he will find for thread Kerr's nine cord boot button thread one of the best; I believe this can be got straight from the factory (Paisley). I have always got it locally by ordering it from the drapers by the dozen reels. A pair of nets made from this will do eight to ten years hard wear, if properly looked after, or he can try Coate's crochet cotton, number twelve or fourteen, which he will find is very good to mesh, and also very serviceable, and it will last equally as long. Any draper will supply this; the bulk of the netting sold is made from this, but it is sold as fine thread. I am using a pair made from number fourteen at present, and they have been envied by a good many; they are very soft and light, which is the thing mostly required. For string for arming same I use fishing net twine. I find this does not twist or shrink as other twines. And for rope I use mackerel line; this is very strong, and can be got in different thicknesses according to the size nets required; these can both be got at any good fishing tackle shop. I have used all these with best results. I shall be very pleased to answer any questions on net-making or setting of same. I hope this will help G. Gibson and others.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—I caught a Gull wearing one of Messrs. Witherby's rings at Leamington-on-Tyne, on Jan. 15, 1913. Number on ring: 30162. If Messrs. Witherby would like the rings, I will send them on.

H. DYER.

Sir,—I am much obliged to you for publishing Mr. McConishen's report of the capture of a Greenfinch bearing one of my rings, No. L35. This bird was marked as a nestling, at Torrance, near Glasgow, on May 24th, 1912.

British and Foreign at Annfield Plain F. and F.S. Show.

Sir,—On visiting Annfield Plain F. and F. Society's show on Jan. 4 last, I noticed in the British section, class 90, "Any other Finch not previously mentioned," which was composed of Chaffinches, Brambles, one Hawfinch and a Foreign Goldfinch. There was not a Foreign bird class in their schedule, and on looking down the winners, I saw the same Goldie had got a prize-card. Was the judge to blame, or those who made the schedule out? I should say the latter, because they ought to have made a distinction between British and Foreign. But I will make allowance for it, this being their first venture into the cage-bird section. I hope, however, the same will not occur again.

Can Bronchial Affections in Birds be Cured?

Sir,—Re letter from "Despair" in CAGE BIRDS, 11th inst. I quite intended replying last week, but owing to having several things on hand, I quite forgot. If not too late, should like to advise giving the bird 5 drops of paregoric and 10 drops glycerine well mixed in two tablespoonsful of drinking-water until cured. This is quite my own idea, and I have used it for years with good results—if taken in time. I had a Bullfinch hen with cold, gasping badly, and quite looked to see her on bottom of cage; but after giving a dose of the above, she was quite a different bird the next day, and now shows no trace of a cold whatever, and is well and strong again. I have also used this mixture for dogs (giving larger quantities) and have always found it better than any other mixture or drug of any kind. I hope "Despair" will give this a trial. With all good wishes to yourself and CAGE BIRDS.

Short Entries at Scottish Shows.

Are Clique Judges to Blame?

Sir,—I thank "Lover of Justice" for his timely letter regarding "clique" judging and exhibiting at Scotch shows. I do not know to what particular variety his remarks apply, but I would like to call the attention of exhibitors of Border Fancies to the state of matters in their section. For some time I have been following the shows and show reports pretty closely and what impresses itself very forcibly upon me is the uniformity with which the bulk of the money prizes are awarded to a charmed circle designated by your correspondent a "clique." I am also impressed with the inconsistency of this "clique" judging. The same exhibitors with the same birds have different awards at every other show, but all the outsider can hope for is a vhc or suchlike. He comes in where the cash stops. He may, and I know, often does purchase a winner from one or other of the "clique," but let him show it under any of them and it gets another position—the same position that the "clique" birds get when shown under an outside judge. To ask the why or wherefore of an award is evidently looked on as impertinence by the select band, as you are always answered in the veriest commonplaces: "Your bird was not showing well," "Your bird crosses his wings," or "drops his tail," etc., etc. Why do they trot out such paltry excuses to sensible men—men who know a bird as well as they do? Border Fancy exhibitors should allow them to have a few shows to themselves, and secretaries should give a few outsiders a chance. It would improve the entries and take away any shadow of suspicion from this delightful hobby.

BREEDER OF EVEN MARKS.

Sir,—I quite agree with "Lover of Justice" that there are cliques following some of the Scottish judges. If not, why do they not enter at local shows (in the district), instead of running away about 100 miles from home for competition? In my opinion they are following up the judge under whom they know they will win before they send their entries in, which makes a market for the sale of their birds. How do the judges know their birds? Why, by the different makes of cages, and spars, fountains, seed boxes and so on. But if a uniform cage was adopted by clubs, it would make it more difficult for the cliques to win; also the show committee should have power to disqualify from competition any bird not in a uniform show cage (not the judge). As "Lover of Justice" says, more entries and a bigger draw at the door would be the result. I may state that the uniform cage for the B.F.C.C. was discussed at Carlisle last year, but the club could not see their way to adopt a uniform cage, as it would cause a lot of expense to exhibitors getting in a new stock of cages. On the other hand, see how much expense it causes the unsuccessful exhibitors for entrance fees and railway fares, who very often are entitled to win, but whose birds seem to be in the wrong cages. In fact, I may state that I have seen this tested this year with a bird that has always won under a particular judge in the owner's own cage, but as soon as it was put into another cage it was cardless. The same bird was put out to the same judge the following Saturday in the owner's own cage, and, of course, stood top of the class again. Therefore, it seems that cages win, and not the birds. To help one of the finest hobbies any man can have let us get the uniform cage adopted, and not have shows run on this slip-shod system.

DISGUSTED.

The Date of the Crystal Palace Show.

Exhibitors may Vote on their Entry Forms.

Sir,—Up to date I have received about 40 replies to my letter. Most of the replies are in favour of the days being altered from Friday to Tuesday to Wednesday to Saturday. I should like to have the views of the Palace Show exhibitors. Perhaps they would not mind marking their entry forms "Yes" or "No" in bottom left-hand corner. "Yes" would, of course, indicate the writer being in favour of the proposed change of dates.

J. W. Ramsden.

Sir,—As a breeder and fancier of British birds, living in Willesden, I cannot see the show or enter birds; our closing day is Thursday. It is all right for masters who can leave their assistants to do the work, or for those who have not to work at all, but the assistants, who can run very close to the capitalists in the way of having good birds (I myself did so one year at the Palace), have no chance of getting there. As we are bound by the Shops Act, give us a chance of seeing the great show by altering the dates.

J. FRANCIS.

Sir,—I am one of hundreds of Metropolitan shop assistants who are bird lovers. Our closing day is Wednesday. My friend is another employed Peckham way; his closing day is Thursday. We are desirous of visiting the Crystal Palace show. We close on the Friday, 10 p.m.; Saturday, 11 p.m.; Monday and Tuesday, 8 p.m. The only way we can manage is by asking time off, which perhaps, owing to the compulsory half-day closing, would meet with a refusal from our employers (who are not fanciers). Rather than court this we must give up the idea, and therefore must be content in reading the report in CAGE BIRDS (our only consolation). How many of our friends in the provincial towns are situated likewise? Surely these last supporters and likely catalogue buyers would help to swell the finances. There would be no falling off from the gate on Saturday; many of the Saturday friends are day and half-day trippers, who must perforce leave early, and a good number of exhibits could be despatched Saturday night. I don't pretend to know the statistics for Mondays, but on one occasion I visited the show on that day; it seemed but poorly patronised. Another thing, specialist clubs would have a more representative gathering on Wednesdays or Thursdays. I feel sure that capable show manager, Mr. J. Ramsden, with his business experience, is aware of the points, and only wants the support of exhibitors who would not stand to lose, but perhaps would gain on an increased prosperity.

FRED WOOD.

We have received also a letter from Mr. F. J. Weaire, suggesting Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, pointing out that there are cheap excursions from various towns in Kent on the Wednesday, that being the early closing day.—(Ed.)

I have been a reader of your paper ever since it started, and more than that, writes Mr. Mitchell, Dundee, I brought the first copy of it to Dundee some ten or eleven years ago. I got it from some of your assistants when I was seeing the Crystal Palace bird show in 1900 or 1901.

Perches that Keep Down Red Mite.

Sir, Just a line in respect of Mr. H. J. Knapp's letter re "Perches that keep down red mite." I fully agree with all Mr. Knapp says; I should think that everyone agrees that prevention is better than cure. I cannot agree with Mr. R. Graham that, given a home like this, viz., elder perches, that they (the red mite) will trouble no other part of the cage. I say emphatically that they will. If red mite are present at all, they will invade any nook and cranny they can get into, though sometimes they are not visible to the naked eye. So that the only remedy when bothered with red mite is a thorough disinfecting of the cages, seed-boxes, etc.; but I believe what Mr. Knapp says, viz., that we can keep clear of these pests if we take necessary precautions. I do not say trap perches are useless, but for the extinction of these pests, the method is a very slow one. So we must agree with the old proverb—"Prevention is better than Cure."

New Society for Old Radford and District.

Sir,—We are starting a new society for our district. We have had a general meeting, and a fine meeting too; there were something like forty members to make a start, and a proposition was made that every member joining shall pay 4d. per month, and during show time shall be straight on the books every month, or not be eligible to stage. We have some old Canaryites in the club that can tell a good tale, and we have a treasurer in Mr. W. T. Tomlin, the proprietor of the "White Horse" Inn who is not a bird fancier, but probably will be as the club goes on. We had plenty of amusement at the meeting. Above half the members are readers of CAGE BIRDS, and it is through your paper that we have decided to form a society. We have Messrs. R. Clifford, C. Dickinson, K. Knowles, R. Barnett, F. Britton, J. Berrington, Wm. Grunday, Pat Pearce, J. Tomlin, and F. Barnes as a committee. Meetings to be held every Monday night at eight o'clock.

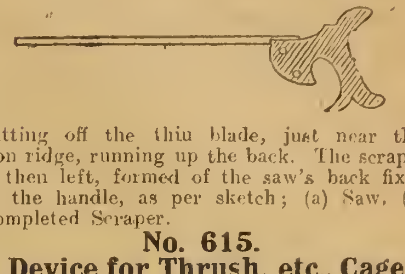
Nearly every bird fancier has an old iron-backed saw knocking about. It can easily be made into a good serviceable scraper by cutting off the thin blade, just near the iron ridge, running up the back. The scraper is then left, formed of the saw's back fixed in the handle, as per sketch; (a) Saw, (b) Completed Scraper.



No. 615.

Sent by H. J. Simmons, 3, Belmont Terrace. Harvey Street, Barnsley.

I send an idea that will benefit some of our readers who have Blackbird or Thrush cages for use, both out and indoors. Wire both ends as in Fig 1. make grooves round the edges, and cut to fit in these, level with the cage, a board of tea-box wood (3-ply). Get four buttons, or bits of wire, to hold the two panels in their places (as in Fig. 2) for use outside; pull down the panels when the cage is indoors. This I find an improvement when indoors, as the birds get air and light.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES,
Secretary CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE,
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

Annual general meeting, held Jan. 8th, at the Lamb Hotel. The president, Mr. W. Theobald, occupied the chair; there was a good muster of members. The hon. sec. and treas. presented the balance sheet, which was duly passed as read. The election of officers was then proceeded with, and the following gentlemen elected:— President, Mr. W. Theobald; chairman, Mr. D. Lewis; vice-chairman, Mr. J. Madagan; auditors, Messrs. Stevens and Short; hon. auctioneer, Mr. J. H. Boulter; hon. assist. sec. and show manager, Mr. Bunsett; hon. sec. and treas., Mr. A. S. Treasure. The advisability of getting up a dance to augment the society's funds was considered, and a committee was formed to get one up. The secretary read over a draft syllabus, which contains several innovations, including monthly table shows, with lecture on the variety staged; a lantern lecture on birds, by Mr. White, curator of Cheltenham College Museum. Letters were read from Messrs. Robson, Battye, and Longden, who were elected judges for the open show, Nov. 5th and 6th. Votes of thanks brought a very busy meeting to a close.—A. S. Treasure, Hon. Sec.

CARDIFF C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held at Maskell's Hotel, Mr. Wkrston presiding over a good number of members. We were pleased to see some of the old members amongst us again taking an active interest in the society. It was with deep regret that we heard of the death of one of our members, Mr. W. Lewis, Merthyr Tydfil, who passed away after a long illness. A vote of condolence was passed, and the members present subscribed for a wreath to be sent as a token of the respect we had for our late member. The sec. stated he had engaged Messrs. Payne and Robson to judge the annual open show on Nov. 19 and 20. A vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Raymond for giving the carpenters' services free, also to Mr. Melhuish for supplying the boards for staging. It was decided to hold match pair show on Feb. 19th. Mr. F. Jones to judge Norwich, Mules, and Brit., and Mr. Melhuish Yorks. and O.O.V. Mesrs. Maggs, Jones, Sivill, Simons, and Reckitts and Co. promised specials. If any other member has a special to give, please let me know as soon as possible. Mr. Leggs was proposed as a member. If there are any fanciers desirous of joining, please let me know; I will supply them with all particulars. —E. Thomas, Sec.

ANFIELD, EVERTON C B.S.

By the time this appears in print all open classes at our recent show will be settled off, both in prize-money and specials, also the majority of our members will have been dealt with. There are quite a lot of members who received and sold tickets for the open show and smoking concert, who have not sent in either money for tickets sold or balance of tickets left over. They will be paid prize-money, etc., as soon as they remit same and not before. It has been very unfortunate that I have not been able to devote a moment to the show affairs owing to my recent bereavement, and my eldest girl is only in the balance at the moment of writing. Members are asked to wait a little, and all things will be put in order at the earliest moment. The pair show is down for to-day, Saturday, but has had to be put back to a later date, probably Feb. 1. Members will receive schedules and other correspondence, prize cards, etc., in good time. A committee meeting will be called by card this coming week, to make final arrangements to wind up the season. Balance-sheet will be prepared and in the hands of members in good time for the annual general meeting, date published later. There are several specials promised by members, which have not yet been sent to sec., will they do so at once and get the matter settled up. Next smoker will be held at the Sandon Hotel, Feb. 12. There are a number of other season's specials to be drawn up, and as soon as time permits this will be done. A full list of the winners of season's specials will be sent out shortly to all fully paid up members. Fanciers joining now, 2s. 6d. per annum, season 1913 (nine new members joined on the night of the smoker). Send in your application at once. All members admitted free (by ticket) to annual distribution of season's specials and smoker. 50 guinea challenge cup, other cups, medals, and lots of valuable season's specials are given for this year, and with the aid of an assistant secretary the society's business and shows will be very prompt.—R. B. Wright, Sec.

GARSTON B.B.A.

Annual meeting held Jan. 16th, at Club Room, when a good number of members turned up. Officers for the year were elected. President, Col. W. Hall-Walker; Chairman, T. Lowe; Vice-Chair, J. Jones; Treas., T. H. Mullock; Auditors, T. James and J. Mercer; Assist. Sec., A. Wilkinson; Sec., A. T. Mullock. The usual business was gone through and balance-sheet read, which showed a fair year with a balance on the right side of over £5.—A. T. Mullock, Sec.

CHOPWELL C.B.S.

Meeting held Jan. 18, in Club Hall, Mr. M. Simpson in the chair. The balance-sheet for 1912 was gone through, and was passed as being very satisfactory. The following were elected as officers for 1913:—Chairman, Mr. W. Carr; vice-chair, Mr. M. Simpson; treas. and sec., W. Tomlinson. It was decided to have a two days' open show on Oct. 3 and 4, 1913. Six new members were enrolled, which looks very promising as that is what is wanted. Also decided to have a members' show about June or July. Next meting Feb. 15.—W. Tomlinson, Sec.

LANCASTER C.B.C.

General meeting held Jan. 17, when a good muster of fanciers were present to witness the presentation to Messrs. Calferty and Son, of the challenge rose bowl, Mr. Calferty responded with a natty little spech. Election of officers: R. Mason, chair; C. Catlerty, vice-chair.; J. Bostock, hon. sec.; H. Hoyle, asst. sec.; Messrs. T. Fisher, Mercer, Hawthornwaite, Whally, and Rainford, committee. I am sure all members are sorry to hear of the resignation from treasurership of Mr. Swainson; after pulling the society out of debt to its present financial position, and with a little gentle persuasion, he would no doubt take over office again. Hoping by next meeting he will have altered his decision, seeing only a "good owd 'un beats a good young 'un."—J. Bostock, Hon. Sec.

DARVEL C.B.C.

Monthly meeting held Jan. 15, President Hopkins in the chair. Several new names were added. Mr. Jas. Johnstone, Kilmarnock, gave a practical demonstration of how to hand-wash a bird, and showed by the expert manner in which he handled the three canaries present for this purpose, that he was no novice at this art. He prefaced his exhibition with a few remarks on how to hold the bird, most suitable articles to use, and the method he adopted for drying. He also explained the working of his special drying cage, which he had brought with him. Mr. Johnston afterwards placed the awards on birds entered for table show, as follows:—NOR.: 1, 2, 4, Anderson; 3, Hopkins. BORD.: 1, 2, Allan; 3, 4, Mindich. MULE: 1, Alston; 2, 4, Robertson; 3, Allan. Several questions were asked of Mr. Johnston, re washing, etc., which he answered to the satisfaction of all, and a hearty vote of thanks was accorded him for his interesting and entertaining exhibition. As it was getting late, it was agreed to leave over any business arising from minutes till another meeting. Classes for table show at said meeting were arranged as follows:—Greenf., Brit. bird, A.V., not already classed at these shows, Foreign, any variety, single or in pairs, Hybrid or Muling pairs.—J. Robertson, jun., Sec.

BOURNEMOUTH C.B.A.

Twenty-first annual general meeting held at the Quadrant Restaurant, Jan. 16, Mr. Jones in the chair. The report and balance-sheet of the past season was presented and adopted; the season has been a most successful one, the adverse balance having been converted into a credit balance of £7 19s. 7d., also fine handsome silver challenge cups have been presented to the society during 1912, making seven challenge trophies now in the society's possession. Several new members were proposed, and the prospects for the forthcoming year show great promise. The Earl of Walmesbury was unanimously re-elected as president, also the existing vice-presidents, with the addition of several names. Mr. L. Bousfield was unanimously elected hon. treas., and Mr. J. A. Crawshaw as hon. sec. In accepting he expressed his great regret that owing to ill health he had not been able to fulfil his duties as he wished during the past year. The following were elected as committee: Miss Penrice, Miss Onslow, Messrs. Fulford, House, Harris, Matthews, Jones, Briant, Hill, and Davis. Decided to hold the 22nd annual open show on Nov. 11 and 12. Mr. J. H. Roe was appointed to judge Canaries and selling classes, and Mr. H. Norman the remainder.—J. A. Crawshaw, Hon. Sec.

RICHMOND (Surrey) & DIS. C.B.S.

The above society held their first meeting at the Imperial Hotel, Richmond, Jan. 14th. Despite the fact that a local club was only suggested a week ago in CAGE BIRDS, the number of fanciers who attended was extremely gratifying to the promoters. Several letters were received from supporters who were unable to attend this first meeting, requesting that their names be enrolled for membership. A committee was formed, with power to add, and these were selected from the various towns in the district, viz., Messrs. Cripps (Richmond), Linley (East Sheen), Wright (East Sheen), Harriss (Richmond), Lalleni (Hammersmith), Birch (Kingston), Phipps (Isleworth), Huxley (Twickenham). Mr. W. Nichols, 31, Beaconsfield Road, St. Margarets, was unanimously elected hon. secretary. The large room at the Imperial, where the meeting was held, is an ideal room for the purpose, and the proprietor (Mr. W. J. Lill) has kindly promised the use of same for monthly show purposes, and generously offered to supply staging, etc. The next meeting will be held at the above on January 29th, at 8 o'clock, when a very large attendance is expected. Any intending member can obtain all oarticulars from the Hon. Sec. as above

FALKIRK (Good Intent) C.B A.

Annual general meeting held Dec. 28, when prize money and medals were given out to the successful competitors, the following officials were appointed for the ensuing year:—Pres., James Muir; vice-pres., Joseph Hunter; treas., Andrew Gillespie; sec., Walter Clarkson; committee, W. F. Sutton, Geo. Condie, Wm. Walker, Robert Leitch, Wm. Robertson, David Smart, Henry Conner, Wm. Scaile, J. Aitken, Godfrey Bros; auditors, Jas. Marshall, John Penman. Next meeting Jan. 25. Business, revising rules.—Walter Clarkson.

SOUTH-WEST LONDON C.B.S.

Annual meeting held at Headquarters, the New Guildhall, Wandsworth Road, Jan. 16th; Mr. Slade in the chair. There was a good attendance of members, and several new ones were introduced. The balance sheet was presented, showing a balance of over £5 in hand, which was considered very satisfactory, as there have been considerable expenses during the year, one item being the purchase of staging sufficient to accommodate 1,000 birds. There are also four cups for competition amongst the members. The points winners for 1912 are:—Nor. cup, Mr. Thomas, 70; Yorks., Mr. Slade, 82; Crest, Mr. Slade, 70; Nov. cup., open to all sections of Canaries, Mr. Mager, 57 points. Result of ballot for officers for 1913: Chairman, Mr. Slade; vice-chair, Mr. Goymer; treas., Mr. Lilley; sec., H. Freeman; assist. sec., Mr. Burgess. Dates for forthcoming shows were submitted, Mr. J. Robson to be asked to judge at the three shows. The proceedings terminated with a special vote of thanks to the officers during the past year. It is hoped that the high class of the exhibits will be maintained during the present year, and an increased number of members.—H. A. Freeman, Hon. Sec.

LEYTON C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held at Grange Park Hall, January 20, Mr. J. A. Bartlett in the chair. Mr. Skinner moved the adoption of the balance sheet, seconded by Mr. W. Morris. After some discussion this was carried unanimously. Mr. J. S. Clarke then moved a vote of thanks to retiring officers and committee, commenting on the able way in which they had carried out their duties during their year of office. Mr. Skinner seconded, specially mentioning the successful way the annual show was conducted by the management. This was carried unanimously. Mr. J. A. Bartlett then vacated the chair, and called on Pres. S. C. Rhodes to take his place, supported by Vice-Pres. J. S. Clarke. The election of officers for 1913 resulted as follows: Pres., Mr. S. C. Rhodes; Vice Pres., Mr. J. S. Clarke, Dr. J. Laird Simpson, Mr. J. Robson, Mr. H. Overnden; Chairman, Mr. J. A. Bartlett. Mr. Bartlett said, that he did not wish to stand again, as he did not keep any birds now, and he thought that we could find a better man to fill the position. The members present did not think so, and eventually Mr. Bartlett was persuaded to stand again; Vice-Chair., Mr. F. Wallace; Treas., Mr. G. A. Parker; Assist. Sec., Mr. A. W. Farmer; Auditors, Messrs. G. B. Leclair and S A. Griffin; Hon. Secs., Forse and Son. Committee was elected by ballot as follows: Messrs. W. Dalton, W. Morris, C. H. Cooper, J. Shankley, P. Smith, H. W. Burbridge, W. Hellars, E. J. Pettet. Proposed by Mr. A. B. Forse, seconded by Mr. W. Dalton that unflighted birds may be shown in any class to compete for challenge cup, providing they are nominated for same. Mr. A. W. Farmer moved an amendment that birds competing for challenge cups may be shown in open or members unflighted classes only. After a good discussion the amendment was lost and the original proposition was carried. Proposed by Mr. J. A. Bartlett, seconded by Mr. F. Wallace, that the membership be open to United Kingdom. A good discussion arose from this proposition, and on being put to the meeting it was lost. Mr. J. S. Clarke proposed a hearty vote of thanks to our worthy President for the able and impartial manner in which he had conducted the meeting. This was carried by acclamation. Mr. J. S. Clarke was also accorded a vote of thanks for his services during the evening, and also for the liberal way he had supported the Association during the past year. This closed one of the jolliest annual general meetings we have ever experienced.—Forse and Son, Hon Secs.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Tea, Concert and Prize Distribution.

Sixth annual tea, concert, and prize distribution was held at Park Chapel Schools, West Bowling, Jan. 14, and proved a decided success. Over 100 persons sat down to an excellent tea provided by the wives and friends of the society, who came up in strong force to assist in carrying this function through to a successful issue, and the members desire me to convey their sincere thanks to each and everyone who assisted at the tea, also all the artistes who contributed such a delightful programme of music, etc., during the evening. The following artistes tendered their assistance:—Miss A. Heathorn (soprano), Miss D. Cruise (elocutionist), Miss C. Harper (mezzo soprano), Mr. E. Ludlam (bass), Mr. F. Kitchenman (tenor), Mr. F. Pearson (humorist), Miss A. M. Cruise, and Mrs. Beauland (accompanist). The chair was occupied by Mr. G. R. Rushworth, the senior vice-president, who made an efficient chairman. During the interval the prizes were presented to the successful competitors in the members shows by Mrs. E. Suddards, of West Bowling, wife of the genial president, who spoke a few words of encouragement to each recipient. This society gives more value in prizes than any other society in the City of Bradford, and no doubt this is the reason of such a large number of entries at all the members shows during the season. A vote of thanks to Mrs. Suddards for her kindness, and the deep personal interest she always exhibits in the welfare of the society was proposed by Mr. G. White, and seconded by Mr. S. Midgley and carried with enthusiasm. Mrs. Suddards responded in a very appropriate little speech. The successful members were as follows:—Champion section: Messrs. W. Stables, 130 points; F. Allen, 127; J. Farrar, 112; H. Hill, 105; G. White, 68; C. E. Walker, 62; J. Northrop, 59; and Riley Bros., 50. Novice section: Messrs. S. Midgley, 125 points; S. Binns, 124; S. Woad, 105; Taylor Bros., 83; J. Wroe, 65; C. Hardaker, 65; J. Rhodes, 43; W. Fielding, 34; and Myers and Lightowler, 34. Extra novice section: Messrs. A. Newbould, 42 points; Morrell and Harper 30. Selling section: Messrs. G. R. Rushworth, 43 points; J. Farrar, 36. Mr. H. Hill, sec. to the society gave a brief resume of the work accomplished by the society throughout the year, which he was happy to say had been a record one in every phase of true progress. Competition in the members' shows had been exceptionally keen throughout the year, and many prizes were in abeyance up to the very last classes judged at the last show, the members exhibited 752 birds at six shows, which will take some beating for a society yet short of its 100 members. The annual open show had also proved a financial success, and well over 500 birds were staged. The Bradford East Challenge Bowl for best unflighted bird, bred by the exhibitor, was again won by a member in Mr. F. Allen, who received a great ovation on receiving the bowl from Mrs. Suddards, and was the recipient of many congratulations from his fellow-members who are delighted to think that their own members have been successful three times out of five. The second half of the programme was afterwards continued, and the artistes met with a rare reception, encores being freely called for and willingly responded to. A vote of thanks to the artistes was proposed by Mr. W. Cruise, seconded by Mr. J. Farrar, and the President proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman and Secretary for the able manner in which the function had been arranged and carried out. Both these votes were carried with loud applause, and the evening terminated with the National Anthem.—H. Hill, Sec.

WEST OF SCOTLAND O.S.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 18th, at Nelson's Temperance Hotel, Mr. P. Thorn (President) in the chair. There was a large turn-out of members. The financial statement for 1912 was submitted, showing a balance on the right side of £2 11s., which was considered satisfactory. The election of office-bearers for 1913 resulted as follows: Pres., Mr. Jno. Montgomery; Vice-Pres., Messrs. H. P. Hutchison and W. Wood; Sec. and Treas., Wm. Hutchison, 163, Hospital Street, Glasgow; Auditors, Messrs. Hunter and Gunion; Committee: Messrs. Smart, Paling, Thomson, Henderson, Tweedie, Martin, Laurie, Nimmo, Cougan, Haddow, Leemie, Christie, Pierce. It was decided to replace the two cups which had been won outright at last annual show. With a slight addition to by-laws, rules were adopted as read. Arrangements for pair show for Canaries, Mule, and Hybrid breeding pairs were decided upon, show to be held February 1st, Nelson's Temperance Hotel, Ingram Street, at 7.30, Mr. G. Smart as judge. There being a good special list in connection with same, it is hoped there will be a large turn-out. The following were admitted to membership, viz., Messrs. Wood, McLellan, Rankin, Begg, Thomson, Dunbar, Herbert, Irvine, and Davidson. A special vote of thanks was accorded Mr. P. Thorn, the retiring Pres., for his whole-hearted labours on behalf of the club during his three years of office. Mr. Thorn acknowledged and trusted his successor (Mr. Montgomery) would have as pleasant a time as he had had.—Wm. Hutchison, Sec.

WALKLEY C.B.S.

First annual tea, concert and prize distribution held January 9th, at the Doncaster St. Friends' Schoolroom. This first venture proved an amazing success; over 80 sat down to tea. The concert and prize distribution were voted by all to have surpassed anything that had been attempted by any C.B.S. in the district. In the absence of Dr. Jones (Hon. Pres.), Mr. T. Ridal took the chair, supported by the two Vice-Chairmen, Messrs. J. G. Cowley and J. Woolhouse, and the two Secs. After a grand organ selection by Mr. J. Smith, a violin duet by Messrs. Makin and Turton, and a humorous song by Little Sammy Childs, special prizes won by Yorks were then presented to Messrs. T. Furniss, T. Ridal, Carr, Marshall. Then came a bass song by Mr. G. Holling, a song by Mrs. Butler, and a humorous song by Mr. Dan Pickering. Special prizes won by Norwich were then presented. Messrs. A. Lawton, R. Smith, J. G. Cowley, J. Woolhouse. After a violin solo by Mr. Wakin, another humorous song by Little Sammy Childs, and another song by Mrs. Butler, special prizes won by British were presented: Messrs. J. and C. Scott, A. Bailey, A. Simpson. Mr. Dan Pickering now gave us another in his very amusing style. Mr. F. Broomhead was greeted with great applause for a couple of ragtime songs, excellently rendered. Table show specials: Messrs. Thorpe and Ridal; Yorks, Cowley and Woolhouse; Norwich, J. Carr and P. Chadwick. Novice Yorks, J. Curley and R. Smith. Novice Norwich, British, J. and C. Scott. Mr. J. Smith gave another selection on the organ; Mr. Dan Pickering another humorous song. Specials won at annual show, best bird and best Norwich, A. Hobson; best Novice York, J. Smith. Most points Novice section, J. Abbott; Norwich, J. Curley; most points in show, Furness; Ramsden's medal, F. Jones. Mr. F. Broomhead gave as a Hebrew song, Mr. Dan Pickering, "Roaming in the Gloaming," and a hearty vote of thanks to artistes and the helpers on the tea committee brought a very pleasant evening to a close.—C. Tomlinson, Sec.

NEW CROSS AND DIS. C.B.S.

Meeting held January 16, at Headquarters, People's Hall, Tanner's Hill, S.E.; Mr. Hills in the chair. Owing doubtless to the wretched weather, there were not so many members present as usual. Although one or two members felt, and spoke, rather warmly respecting a resolution relating to our next annual show, the chairman with his usual tact soon put matters right. Messrs. Barton and Barton intimated that owing to pressure of business they would not be able to continue as secretaries, and although the meeting asked them to reconsider their decision, they were unable to do so, therefore we had to accept their resignation with much regret. The following were then elected:—Pres., Mr. Stuart Cortes; chairman, Mr. G. Hills; vice-chairman, Mr. C. E. Gunnell; secs., Burton Bros.; treas., Mr. T. Pope; auditors, Messrs. G. Barton and Fuller; committee, Messrs. Martin, Hall, Culham, Fuller, Williams, Jones, and G. Barton. Decided to invite members to subscribe towards two points cups, one for champion section and one for novice, and we shall be glad to receive subscriptions, however small. We then had a pleasing interlude. The chairman, rising, said how sorry we were at losing Messrs. Barton and Barton as secretaries. The success of the society was entirely due to their efforts, and as a mark of appreciation he had much pleasure in handing them an umbrella each on behalf of the members who, in this way, desired to thank them for their unfailing courtesy to every one. Mr. G. Barton, in reply, said that the presentation had taken them quite by surprise. They were glad that they had given satisfaction, and it had always been their endeavour to please the members, and to do everything in their power to further the interests of the society. Although they were unable to continue in office, they would continue to help make the society one of the best. This brought the meeting to a close. Don't forget we have a pair show February 6th, and we hope members will support us with at least a hundred entries, and so give the judge, Mr. G. Hazel, plenty of work to do.—Burton Bros., Hon. Secs.

RADCLIFFE C.B.S.

At our meeting the following were elected officers for the next twelve months: Mr. G. Lord, Sec., 10, Grosvenor Street, Radcliffe; Mr. J. Allen, Treas.; Mr. W. Pilling, Chairman; and all members on the committee. Owing to pressure of other business our late Sec., Mr. W. Pickup, resigned, and I have been elected in his place.—G. Lord, Sec.

LONDON C.B.A.

Special meeting held at "The Feathers," Great Chapel Street, S.W., Jan. 15, Mr. John Robson in the chair. It was decided to hold the 21th annual dinner at the Popular Cafe, Piccadilly, on Monday, February 10. Messrs. Trower, Shepherd, Boxall and Wallington were elected committee. Visitors and friends requiring tickets should please apply to F. Knight, 64, Chaplin Road, Wembley, Middlesex.—W. H. Mugford and F. Knight.

Ramsden's specials: champion section, W. Johnson, 51 points; novice, H. Clegg, 41. Sandiford's cup: Mr. J. Thomas, 182. CAGE BIRDS prizes will be published later. Will members whose subscriptions are owing kindly forward same on.—F. Rhodes, Hon. Sec.

NORWICH PLAINHEAD CLUB.

Annual dinner held Jan. 18 at the Douglas Hotel, Corporation Street, Manchester, when over sixty members and their wives and friends sat down. After the dinner the room was rearranged for the distribution of prizes and concert. The President (M. Dent, Peston) occupied the chair. In his opening speech he referred to the successful winners of the valuable cups, medals, and other trophies which he saw before him, and said he was pleased to think that one of their members was the first to breed a Norwich that had had the honour of lifting the Dewar Shield at the last Scottish National Show, and hoped it would encourage others to try and repeat the honour. The other prizes were then distributed; several of the winners were unable to attend owing to business engagements. The usual toasts were proposed and responded to. Songs or recitations were well rendered by Mrs. Trengove, Messrs. Atkinson, Baraclough, McKail, and Robinson; while Mr. Wroe accompanied the songs with taste. Votes of thanks to the artistes brought the meeting to a close.

YORKS. COUNTY BRITISH BIRD AND M.C.

Below is a list of points gained by members for the season. Exhibitors from this club have not shown to great advantage in numbers. British Birds must be scarce in Yorkshire. The amateur section have had a very poor following as will be seen, and it gives a secretary no encouragement. We were in hopes of getting all the union shows to have British classes on next year, but I'm afraid classes will be less than ever, owing to the cancelling of three out of six classes, given at some of the union shows this season. Certainly some of the union shows have clashed with larger shows, but for small exhibitors it shouldn't have made so much difference. The prize distribution will soon be on us, and we must turn our heads to that, as it will have to be met. Now members, please, who have not paid their subscriptions, let me have them as soon as possible. Ponts for club specials are as follow:—Mr. T. Inman, 138 points; Dr. M. A. Wilson, 121; Mr. J. Lane and Messrs. Martin and Archer tie for 3rd, with 100 points each; Mr. J. P. Stamp, 25; Mr. W. Lee, 13. Amateurs, Mr. J. Isherwood, 44; Mr. B. H. Wilson, 15; Mr. J. Wilson, 6. We have CAGE BIRDS prizes, kindly given by Mr. F. Carl, but the points of same are in Mr. F. Hammond's hands and will be known later.—J. Lane, Hon. Sec.

BRADFORD NATIONAL SHOW COMMITTEE.

Meeting held at the Market Tavern, Jan. 8. Mr. H. H. Towers in the chair. Mr. F. Hammond presented the balance-sheet for the second annual show, showing a magnificent result of over £64 to the good, the announcement was received with the greatest enthusiasm as it was feared the result would not be as favourable as the previous show owing to the large addition in expenses. It was decided to hand over to the Cinderella fund the sum of £50 and carry the remaining balance over to the next show after deducting an honorarium of £5 to be presented to the secretaries at the annual prize distribution in March. A vote of thanks to Messrs. F. Hammond, H. Simonett, and H. Hill, for the valuable work they had done in connection with the show was passed unanimously. The following were elected as executive committee for next show:—Messrs. H. H. Towers, R. Halliday, F. W. Norris, W. A. Cowgill, W. Crabtree, H. J. Chittenden, S. Dean, J. Kendall, G. White, J. W. Kaberry, J. R. Taylor, F. Hammond, H. Simonett, and H. Hill. The meeting unanimously elected Mr. H. H. Towers as chairman, and Mr. R. Halliday as vice-chairman. The question of staging for next show was considered, and it was decided to purchase new staging, to be made of an up-to-date pattern, which would allow for the staging of 3,000 birds in the large hall itself. Several suggestions of a very favourable nature were considered, and the committee pledged themselves to do their very utmost to make it a distinct success, over and above its two predecessors. All interested who would like to assist in the management of the show are earnestly invited to any of the meetings called, and a hearty reception will be given to all who attend.—H. Hill.

ROUND THE SHOWS.

DINGWALL.

Thirtieth annual show held in the Masonic Hall, Jan. 18. Mr. Wm. Sinclair makes a first class sec., and by his obliging manner has been the means of enlisting many fanciers in Ross-shire. He has been ably assisted by a competent committee of fanciers, consisting of Messrs. D. Munro, McPherson, Gair, Campbell, McKenzie, Ross, Gordon, Murray, McLennan, and John Sinclair. The hall is an ideal one for a show, as it is well lighted from the roof and draught-proof, but the staging could be improved greatly. Entries this year were in excess of those of any previous years, especially the Nor., while the quality was excellent. Mr. Wm. Simpson (Inverness) judged, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

CREST: 1, 2, Capt. McKenzie, former Buff, dark crest, large and massive, plenty of feather, a topper; 2nd, Green, fails to winner in size only, otherwise a clinker. C.B.: 1, 2, 4, McKenzie, leader large Buff Varieg., grand body, lovely size and good lashings; 2nd another good one, not much between them, surely a toss-up; 4th Green, on the small side, but all there for type and qual.; 3, Ross, Green, good body and splendid cushion, head rather rough in feather, could be better staged. NOR. CL. ETC.: 1, 2, McDonald, 1st and medal for best Nor., smart Yell., good head and well filled neck, splendid type, fit to do service in the South; 2nd, Yellow, eye marked, another good one, not far behind, a credit to owner; 3, vhc, McKay, grand Buff, A1 qual. and rare back and chest; 4, Yell, a good bird but dirty, or might have been higher up. VARIEG.: 1, 2, 3, McDonald, trio of good birds, leader grand yell., fed, real stormer for type and qual.; 2nd Buff, another good one, needs no comment here, real bully type; 3rd, yell., bit inclined to cross wings, otherwise a good stock bird; vhc, hc, Murray; c, McGreagor. A.O.V. CAN. OR HYB.: 1, Duncan, noted Linnet Mule, still adding to his laurels, greatly admired; 2, McConnachie, even mkd. Border, nice type and a free mover, staged in A1 order; 3, hc, Murray, Yorks, grand length, nice type, stands well; vhc, Scott; c, Brown. GOLDF.: 1, medal, Harcombe, stormer, wonderful col. and lustre, steady as a rock, greatly admired, big winner; 2, McRichie Scott, lacks finish to winner, but all there for size and qual.; 3rd, another nice Goldfinch, could be staged to better advantage; 4, Ross, good Goldfinch, rather rough in feather or otherwise would have been up a bit higher; 5th, Murray. A.O. SMALL BRIT.: 1, Anderson, noted winning Bullfinch, grand bird for size and col., really a picture, wins well; 2, McConnachie, Siskin, wee gem for col. and markings, well staged; 3, vhc, Duncan; 3, Twite, well laced, steady as a rock; vhc, Bullfinch, nice Bully, good fourth.

CRAVEN ARMS.

Second annual show of the Craven Arms and Ludlow Amalgamated Society was held in the Assembly Room, Jan. 15, a room splendidly adapted for the holding of such an exhibition, being very roomy and well lighted. The exhibits were well staged in the centre of the room, with a baize screen placed all round, which made them look very cosy. A very nice collection of plants in bloom were interspersed between the cages, and gave a very pleasing effect. Unfortunately the entry was not so good as it might have been. This was attributed to the very bad weather which was about just at the time entries closed, which is to be regretted, as a nice entry would have done this enthusiastic society good. Still, if numbers were not there, most certainly the quality was. Yorks. especially were a very choice lot, as also were the Mules, and the A.O.V. British classes, while the members' classes contained a very useful lot of birds. Although new to the post, Mr. J. Creasey, as hon. sec., did well, and worked hard for the success of the show. Judging was over in good time, and awards promptly placed on the cages as each class was judged. Very valuable assistance was rendered in the clerical work by Mr. R. Davis, chairman. The committee consisted of Messrs. Woolf, Groom, Oakes, Sheldon, Hughes, and Worrall—fanciers to the backbone, and gave the exhibits every attention. Mr. A. C. Brotherhood judged, and his awards were well received.

The Critique.

NOR. YELL. (6): 1, vhc, Williams, unevenly mkd., grand size and shape, rare good head, fine col. and qual., in good trim; 2, hc, Thomas, very fine uneven, good shape and feather, clean cut head, full neck, shade smaller; 3, Edwards, wing mkd., fine type and qual., not so full in head and neck; No. 6 soft when judged. BUFF (3): 1, Muscott, uneven, mkd., medium size, beautiful shape, nice clean cut head, well carried wings and tail, nicely cleaned out behind, rare qual. and bloom; 2, Thomas, cl., grand size, rather loose in feather, massive head; 3, Hawkes, nice shapely cl., good qual., rather patchy in col. HEN (5): 1, vhc, Williams, yell., magnificent type and qual., very fine head, short wings and tail, heaps of subs., rare qual. and condition, easy win; 2, Thomas, cl. yell., nice size and qual., but not the type of leader, still a good one; 3, Muscott, wing mkd. yell., shade smaller, nicely cut away, good feather and cond., bit unsteady; hc, Worrall. LONDON FEDERATION.

The London Federation of C.B.S., held its second annual show on Jan. 17 and 18, in the fine hall of the Church Institute, Marylebone. The entry, unfortunately, was very poor, 264 birds in the 116 classes scheduled. Why the members of the Federation (which comprises seven powerful societies) should elect to hold a show and then support it in this wretched manner, to the detriment of their own funds, is another of those things "no fellah can understand." One certain thing, however, is that it is far from complimentary to those officials who gave so freely their time and labour in the interests of the venture. As show manager Mr. J. Dewhurst had the birds nicely staged, and their wants were excellently looked after. His son, Mr. J. Wright Dewhurst, very ably filled the position of show secretary, and left no stone unturned in the endeavour to achieve success. He is to be commiserated with upon the discouraging response made to his efforts. We noticed Messrs. H. W. Cook and F. Knight giving a helping hand, and Messrs. J. C. Birch (hon. sec. to the Federation) and J. Bray, jun. (assist. sec.) also lent valuable assistance. The Yorkshires made far and away the best section in the show, many of the birds being of very high merit. Some of the Norwich, too, were well above the average in quality. Mr. R. L. Crisp judged the Yorks and Crests, Mr. J. Robson the remainder.

WOLVERHAMPTON C.B.S.

A very successful table show at headquarters, the Duke of York Hotel, wound up the season, keen interest being displayed, it being the final cup show. Upwards of 130 birds faced the judge, members putting down teams of exceptional merit, Mr. Tonks bringing no less than 15 from Wednesbury. The society is to be congratulated on the enthusiasm of its members, for although only a few, one and all worked with that spirit which has helped to place it amongst the best and most respected in the kingdom. The Society Cup this year has found a resting place at Tettenhall, that keen Yorkshire fancier, Mr. E. Hall, being the winner with 63 points; Mr. F. Weaver, chairman, second, 59; Mr. F. Garfield, third, 58. Spl best Canary was won by Mr. J. Gibbon with a typical Yorks, and best British by Mr. J. A. Tonks with a grand Goldie. Mr. A. C. Brotherhood (Newport) judged, and his awards gave every satisfaction.

BURTON-ON-TRENT.

Sixth annual show, held in the Curzon Hall, Jan. 20. The genial secretary, Mr. F. Cameron, had everything in A1 order, and this year the committee had special staging erected for the cage birds, and a specialist judge, but the cage bird fanciers did not support this well-managed fixture as they should have done. The Goldfinch class proved the best in show and was keenly contested. Norwich were a splendid collection. Mr. J. H. Roe judged.

LARKHALL O.S.

Annual show held in the Public Hall, January 18. The entry was one of the best for some years, both in quality and variety, entries being nearly 200 in excess of last year's number. Secretary J. W. Clelland, we regret to say, was, through illness, unable to take up his usual duties, but his many friends will be pleased to learn that he is making a rapid recovery; in his absence Mr. Wm. Innes acted as secretary pro tem, and was well supported with a very active committee, a very enthusiastic combination of well-known fanciers, from the Hon. Pres. downwards, each and all of whom vied with each other in doing their part to maintain the reputation of their annual show as one of the best one-day shows in Scotland. There was a large attendance of fanciers and the public, the hall being crowded all the afternoon. The exhibits were splendidly staged, and every arrangement made to make the show a complete success, which it was. Mr. W. Crosbie judged, and his awards met with general approval.

Dawson winner of medal with 30 points. Wm. Soulsby 2nd medal, 29 points.

ARNISTON AND GOREBRIDGE.

Annual show held January 18, in Newtyres Hall, Gorebridge. The entry was very disappointing, considering that it was, we think, the only show in Scotland on the day—only 60 in the 20 classes provided. We would point out to the committee the advisability of extending their classification, especially in the British bird section, and get the patronage of the S.B.B. and M.C., and appoint a judge for these classes alone. We are sure they would be amply rewarded by a good entry at this time of the year. The hall was on the dark side, but very free from draughts. Some very nice Borders were staged, the winning buff hen belonging to Mr. Bennet being a gem all over, and grandly staged. Mr. Joseph Thomson, Newtongrange, made the awards, and his decisions gave every satisfaction. The secretary, Mr. John Lambie, is a very courteous and painstaking official, and he was ably assisted by a good committee.

SHEFFIELD O.S.

Annual members' show was held in the Forresters' Hall, Tripett-lane, Jan. 18. Mr. J. Robson judged. The exhibits were of exceptionally fine quality, and the majority of the winners have been at the head of affairs at the principal shows this season, Yorks were of exceptionally fine quality, Norwich were an exceptionally good lot, and came up well, Crests were almost a show in themselves, the four champion classes containing 44 birds, British and Foreign were grand sections. Novices also came up well. The entry (293) was 23 up on last year, and a record. All arrangements were well in hand, the majority of birds being staged on Friday night. The Sec., Mr. E. C. Job, handled the reins in a masterly manner, and was ably assisted by the Chairman, Mr. T. Dawn, vice-chair, Mr. J. A. T. Woodall, Dr. W. Craig, treas., Messrs. Fletcher, Sharpe, Milne, Rydale, Memmott, and the assist. sec., Mr. R. Colton, who was always on the alert, studying the comfort of visitors and birds. The attendance was exceptionally good, and there is no doubt that the venture will be a financial success. The cup winners for four highest birds, bred by the exhibitor, were Yorks., cup, Dr. W. STRATFORD AND EAST LONDON F.S.

Annual show, held in Workmen's Hall, Jan. 8th., a splendid success for a members' show, about 100 birds being staged. Quality was excellent and competition very keen in all sections. Yorks. and Norwich were grandly represented, and there was also a good class of Cinnamons, a somewhat unusual experience now-a-days. In British birds competition was very keen. The best bird in the show was found in this section, in Mr. Hawkes' magnificent Blackbird, grand in depth of colour, close and compact in feather, very tame, yet vivacious, with capital colour of bill and cere, a topping exhibit. Cup also fell to Mr. Hawkes for a smart yell. Yorks. hen, after a keen fight. Mr. W. Maxey, the hon. sec., is a host in himself, an old stager at the game, consequently all went merrily. Messrs. Skinner and Hawkes, two veteran fanciers, did the stewarding, and the staging was excellent. Mr. Geo. Gardner judged.

Wind-up of the Northern Show Season.

GLORIOUS DISPLAY AT SUNDERLAND.

23rd annual show held Jan. 17 and 18. The venue was again the Miners' Hall, Roker Avenue, one of the finest halls in the north, and suitable in every way, with plenty of room, nice light, and comfortable to a degree for both exhibits and visitors, besides being situated on a main thoroughfare, and in close proximity to the railway stations. The previous show having proved such a brilliant success, and in view of the many complimentary letters received, the committee were naturally anxious that the high standard of excellence should he maintained, and in this they were not disappointed. Three extra classes were provided, bringing the total up to 40 open classes. These brought forward the grand entry of 543, which, with 131 in members' classes, made up the magnificent total of 674, and the committee are to be heartily congratulated on their splendid achievement. This huge success is mainly due to the great and untiring efforts of the sec., Mr. J. Jeffrey, who, we know, has worked tooth and nail since the last show in order to keep the finances of the society on the right side, and having been again successful, he surely deserves the thanks of the whole of the members for his great efforts. Mr. Jeffrey has absolutely nothing to learn in the matter of conducting a great cage bird show, and his splendid method of getting through his work, without any confusion or worry, and without the slightest hitch in his arrangements, marks him, with his courteous and gentlemanly manner, as one of the most efficient secretaries it has been our pleasure to meet with. We sincerely hope that the society may have the benefit of his services for many years to come. He was ably backed up by a grand body of fanciers, headed by the popular chairman, Mr. J. Farrer, who, in his capacity of show manager, worked like a hero during the whole of the show, being here, there, and everywhere, never tiring, and always willing to render his services to anyone who required them. The vice-chairman is Mr. W. F. Swan, and a grand committee is composed of Messrs. A. Elliott, G. Davidson, J. Machin, J. Riseborough, W. Reid, F. Riseborough, W. F. Swan, C. Waters, and A. Walker. The society possesses two grand workers in Mr. A. Walker (treas.) and Mr. F. Riseborough (assist. sec.), and these two gentlemen got through their work in a splendid manner. A special word of praise must be given to the stewards and those fanciers responsible for getting the birds away at the close of the show, and in this respect Messrs. A. Walker, J. M. Walker, R. Proctor, J. Peacock, G. Davidson, T. Davison, and C. Waters, all worked like Trojans, and exhibitors will no doubt remember the splendid manner in which their birds were packed for the return journey, and the good time in which they received them back. The exhibits were a grand lot, and beautifully arranged on new staging three tiers high.

Norwich were not very strong in numbers, but were excellent in quality; we hope to see two or three more classes given next year. Yorks. had eight classes, and they filled fairly well, while the quality was of a very high standard, many good birds standing cardless owing to the keen competition. Crests only had three classes, and two out of the three only secured half prize money; something must he done if these classes are to be kept on. Borders had seven classes, and these filled splendidly, the hen and novice classes each containing 31 entries, and qual. throughout the section was superb. Lizards, 2 classes, came up well with 12 and 13 entries respectively, and they made the finest display ever seen in the North, quality being really excellent. British, Mules and Foreign were simply splendid, both in numbers and quality, all the classes filling well, while the high standard of excellence was scarcely conceivable, and these sections were without a doubt quite the feature of the show. The class for Light Mules or Hybrids brought together 17 entries, all champions, the famous Greenie-Chaffie again taking premier honours, shown in the pink of condition. I must, however, confess that I am still of the same opinion as last year concerning the beauty of this bird. At the same time, I recognise that the rarity of this bird, together with the grand condition in which it is always staged, fully entitles it to the highest honours, and no one questions the judgment of any man in placing it right at the top of the list of Hybrids, at least, at present. Dark Mules were a splendid collection of 17, one of the finest classes seen for some time, the noted yellow Greenie Mule adding another first to its already long list. British were well represented, grand specimens being staged in every class, while the Foreign section was simply superb, and proved a great attraction to visitors.

The same difficulty in allocating the special for best bird in show arose as last year, Mr. Stanger bringing out the famous "Duchess," and Mr. Maddison the Greenie-Chaffie. Neither would give way, and on this occasion they objected to throwing a coin. It was eventually decided to leave it to an independent fancier to decide, and Mr. A. Brown was invited to do so, his decision being in favour of the "Duchess." The special and diploma winners were: Best bird in show, R. T. Bewick; Nor., J. Moore; Crest or C.B., R. T. Bewick; champ. Yorks., J. Thomas; Nov. Yorks., T. Farnish; Champ. Bord., J. Smart; Nov. Bord., J. G. Greason: Scotch, Thompson Bros.; Liz., J. Hyslop; Hybrid, Martin and Archer; Brit., J. Sykes; For., P. Arnott; most entries in open, R. D. Parlett: most points Nor., J. Thomas; Crests, R. T. Bewick; Yorks., J. Thomas: Bord., J. H. Elliot: Liz., W. P. Barnes; Hyb., Martin and Archer; Brit., R. D. Parlett; For., P. Arnott. Sales were just about as usual, and several birds changed hands. The show was grandly patronised, both on the Friday night and the Saturday, and the receipts should easily prove a record for the society. We might mention a splendid bit of work done by the secretary, Mr. J. Jeffrey, in the form of a large board, about 6ft. square, to which he pasted a number of the glorious coloured plates issued by "Cage Birds." This was hung up outside the main entrance, and proved a splendid advert. for the show, as being in a main thoroughfare, people could not help stopping to look at the plates, and then popped into the show. The judges were: Messrs. J. Stanger (Pelton Fell), and J. Maddison (Newcastle), the former taking Canaries, and the latter Mules, British, and Foreign.

LANCASHIRE AND LIZARD F.A.

Club show held January 11th, at the Textile Dining Hall, kindly placed at our disposal by the members of the Oldham C.B.S. There were six champion and two novice classes for Lancashires, which brought the enormous total of ten entries, belonging respectively to Messrs. Filton and Kay, the latter gentleman, though qualified to enter the novice classes, entered them in the champion section. It is hard to understand the reason for such a paltry entry right here in the heart of the breeders of the Lancashire Canary fancy, and this in spite of a specialist judge in Mr. John Garner. The Lizards however turned up to the number of 62, and must have found Mr. Garner some work in the eight champion and four novice classes provided. In this section friend Hampshire showed a team of ten, but owing to being too busy to wash them, he paid for his loyalty to the society by being pegged back in some cases through the want of a wash. The gate was very small, no doubt owing to the awful weather. Mr. Fitton won the Toronto medal for best Lancs., with his yell. P.H.; Mr. F. Hamer, Toronto medal with his cl. cap silver cock, and second best Lizard with his cl. cap gold cock; Mr. Rukin won Ramsden's spl. with his cl. gold "Ray of Gold." There were fifteen Lizards in the novice classes, Messrs. Bosworth and Lord getting all the honours. Mr. John Garner was judge, and we heard very little grumbling. Mr. John Ogden, the old-time Lizard statwart, came and looked us up. We also met Messrs. Robert Barrass and W. Hardy, and the only regret we had not a bigger muster for their inspection.

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

BRADFORD WEST C.B.A.

Annual open show of Canaries held Jan. 18, in the Whetley Lane Council Schools, Girlington, Bradford, under the rules of the Yorkshire Union and the patronages of the Yorks. C.C., and the Nat. Green Mkd. Y.C.C.. Mr. J. Bailey judged, his awards meeting with satisfaction throughout. This show was the last to be held under the auspices of the Yorkshire Union for this season, and closes what appears to have been the worst in regard to entries for some considerable time. A schedule of 25 classes had been issued, and these drew together an entry of 233 only; several classes were only awarded half prize-money, and even then it leaves the society with a big loss to face. The show is under splendid management and everything passed off satisfactorily. Messrs. Western and Kilburn, as joint secretaries worked hard, and they were well backed up by a responsible committee, including, amongst others, Mr. W. A. Cowgill (Pres.), Messrs. Hammond, Whitley, Mountain, W. Crabtree, Vice-Pres.; Messrs. Butterfield, Nelson, Longbottom, Craven, Watson, Wallbank, Bennett, Cooper, etc., assisting in the general work.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER CANARY SOCIETY.

Fifth annual contest in the Textile Hall, Bury, Jan. 17 and 18; this hall lends itself very favourably for the purpose, it being of an equable temperature, well lighted, and having a good ventilation without draught; as an extra precaution to avoid the latter a large heavy curtain was suspended across the entrance. The birds received every possible care and attention, in the hands of that courteous and indefatigable trio, the Percivals, who were assisted from time to time by a willing band of stewards. Amongst the visitors were Mr. Ives, of Grimsby, to whom we offer our congratulations as winner for the current year of the Provincial trophy, Mr. Barnett, Leeds, Mr. Wirth, Liverpool, Mr. Roberts, and Mr. Evans, Wrexham. Several well-known faces were absent, and their owners missed a treat. The judges were Mr. Wm. Massey, classes I and 7, Mr. Geo. Wareing, classes 3 and 4, Mr. Jas. Lyons, class 5, and Mr. Jaquemin, classes 2 and 6. Their decisions appeared to give general satisfaction. The committee thank all who subscribed to the prize fund and gave specials with an ungrudging hand. In class 1 the prize-money was £1 6s. 6d., ten specials, and a silver cup, presented by Mr. Lester. Class 2, £1 2s., a silver cup, presented by Mr. Kremner, who did not compete for same, and five specials. Class 3, £1 2s., six specials, and a silver medal, from the B.R.C.C., for best rung bird. Class 4, £1 6s. 6d., and 11 specials. Class 5, £2 10s. Class 6, £1 6s. 6d. and seven specials. Class 7, £1 2s. and four specials. Diplomas were given by the P.R.C.C. for the best birds in Classes 1 to 6, inclusive. A further special was presented by Mr. A. Frith to the member gaining most points in Classes 1 and 4. Mr. Smalley also presented a Roller hen to each member owner of the best Water Glucke, in Classes 1, 3, and 4, Mr. Groves also presented a bass of fish for most entries in Class 1, and a bass for most points gained throughout the show. Quite a novel feature in the way of specials took the form of a highly finished sketch portrait, executed by Mr. Percival, jun., and presented by Mr. Andrew Percival. The writer considers himself fortunate in winning one of these unique specials. All the birds, excepting those which were taken away by their owners on Saturday evening, were held over until Monday, and we trust that they all reached their homes in good condition.—Joseph Tomlinson.

CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

CORK P.P. and C.B.A.

Annual exhibition, held in the City Hall, Municipal Building, January 15-16. Cage birds were well represented, the strongest section being the Yorks. The total entry of 243 is a record, also that in each section throughout the show. The stewards, Messrs. Hawkins, Patterson, Neville, Thornhill, Mills, O'Reilly and Cottrell are all hard working fanciers, and worked harmoniously together, with intent to make the show a success. The birds in a majority of cases were staged night previous to judging, so the judging commenced in good time on the morning of the show. The secretary, Mr. Tuckey, and assist. secretary, Mr. Carey, both men of experience, were ever courteous and obliging in meeting the fanciers' requirements, and with their efforts it is to be hoped that they may have a balance to carry forward towards a future occasion. Mr. W. P. Barnes, Grantham, judged, and his awards appeared to give every satisfaction.

YORKSHIRE UNION OF C.B.S.

Result of the Season's Competitions

Bradford West C.B.A. annual show brought to a termination for another season all the competitions for the various prizes offered by the Yorkshire Union, at all affiliated societies' annual open shows. Eleven union shows have been held this season, and in addition to these the Council decided to grant their full patronage to the Bradford National Cage Bird show. The last four union shows have been very hard hit in respect to the number of entries, and no doubt this state of affairs will lead to many new propositions finding a place on the ballot-paper under the heading of suggested new rules for the union members to decide at the fortbcoming ballot. It behoves every member to study very conscientiously what can be done to remedy the above state of affairs, and if possible to try and inaugurate some new scheme whereby the financial responsibilities to those societies who do hold these shows may be materially lessened. The first competition to be dealt with is that for CAGE BIRDS prizes, the following is a list of points gained at all shows (excepting Huddersfield), but only eight shows will eventually count in the final placings for the prizes, this list will be submitted to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS Prizes Committee, who will duly publish a complete list of winners, the only reason for publishing the list now is to give the competitors named a chance of comparing points and of immediately notifying me if there is any mistake, so that same can be rectified before finally submitting it to the above mentioned committee. Four highest birds only to count. Professional section, Messrs. Ogden Bros., 255 points; J. Thomas, 216; L. Dykes, 206; J. Bailey, 183; C. Morrison, 141; F. Allen, 132; H. H. Towens, 123; Sutcliffe and Son, 114; A. Brown and Son, 98; P. Mason, 90; M. Peel, 73; E. Stobart, 72; L. Dyson, 52; W. Cruise, 45; Wilkinson Bros., 43; Thornton and Bower, 36; J. Helliwell, 35; and H. J. Chittenden, 31. Amateurs: Messrs. A. Radley, 114 points; E. Clegg, 104; A. M. Craven, 69; A. Whitley, 59; S. B. Grayshon, 54; Burdekin Bros., 50; W. Stables, 42; T. Elsegood, 38; C. E. Hall, 33; S. Denby, 29; J. Lunn, 22; H. Simonett, 21; Myers and Lumb, 21; L. Jebson, 16; F. Crabtree, 16; H. Pearson, 15; J. H. Ackroyd, 14; and S. Tyas, 13; these are all eligible for the prizes providing they have exhibited at not less than five union shows, Bradford National can, of course, be counted as one of the five. The following are winners of the four gold medals, given by the union to amateurs, who had not won more than three first prizes in open competition previous to current season, Messrs. A. Radley, 114 points; E. Clegg, 114; A. M. Craven, 69; and A. Whitley, 59. For "Ramsden's" colour food prizes in the champion section, Messrs. Ogden Bros. 1, 201 points; J. Thomas, 2, 185 points; "Ramsden's" novice prizes, Messrs. S. Binns, 1, 184 points; O. E. Naylor, 2, 151 points. "Errington's" colour food prizes have been won in the champion section by Messrs. T. Elsegood, 1, 38 points; T. Tidswell, 2, 33 points; and in the novice section Messrs. J. Ward, 1, 25 points; E. Butterfield, 2, 18 points. In the competition for the Yorkshire Union gold medals in novice classes, nine in the Yorks. section, and three in Norwich, the following have been the successful competitors; Yorks, Messrs. S. Binns, 214 points; O. E. Naylor, 183; J. C. Beaumont, 118; S. Midgley, 113; B. Wood, 64; E. Saville, 61; W. Helliwell, 59; S. Wilkinson, 45; and J. Rhodes, 44 points. Nor., Messrs. H. Birbeck, 159 points; J. W. Ingham, 90; and J. A. Watson, 64. The above points are taken from the respective catalogues and should any errors be discovered competitors should at once notify me to that effect in order that the necessary correction may be made. The union prizes will be presented by the president, Mr. F. Armstrong at the annual amalgamated prize distribution and dinner in March, particulars of which will be published in this paper in due course.—H. Hill, Sec.

LEADGATE (Co. Durham).

Fourth annual show held Jan. 18, in the Bottle Bank Schoolroom, a very nice place for a show nice size, plenty of light, and quite free from draughts. Entries numbered 110, and quality in all sections was really good, with the British about the pick, although several grand birds were staged in Norwich, Yorks, and Border classes. The society is composed of a grand body of fanciers, with the genial chairman, Mr. T. Reed, at the head of affairs, and he gets through a great amount of work on behalf of the society. He is ably backed up by the Vice Chairman, Mr. E. Westthorp; Treas., Mr. J. Rowell; and Messrs. T. Collins, J. Quigley, T. Rice, J. Owens, T. J. Colling, F. Carter, J. Turnbull, and J. W. Bainbridge, all keen fanciers, and willing to do their share towards making the show a success. The secretarial duties are now in the hands of Mr. R. Jones, and a more courteous and genial gentleman it would be hard to meet, and he got through his duties in grand style, and to the satisfaction of everybody, not the slightest hitch occurring in his arrangements for carrying out the show, and we think the society is to be congratulated upon having so capable a secretary in charge of its clerical affairs. He was ably supported by the assist. sec., Mr. J. Quigley, who rendered great help during the show, and his services will no doubt be highly appreciated by his brother fanciers. The show will no doubt prove a financial success, which it fully deserves to be. Mr. W. Reid (Sunderland) judged, and seemed to please everybody.

The Critique.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Advt. Manager. "Cage Birds."

ALWAYS USE OUR DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expiration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction; provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

EGGERTINE

The best Egg Food ever known for Rearing and keeping in Health and Song all kinds of Canaries, Goldfinches, Nightingales, etc. Invaluable to those having an Aviary. This food will positively rear young Canaries without any chopped egg or other preparations, far better than egg alone, and is decidedly the Best Food ever brought before the public. For getting hens into breeding condition its effects will be found wonderful. It is made fresh every few days, hence, unlike any of the preparations made from foreign yolk of eggs, Eggertine being made from New-Laid English Eggs and other valuable ingredients on the premises. Tins, post free, 1/3; larger, holding three times the quantity, post free 2/6. Give it one test trial and be convinced.

MANY PEOPLE

are prejudiced against purchasing birds from a dealer, and no doubt not without cause. May I ask those persons who have been unfortunate in their previous transactions to give me a trial? As I send everything I sell on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, persons dealing with me cannot possibly be out of pocket, as unless birds give every satisfaction they only have to be returned and back comes the whole of your money. Under these conditions you cannot lose one penny. I do not claim to sell you first prize winners at every show along the line for a few coppers each, but I do guarantee that the descriptions of birds given in this advert. are absolutely correct in every particular. I have a splendid lot of Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in pink of health and condition, at 2/6 each, three 6/-; specially picked larger birds for muling, and warranted now in song, 3/- and 4/- each, three 7/6, six 14/-. (Please note, real cock Goldfinches cannot be sold at less than above prices, and I challenge denial.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6. Handsome lot of cock Brown Linnets, every one guaranteed rose red-breasted, 9d. each, three 1/9, six 3/-, twelve 5/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling or contest singing, and warranted now in song, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Please note: These are exactly same sort of Linnets as the scores of dozens I sell weekly to the dealers and contest singers of Leeds, Sheffield, Hull, Durham, and all parts of the Counties of Yorkshire, Lancashire, Durham, etc., etc., and I have sold more contest winners in one season than all others together. Cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; cock Twites, 9d. each, three 2/-; grand lot of cock Skylarks, in perfect condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 1/-, 1/6, and 2/6 each. These Larks must not be confused with the French flight birds sold so cheaply. Mine are all guaranteed netted in County of Worcester, and are much more steady and come into song more quickly than the French birds. Exhibitors please note: Following birds are all fit to win immediately in field-moulted classes, and only specially good birds that will repay the purchasers for moulting them out are sold at these prices. Goldfinches, 5/- and 7/6 each; Siskins 5/- and 7/6 each; Linnets, Greenfinches, and Chaffinches 2/6 each. I need not specify show points of each species. Sufficient for me to say I know what is required for show bench, and send nothing but what is really worth showing, and I have sold more winners than any man alive, and not done half the boasting, either. Few exceptionally good house-moulted cock Linnets for muling, all finger-tame, full song, and guaranteed bred Mules last season, 5/- each. Travelling cages, to hold 3 birds, 3d. extra in all cases. For full list of net traps, trap cages, birdlime, and all other catching appliances, send stamp. (432)

W. GORE, 131, GOOCH-ST., BIRMINGHAM.

200 SIBERIANS; GOLDFINCHES, BULLFINCHES, SISKINS, JUST ARRIVED

Having choice of the first arrival in England, through my London Branch, can offer you some grand show specimens; cock Goldfinches, as big as Larks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-; others, for muling, 4/6, 5/-, two 9/-, seven 28/-; all on approval; large hen Bullfinches, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6. Beautiful large cock Siberian Bullfinches, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-; monsters; real Siberians; any can be got from London or Preston. Have supplied more Crystal Palace, Scottish National winners than anyone alive; all the following have won first prizes with birds from me:—Messrs. Murdock, Williams, Corlett, Trueman, McMinn, Colville, Parker, Mark Veitch, Jones, Ewan, Weedal, etc. Mr. J. Ovenstone, Grangemouth. Jan. 3/13. HARRY ALLEN, THE ORIGINAL LINNET KING and the champion of all champions. I have won more prizes than any ten dealers in the world put together for years. I have won all the Yorkshire championships, and all the English championships, and I have won five prizes out of six in the world's greatest contest, getting first prize with the champion Linnet of the world. He has won 114 first prizes; proof this paper. I did not keep him under a glass shade and say he was the champion Linnet of England, I gave everybody a chance of beating him, and he has turned out more winners than any Linnet that ever lived. Now I have the following good birds for sale: Two splendid quality singing Linnets, with beautiful notes, and singing bard, 10/6 each, now these are champions, and bargains for someone; Linnets taught by the champion Linnet of the world, will sing anywhere, with new cage and book of secrets, 3/6; a few, right for catching or contest singing, with contest cage, 4/6; now these are toppers, they will sing indoors or out; Linnets from the same place as the champion Linnet of the world, singing hard, 1/6 and 2/-; Linnets, guaranteed to Mule, the largest in England, 2/-; I hold the world's record for Mules. I sold Inspector Smith, of the Leeds City Fire Brigade, 3 muling Linnets; in one season he bred a hundred mules and reared 63. Larks, singing daylight and gaslight, a treat to hear, perfect in feather, 1/6 and 2/-; a few hand-reared ones, will sing indoors or out, with full voice, 3/6, and two with quality notes, 4/6; cannot be beaten, will sing anywhere; Thrushes, singing with full voice, 3/-; a few hand-reared ones, will sing indoors or out, 4/6, and one, the best I have heard for some time, 7/6, now this is a topper; 25 have joined my Canary club; pay what you like; I have the best strain of Canaries singing in England, 12/6, 15/-, 21/- and 30/-; Goldfinch and hen Canary, 5/-; splendid Linnet and hen Canary, 4/6; yellow cock Greenfinch and hen Canary, 4/6; Siberian cock Goldfinch, 7/6, 8/-; cock Siskin and hen Canary, 6/-; cock Redpoll and hen Canary, 3/6; aviaries and parks supplied with the best; hundreds of British and foreign birds in stock; only honest dealings done with me; everybody welcome to come and see and hear what they are buying; so send at once to your old friend, post card before birds, Harry Allen, who walks over for the British Championship, City Aviaries, 40, Beckett-st., Leeds. (431)

TYPE and quality: Clear buff cock, ticked yellow hen, 1911, both won 2nd, 25/-; variegated yellow cock, 3rd, 1912, buff hen, 1911, 2nd, 20/-; variegated buff cocks, 1912, 10/6 each; cold bred; genuine bargains: Allen, 86, Upperthrift-st., Northampton. (428)

UNFLIGHTED variegated yellow cock, winner Derwent Valley, Stanley, 40/-; unflighted clear buff cock, good one, 35/-; two unflighted buff hens, 15/-; unflighted variegated yellow hen, 7/6; own breeding; winner at leading Northern shows: Butler, Tyne-rd., Stanley, Durham. (421)

EIGHT Norwich cocks, good size, splendid type and quality, good head and neck, bred from open winners, which won silver cup two years in succession, cheap to clear; room wanted, 10/-, 12/- each; approval; stamp: Sharp, 121, Berridge-rd., Hyson Green, Nottingham. (418)

WANTED Norwich, large unflighted yellow cock for stock, good head and neck essential; also unflighted yellow hen and unflighted buff varieg. hen, good heads, type and quality essential; good price for suitable birds; particulars: Gibson, Seedsman, Sinclairtown, Kirkcaldy. (423)

TO make room I am disposing of six pairs of large unflighted champion Norwich at 20/- a pair, which I first intended to keep for my own use; one bird alone worth more; a grand chance which will not occur again at the price; approval: Goodman, 24, Bedford-rd., Kempston, Bedford. (422)

NORWICH Canaries, 1/1½, by C. A. House. Tells the fancier all that he needs to know to enable him to become successful as a breeder, and exhibitor of the Norwich Plainhead. The chapters on "Forming a Stud," and "How to Produce the Ideal" are worth the cost of the whole book many times over: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London.

MR. A. L. HAWKES has several typical, massive-framed, large headed, thick-set, colour-fed Norwich, in yellows and buffs, of either sex, which have been selected for his own use, but being compelled to reduce his stock down to one-half, will sacrifice them at 10/-, 12/6, 15/- and 20/- each; approval 7 days: Heathbank, Grove Green-rd., Leytonstone. (433)

UNDOUBTEDLY, one of the best books available for Canary-lovers, is "Canary Breeding for Beginners," by Claude St. John. The title explains itself, and anyone who proposes to breed Canaries will find all the innumerable "kinks" in the business fully explained. Information worth pounds, and the cost is only 7d. post free; cloth bound 1/2, from: "Cage Birds." 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

GIVING up the Fancy: I have a few high-class birds left to clear at reasonable prices. Choice typical birds cold-room bred, including the following: Extra large unflighted marked yellow cock, 45/-; two good typical unflighted clear yellow cocks, 20/- and 15/-; two large clear buff cocks, good stock birds, 20/- and 25/-; splendid extra large unflighted buff hen, 45/-; large typical clear yellow hen, 1911 bred, 35/-; variegated yellow hens, 15/-; satisfaction guaranteed; inspection invited; approval, deposit: J. Almond, 20, North Lonsdale-st., Gorse Hill, Stretford, Manchester. (426)

RICHARD ANDERTON, formerly of Breeze Hill, Preston, in consequence of removal must dispose of the remainder of his exhibition and stock birds. These had already been reduced to a very small stud for business pressure, and the birds now offered are such as could not be bought at other times except at fancy prices from the show bench. Only one favourite pair is being retained, and the rest constitute what was intended to form the coming season's breeding stock. These are all related to the best birds which have been bred at Breeze Hill, notably the unflighted yellow hen claimed for £6 at the 1912 Scottish National, and the buff cock which won the Stanley Cup at Preston for Mr. T. Barton. All enquiries must be addressed to 174, Albemarle Street, Ashton-under-Lyne, near Manchester, and the birds will be sent on approval to well-known fanciers; others must deposit with CAGE BIRDS. The following birds are amongst the well-known winners which are on sale.

(1) "The Gem," variegated buff cock, amongst other prizes, has won 2nd Doncaster, 1st Liverpool, 3rd Glasgow and District, 3rd Bolton, 1st Gateshead, 1st Crook, 3rd Middlesbrough, 1st Stockton, 3rd Hartlepool, 2nd Scottish National, and runner-up for the Stanley Cup at Preston, November, 1912. Price £4 4s.

(3) "Cadley Firelight," clear buff cock, winner of 3rd Manchester and 3rd Scottish National 1911, has bred some most valuable stock. Price £3.

(4) Clear Buff Cock, bred 1912 by the above, a beautiful bird, will make a big winner for someone. Price 25s.

(5) Clear Buff Cock, bred 1912, own brother to the yellow hen claimed for £6 Scottish National 1912. This bird has had a leg broken when leaving the nest. It is now quite sound and almost imperceptible, and has grown into a grand youngster. A valuable stock bird, price 25s.

Enquiries for other birds will be willingly answered.

Pure Norwich.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST

strain, most amazing results last breeding season by purchasers of my champion Norwich, in almost every case a winner was bred; everywhere fanciers are talking about the almost marvellous results, such as no other strain ever will or can achieve. Scores of well known winners sold direct from my rooms, which contain the finest stud of Norwich only ever got together; champion stock pairs from 20/- to 60/-; single cocks and hens, yellow and buff, from 8/6 to 40/-; all small surplus stock sold to a well known dealer. The cream only in Norwich, with blood which tells; the proof you can test at a moderate figure, for the very highest class. Don't waste another season by picking up a bird here and there, a great mistake, but send direct to me and have a pair or single bird, which you can rely on breeding something out of the ordinary; send at once; see show reports. Kindly note: That grand buff, 1st Frome, pronounced by all who saw it a living wonder, and afterwards sold for £10, was purchased direct from Judge Silk, Whitstable. (423)

ROBERT HALL

Rudyard, Staffordshire, is selling all his stock; state wants; prices, 10/6 to 30/-; also some winners; all cages, etc., are for sale cheap. (389)

All Bargains

At the prices quoted below. Have on approval, and test the bona-fides of this statement. Never excelled at prices, if ever equalled, which I believe they have not. A good singing cock for 6/-. Don't be "gulled" by purchasing mongrels sold as Hartz Rollers at lower prices. They have never seen Germany, and to sell as such is an impertinent lie. Specially selected, with better notes, 7/6. Hens, 2/-; Genuine Seiferts, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, Pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 25/- upwards. Hens, 3/6. Pairs, 7/6, 8/6. Cages, 3d. extra. A few exceptional birds, 30/- and 40/- each. An exceptional lot of good hens, and now is the time to purchase them. All kinds of cages for same.

PUBLIC NOTICE!

The enormous demand for Leipzig Rollers has caused many imitators. I wish it to be particularly understood that I am the sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and no other person can sell these birds unless he first purchases from me. All my Roller cocks are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and unless the bird has this stamp it is not a genuine Weber's Leipzig Roller. The superiority of the Leipzig Roller over that of ordinary Rollers is that its song does not consist of one or two long drawn out railway whistle rolls and a full stop. The Leipzig Roller's song is made up of following notes: Hollow, bell and bass rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., etc., and is guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or objectionable notes whatever. Every bird is thoroughly trained to sing in day and all artificial lights, and none are sent out unless in perfect health and song, and every one warranted thoroughly acclimatised. Price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Real bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell roll, and have an exceedingly soft and mellow tone, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed of exactly same strain, 2/6 each, 4/6 couple. For those who prefer a loud, noisy songster, I have a splendid lot of Hartz cocks (untrained German songsters). These are guaranteed in full loud and vigorous song day and gaslight, and are often sold as Rollers by unscrupulous dealers. My price 5/6 each, two 10/6, three 15/-, seven 31/6. Hartz hens, 2/- each, 3/6 couple, or 18/- dozen. Ordinary singing box cages, 1/6 each. Special Roller cabinet cages, with folding doors, 2/6 each. Please note following few letters, which are entirely unsolicited: "180, Newton Street, Macclesfield. Jan. 28. Sir,—Bandmaster to hand. I am delighted with him. He sang immediately he was unpacked. I have thanked Mr. Wakefield for recommending you to me, and I must thank you for sending so good a bird. Yours, J. Rathbone." "36, Snape Hill Road, Darfield. Jan. 27. Sir,—Roller arrived safe and is a perfect treat to hear. Many thanks for sending same in so short a time. Yours, C. Bailey." "4, West Hetton Row, Coxhoe. Jan. 24th. Sir,—Received Bandmaster safe, and can say he has given every satisfaction. Started singing as soon as put in another cage. Thanks for straight dealing. Yours, J. Brothwood." "Raftyard, Howdon-on-Tyne. Jan. 22. Sir,—Please send following birds. The Roller I purchased from you two years ago is as good as ever. Yours, A. Bell." "15, Beechwood Road, Dublin. Jan. 23rd. Sir,—I have much pleasure in telling you that the Leipzig Roller you so promptly and carefully sent me on Tuesday is a wonderful singer. He began to sing last evening by electric light, and all day to-day. He has exquisite double rolls and trills. You do not say too much of these Rollers. They far surpass any bird in singing I have heard. Yours, M. Byrne." "North Street, Newtownards, Ireland. Jan. 21st. Sir,—Thanks for Roller. He is singing like a good one, and is well worth the money. I have had a lot of fanciers to see him, and they say he is a well-made one, besides being a good singer. Yours, J. Fleming." "7, Yardley Road, Small Heath. Sir,—Roller I had from you for my friend on 19th is a gem, and we are all very pleased with it. I shall want another for myself very shortly. Yours, T. Gould." "Regent Street, Newtownards, Ireland. Jan. 20th. Sir,—Please send another Roller same as last. He was a good one, the best in this town. I have heard some that came from —— and ——, but they were not in it with the bird you sent me. Yours, W. Wallace." "8, Lincolnfield View, Newtown, Leeds. Jan. 13th. Sir,—Received bird (Bandmaster) safely and in good condition. You have sent exactly the bird I wanted. He is singing lovely. I took it to a contest and there were 26 birds sung, and mine got third prize, and I took it to another and got third again. Yours, W. Binns." Please note, every bird is sent on full week's trial, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of "Cage Birds," and I take sole risk during the whole time. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages free of extra charge, and unless bird gives every satisfaction you have only to return it and back comes the whole of your money.

CAN I OFFER YOU

anything fairer than a most cordial invitation to come and inspect my stock? You need not announce your visit. Come on any day but Sunday, my rooms will be open, and you can rest assured of a very hearty Yorkshire welcome. I have 12 large rooms stocked from ceiling to floor, and you will be speedily convinced of the truth of my claim to have

The Largest and Finest Stock of High-Class Birds in the United Kingdom.

As regards the quality of my stock, see report of Sunderland show in last issue. With 10 entries my birds won special for most points champion Norwich section, special for most points in Champion Yorkshire section, diploma for best Yorkshire in show, and numerous other honours. See also report of Bradford West and other shows. I am now in a position to offer really marvellous value in Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Border Fancies, Mules, Lancashires, and other varieties as follows:—

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

WINNING YORKSHIRES.—I have a few real gems ready for immediate benching, sure winners at small Shows, at 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, or 50/- each, Cocks or Hens. These can win their cost in prize money, and will make reliable breeding birds at the end of the show season.

I have also a few real toppers, able to hold their own in hottest open competition. Kindly state wants. The following are taken from scores of Testimonials recently received, and which considerations of space alone prevent me from publishing:—

5 FIRSTS. 3 SECONDS. 1 THIRD.

24, South Penrallt, Carnarvon, Jan. 22, 1913.—The uneven mark yellow hen you sent me turned out a champion. She won me 5 Firsts, 3 Seconds, and 1 Third. I also bred from the above hen the winner of 1st Bethesda, 1st Carnarvon, etc. I thank you for your kind and honest dealings, and recommend you to all I known in the Fancy.—David Roberts to Joe Thomas. The original of this and hundreds in similar strain are filed here for the inspection of all visitors.

To every customer I guarantee complete satisfaction or cash returned in full.

This strain needs no bounce. It has made a name for itself and is still going strong. (See reports of Sunderland and other Champion shows in last issue.) My customers also are winning every week with birds supplied by me. Testimonials in proof of this are filed here for the inspection of all my visitors. I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellow or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, ready for benching and able to win their cost in prize-money; also real good Stock birds, for breeding own winners, at 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Few good Sib Hens for Light Muling, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, direct from Germany, with good length of song and many changes, in fact, trained to perfection and in full rolling song by day and gaslight, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; specially selected schoolmasters, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

Muling Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

For full particulars of all other varieties, send a postcard for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please; I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers.

DYKES' YORKSHIRES

1st and Special.

Mr. P. Airs, 12, Wilton-road, Bournemouth, writes: Jan. 25th, 1913. Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know that the bird has done remarkably well; he won 1st and spl. this week. I am highly delighted, and thank you once more for sending me such a gem.

IF you want to come to the front you cannot do better than give me a trial, as my Yorkshires have again won more first prizes at all the leading shows this season than any other strain.

A few of the plums they have won are: Diploma for best Yorks. Newcastle, diploma best Canary in show Gateshead, diploma best green-mark Bradford National, spl. best Yorks at Loughboro', spl. best Yorks. and best bird in show Launceston, and other honours too numerous to mention.

I have the finest collection of high-class Yorkshires in Bradford, bred from and related to above winners, and without doubt the finest strain in the Fancy.

Champion Yorkshire Cocks, yellows or buffs, at 6/-, 7/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each; lovely quality hens, feathered like wax, yellows or buffs, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each. Pairs specially selected to breed winners at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair, and a few extra special pairs at 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. Travelling cages 3d. extra. All cocks on full song, and seven inches long, in clears, ticked, or marked, green or cinnamon.

And remember, I send all on seven days approval, cash or deposit, with Editor, and all orders sent off same day as received, as I only advertise what I have for sale. Colour-fed or natural colour, and guaranteed cold-room bred and kept.

Inspection invited at any time. New price list and testimonials post free. Easy payments arranged with reliable fanciers. No extras charged. State requirements. And remember, this is not a strain of mushroom growth, that rises and falls in a single night, but has won far more 1st prizes than any other for years. Note address:

POWICK'S CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

the same strain as the winners at all leading shows, cocks 7/6, hens 4/6, 10/6, 15/6 per pair; sure winners, 15/6 each; no rubbish; all ten days' approval: W. Powick, Eastfield Cottage, Dewsbury, Yorkshire. (422)

WELLS AND CLEMPSON

"Helmside," Erdington, Birmingham, have two pairs of extra fine stock birds for disposal, same strain as our big Midland winners, price 30/-, worth treble; approval willingly. (432)

HENS HENS HENS

I have 20 of the best Yorkshire hens living, all colours, all 1911 and 1912 bred; buff hens, feathered like wax, correct type and size, 3/6, 4/6, 5/6, 7/6, 10/- each; yellow hens, regular beauties, at 4/-, 4/6, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each: Edwin North (see below).

CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

In order to make room for the breeding season, I have 15 pairs of good stock birds to clear, all at one price, 12/6 a pair; some of these are honestly worth three times the money I am asking; cocks, in full song and over 7ins. long, and hens, are feathered like silk, and properly mated to breed winners; a few odd stock cocks, over 7in. long, just the sort that breed champions, 10/- each: Edwin North, Breeder, 477, Manchester-rd., Bradford. (431)

PARFITT'S YORKSHIRES.

Still winning. Special for best Yorkshire hen in show at Tredegar; see back numbers for winnings at Newport, Abertillery, Reading, Bristol, Abersychan, Luton, etc.; all in open competition and of my own breeding, from 15/- per pair; approval: 79, Queen-st., Abertillery, Mon. (416)

BOUNDY'S CHAMPION YORKSHIRES

Require no misleading bounce, as they are acknowledged to be the champions of Cornwall. I don't visit small local shows and buy my winners at 30/- a time. I breed my own from the best blood obtainable, and have won cups with society in a class of 33—not a small, paltry show. My birds have won more prizes since 1911-12 than any other Yorkshire fancier in the county. Try one of my pairs, from 15/- upwards: Boundy, St. Teath. (423) are the one place in the North where Yorkshire variety fanciers and breeders of limited means are most certain of getting best value for outlay; again, my 30 years' practical experience in the keeping and breeding of this one variety only ensures stock capable of producing progeny possessing the requisite style, type and quality, and so prevents disappointment in results. My prices are reasonable and just, nothing added to for either shop assistants or exhibition expenses incurred; guaranteed personally selected and unrelated pairs from 10/6, 12/6, 15/- to 20/-, single birds proportionately; all cold-room bred, reared and kept; all on strict approval terms, cash or deposit; full price list with particulars free: Old and only address, Jonas Knight, Allerton, Bradford, Yorkshire. (432)

KNIGHT'S YORKSHIRE AVIARIES

SUTCLIFFE & SON

Our winnings in cinnamon marked Yorkshires and green marks exceed those of any other fancier; also winning the £10 10s. cup for green marks for 1910 and 1911, and special for best in show with clear birds. Matched pairs, same strain as above, from 15/- a pair; also a few exhibition birds that will repay you on the show bench; inspection invited; stamp for reply; three days' approval: 1, Back Kitson-st., Windhill, Shipley, Yorks.

H. H. TOWERS

Winner of trophies at all the principal shows for many years, including championship diploma for best Yorkshire at Crystal Palace, 1912; makes the following special offer:—Clear buff cock and yellow hen, suitably matched for breeding winners, 25/-; on approval; other cocks from 7/6, hens from 6/-; satisfaction guaranteed: Colne-rd., Glusburn, nr. Keighley. (403)

H. J. CHITTENDEN

has 15 pairs of his well-known winning Yorkshires for sale, and for a quick sale will take 15/- per pair for five pairs, and £1 per pair for 10 pairs; these are real bargains, and will give satisfaction. Also few show birds that have and can win, cheap; cocks, feathered like wax, from 7/6 upwards; hens, grand length; position, cheap; approval: 53, Carlisle-st., Manningham. (431)

COOPER & SON

Breeders and exhibitors of high-class Yorkshires; 25 years' experience. We have a limited number of really good birds for sale, bred from winners at all the leading shows; type and quality our speciality; matched pairs, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, upwards; fine, lengthy cocks, feathered like wax, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, upwards; splendid racy hens, feathered to perfection, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, upwards; satisfaction guaranteed or money returned; write now: 69, West Park-rd., Girlington, Bradford. Stamped reply. (358)

PURE YORKSHIRES

1912 Crystal Palace first prize strain, guaranteed; some lovely specimens, clean moulted cocks, yellows or buffs, from 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-, 12/-, 15/- each; hens, yellows or buffs, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; any on approval; I guarantee to please you, as soon as you see them. Cages, 2/- each. Breeder 30 years: Sandiford, Canary Judge, Preston, also 89, Sclater-st., Shoreditch, London.

YORKSHIRE BREEDERS' SOCIETY

Buy from the breeder, who, knowing the strain (which is a vital point in breeding), can supply birds to breed winners; sets (cock and two hens), 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-; pairs, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, and upwards; cocks from 5/-, hens from 3/6 and upwards; cage, 3d.; cash or deposit; also easy payments arranged to suit genuine fanciers; apply: Secretary, 40, Spring Cliffe, Manningham, Bradford. (420)

AMBLER'S NOTED YORKSHIRES

have been before the Fancy for 35 years, winning thousands of prizes at leading shows; three times championship for best in show Crystal Palace, four 1sts, three 2nds, 3rd, 4th, and championship, Crystal Palace, 1910-11. As we are not exhibiting this season we have some real gems for disposal. Cocks and hens, including some of the best pairs living; pairs, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/-, 60/-; hens, real gems, 7/6, 10/6, 15/-, 20/-, 30/-. The oldest, purest, and most reliable strain of Yorkshires in the Fancy. We guarantee satisfaction, or return money in full. Approval, cash or deposit: Messrs. Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (428)

70 PER CENT. LESS

Says Mr. Jas. Devins, Sligo, Ireland. 18/1/13. Dear Mr. Bennett, I like yellow cock very much; can recommend you as gentleman who knows Yorkshires, has them, and will not ask more than their value; in fact, your prices are 70 per cent. less than Bradford fanciers. Winners cheap; every one own breeding, from my champion strain; finest, purest, oldest in Yorkshire; winner challenge and other cups, diplomas, medals, prizes galore. Cocks 8/-, 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, up; hens 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 8/- up. Pairs 10/-, 12/-, 15/-, 20/- up; approval: Bennett, Cumberland-road, Lidget Green, Bradford. (418)

WE STILL HAVE THEM

At Bradford National show we won silver cup for best Yorkshire, silver cup for most points, championship diploma for best Yorkshire, champion diploma for best in classes 1 to 10, half-guinea for best unflighted; half-guinea for best in champion classes; also winning outright the 10-guinea National Green-marked Trophy. We have a few pairs, same strain exactly, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- 60/- per pair; single birds proportionate; also a few big winners for sale reasonable. There is a good chance of these breeding a knock-out, as blood will tell. For paoof of our strain, read the following (this is one of hundreds): —Dec. 3, 1912, 3, Grove Road, Redland, Bristol.—Dear Sirs,—I thought I should like to write and let you know I was 1st and 3rd in the bowl class at Bristol with your strain, 32 birds competing, winning the Bristol 10-guinea silver bowl with a young bird I bred 1912 from a pair supplied by you. The same bird also won the cup at another show in Bristol. Thanking you for all past favours. Very pleased to have found such honest fanciers.—Believe me, yours very sincerely, E. H. Stonelake. Special invitation to any fancier, or birds sent on approval; stamp reply: Ogden Bros., Dudley-hill, Bradford.

BISHOP AUCKLAND C.B.S.

Monthly meeting, held January 22, in the Y.M.C.A. Hall, Mr. Moon presiding, in the unavoidable absence of the chairman (Mr. Button). The first quarterly report and balance sheet ending December, 1912, were presented and adopted Five new members were added to the books. Decided to hold members' pair show, at the next monthly meeting, February 26, and liberal classification is offered. Judge, Mr. H. Messenger. All members are requested to come along and bring good entries, and any fanciers wishing to join may do so up to date of show, and compete for members' prizes and specials. Specials were promised by Messrs. Messenger, Chambers and Butler. So, fanciers, hurry up and get yourselves a few.—R. Elliott, Sec.

COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Commercial Hotel, Jan. 22, Mr. J. C. Murray in the chair. There was a good turn-out of members. Moved and passed that we spend 25s. in advertising open show date in "Cage Birds." It was also passed that we have a smoker on Feb. 19 at Raith Arms Hotel, starting at 6 p.m.; further, that the secretary write private gentlemen to arrange ramble to take place on June 3. Passed that delegates attend West Fife League meeting and be instructed how to vote. Passed that we select judges for open show at the next meeting. A lengthy discussion took place re the date of open show, and it was decided to go back to our usual date, Nov 15, and avoid clashing with other Fife shows. Final arrangements were made for club show, and after some entries were taken it was agreed to have our next meeting in Foulford Arms on Feb. 15. New members: J. King, J. J. Grieve, W. Peel, and W. McKay.—J. W. Holms, sec.

PROVINCIAL ROLLER C.C.

First monthly meeting, held headquarters, "Old Boars Head," Corporation Street, Manchester, Jan. 25th. At the request of our Hon. Sec., the writer has accepted the berth of Press correspondent. I am extremely sorry to report that the former contracted a severe cold, whilst in the performance of his duties at the Bury Show, which has necessitated him keeping indoors ever since. The sympathy of members and friends will go out to him, and we trust for a speedy and complete recovery. Our thanks are due to a "chip of the old block," Mr. Albert Percival, for the way he performed his father's duties at this meeting. In the course of a well-delivered speech, he intimated his father's desire that we elect a fresh hon. sec., in consequence of advancing age and business appointments. The attitude of those present showed that before he can relinquish his position he will be compelled to refuse duty. It was proposed and seconded that a hearty vote of thanks be tendered to him, and all retiring officers for their services during the past year. Further, that our appreciation of the members of Mr. Percival's family shall take the form of a presentation for the generous efforts they have made for our benefit. Balance sheet for 1912 shows £25 18s. 2d. to our credit. Officers for the current year are: Hon. sec. and treas., Mr. Andrew Percival; president, Mr. Geo. Wareing; vice-president, Messrs. A. Fould, Massey, Leach, Kilshaw, and J. H. Brooks; auditors, Messrs. Kilshaw and J. Tomlinson. Decided to have a dinner next club day, February 22nd. Members will be acquainted of this in due course, and it is hoped that each will make a special effort to attend. We extended a hearty welcome to two new members, Mr. F. Oldroyd (Wakefield) and Mr. Schofield (Middleton). Roller fanciers would be well advised to join us at our next meeting, and those desirous of attending the dinner will receive a hearty welcome. Particulars can be obtained from Mr. Andrew Percival, Smithy Bridge, Rochdale. This society is the most convenient one for Roller fanciers who reside in the Potteries and district, as trains leave Stoke at 1.15 p.m. and 2.5. p.m. for Manchester each Saturday; fare, 2s. 6d. for the double journey. The society is on a sound basis, and has a membership of approximately one hundred. Club meetings held last Saturday in each month. Further particulars can be had from me at 30, Thistleberry Ave., Newcastle, Staffs.—J. Tomlinson.

BRADFORD EAST O.S.

Annual general meeting, held at Park Chapel Schools on January 21st, before a good attendance. Mr. G. White, vice-president, occupied the chair. Mr. G. R. Rushworth gave the delegates' report of the last Council meeting, and this was adopted. Mr. J. Farrar, treasurer, gave his report; this shows the society to be in a very healthy position, the balance having been substantially increased, now standing at over £8. The auditors reported finding the society's books in perfect condition. The balance sheet was adopted amidst much enthusiasm. The balance sheet for the sixth annual tea and concert was presented by the secretary, showing a handsome balance, thus giving the society a magnificent start for the New Year. The past year has been the most successful year in the history of the society, for after starting with 68 full members, the membership gradually advanced to 86, and every social event, members' show, and the last annual open show had all paid their way. The novice members of the society had done very well in the Yorkshire Union Novice Competition, and no fewer than 5 out of the 9 gold medals given for the Yorkshire section had been captured by members of the society. Election of officials: Mr. E. Luddards, president (the members didn't forget to show their appreciation of the valuable services he has rendered to the society), Messrs. G. R. Rushworth, W. Cruise, G. White, L. Briggs, J. Rhodes, S. Midgley, W. Laycock, and G. Riley; vice-presidents; treas., Mr. John Farrar; auditors, Mr. S. Midgley and Mr. J. Wroe; assist. sec., Mr. Wm. Cruise, and secretary, Mr. H. Hill. The President, Treasurer, and Secretary have thus been elected seven years in succession for their respective positions. A resolution to increase the subscription from 3s. to 4s. per annum was carried unanimously, the members feeling that this would help the society to still further cater for its members. The members afterwards dealt with suggestions for alterations or new rules for the Yorkshire Union ballot paper, and also nominated several gentlemen as candidates for various positions under the Union. Anyone desirous of joining this society would be well advised to attend the next meeting February 4th, when a lecture and debate will be initiated by Mr. Wm. Cruise. A hearty invitation is given to friends to hear this versatile lecturer. On February 18th the members will hold a pair show and judging competition, at which three money prizes will be given. Judge, Mr. L. Briggs. Entrance, free. A good turn up is desired for next meeting. H. Hill, Sec.

THE 54th GREAT CRYSTAL PALACE SHOW.

The Entry Reviewed: A Black and White Canary.

Once again fanciers throughout the country are counting the days to the great annual reunion at Sydenham, where champions meet to fight the last of their season's battles, and where the owners of the champions meet to recount the story of the season, and to indulge in reminiscences of many a keenly fought battle of years gone by. The Crystal Palace is the one place for the renewal of old friendships, and the making of new ones, and there will doubtless be there gathered together the same old familiar faces seen year by year, the same old stories told as though they were new, the same old jokes cracked, and the same old good wishes expressed when the function at last comes to an end, and friends of many years' standing part for another year.

The gross total of entries stands this year at 2,468, a drop of 59 on last year. The extra stock class accounts for the greater portion of the drop, being itself 34 entries down, while the classes for cages and appliances which last year produced 22 entries are this year missing, so that the entry in the exhibition birds is only three less than last year 2,191, as against 2,194. Further, as the number of competition classes is 12 lower than previously, the average is a better one, 15 per class as against 14 of last year. The 12 classes dropped are those which were given by special request last year, and which were so poorly supported that they have been withdrawn.

The class for White Canaries, instituted last year, has this year received 10 entries, a rise of one, and will doubtless once again be the centre of attraction for Canary men in particular. In the A.O.V. Canary class a Black and White Canary has been entered, and much interest will attach to this unique exhibit. The foreign section once again is not up to the standard we have for so many years seen at the Palace, but there will be staged many birds of very exceptional interest, and great beauty, and there is no doubt that this section will be one of the most crowded by delighted spectators.

The Canary Classes.

The classes in this section number 92 against the 99 of last year, and have produced 1,358 entries, a drop of 58; the detailed entries being as follows :—

	Classes	Birds
Norwich Plainheads (open)	8	107
Norwich Plainheads (novice) ...	4	82
Norwich Greens	4	35
Crests, etc. (open)	9	94
Crests, etc. (novice)	2	13
Yorkshires (open)	8	138
Yorkshires (novice)	7	152
Yorkshires, Green marked	3	39
Yorkshires, Cinnamon marked ...	4	40
Yorkshires, Greens	4	64
Cinnamons (open)	4	33
Cinnamons (novice)	1	8
Lancashires	2	17
Lizards	2	13
Border Fancies (open)	7	153
Border Fancies (novice)	2	28
Green Borders	4	63
Scotch Fancies	2	17
Belgians	3	15
White Canaries	1	10
Rollers	3	39
Limit Classes	7	186
A.O.V. (open)	1	12

Open Norwich have two classes less than last year, and in number are 72 down. Open Yorks. are one class less, and 27 down in number, but Novice Yorks. have a substantial rise of 41, 152 against 111. Cinnamons drop nearly a half, to 33 from 63, and in Novice Cinnamons the same thing prevails, the entries being only 8 against 17 last year. Border Fancies (open) are nearly the same as last year, when they numbered 152, but the Novice Borders drop from 35 to 28. Lizards are poorly represented, only 13 in two classes (last year 19). The class for Frills has been dropped. Selling classes are 25 up, and the A.O.V. open, which last year was cancelled, this year contains 12 birds, including the Black and White Canary, as mentioned above.

Mules, British and Foreign Birds.

The nine open classes for Mules contain 128 entries, the two limit classes 36, and the three novice 30—194 in 14 classes, as against 200 in 16 classes last year. Among the birds will be found representatives of every known cross, including the Greenfinch-Chaffinch hybrid, which still remains the only one of the cross which has been seen on the bench, but nothing absolutely new occurs among the entries. The section will, as usual, provide an intensely interesting show to the hybrid breeding enthusiasts. In the British section (open) there are 409 entries, 17 less than last year. Mr. Weston's five classes—Bullfinch, Goldfinch, Linnet, Chaffinch, and Greenfinch—contain in all 136 birds. The remaining portion of the section, 13 classes, against 20 last year, is divided between Mr. Silver and Mr. Fulljames. Mr. Silver's classes contain 140 birds and Mr. Fulljames has 134 in his 9 classes. Throughout this section the class headings name the individual species included, thus doing away with any doubt as to the class in which any particular bird should be entered. The mixed classes in the section will prove, as usual, the most attractive part of the exhibition to the lovers of British birds. Nearly every species of British bird which may properly be kept in captivity will be represented. In the novice British section, judge Mr. Norman, the three classes contain 119 birds, an extraordinary advance on last year, when only 49 entries appeared.

The three classes for Parrots, judge Mr. Camps, have produced only 25 entries in all, and in the remaining portion of the section, judge Mr. Swaysland, only 58 birds appear in the seven classes provided. It is, however, only in number that the section suffers. The specimens that will be on view represent some of the most beautiful foreign birds, and the gangways will doubtless be crowded by visitors throughout the show.

The class for Continental Finches (judge, Mr. Dewar) has produced 17 entries.

The extra stock class contains 277 entries, a big drop on last year, as mentioned above, but each of the entries represents a bargain at the price, and doubtless most of the birds entered will find new owners among those who look yearly to the stock class at the Palace as a ready means of adding to their exhibition or breeding stock high class birds at reasonable prices.

Mr. J. W. Ramsden, of 11, Josephine Avenue, Brixton, is once again responsible for the whole of the show arrangements, this being the thirteenth year of his management of the great exhibition. The experience which Mr. Ramsden has had in working out to a nicety the minutest detail which may tend to the smooth carrying out of such an undertaking stands him in good stead. From beginning to end everything under Mr. Ramsden's management works with the smoothness of perfect machinery, and when our representative called on Tuesday evening the catalogue sheets were absolutely ready for the printer, each entry throughout the whole 2,468 being numbered consecutively. In the enormous clerical work incidental to such a task Mr. Ramsden has the enthusiastic assistance of Mrs. Ramsden and Mr. Geo. Ramsden, and he is the first to admit that their whole-hearted co-operation is the secret of his success. We were glad to hear from Mr. Ramsden that the system he adopted some years ago of absolutely closing down the entries at the advertised time works with complete success. Exhibitors, when they know their entries will be refused if tendered after the proper time, take care to enter before closing, and this year only ten entries had to be returned through being after time.

Letters during the time of the show should be addressed to Mr. Ramsden at the Crystal Palace, not to his private address, and exhibits must be delivered at the Palace on Thursday, 6th, or they will not be able to compete.

The annual judges' lunch will take place on Feb. 7 in the Grill Room at the Palace at 1.45. Tickets, 2s. 6d. each, may be obtained of Mr. Ramsden. Lunch will be over in time for the opening of the show. Ladies are specially invited.

An Expert Opinion.

Several readers have written in the past to ask whether one or other of the specialists upon our staff would for a small fee give them a private opinion upon the merits, or mating, etc., of birds they are exhibiting at the Crystal Palace Show. We shall be pleased to arrange this. Exhibitors desirous of taking advantage of the offer must send to CAGE BIRDS offices a stamped addressed envelope, together with sixpence (postal order) for each bird (Canary, Hybrid, British, or Foreign) upon which they wish to receive an opinion, when a letter will be sent them in due course.

Results of the Judging.

TELEGRAMS or other communications asking for results of the judging cannot be answered by the show authorities. In these circumstances CAGE BIRDS will be pleased to supply exhibitors with the result of any class upon compliance with the following rules :—

1. Fully stamped and addressed postcards or telegraph forms must reach us, at 154, Fleet Street, not later than Thursday, Feb. 6.
2. The number of each exhibit and number of class must be stated, and spaces left blank for the awards. For instance :—"Jones, 100, Market Street, Leicester, 259 ——— 263 ———, 406 ———," etc.
3. All the applicants for results at the Palace must write "Result" on top left-hand corner of the envelope in which the postcard or telegraph form is sent to us.

NOTE.—We cannot undertake to deal with any results other than by postcard or telegram (no letters can be sent).

Club Meetings and Excursions.

The following Club meetings have already been arranged: Crest Club, Board Room, 3.30; N.B.B. and M.C., Board Room, 6.30

Excursion trains at cheap rates will run from every part of the country to the Palace; particulars of fares and times are obtainable at the various local stations.

"Cage Birds" Stall.

CAGE BIRDS will have its usual stall at the Palace, and we shall be pleased to welcome visitors, to greet old friends and to make new friends. Our "Visitors' Book" will be in the usual place on the stall, and we trust everyone present will make a point of leaving their signatures and addresses therein. Any of our publications may be purchased of the attendant in charge. If you do not happen to see what you want, ask our attendant for it.

HENRY J. FULLJAMES,
154, FLEET STREET, LONDON, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of CAGE BIRDS have written to say that they would like to join CAGE BIRDS' LEAGUE, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the LEAGUE, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the LEAGUE. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

A GALA NIGHT.

FOR POULTRY-KEEPERS AND BIRD LOVERS.

To-night (Friday, Jan. 31) is what one may term a bird-keepers' "gala night"—at least so far as the London Opera House is concerned. "The Poultry World" Farm Competition candidates are being entertained at the Opera House (after their examination during the day), and every poultry-keeper and bird lover residing in or near London should make sure of booking his or her seat for to-night's entertainment. The programme is a very extensive one, and if we may particularise any turns, we might mention the sensation of the London season—the American Rag-time octette; Charles T. Adrich—"The Man of Many Parts;" The Poldrens in their original lamp juggling act; Troupe of Arabs, the most artistic and perfect acrobats yet seen, and the world famous illusionist, Carl Hertz. There will be a complete change of cinematograph pictures, and it is hoped to show on the screen pictures of the "P.W." farm. The winner of the "P.W." farm will, it is expected, be announced at the end of the performance. So every reader in London and suburbs should direct his or her steps to the London Opera House, Kingsway, W.C., to-night. The entertainment starts at eight o'clock : you will have a good time; prices, 6d. to 5s.

Our annual show is fixed for Nov. 5 and 6, writes Mr. W. J. Abbott, of Dover.

Our show has been fixed for Oct. 23rd and 24th next, writes Mr. H. Wray, sec., Chatham and Dist. F.A.

R. A. Newley is "the" man for show cages. Order early. Address: 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W.—(Advt.).

We regret to learn that Mr. Roll, the able secretary of the Norwich Alliance C.B.S., contemplates resigning his post.

The winning numbers of the C. W. Alty drawing were 1,718, 1,658, and 1,751, writes Mr. W. S. Smith (South Shields).

The 34th annual open show of the Sheffield C.B.S. has been fixed for Oct. 18; secretaries please note, writes Mr. J. Woolhouse, assist. sec.

The Wimbledon C.B.S. pair show is being held on Tuesday next, Feb. 4, at No. 6, The Broadway. Fanciers will be welcomed; open at 6 p.m.

Portable bird house, see Hollin's advt., under Accessories. The largest portable bird house builder in the country. Address, 9, George Street, Hull.—(Advt. 419.)

Walsh's large Illustrated Catalogue, 104 pages, contains the best of everything for bird fanciers; a post-card addressed Walsh, Bird Specialist, Blackburn, will bring it you.—(Advt., 431.)

Mr. W. Duncan has taken over the duties of secretary and treasurer to Clackmannanshire and Dist. C.B.S. (note the club report in this issue). The radius has been extended to 15 miles from Alloa.

Mr. E. C. Job, secretary, Sheffield O.S., writes that he will take it as a favour if members will return all unsold tickets of their recent show at the monthly meeting to be held on Tuesday next.

Mr. R. A. Newley, the well-known bird-cage manufacturer, of 24, Stockwell Green, London, S.W., will be at the Crystal Palace Bird Show on Friday, Saturday, and Monday, Feb. 7, 8, and 10.—(Advt.)

I have resigned the secretaryship of the City of Bradford O.S., writes Mr. F. Rhodes. All matter concerning the society should be addressed to the newly-elected secretary, Mr. W. Hellewell, 116, Mill Lane, Bradford.

Owing to business I am compelled to clear my birds and all cages, etc., writes Mr. W. R. Wright. I am a ten years' breeder of Yorkshires, and enclose advert. I have removed from Leeds, but the stock is with my brothers.

Prize-money and special prizes won at the pair show of Saturday last was paid to all members present last night (Monday) and the rest has been sent off this (Tuesday) afternoon, writes Mr. V. Wynn, hon. sec. City and Suburban A.C.B.

An excellent syllabus of entertaining and instructive events arranged for 1913 season reaches us from Messrs. Treasure and Pounsett, the hon. secs. of Cheltenham C.B.S. ("Idahoe," Oakland Avenue, Cheltenham), who will be glad to hear from anyone in the district desirous of joining.

Sheffield O.S., we hear, have again be successful in booking the Cutlers' Hall for their all-England show, Nov. 7th and 8th. This is the premier hall of the City (an ideal room for birds). The society are to be congratulated on their pluck in taking over so expensive a hall to ensure the comfort of the exhibits.

On behalf of the L. and P.O.S., writes Mr. Ramsden, I beg to tender my thanks to the exhibitors throughout the country who have so liberally responded with their entries, and I would especially thank them for sending by the advertised date of closing. Only ten late entries were received, and these I was reluctantly compelled to return.

The Metropolitan C.B.A. will hold a Pair Show on February 15th, at the All Saints' Hall. The points at the show will count for silver cups and other specials. Mr. G. Denham, hon. sec., 112, Cowley Road, Mortlake, writes that he will be pleased to hear from any fancier wishing to join. A special meeting to elect new members, and also the general meeting will take place the same night.

Mr. A. Wellings (Prescot) has been engaged to judge Leigh Show, July 19th, we are informed.

Harrogate annual open show will be held on Saturday, Oct. 18th, writes Mr. G. H. Barnwell, hon. sec. Secretaries please note to avoid clashing. Mr. W. Mundell will judge.

I have been elected sec. of the Rochdale Good Intent C.B.S., and all correspondence must be addressed to me at 2, Newill Place, of Heights Lane, Rochdale, writes Mr. Wm. Adams.

We hear from Mr. Cottingham, hon. sec., that the three shows of Hyson Green (Nottingham) C.B.S. have been fixed for June 14th, Oct. 11th, and Dec. 13th. Will local societies please note, to avoid clashing?

The Abertillery C.B.S. (Mon.) are having a social and dance on Wednesday, Feb. 12th, at the Market Hall, to raise funds for our forthcoming open show, writes Mr. G. Broome, the sec. I hope all members and friends in the district will do their best to make this a financial success.

Mr. Hamilton (Eskbank) has kindly consented to give us a washing exhibition at our meeting on Feb. 8, and Mr. Steel (Dankeith) to give us a lecture on "Britishers: Their Selection and Management," at our meeting on March 8th, writes Mr. J. Napier, sec., Colinton and Currie Parishes O.S.

OBITUARY.

I feel sure, writes Mr. R. H. Folley, hon. sec. Exeter and Dist. C.B.S., 28, Roseberry Rd., Exeter, that you will kindly voice the deep sympathy of the members of our society with Mr. W. Evans (Evans Bros.) in the loss of his beloved wife. Keenly connected with the Crest Club, and intimately known to many fanciers of that variety, we feel sure that all those who have known them will tender their heartfelt sympathy. Mr. Evans has been a good member, a good fancier, and a genial all-round supporter of the Cage-bird Fancy.

Mr. G. Baldwin, fancier and dealer, writes that he has removed his business to 26, Bournville Lane, Stirchley, Birmingham (from Icknield Street), and is reopening this week.

Owing to the resignation of our sec. I am compelled to call the next meeting (Feb. 1st) myself, writes Mr. H. J. Mennard, Chairman, Leeds C.B.S. Will all members please attend?

The next annual show of the City of Birmingham C.B.S. has been fixed for Dec. 3rd and 4th, Mr. J. Robson to judge, writes Mr. J. H. Jones, the sec. Will secretaries of other societies note ?

The members of the Victoria Club and Institute, West Stanley, are having a cage bird show on Feb. 1st and 2nd. We wish them every success and a bumping entry in their first venture, writes Mr. W. Elliott, sec., West Stanley C.B.S.

Will kind friends accept my sincere thanks for their letters of sympathy during my great trouble, writes Mr. J. E. Jeffreys (Swansea); also I wish to thank the Swansea C.B.S. for their floral tributes, which I received within twenty-four hours after my dear wife's death. Through the great loss I have sustained (she had always taken a great interest in tending to the birds) I am compelled to sell all my British birds, which are advertised in this issue.

It was a pleasant surprise to me to find you had honoured my Siskin by portraying him on the front cover of your valuable paper, Cage Birds. I beg to thank you for thus honouring me and the bird. The likeness certainly reflects the greatest credit on your artist. The Siskin, in addition to winning at the Scottish National, also took first at the Liverpool National. Unfortunately he is at present on the sick list. He took a chill after a hand wash when I was getting him ready for Sunderland Show, and I had to keep him at home.—W. Fairhurst (Manchester).

British Roller C.C.

The first international exhibition of British and German bred Roller Canaries held by the British Roller Canary Club will take place at St. Marylebone Church Institute, Paddington Street, W., Feb. 7 and 8. There are nine classes, the first two being open to the world. Class 1 is for teams of four birds, entry 5s., prizes 20s., 15s., 10s., 7s. 6d., 5s., with six medals. Class 2, single birds, fee 1s. 6d., prizes 12s. 6d., 8s., 6s., 4s., 2s. 6d., with six medals. The other classes are: Novice team, fee and prizes as in class 1, champion young bird, Nov., ditto., champion any age, amateur any age, novice any age, prizes and fee as in class 2, and selling, prizes 10s., 8s., 4s., 2s., fee 1s. The two fifteen guinea cups of the B.R.C.C. are in competition at this show, and there is a promise that "there will be present two or more of the best Roller birds ever bred in Germany." There are ten cups, and 76 specials to be won outright.

Mr. J. Waters, hon. sec. Wannarlywdd show, writes that prize-money has been paid.

The winning numbers of the drawing in connection with Sunderland Show are 362, 116, 659, 1, 667, writes Mr. J. Jeffrey, hon. sec.

Kindly intimate, writes Mr. R. Trimble, hon. sec., Ulster O.A., that our open show will be held on Oct. 31st and Nov. 1st. The names of judges will be sent later.

We have arranged shows as follows for this year, writes Mr. W. H. Pyke, hon. sec., Reading and Dist. C.B.S.: Young Bird Show, July 16th; judge, Mr. Geo. Gardner. Annual Show, Nov. 26th; judge, Mr. J. Robson.

Mr. F. G. Etheridge, hon. sec., Woolston and Dist. F. and F.A., writes that a show held at Woolston in 1911, which was open to the counties of Hants, Wilts, and Dorset, had nothing to do with his association. Mr. Etheridge has received from fanciers who showed there several letters referring to prize money won by them (which was guaranteed), and they have not received same. I should, he writes, like this to be brought before your readers, as I think it did this association a great deal of harm at our annual show last year. Wishing your paper every success.

WHERE ADVERTISING PAYS.

CAGE BIRDS will sell your surplus stock at once.

Advertise, and see for yourself.

My last advert. in CAGE BIRDS brought me more applications than I could deal with.—W. Colston (Willenhall).

Glad to let you know I sold the birds I advertised in your valuable paper, CAGE BIRDS, a fortnight ago, and I thank you very much.—J. Wilson (Kendal).

Would you thank all those who answered my advert of Scots Fancy, as I had so many replies I could not answer them all. I wish CAGE BIRDS every success.—R. Monteith (Clydebank).

Allow me to thank all those who made enquiries re Mules which I advertised in your paper. I received more orders than I had birds to sell, and the letters were far too numerous to answer individually, showing what remarkable results an advert. in "CAGE BIRDS" brings. I wish you every success in the future.—A. Lewton (Bristol).

A Long-lived Goldfinch.

A Goldfinch belonging to Miss Olive Masters, of The Common, Uxbridge, has died aged eighteen years, according to a weekly contemporary.

After 18 Years.

A Parrot, which has been domiciled with Mr. J. W. Simpson, of the Dropping Well Inn, Knaresborough, for the past eighteen years, laid its first egg on Sunday last, and a second one on Wednesday, it is reported.

The Y.C.C. of Scotland.

The Yorkshire C.C. of Scotland annual general meeting and presentation of prizes is to-night (Friday) at 122, Ingram Street, Glasgow, 7.45 p.m. prompt. All interested cordially invited, writes Mr. R. B. Gibb, the hon. sec.

Noted Linnet Succumbs.

We regret to hear from our Welsh representative that the well-known Linnet so successfully exhibited by Mr. F. Heal, of Swansea, has gone over to the great majority. This bird secured numerous firsts and other prizes, including the Crystal Palace, Scottish National, Horticultural Hall, Cardiff, etc.

N.B.B. and M.C. Annual Meeting.

The annual general meeting of the National British Bird and Mule Club will be held in the Board Room, at the Crystal Palace, on Saturday, Feb. 8th, at 6.30 p.m., writes Mr. J. P. Carr, the hon. sec. I hope all members, both in London and country, will make a special effort to attend, so that we can hear their views on the various matters to be brought forward.

Death of a Champion Champion.

Readers will sympathise with Mr. W. Woods, of Sinnington, whose well-known Bullfinch died, we hear, on Jan. 21st. This Bullfinch was a noted winner, having taken first prize at last year's Crystal Palace Show, and also at the recent Scottish National Show, in addition to some fifty other first prizes at various exhibitions. Mr. Woods' other Bullie, which has stood second only to his late colleague, will now have a chance to come to the fore.

More Birthday Congratulations!

Congratulatory references to our recent Birthday Number continue to pour in upon us and we print a further selection below. We sincerely thank the kindly senders.

The Birthday Number is simply great.—R. Clegg (Gorton).

Congratulations on your recent Birthday Number.—J. Steel (Dalkeith).

What a spanking threepennyworth the Birthday Number was!—W. Pollinger (Brixton).

Am extremely delighted with Birthday issue. It is indeed superb.—R. Braginton (Plymouth).

I must congratulate you on your Birthday Number. The coloured plates are magnificent. A. Watson (Forres).

Your birthday number was extra special, and the British bird plate most beautiful.—James T. Leslie (Southport).

My congratulations to you on the excellence of your Birthday Number; the plates are superb.—W. Reid (Sunderland).

The Birthday Number is a stormer, well worth double the price. I wish you further success.—J. Mostyn-Lucas (Manley Park, Manchester).

What a grand Birthday Number you gave us. It had only one fault, as far as I was concerned, namely, it got me a "lecture" from the wife for sitting up so late that Friday night! But 'twas worth it.—W. D. Eley (Mumbles).

I was greatly surprised, and more than pleased, with your valuable Birthday issue. I must thank you very much for same. I showed it to all my friends. The beautiful coloured plates have gone to be framed. I wish you all success.—J. Kerschbaumer (Teignmouth).

I feel I must congratulate you and all concerned in the production of last week's number. The coloured plate of British birds I was very pleased with, and shall certainly have it framed. It will go splendidly with two other plates I have of poultry and pigeons of all varieties. Am getting a great number of replies from my small advt. in last week's number, far too many reply to each.—F. J Whibley (Maidstone).

Just another good word for your latest Birthday Number. You go one better every time. The plates are very fine, especially Mr. Norman's British birds. It fills a townsman's want indeed. We had hardly got it safe into its frame before our two schoolboy sons were busily engaged trying to copy Mr. Norman's Bullfinch, etc. Like their dad, they think a lot of Cage Birds and its coloured plates Many happy and prosperous returns of the day.—W. Downing (Manchester.) [Mr. Downing enclosed a clever little coloured drawing of the Wren done by one of his sons.—Editor.]

Must thank you for grand Birthday Number; it was champion.—F. G. Joiner (Portsmouth).

Your Birthday Number is the very best I have seen. Many happy returns.—Jno. Collins (Upper Holloway).

Accept my thanks for the fine Birthday Number, with its grand plates and supplement.—W. Beaumont (Retford).

We were delighted with Birthday Number of Cage Birds, and think it quite the best ever issued.—Messrs. Cooper (Southsea).

I thank you for your excellent Birthday Number, especially the plates, which were really wonderful works of art.—A. Lewton (Bristol).

Your Birthday Number was a "stunner," the plates of British birds being fine, and alone well worth the money.—George Broome (Abertillery).

I found your Birthday Number very interesting, and I think very highly of the plates. It is well worth the threepence charged.—R. Cook (Poplar).

I must congratulate you on your splendid Birthday Number. It was a real treat—enough to convert the most hardened opponent of bird-keeping.—A. Tomlin (Kippax).

Your Birthday Number is a topper, especially the "Gem Portrait Gallery." I wonder when we shall have a plate to match giving the eggs? I wish Cage Birds every success in the future.—J. H. Alfred (Treforest).

Having been a regular reader of Cage Birds for three years. Allow me to thank you for the pleasure and instruction it has given me, and for the Birthday Number. Your plates are the best I have seen, and I keep them for future reference.—G. F. Robinson (Blackburn).

Your Birthday Number was all that anyone could wish for, and is deserving of great praise. I gave my copy, together with coloured plates, to a friend, who was so delighted with it that he has promised to continue taking Cage Birds every week.—W. Forge (Manchester).

Allow me on behalf of our society to congratulate you on your recent great Birthday Number. Our British Bird fanciers say the "Gem Portrait Gallery" is a plate that should be in every fanciers' room. A word of praise must be given to Mr. Weston; also to your artist, Mr. Norman, for the way he has excelled himself. Mr. Goodchild's plate of foreign birds was also much admired. We heartily wish Cage Birds many more birthdays to come.—W. Elliott, hon. sec., West Stanley C.B.S.

THE CAT AND THE AVICULTURIST.

By W. E. TESCHEMAKER, B.A.

The names in the following narrative have been altered, for obvious reasons, and some of the happenings have been exaggerated, but in the main and in almost all its details, it is a simple record of fact to which nothing has been added.

A FEW nights later I saw Peter again; this time he decapitated a Bearded Tit, and the ease with which he did it was astonishing. When birds are disturbed at night they always fly upwards, either because they make towards the light, or else because hereditary experience tells them that their nocturnal enemies are mostly four-footed. I watched this Bearded Tit fly up and put its head through the netting right in front of its enemy, and Peter, without hurrying himself, bit its head off with the ease and dexterity of an expert. I came to the conclusion that Peter, being a London cat, was far too clever for us simple country folk and that he would have to go.

Peter's Good-bye to His First Life.

The following evening a friend and myself were playing billiards when we heard the usual disturbance in the aviary. An idea occurred to me. On the wall of the billiard-room are some antique weapons, from which I selected a curious old battle-axe with a long, inlaid handle. I asked my friend to go round to the side of the aviary, stand on the top of one of the bee-hives, and put his head over the top of the wall, whilst I hid myself on the other side of the aviary in the shadow of the stable. My hope was that Peter would come sliding down the stable roof at a nice steady pace, and give me an opportunity of using the battle-axe with effect. But, unfortunately, my friend overdid the thing (for which, as you will hear, there was a reason), and gave a series of yells which quite upset Peter's equanimity. The netting rocked and heaved as he raced across it, and he came whizzing down from the stable roof as though he had been propelled by a catapult.

Now every cricketer or tennis-player knows how difficult it is to hit an object falling perpendicularly, and, when that object is jet black against a dark background, and one's weapon is a primitive implement, the use of which has been neglected for several centuries, one's chances of hitting the object are slight indeed. Thus it was that Peter escaped, and, what is more, the impetus of the sweep of the heavy axe upset my balance, and landed me in a flourishing bed of nettles. I have a kind of recollection that it was not Peter who said a swear-word that time. What with the nettles, and my annoyance at missing Peter, I was distinctly cross when I rejoined my friend.

"You juggins," I said, "you have spoilt the whole show." I asked you to look over the top of the wall, not to yell like a maniac." But my friend was also apparently much ruffled. He hopped about like a Dancing Dervish, rubbing himself wrathfully.

"It was those confounded bees of yours," he said; "if I had had any idea that they would sting at night I would never have tackled the job." On the whole, we came to the conclusion that Peter had scored rather heavily, but that it had been a close run, and that Peter might be considered to have lost one of his nine lives.

Peter's Second and Third Lives.

My man of all work, at the time of which I write, had been one of His Majesty's "handy-men" in his younger days, but was then getting on in years. One morning he greeted me with a broad grin. "I met Tom Snowdon just now," he said, "and he told me he had an awful fright last night. He was passing the garden about twelve o'clock when he heard the awfullest groans and rattling of chains, and something came tearing out of the front gate which looked like a big black cat dragging a steel trap. He showed me a rabbit gin which he had picked up in the road this morning, and wanted to know if it was one of ours, but I said it wasn't the least like." "Strange thing," added my ancient servitor reflectively, "when I passed the old ladies' house just now one of them was nursing Peter in the front garden, and that cat had a hind leg on him swollen up as big as a turnip."

Meantime Peter's career went on unchecked, and night after night he kept the aviary in a state of panic; from long immunity he became so daring that he would actually come and stare me in the face when I went out the last thing at night to see to the stove which heats the winter aviary. This stove is situated on the ground floor of a two-storied outhouse which stands close to the house, and is on the same level; in the upper story is my carpentering workshop.

Peter Accepts Compliments Calmly!

Peter was always extremely careful not to show himself during the daytime, but at night when I went out with a candle to the stove-house, he would (after making sure that I was not armed), come down from the aviary, walk up the steps, and stand outside the workshop door, only a few feet above my head. You see, he was a London cat, and had probably forgotten more than the Salton cats ever knew. There we used to stand face to face, and the things I used to say to Peter could not possibly be printed, but all the notice Peter vouchsafed was merely to grin. (If you want to know what a cat looks like when it grins you have only to refer to Tenniel's clever drawing of the Cheshire cat in "Alice in Wonderland.") I was strongly tempted to use a revolver, but that would have frightened the birds to death, and I still have unpleasant recollections of the hornet's nest I stirred up when I once used a shot-gun (with a reduced charge), and the victim managed to crawl home to expire in the arms of its attached family.

Peter went at last a little too far. To show his contempt for me he would sometimes walk a little way into the workshop, if the door was left open, always taking care to reappear in good time in case I should be tempted to slip round by the garden path and the stairway and try to shut him in. But it is a fatal mistake to despise any adversary until you have thoroughly wiped the floor with him, and Peter never guessed that in the days of my youth I used to go in for the high jump. To reach the workshop without going round by the path it was necessary first to jump on to the 4ft. stone wall which banked up the garden, and then over the hand-rail of the stairway, a height of 5ft., but the latter jump could be accomplished with a vault. I tried it, and found that I could manage it nicely.

The next time Peter walked into the workshop, I set the candle I was carrying softly on the ground, kicked off my slippers, jumped on to the wall, vaulted over the hand-rail, and, at the precise moment that Peter returned to the door to keep an eye on my movements, I slammed and locked the door in his face—and, I tell you, Peter did look surprised.

A Momentous Interview!

Next morning I went to interview Peter. In a corner of the workshop is a pile of useless ideas—inventions that will not work and inventions that will work, but are of no possible use to anybody—and there Peter had taken refuge. I armed myself with the boom of a small sailing boat, and charged the useless ideas. With a tremendous leap out came Peter, hackles erect, tail like a flue-brush, and snarling like a tiger. He made straight for the door (which, however, I had carefully locked on the inside), and, throwing himself on his back, inserted his forepaws in the space between the floor and the door, and with a mighty heave endeavoured to prize the latter open. In this attitude he exposed that portion of his person wherein he had been in the habit of storing away the heads of my poor birds.

Up went the boom. In another instant Peter would have been suffering from a violent attack of appendicitis, but at that critical moment he looked up, leapt to his feet, darted across the room, sprang over the fireplace—and went up the chimney! It was an old-fashioned chimney, spacious, perfectly straight, and quite twenty feet high. You would not have supposed that even a monkey could have climbed it, but, when I looked up it, there was absolutely nothing to be seen. To add insult to injury, a large lump of soot promptly hit me in the eye! I went round to the vegetable garden to see if by any chance Peter had broken his neck, but there was nothing there except James, the handy-man, staring up at the sky with his mouth wide open.

"Most extraordinary thing, sir," said James, "but I am blessed if that old black cat didn't come down almost on top of me just now, just as if he had been dropped out of a balloon." "James," I replied sternly, "were you out at a supper party last night?" "It's true, sir; true as I am standing here; he came down with a smack, gave one yell, and went across the garden like a train."

Early Preparation for the Breeding Season.

By CLAUDE St. JOHN.

Just the advice the novice and amateur are looking for is dealt out in this article by "Cage Birds" popular expert upon the Canary

BY the beginning of February, at latest, preparatory operations should be complete, and the birds nicely settled down once more for a period of undisturbed rest prior to being mated. This does not imply that the birds themselves have been in a constant state of chaos and excitement from the dawn of the year until this time. Far from it. The actual disturbance of the birds even in a large stock need not necessarily extend over more than a very few days, being just that portion of time when the room, staging, and cages are being dealt with. Even then, if the birds can be moved temporarily to another room, and kept in a few spare cages whilst those in regular use are being overhauled, the real disturbance may be limited to the actual removal to and fro.

Preparing the Birds.

During January and February it will be most advantageous to allow the hens the run of large flight cages. They may have to be kept in groups of, perhaps, six to twelve, the actual number of course depending upon the number of birds and cages at command. A sufficiency of perches should be used to prevent quarrels. Induce the birds to take plenty of exercise. If they chase each other about, so much the better, as long as they do each other no material injury. It all goes to bring about vigorous physical exercise, which is usually what the birds most need just now. Do not, however, place the perches too near each other, so that the birds can "walk" across them, so to speak, with closed wings. Try to make them spread their wings in taking exercise.

See that there are a sufficient number of seed-hoppers and drinkers to obviate the chance of a spiteful bird preventing a more timorous one getting sufficient to eat and drink. Offer a bath frequently in mild weather. Keep the cage floors well strewn with clean gritty sand, and occasionally during January throw in a little grass seeds, crushed oats, or mixed seeds, to find them an interesting subject for discussion. A few dried plantain stalks, though of very little use as a seed supply, or a truss of seedy heads of grass, thistle heads or similar wild seeds, will have the same effect.

Leading the Simple Life.

Let the staple diet consist of plain canary seed only, and beyond the little items given with the object just mentioned, be sparing with extras during the first month of the year. The "simple life" is by far the best at this time, and particularly so for the hens. A small quantity of egg food or crushed biscuit once a week, a scrap of sweet apple, banana, or carrot occasionally (when watercress or other green salad cannot be obtained in fit condition for use) and a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts rape (red and black) niger, millet, and teazle, between every three birds twice a week, will form an ample and sufficient dietary. Do not overdo the supply of banana, in particular, under the impression that it is only equivalent to green salad. It is to all intents and purposes a solid of good feeding value.

The Mere Male.

The cocks being already in vigorous song, or, at least, rapidly coming forward in January, will be much less likely to agree together in groups, and, of course, mating is not to be thought of yet awhile. It is, therefore, necessary to cage them separately until the proper time for mating arrives. Single breeding cages, or one in each compartment of larger breeding cages, with the wood slide between them answers very well, and allows them a larger space for exercise than small singing cages. They may be treated a little more generously in diet than the hens, but except in cases where they seem decidedly backward in coming in song a highly stimulating, or forcing, dietary should not be adopted. It is always best for the birds to come forward gradually and naturally as the spring approaches than to try to force them into breeding condition by stimulating food at any given time.

A staple diet of plain canary seed should be given them. In addition a pinch of summer rape—about half a teaspoonful per bird—may be given every second day, placing it either in the egg-drawer, or on top of the canary seed in the hopper. The latter method is not always advisable, as it tempts some birds to scatter the contents of the hopper in waste to search after more rape. A little egg or biscuit food may also be given twice a week, and on two other days a pinch of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, black rape and teazle. Green food, fruit, and baths may be given, the same as to the hens.

Faring Better in February.

By the beginning of February the diet should be added to gradually all round. The hens may be given a little summer rape twice a week, in addition to the seed mixture which is being given on two other days, and towards the close of the month the summer rape in the mixture may be replaced by linseed, the egg or biscuit food be increased from once to twice a week, and occasionally a little hemp be thrown in as an "extra special."

The cocks may be kept on the same diet until the middle of February, when a sprinkling of mustard seed may be added to the seed mixture, and the egg food sprinkled each time with a pinch of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure.

Towards the end of February a greater variety of green foods will be obtainable, and it will be possible by searching about sheltered corners of fields and gardens, or on the banks of sunny ditches, to find good and well-grown dandelion leaves. The latter will be the best tonic possible for the cocks, especially those that are a trifle backward, and for backward hens.

A Hopeful Sign.

It must, however, be used very judiciously and sparingly with hens that display any tendency to be ready early. With this regimen the birds should have come forward naturally, and be in good trim at the end of February. The cocks should all be in vigorous, one might almost say violent song, calling shrilly to the hens as they flap to and fro across the perches, and bursting into song spontaneously, as it were, at the sound of the hen's voices.

The hens also will be bubbling over with high spirits, and calling lustily to the cocks. When this condition of things obtain at the beginning of March, it is a very hopeful sign of the owner getting a well-merited reward for curbing his desires to begin until the time and season are propitious.

The Final Step in Preparation.

The birds will now be practically certain to respond to any slight increase in the diet, or to the first bit of mild sunny weather, by showing a readiness to start nesting at once. Little, therefore, remains to be done now before the actual mating takes place. The hens should be caged up in their respective breeding quarters besides their prospective mates at the beginning of March, and then two or three weeks feeding up, until, say, about the third week, will doubtless suffice to bring them into the best possible breeding condition, ready for the tying of nuptial knots.

When Giving Dandelion.

The diet during this final stage should consist of the usual staple of plain canary, and in extras both sexes should be treated alike, with the single exception that dandelion should be given sparingly, or withheld, from hens which appear far in advance of their prospective mates. A pinch of summer rape and a little egg food sprinkled with maw and gold of pleasure, should be given every second day, and on the alternate days offer a little of the mixed seed given to the cocks during February and a couple of leaves of crisp young dandelion. The latter may be increased to three leaves per bird daily for those that seem to lag behind, or may be reduced or withheld altogether in cases where the bird appears more forward than is desirable.

Towards the end of March the birds should be ready and eager to mate, and if the weather is also favourable, the owner may then allow them to settle down to their domestic duties, and trust confidently to have a first round of full eggs to inaugurate what I trust will prove a most successful season.

Questions and Answers.

DOUBTS AND DIFFICULTIES SOLVED BY SPECIALISTS

Queries will be answered under the following conditions:—

(1)—All questions must be clearly written in ink (or typewritten) on one side of paper, and must conclude with either the correct name of querist or a pseudonym, or initials.

(2)—The proper name and address in full of querist must always be written on a separate sheet of paper, and enclosed with the query. In no case must the address appear on the query.

(3)—Queries intended for different specialists must not be written on the same sheet of paper.

(4)—Queries must not include or be included in orders for books, instructions re advertisements, or any other matter for publication.

(5)—The department to which the queries refer must be stated in bold letters on the left-hand corner of the query.

(6)—If an answer in the same week's issue is desired, queries must be posted to reach us by Monday's first post at latest. Queries will be dealt with in the order in which they are received, and only as space permits. The earlier queries are received the better attention they are likely to have.

(7)—Queries relating to illnesses of birds, except enquiries as to cause of death (for which see Post Mortems will be answered by return of post on receipt of a postal order for sixpence and an addressed stamped envelope. Queries of an ordinary nature will be answered by post, if desired, on receipt of a postal order for one shilling and a stamped addressed envelope.

(8)—All who require letters of complaints written to advertisers must state grounds for doing so clearly and fully, and enclose a fee of sixpence,, otherwise their letters will not receive attention. All the fees received from this source will be handed over in full to the "Referee's" Poor Childrens' Fund (London).

(9)—All queries must be addressed to the Editor, "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C. Only queries so sent will be answered. Postcards are not admissible.

THE following gentlemen represent CAGE BIRDS staff of ADVISORY EXPERTS. Queries must in no case be addressed to any of them individually, but to the Editor.

NOTE.—If an answer is required concerning the proper mating, etc., of Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Cinnamons, Greens, Borders, Lizards, Scotch or any other variety of the Canary family, we shall, should the querist desire us to do so, be pleased to submit his questions for answer to some leading specialist of the day on the variety concerned.

CANARY QUERIES.

Answered by CLAUDE ST. JOHN.

HEN DYING (Miss A. Munday).—The hen undoubtedly died from dysentery, but the actual cause of this could only be definitely ascertained by a post-mortem. It is not infectious, so you need not worry about your other birds becoming affected. See that all seeds and foods are perfectly sweet and sound; give but very little hemp, and cut linseed entirely out of the bill of fare. See that birds are not exposed to damp or prolonged chills, and only supply the bath in quite mild weather, and not more than twice a week from now until spring. Also be careful not to give wet, sodden, or frosted green stuff. You did quite right to move the other birds to another cage, and it would be a wise precaution to thoroughly overhaul the one vacated; wash it out well with a solution of Jeyes'—1 in 100—as mentioned in my article in last week's issue, and finally redistemper it before keeping any more birds in it. Burn the perches and get a supply of new ones.

SWELLING ON HEAD (R.W.R.).—Bathe the place quite clean, and prick the "head" of it with a clean needle. Press out contents as thoroughly as you can without using force, then wash out wound with extract of wych hazel—a teaspoonful of the extract in a saucerful of warm water—until quite clean. Dry gently, and anoint the place with Lanocyllin. Repeat the anointing daily until place is healed. In addition to staple seed diet give every second day for a fortnight a morsel of bread and milk, the size of a hazel nut, with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with a mixture of equal parts maw and gold of pleasure. On the alternate days give half a teaspoonful of a mixture of equal parts hemp, niger, millet, black rape, and teazle, and a morsel of banana or watercress. In the water give ten drops of syrup of buckthorn for two days, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a week.

RECURRING MOULT (A.M.T.).—It is quite unusual for moulting to recur under the treatment you have been giving, and the fact that it has recurred after once being checked points to some unusual influence at work. Make yourself quite certain that such exciting causes as rapid fluctuations of temperature and cold draughts do not exist. It is important that these causes be eliminated for treatment to be successful. If the birds did not moult properly last autumn you should now keep them fairly warm; stop the cod liver oil and the quinine mixture, and slightly dust the soft food with flowers of sulphur three times a week for a fortnight instead, in order to encourage and expedite this moult. Continue the same feeding as previously advised, but add two finely chopped mealworms to the soft food each time, and try six drops of tincture of gentian and four of tincture of steel in the water every second day for a fortnight. If this does not have the desired effect, write again and repeat full particulars.

ROLLER MATTERS (One in Doubt).—(1) This question is by no means clear. Water Glucke is the name of a valued tour in the song of Rollers, but when taken and applied to a strain of birds, it is, like most other fanciful terms, practically worthless. I do not suppose there ever was, or ever will be a strain of Rollers that sing nothing but water glucke tours. The tour is certainly a good one, when pure, and is very popular nowadays, but whether it is the best is a matter of individual taste. (2) If you have any number of young birds to train, and wish to train them well, a Roller organ is most useful, though not qu[illegible] indispensable if you have a sufficient number of good, pure singing cocks as schoolmasters to depend upon. The risk in relying upon one or two good schoolmasters is that they may go out of song when their services are most required, and when also breeding with them there is the additional risk of the song deteriorating. A really well trained cock, and an expert performer would probably cost not less than 40s., though the price may go up to £5, or even more. Ordinary trained singers as low as 8s. 6d., hens from 2s. to 5s. (4) As you say, you wish to breed contest singers, do not keep the Norwich hens in the same room. It will be best to limit yourself to Rollers.

SWELLING AT TAIL (E. Wilson).—The substance is doubtless a tumorous growth, and I should say from your description that it might be easily removed by operation by a qualified veterinary surgeon, but I would not advise any amateurish attempts to remove it. Therefore, if the bird is worth it, the best advice I can give you is to ask a veterinary surgeon to remove it. Otherwise the kindest course would be to chloroform the bird. You might try painting the swelling with tincture of iodine about every fourth day for a fortnight, but this will probably give the bird much more discomfort than it is likely to do permanent good.

SITS THICK AT TIMES (A. Novice, Leicester).—Limit the bird to a diet of plain canary seed only, with a fairly liberal supply of green food daily for one week, and during the time give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence in the water every second day. Then treat the bird for two or three weeks the same as advised to "W.L.D.P." in this issue, except the initial doses of aperient, which you must omit. Keep the bird in a fairly comfortable place for the present, and free from cold draughts or heated impure air. Of course, I am assuming you have already removed it from the damp outhouse.

BORDER HEN MOPY (Anxious).—Does the bird really eat very much, or does she merely shell the seed and drop it on the cage floor? Your treatment is certainly at fault. See that the bird is kept in a comfortable place, not very warm, nor yet cold. Give a staple diet of three parts canary to one part summer rape. Every second day give a piece of bread and milk the size of a hazel nut sprinkled with soft sugar, and twice a month on the intervening days give half a teaspoonful of the seed mixture advised to "F. Clark." Give a leaf or two of dandelion or other green food four times a week. In the drinking water give the rhubarb and soda aperient mentioned in same reply every second day for a week, and after this give four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba and aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for a fortnight. Keep cage strewn with clean, gritty sand. If not well in a month write again, and repeat particulars.

FEEDERS (Dragoon).—You ought to have given some details about your feeding and management during the breeding season, as your numerous losses from non-feeding may possibly be due to something wrong in your management of the birds. Get a copy of "Canary Breeding for Beginners," and read up the parts dealing with general management, and particularly the treatment of stock birds during the winter, and pay special attention to getting the hens into good, hard condition during the next few weeks. You are, of course, quite right in wishing to provide yourself with feeders in case a similar trouble occurs in the coming season. You cannot do better than get common Rollers, Borders, or Norwich for this purpose, but take care to assure yourself they come of a good feeding strain.

MAKES SUCKING NOISE (W.L.D.P.).—Keep the bird in a fairly comfortable temperature, not necessarily overheated, nor yet quite cold. Feed as advised to "F. Clark" for a fortnight, and also give the same aperient in the water for three days. After this get your chemist to dispense you a small quantity of a mixture of equal parts syrup of squills, glycerine, sweet spirit of nitre and liquid ammon. acet., and give six drops of this mixture in each tablespoonful of water two days in every three for a fortnight. If the bird quickly recovers and keeps right you might breed with her, but if the trouble recurs or is at all obstinate I would advise you to reject her for breeding.

DOES NOT STAND WELL (Nosnar).—As you are certain that red mites are not the cause of the trouble, have you also satisfied yourself there are no grey lice? If not, catch the bird and examine it for this pest. If there are no lice the irritation is doubtless of digestive origin. Give a diet of plain canary as staple. Every third day for a fortnight give a morsel of bread and milk, the size of a hazel nut, dusted with flowers of sulphur, and then sprinkled with maw. On the alternating days give a morsel of banana and a pinch of maw one day, and a leaf of dandelion, if obtainable, or otherwise some green salad each day. In the drinking water give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece every second day for a week, and after this six drops each of dandelion juice and tincture of gentian, and three of aromatic sulphuric acid every second day for another week. Allow it to bathe on nice mild days. It should quickly resume its song when this irritation has passed off. I am not clear what you mean by saying it does not stand well. If the feet appear sore bathe them in a boracic solution.

FALLING OFF PERCH (J.N.O.).—I'm afraid the bird's case is about hopeless, as it will probably go from bad to worse until an attack proves fatal. If still alive, you may try what the following treatment will do. Give a staple diet of plain canary. Twice a week give a morsel of bread and milk with three drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and on two other days a pinch of maw and a morsel of banana. Four or five times a week give a fair-sized spray of green food. If there is any constipation add ten drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water until it is removed. Then add as much sulphate of soda as will cover a threepenny-piece, and the same quantity of bromide of potassium, to the water for three days, and afterwards every second day for a week. Then miss a week, and repeat the same treatment in the following week. Any time that a fit occurs give the medicine at once for two or three consecutive days. Shall be glad to hear result two or three weeks hence.

STILL OUT OF SONG (F. E.).—Thanks for further particulars. There can be little doubt that the bird moulted properly before you got it, and the fact that it remains quite silent while the supposed hen "sings quite a lot" seems rather significant. Is it not possible that you have mentally reversed the sexes all the time—the supposed cock being in reality the hen, and vice versa. Continue same feeding for a week or two, but stop adding sherry to sponge cake, and give two leaves of dandelion daily, if obtainable. Also make a paste by well mixing on a hot saucer a tablespoonful of honey and a teaspoonful of cod liver oil emulsion, as much chlorate of potash as will cover a shilling, and the same quantity of grain of paradise, with sufficient finely powdered biscuit to make a fairly stiff paste. When cold it will cut into solid cubes. Stick a cube in wires at end of perch and renew when necessary. Treat both birds alike, and you should soon see "which is what."

A TRIFLE HOARSE (Fancier).—If the bird has quite thrown off the cold it had, this hoarseness will soon disappear as the bird gets more stout in song. It is quite usual for the voice to sound a little hoarse for a short time after a bird resumes singing after a period of silence. Give a morsel of bread and milk with two drops of cod liver oil emulsion on it, and sprinkled with soft sugar every second day for a week, and on the alternate days add 20 drops of whisky, five of glycerine, and as much chlorate of potash as will cover a threepenny-piece to the water. Your seed mixture is not very good. Use that advised to "F. Clark."

ROLLER BREEDING (R. S. H.).—Yes, the Rollers bred in 1912 will go to nest and rear young themselves in the coming season if allowed to do so, and there is no reason why they should not produce quite healthy and robust young. I would not advise you to attempt to breed with them both together in one cage. It will be far better to keep each hen in a single breeding cage by herself, and when the proper season arrives mate the cock with each one separately. See reply to "Jack" in last issue for details. If both your hens were equally forward in condition and seemed in urgent need of mating, you could use the cock with each hen on alternate days with success, and the hens would then both be nesting at same time. But the method advised to "Jack" is preferable.

WATERY EYE (Puzzled).—See that the bird is not injuring the eye by rubbing it on a rough perch, or being exposed to cold draughts. Keep in a comfortable temperature, and keep cage and perches perfectly clean. Give a morsel of bread and milk, same as advised to "Fancier" in this issue, every second day for a week or so, and keep bowels regular by an extra supply of green salads. Get a few chamomile flowers from a chemist, and infuse half-a-dozen for a couple of hours or so in a teacupful of boiling water. Allow to cool, strain, and add 30 drops of tincture of opium to the liquor. Bathe eye for few minutes night and morning for a few days with this liquor, using a small quantity of the liquor fresh each time, and burning both this and the wad of wool used for bathing, after being once used.

NOT MOULTING TAIL (Bob Tail).—I cannot gather from your letter whether your pseudonym is indicative of the condition of the bird. But if the bird has a full tail in tolerably good condition, seeing that she is otherwise in good health and vigour, you certainly need not worry yourself about the matter. I do not suppose it will make the slightest difference to her breeding. If the tail is absent, its failure to grow is doubtless due to the stumps being retained in the sockets. In this case (also if the feathers are present, but badly frayed and broken), catch the bird and greatly draw out the stumps, removing every fourth stump the first day. Three or four days later remove four more alternately, and, again, after a similar interval remove the remaining four. A new tail will then quickly appear.

MATES FOR YORKSHIRES (Mac).—How can a bird be "afflicted with too much good health and vigour?" Probably the real trouble is that the bird in question is too wild and unsteady to show itself owing to lack of proper training to the show cage. 8½ins. of head room is just about moderate for Yorkshires, but an extra inch or two is not thrown away in this breed. For the buff variegated, No. 1, get a nice, slim, and typical clear yellow hen, about 6¾ins. in length, rather fine in neck, and with a neat, well-rounded head and short beak. A bold, upstanding carriage, good legs, compact tail, and well carried wings, but not crossed at tips, are also desirable. For the yellow, No. 2, choose a 7in. bird, if you can get it, or even one a trifle over 7in. Let it be a bold, upstanding bird, on good legs, showing just a little thigh, a ticked buff with plenty of feather, long, compact, and well carried tail, and flights, will be an advantage. If the yellow is pink-eyed, this bird should be cinnamon ticked.

EARLY BREEDING (M. U. M.).—Your project is, to say the least, very injudicious. As you are confessedly going in for producing quantity before quality, you must not be blind to the fact that you are running a great risk of "killing the goose," etc., in doing so. As regards the earliest you can begin, given a warm room, I can only say, just as soon as the birds are ready; that, in a fairly warm room, with a very little feeding-up, would mean almost at once. Your idea of heating by means of a wall lamp to just keep the frost out I cannot recommend. Such a method must be very local in effect. To heat the place for breeding only, you should either have a well-made slow combustion stove, a gas or oil stove, fitted with a cover and flue to carry off unhealthy fumes; or a portable hot-water coil, and instead of just keeping frost out, you should keep up an even temperature as near 55 degrees as you can, or between 55 degrees and 60 degrees. Of course, a few weeks hence, when the day temperature outside will often reach this point, you will not need to keep the heating appliance at work, but will still require it for night use, and for occasional cold, chilly days. If you want information on any particular point that crops up, do not hesitate to write and ask for it.

DISAPPOINTING PRIZE BIRDS (A. J.).—Do not blame the birds until you are satisfied your treatment is not more or less the cause of the trouble. If kept in a cold room it is not unlikely that your trouble arises principally from the birds having previously been accustomed to a warmer temperature. Amateur post-mortems are of no practical use, but if the liver of the bird that died was considerably enlarged, as you say, it might indicate congestion, due perhaps to overfeeding on stimulating foods, but that would not necessarily mean that the other birds were similarly affected. The chief symptoms of such a condition would be susceptibility to cold, loose fluffy plumage, dull mopy condition, and perhaps, intermittent diarrhœa and constipation. Try what the following treatment for a month will do. Keep birds in a comfortable temperature, not overheated, nor yet cold; give a staple diet of plain canary only. Twice a week give a morsel of bread and milk—not more than size of hazel nut—and on two other days a pinch of maw seed. Give two leaves of dandelion if obtainable to each bird daily, and failing this, give a spray of watercress daily instead. Limit the diet to this. To the water add six drops each of dandelion juice and syrup of rhubarb every second day for a week, and afterwards four drops each of tincture of gentian, tincture of calumba, and dilute sulphuric acid every second day for a week. Then repeat these for two weeks in the same order.

SEA SAND FOR CAGES (Seasick).—By the way, deal and fir sawdust are very much the same thing as pine sawdust, for all practical purposes of this kind. If you can get sea sand from a nice clean beach, it will form an excellent covering for the floor of the cages, and if of a suitable size and with a sprinkling of minute shelly or calcareous matter, it will form a very good complete substitute for the grit you purchase. There might have been some other cause for your friend's losses last year, but, anyway, you need have no fear whatever of nice clean sea sand from an unpolluted beach. If you have any doubt, well wash it before use in plenty of clean fresh water. In most cases, however, the saline properties of the sea water would be beneficial rather than otherwise.

A TICKING NOISE (F. Clark).—You are probably keeping the bird in a cold draughty place, or exposed to the fumes of burning lights. See these causes of bronchial trouble are removed. Then give every second day for a fortnight, in addition to staple diet, half a teaspoonful of crushed sponge cake with four drops of sherry and two of cod liver oil emulsion well mixed in it, and sprinkled with maw. On the alternate days give a spray of green food and a pinch of a mixture of two parts each hemp, inga and black rape, one part each of millet and teazle, and a slight sprinkling only of linseed and mustard. Give six drops of syrup of rhubarb and as much sulphate of soda as will cover a sixpence in the water for two days. Afterwards 20 drops of whisky, five each of oxymel of squills and ipecacuanha wine, and two of eucalyptus oil, well shaken in the water, every second day for a fortnight.

WON'T SING INDOORS (Novice).—(1) As the bird appears to sing well outdoors, and, I presume, is apparently in good health, it is palpably useless treating it as an ailing bird. Its refusal to sing indoors, or when hens are about, is merely an idiosyncrasy. The best way to overcome his shyness is to hang his cage for a time in a nice bright place, such as near a sunny window, being careful to avoid putting it too near, where it would be subject to extreme fluctuations of temperature, and, perhaps, cold draughts, and letting it hear, but not see, another free singer. (2) You should have said how you are feeding the birds. Th ravenous attack on the sugar may perhaps indicate a natural craving which is due to lack of something in your dietary. To correct the constipation, cut off distinctly constipating foods, such as hemp, some biscuit foods, etc., and give a spray of watercress, or tender young flower-shoots of groundsel daily, and also split open a grape, and fix on the end of a perch. Add six drops of syrup of buckthorn to the water for one, two, or three days, as may seem necessary.

FOREIGN BIRDS.

WHAT WEAVER? (E. L. H. S.).—Your bird is apparently one of two species, but without a detailed description I cannot make a definite pronouncement—it is either the Black-headed (Hyphantornis melanocephalus), or the Rufous-necked (H. cucullatus)—with both species I have come across many individuals which were most unsafe with the small ornamental Finches, and I have had others which were amiable, but, I fear, the former demeanour predominates.

AVIARY FLOOR (A. W. L.).—Peat is excellent bedding for the shelter. The floor of the open flight should be partly soil and partly gravel, the soil portion being planted with a few evergreens—euonymus, Portugal laurel, aucubas, box, fir, etc.—with grass and cereals around them. Rambler roses, hops, and wild clematis make excellent cover for the birds, and can be planted at the foot of any of the flight standards.

SHED FOR AVIARY (H. G. B.).—You must see that the shed is well lighted or the birds will not thrive, and before painting, all cracks must be well stopped and all joints examined to see that they are draught-proof, and if not they must be made so. (1) A coating of tar every other year would meet the case, but it does not look well, and in hot weather is not hard; it stains hands or clothes if they come in contact with it with any pressure. I advise giving the exterior a coat of brown "Solignum" every third year; it looks well, is an excellent preservative, and is as easily put on as ordinary distemper. (2) For the interior I advice pale sea-green "Solignum." Most oil and colour-men would procure it for you, but if you have any difficulty you can get it direct from Magors Bros., of Hull.

WHAT BIRD? (D. P. H.).—It belongs to the Cuculidae, or Cuckoos, and is, I think, some species of Centropus, but I hope to look through the skins of this family during the week and give you the species in our next issue. Their natural food consists of insects and their larvæ, molluscs, reptiles, small mammals and nestling birds. I should add to its dietary insectile mixture and any large insects you can get for it. Keep a couple of "Demon" beetle traps going in your kitchen and let him empty them daily in rotation. Also, according to the season, capture as much of the natural diet given above as possible, and give as little fish and meat as possible, but you must make no sudden change and only decrease the fish and meat as you find it eating heartily of other things.

TO BREED IN CAGES (H. C. B.).—Zebra, Ribbon (Cutthroat), Bib, Long-tail Grass, Bichenos, Crimson, and Parson Finches have all nested and reared young in cages; as also have Silverbills, White Java Sparrows, Bengalese, Bronze Manikins, Budgerigars, and Blue-wing Lovebirds. For most of the Finches a Hartz travelling cage makes the best nest receptacle, hung up in the most retired corner near top of cage, after all fittings and perches have been removed. The larger you make the cages the more probable your success; also use twiggy branches as the sole perching accommodation. The cages should be kept where there is plenty of fresh air without draught, and also where the temperature is fairly regular and not liable to sudden extremes. Thus a kitchen is a bad place for them.

BUDGERIGARS AND COCKATIELS (F. W. C.).—It will be better for the birds themselves if they make no attempt to nest till spring. The period which individual pairs take to settle down is very variable, but once nesting is started it usually goes on continuously, with only a short pause for the moult. I take it your birds are flying loose in the room, and that you have at least 4 cokernut husks hanging up for them, and either a small barrel or box with concave bottom for the Cockatiels; if so, you need do nothing further, save possess yourself with patience, and if the birds are fed and treated according to our booklets, in due course young will be successfully reared.

ARE THEY BARNARDS? (Barnard).—No, they certainly are not Barnards, but two male Grey-headed (Madagascar) Lovebirds. Barnard's Parrakeet (Barnardius barnardi) has an arrangement of varied greens for its general body colouring; forehead crimson, cheeks bluish, an olive-brown band crosses the crown, extending from eye to eye, and across the nape is a crescentic band of bright yellow, black, bluish grey lesser wing coverts, deep blue primaries, and bastard-wing black, with broad blue margins externally; tail feathers, outer ones blue with bluish white tips, central feathers dark green with deep blue tips; beak light horn colour, legs brown. The Barnard is some fourteen inches long, of which the tail measures six.

POPULAR NAMES OF BIRDS (Wrekin).—There is much confusion owing to the duplication of names, and the same name being often applied to the species—a compiled list would be of great use, but the task would be colossal. Bishops are really Weavers and are better designated as such. Your Scarlet Bishop appears to be the Crimson-crowned Weaver (Pyromelana flammiceps), though the Madagascar Weaver (P. madagascariensis) is often advertised as a Scarlet Bishop or Weaver. Your Yellow Bishop is the Napoleon Weaver (P. afra). The Orange Weaver (P. franciscana) and Grenadier Weaver (P. oryx) are also often offered as Bishops. Among a lot of Weavers (mixed species) out of colour, if the largest and brightest specimens, with the plumatic variations most distinctly brought out, such usually turn out to be cocks. Combassous are sold as Steel and Indigo Finches, and Avadavats (Sporoeginthus amandava) are very often offered as Tiger Finches. Re books, repeat query to the Editor.

WILL THEY AGREE? (L. A. D.).—Yes, one pair each of Zebra Finches and Cutthroats should agree and breed in a four foot cage. Well furnish it with twiggy branches as the sole perching accommodation, and hang up a Hartz travelling cage at each end near top of cage, after removing all perches and fittings, and cutting away two of the bars for an entrance hole. In a similar cage you could keep two pairs of Budgerigars, hanging up four husks as far apart from each other as dimensions of cage will permit, and removing the young birds as soon as they are able to fend for themselves. The back of the cage should be well covered with twiggy branches.

IN BAD PLUMAGE (J. F.).—Repeat your query next week, giving me full details as to how it has been fed and treated in the past, and how you are now feeding it. In the meantime put one teaspoonful of Dinneford's Magnesia in the drinking water (usual quantity) on receipt of this reply, and repeat the dose after an interval of three days. On the intervening days put five drops of Friar's Balsam into one ounce (two tablespoonsful) of water, and give this as the drinking water for the day. It should have such fruit and green food as it will eat; as regards the latter, lettuce is about the best at this season. A weekly spraying with a tepid solution of quassia chips, choosing a warmish day for the purpose and keeping out of draught till dry.

Answered by G. E. WESTON.

WILD SEED SAMPLE (H.S.).—I think the seed is of good quality; it certainly is very clean, and free from rubbish. It is only suitable for occasional use, however; say, half-a-teaspoonful per bird twice a week. It would be better if other "wild seeds" were added to it; for instance, gold of pleasure, thistle, dandelion, sesame, and maw.

LINNET MULES WANTED (Brag).—You can certainly hope to breed Mules from Linnets that have not been house-moulted. I have often done so. It all depends upon whether you get them into the necessary "rank" condition, and there is no difficulty about this. I presume that they are reasonably steady (used to cage life). If so, then you can confidently look forward to your hopes being realised.

A QUARTETTE (Grateful Novice).—1. I am afraid the days of your Siberian Goldfinch are numbered; he is evidently very sick. Give an aperient at once to clear out its bowels; twelve drops of syrup of buckthorn in two tablespoonfuls of water, with half a teaspoonful of brandy stirred in as well. Leave this in the cage for 24 hours. Before offering it, leave the bird without water for an hour or two, to get him thirsty, and give it warm (i.e., use warm water when mixing). The seed mixture you send I don't care about at all for a Goldfinch. It is full of black rape and summer rape, two seeds no Goldie cares for at all. Increase the teazle, and offer him some cracked sunflower daily, also a teaspoonful of thistle, sesame, niger, and cornflower seeds, mixed in equal parts, every day. Try to get him to eat soaked teazle seed; it is very valuable for ailing Goldfinches, etc. Put some in a cup, pour on hot water, and let it stand all night; in the morning drain, shake as dry as possible in a cloth, and then give to the bird. The water can be given him to drink for a few days. Afterwards substitute a small half-teaspoonful of compound syrup of hypophosphites (any good chemist will supply it) in the water. Give it fresh daily for four successive days, then on alternate days over a period of about a fortnight. 2. Yes; take a nest of Canaries. 3. See reply given E. G. S. Everard last week. 4. Give this bird an aperient as advised for Goldfinch, then diet her mainly on milk, sop well sprinkled with maw seed. She should soon pull round.

FEEDING A JAY (Peter the Cat).—A Jay wants a long box cage, with the perches placed to afford him a good, long jump. As regards the food, use a good quality dog meal (such as "Melox" or Spratt's), thoroughly softened with hot water, and mixed with such table scraps (meat, potatoes, greens, gravy, etc.) as are from time to time available. This is the staple, and should be varied with dead mice, Sparrows, acorns, cracked nuts, berries, fruit, eggs, etc., according to season and circumstance. A Jay has a very accommodating appetite; some flesh food is essential.

PAIRING MULING COUPLES (R. T.).—The proper time to pair up is, of course, when both the cock and the hen are ready to breed. But birds can be paired (i.e., run together), whenever the owner chooses—all through the winter if he likes. I always think it policy, for instance, to give untried cock Goldfinches a run for a time amongst hen Canaries, so that they may become familiarised with them. But a proved breeder need not be put in with his mate until she is showing signs of readiness to nest. Again, you can't get fertile eggs from any Goldfinch, or other Finch, unless he is stout in song, has a clear, or practically clear beak, and is properly "sprung" (which examination of the vent will show). There is no hard and fast "proper time"; one needs to deal with each couple on their merits, so to speak. It does not matter whether the hen is Yorkshire or Norwich in type; Mules can be bred from either, but those from Norwich hens are generally the best in substance and colour.

A SIBERIAN GOLDIE FOR MULING (Mule Breeder).—(1) It is not absolutely necessary for any Goldfinch to be house-moulted before being used for Mule-breeding. As a matter of fact, I remember one experienced breeder writing in CAGE BIRDS that he preferred black-legged birds for this purpose. I have myself bred with a large number of black-legged Finches of all kinds. (2) I cannot answer this, never having tested the matter. I should say that it is very hot during the summer in the district where the Siberian Goldie breeds in a state of nature. I prefer an unheated room to keep them in; but, of course, no bird breeders use artificial heat in the height of summer, when this bird is at its best (from the breeding point of view). (3) It makes no real difference; the important point is to remove the first (Canary) husband out of sight and hearing.

IN AN AVIARY (Lincolnshire Lad).—(1) I do not think there is much chance of a Hybrid resulting from the cock Bullfinch and hen Greenfinch mating, though I do not by any means say it is impossible. The more certain method by far, however, is cock Greenfinch to hen Bullfinch. I have neither seen, nor heard of one, bred the other way round. Both Goldfinch-Greenfinch and Siskin-Greenfinch Hybrids are very nice crosses, and you could try either if the first-mentioned does not appeal to you. In the Birthday issue (January 18th), in reply to "Midlothian," I gave a very long answer describing nesting utensils and arrangements. Kindly refer to this.

A BLACKBIRD'S LOST VOICE (H. Steer).—The trouble, judging by your letter, is not by any means serious. You should keep the bird in a room where the temperature does not fall too low (not necessarily a heated living room), and where it is out of all draughts. Well mix a tablespoonful of unrefined honey with a tablespoonful of best glycerine; stir a teaspoonful of this mixture into the bird's drinking water (three tablespoonfuls) every day, and in a week's time great improvement should be noticed in the song. Use boiled water, and let it be fairly warm when stirring in the above mixture.

A MIXTURE (Tram-man).—(1) Have you examined the bird to see whether the stumps of the tail feathers still remain? I expect that this is the case, and, of course, until they have been removed, new feathers cannot grow. It frequently happens that the tail feathers get broken off so short as to be hidden by the tail coverts, and so are not to be seen unless the bird is handled and examined. Food all right except that teazle seed should be added to the stock mixture. (2) The end of April or beginning of May is, as a rule, the earliest period at which one can begin to think of Linnet Mules. A Yorkshire hen can be used, but is not really so suitable as a Norwich, as the young come slimmer in build and are apt to be weak (narrow) in head. (3) The hon. sec. of the National British Bird M.C. is Mr. J. P. Carr, 45, Overdale Road, South Ealing, London, W.

POST MORTEMS.

Mr. G. Yates, M.R.C.V.S., 1, College Road, Harrow, Middlesex, will examine and report upon dead cage birds for a fee of 1s. 6d. each bird; for reply direct, 2s. 6d.; analysis, 21s. Subjects for post mortem examination must be sent packed in a box direct to Mr. Yates, with the fee, this any any accompanying letter being kept from contact with the dead bird. Send by letter-post; it is cheaper and quicker than parcel post. Any bodies sent to the office of this paper will be thrown away, and if a fee is enclosed the loss will be the sender's.

F. Barlow-Massicks.—Both birds died of pneumonia. The Pennant was a cock bird.

R. W. S.—Pneumonia, following exposure due to delay in transit.

Answered by THE EDITOR.

G. F. Robinson.—The record of the Nightingale's song can be obtained of the Gramophone Company, Ltd., its number being 9,439. It is not the song of the English Nightingale, but of the Sprosser (or "Thrush Nightingale"), a Continental species.

Ena Stuart.—Evidently a dear little girl, with unusual powers of observation. Are there any more at home like you? If so, we shall be tempted to flit over Streatham way when the balmy spring breezes blow.

Breeding the Napoleon Weaver in Captivity.

Sir,—I notice in an article in last week's issue of your valuable paper, Cage Birds, that Mr. Wesley T. Page states that the "Napoleon Weaver" (Pyromelana afra) has not been bred in captivity in Great Britain. It may interest readers to know that last autumn Lady Poltimore was awarded a medal by the Foreign Bird Club for breeding this charming bird last summer, and I am glad to say the young are all alive and well.

The Norwich Plainhead Club's Special Prize Winners.

Sir,—At the prize-giving and dinner of this club held the other Saturday, one of the speakers drew attention to the fact that several winners had not turned up to receive their prizes. I have now had an opportunity of learning who these absentees were, and it is only fair to them to let the members know that all except one wrote to say they could not attend, some through business an done through illness. In the cases of the two cup winners mentioned, they stated how much they regretted being unable to attend the dinner, but that they were neither of them able to leave their businesses on a Saturday.

The Capture of Birds Wearing Marking Rings.

Sir,—With reference to Mr. H. Dyer's report of the capture of a Gull bearing one of my rings, No. 30162, this is particularly interesting, as the bird was rung so long ago as 1910, on June 11th, as a nestling at Ravenglass, Cumberland. It was a Black-headed Gull. I should be much obliged if your correspondent, Mr. P. Pointon, who reported in your issue of December 7th the capture of a Gull bearing one of my rings, No. 27670, would let me know the exact place at which the bird was found. I venture to ask for this information, as without all the essential details these records, as your readers will understand are not of much scientific value.

The Shows in Ireland.

Sir,—From your issue of January 11th, I notice the Belfast N.C. and Y.C.C. are holding their show on the same date as Lurgan, although Lurgan had their date advertised. I think the shows that have their dates advertised first in the "Dates Fixed" column of Cage Birds are entitled to keep to them, and should receive the support of exhibitors. The Holywood fanciers seem to be asleep, as last year, and leave the fixing of their date until some society advertises the date that they have only thought about. Then they cry out about clashing. I think if Holywood fanciers wish to get the support of exhibitors in future, they will have to support more than their own show. I may mention they sent four entries to Ulster O.A., six to Larne, and a few to Bangor, although some of them put as many as twenty in their own show. It would be sportsmanlike if the exhibitors who won the members' Yorkshire and Norwich cups supported a few of the surrounding shows, and did not keep these wonderful cup winners at home. Surely they could trust their treasures the length of Belfast, Larne and Newtownards. Then at their show they have as many members' classes as open (even members' selling classes). You can bet your life you won't find a Holywood bird in "open" or even "novice" competition. I see that the new society, "The Leinster O.S.," intend taking the date of the "late" Y.C. and C.B.S. of Ireland for their open show, October 28th and 29th. They would do well to have it inserted in the "Dates Fixed" column of Cage Birds, and so avoid clashing.

Wide Awake.

Rough on the Judges.

Sir,—Mr. James Devins, writing on above last week, gives week-end dates as the cause of short entries at shows. I cannot agree with him here, at least, so far as the North of Ireland shows are concerned. Saturday is the popular day with working class people, and if it were not that many of the exhibitors could get to the show on Saturday, they would not send any entries. Then, again, the gate would suffer by a mid-week show, and most of the shows would come to grief but for the gate receipts. In my opinion it is the judges that are the cause of short entries. At some shows we have Englishmen, at others Scotsmen, and from my own experience, the Englishman and Scotsman go for two different types of bird, whether Norwich, Yorkshire, or British, and some of them, particularly the Scotsmen, can judge nothing. Show committees should see that they select an all-round judge when they are only having one, and I cannot see why the small shows in Ireland should not be able to find a judge in Ireland that would give better satisfaction all round than any Scotch judge they can bring over. If you observe it, the Irishmen never get an engagement in England or Scotland. This is worth a thought. With regard to Mr. Morgan's letter re return of birds from Holywood Show, the officials of the show are evidently to blame, or they would have replied to his letter; likewise the officials of Newtownards by not complying with Mr. Devins' request. But it is waste of time writing to some secretaries, as many fanciers proved by writing the secretary of the Y.C. and C.B.S. of Ireland's last show for award catalogues, which were paid for at time of entry, and not received until a fortnight after the show. Have Dundalk paid out all their prize-money yet? I think that at least one Norwich exhibitor who did not get all his birds wrong classed, has some prize-money yet to come. The secretary of Bangor, too, perhaps could find a couple of specials due to a Norwich exhibitor. Perhaps these affect entries.

Looker-on.

Prize Money at Liverpool (Anfield, Everton), Show.

Sir,—I see Mr. R. B. Wright has given out that all prize money in open classes at above show has been paid. As yet I have not received mine, nor has Mr. J. F. Jones, of Liverpool.

W. Davenport.

The Secretaryship of Kippax Linnet Club.

Sir,—In reply to Mr. A. Tomlin's letter I did not state that I was re-elected secretary at what should have been annual meeting on Nov. 16, 1912. What I objected to was the unsportsmanlike business when Mr. Tomlin was elected secretary. He could have let me know, as when he came away from that meeting he had practically to pass our doors. I should then have been only too pleased to have given him the Club's property that was in my possession. Mr. Tomlin states that I never advertised the opening sing on January 4th, 1913, but I can say with confidence that he tells an untruth, and if he would look his back number of Cage Birds up he would find that he has falsely accused me. I would point out to Mr. Tomlin that unless a certain resolution is rescinded, no general meeting is legal.

R. Plows.

The Recent Stocksbridge Show.

Sir,—Reading our interesting journal week after week, one is compelled to wonder how one got to know the news and kept in touch with the doings of the various societies before we had our popular Cage Birds. We are now enlightened of another disappointment Sheffield way. This time the "faithful promise," is the cause of cancelling of classes. Well, Mr. Sampson, seeing that you don't live in Sheffield, we can forgive you for depending on word of mouth. You will perhaps be surprised to know the Stocksbridge Society is not the only society that has suffered through the voice of the Sheffield Foreign Bird Expert (vide reports). This gentleman made an appearance at a recent meeting of the Sheffield C.B.S. and got us, at practically the eleventh hour to alter both the classification and prize money. With what result? Disappointment and loss. I should think before long the committees of the various societies will awaken from their slumbers and not allow mushroom fanciers to rule their meetings, and so safeguard both their finances and their hard-working respected officials.

Short, Thick One.

Sir,—I notice Sheffield has been very much to the front these last few weeks. First there was the Sheffield O.S. affair that caused such a stir in the nest, and now some Sheffield fanciers have been making promises similar to pie-crusts, to be broken. I am sorry these things have occurred. It must make outsiders think that we in Sheffield are a bad lot. I write to say that we have some of the best fanciers in England amongst us; the few undesirables we do not count. Will correspondents kindly remember that we have several societies in Sheffield. If they fail to make any distinction when writing about the same, some may get the blame that are not entitled to it. Give everyone his due, and then I shall be satisfied.

The Keeping and Feeding of Goldfinches.

Sir,—No doubt there are other fanciers besides myself who find it a difficult thing to keep their Goldfinches healthy. I have lost several promising birds lately. Perhaps some of our expert Finch fanciers will kindly give me a little advice on the matter. I think it was about two years ago that I saw in your columns a fancier recommending plain canary seed for Goldfinches. Perhaps these few lines will catch his eye. I know there have been several letters appearing in your paper about Goldfinches, and I have tried to act up to them, but I find I lose them just the same. I feed on hemp, canary, and teazle, with a little linseed, inga, and maw seed occasionally. But after having them direct from the catcher, they seem to be all right for about two months, and then seem to go "soft," and get like skeletons before they die. I have tried all sorts of remedies, but very rarely do they succeed. I wonder if some of it is caused by using zinc drinkers, as I have always used this kind, or whether it is the sort of cages I use. I should be greatly obliged if some good fancier would help me in my trouble.

A Goldfinch Fancier.

Short Entries at Scottish Shows.

Are "Clique" Judges to Blame?

Sir,—In opening let me say that I believe that all who know Mr. Logan would look upon him as one who loved justice (although not the "Lover" who wrote first on this subject). Since reading Mr. Logan's epistle my mind has changed sufficiently to agree with him on this point at least, i.e., that he is not "Lover of Justice," and he is perfectly justified in putting forth every effort to satisfy your many readers that he is not. But he claims to be a real P.H. fancier, who endorses all that "Lover of Justice" says. Well, does Mr. Logan believe that there are clique judges whose motto is, "Help me this week and I will help you next?" Does he believe that Scotch judges (even the Fifer) are not as honest as judges of other climes? Does he believe that Scotch judges are cowards, who cannot face the exhibitors, and give satisfactory reasons for their awards? If he believes these things, well I am pleased I cannot agree with him, as after a longer experience than he has had, I hold a higher opinion of our judges. "Lover of Justice" said that if honest judges were provided, the shows would get plenty of entries. Mr. Logan endorses this. Now, judges are chosen by the fanciers themselves, generally because they can either purchase by their ability or breed birds to win year after year. I think that the Fife judges have given a good account of themselves for their experience, while admitting they have the same failing as our English brethren, i.e., they cannot please everybody, and I hope will not try to. If the judges referred to by your correspondents could breed birds to win for many years before being chosen as judges, and are still breeding such, should they not be able to do so after being selected as a judge; or does Mr. Logan think no judge should show under another judge? Now, James, when I have birds I think should win, I send out to any judge and give them the chance of winning, and keep up the entries at shows. There are very few fanciers in Scotland who have showed more than me, or longer than me, or even under more different judges than me. But the birds cannot win if they are not sent out. Many "Lovers of Justice" also, I fear, Mr. Logan, put more confidence in the wonderful "Fortune Teller" that guessed the medal winners at two shows, than they put in our Scottish judges, hence the reason of short entries. So far as they are concerned I am not at all surprised at short entries if there are men with the power of telling beforehand the winners at our Scottish shows. But I will be prepared to pay this particular prophet, if he likes, 1s. 6d. for every bird he guesses right, if he will pay me 1s. 6d. every time he is wrong, and I will do as I have done for considerably over 20 years, send out every week to our Scottish shows. While I don't agree at all times with the awards, I believe we have as honest judges in Scotland (even Fife) as in any other climes. I must frankly admit that I don't clearly understand Mr. Logan when he talks of Cage Birds reporter "giving the show away" a few times. I have been a regular reader of Cage Birds since it commenced, and I have never seen a report containing exposure of so disgraceful a character as Mr. Logan insinuates. He says he will not name the shows where the prophet foretold the medal winners, but will tell me any time I care. Now this will surely be to my advantage as a large exhibitor, for if the prophet was correct on two occasions last show season, he might be able to direct me on three occasions next season. And that is all the rules of the B.F.C.C. allow a member to win. He should have the same ability in the Norwich and British, and if so it would pay me to have the name of this prophet for next show season, as I show all varieties, while I also claim to be a real P.H. fancier—I show and win, and sometimes lose, as you know, Mr. Editor. But leave my identity to these guessers. I know Mr. Logan had the experience of being a secretary, and he should know that it is not by any means a large show whereat there is £8 deducted for model cards at a 1s. each. Now £8 would be better spent in making entries for another show. I deny that nine out of every ten fanciers will go for model cards for the love of the card, but admit that show committees, with mistaken ideas, go in for models for the profit derived from them. He is not by any means a very large exhibitor who sends out six entries in a week. Suppose he has three in the prizes; he is charged 3s. for models, which sum would enter two birds the next week. Then, again, railway rates are hurting our shows, but we have not the same control over this as we have over the model card evil. Mr. Logan says I talk nonsense when I talk of a fancier losing a train at places where it takes 15 or 20 minutes to go to the station. While the Dysart Committee cannot, to my knowledge, be blamed, there are many other committees who can be. I have had to go home without my birds, and got them late on Monday night, and was afraid to enter the same birds for the next week. At a Fife Show one year I had to go from one hall to another to see the secretary, who sent me back to the steward, who was in another hall. I had a very hard run for the train, and had it not been late I would certainly have been left. To that show I have made no entries since. Some "Lovers of Justice" imitate the principal winners at our shows. But the imitation is all on the cage and perches; some deserve credit for their art, but would deserve better credit if half of the attention was given to the birds. Some of the birds have to sit on a different perch every time out at a show. Then their owner thinks they should show themselves well on a perch that in many cases doesn't suit the bird's feet. He forgets that his bird is up against birds that are always used to the same perches. Mr. Logan puts it to me; can I blame the young fancier? I don't blame the young fancier, as I know that imagination is a strong force, and the young hear wild expressions and jealous insinuations from the would-be old fanciers at our shows, etc. As for the men that have been years in the Fancy before I took it up, they are very few (Mr. Logan is not one of them), and I am certain they don't hold the same ideas as he does about our Scottish judges; therefore I have no good reason to blame them. But I know some of the so-called "Lovers of Justice" who have asked the judge to come and stay with them the night before the show. One Scottish judge wisely excused himself for not accepting the invitation, and yet this same judge was called everything but a straight judge. This same "Lover" has bought many birds from the judge, and from other judges, and declares openly he cannot get in with the clique, but still maintains it is done. Now, Mr. Editor, let me also thank you for taking up this subject. I hope that since the shows are about finished you will grant space to have this grievance thrashed out on fair lines.

Special Notice to Exhibitors at the Palace Show.

Sir,—Exhibitors are respectfully requested to dispatch their birds by the night trains on Wednesday, Feb. 5th, or by early trains on Thursday, Feb. 6th, arriving at the London termini not later than 2 o'clock, so that they reach the Palace in good time. Their birds will then have time to recover from the fatigue of their journey before being judged. On account of the show having to open at 3 o'clock on the 7th, all birds arriving after Thursday, 6th, will have to be marked "Too late for competition." Fill up but do not detach address labels. Use as sent. Stewards will remove top label for return journey. Attendants will be at the Palace to receive birds on Thursday morning, Feb. 6th, at 10 o'clock. Consign packages as follows: By Midland, Great Northern, and Great Central Lines to High-Level Station (South-Eastern and Chatham Railway); by South Western Railway, Great Western Railway, and London and North Western Railway to Low-Level Station (London, Brighton, and South Coast Railway); by Great Eastern Railway (at booking clerk's discretion). Exhibitors are requested to follow above instructions. It is to their interest to do so. Arrangements have been made for the quick handling and delivery of all packages dispatched and routed as above. Freshly-caught British Birds ("Recently taken" within the meaning of the Act) must not be sent to this show.

Canaries' Claws Dropping Off After Hand Washing.

Sir,—I wish to thank Mr. Claude St. John, Mr. E. J. Davies, and Mr. G. Notley for their kindness in replying. I think they must be right, and will take their advice. Mr. Notley described how his birds lost their toes, and this was in just the same manner as mine did. I wish Cage Birds every success.

The Early Birds.

Sir,—In this week's issue Mr. R. Evens informs us that he has a nest of Yorkshire Canaries hatched January 21st. He asks, is he the first this season? I answer by saying no. My brother-in-law, Mr. G. E. Boswell, had a nest of three Norwich hatched January 6th. All are doing splendidly. I saw them myself last evening. I have no doubt, however, even this early date has been beaten.

The Recent Sunderland Show.

Sir,—I beg to thank you most heartily for the excellent report of our recent show, and for the complimentary remarks concerning myself. I am also much obliged to Mr. W. H. Pickles for his kind letter, and to the great number of exhibitors who have sent me letters of congratulation on the way our show was managed. I tender my best thanks to all of them, I appreciate the help and kindness of our chairman and show manager, Mr. J. Farrer, and Mr. F. Riseborough, assistant sec., Mr. A. Walker, treas., and the stewards, as without their valuable aid it would have been impossible for me to have made the show such a brilliant success. We are in the happy position of having a balance on the right side, which gives me great satisfaction, as it is probably the last occasion on which I will officiate.

Can Bronchial Affections be Cured?

Sir,—Asthma or bronchial affections cannot be cured by the drug or alcoholic treatment. You might relieve the bird a little, but the disease will again make itself manifest under such treatment. I once dropped into a barber's shop to be shaved, and the barber, an old man, had bronchitis as bad as ever I have seen it. I asked him what he did for it, and he said, I take only now and again a dose of glycerine, and that relieves me a little. I said, can the doctors do nothing? He replied no, and then gave me the history of his family. He had lost four brothers by this dread disease, and these brothers had spent a fortune in seeking a cure by drugs and alcohol. The old man told me that the disease would eventually kill him, but he would have the satisfaction of knowing that he had lived a good few years longer than his brothers, who had hastened their deaths through trying to find a cure in spirits and drugs. Whiskey is absolutely no good as a cure for asthma, and I am surprised at bird experts recommending it so often. Mr. Jack Thomas, of Station Street, Tyldesley, once brought a valuable schoolmaster German Canary to me that was as bad with asthma as ever I saw one, but I cured it and got it in full song in 9 weeks. I cured it in the following manner. I put the bird in a well-made box cage in the warmest place in the house, and fed it on plain Spanish canary seed alone. Every four days I placed in the drinking water a few drops of glycerine; every morning I gave it a piece of bread well soaked in Scott's Emulsion, and every afternoon (this I think is a great factor, as in the night the disease is more manifest) I gave a piece of milk sop well sweetened with English honey. I gradually removed the bird from the fire until I got it into my bird-room, and the bird never looked behind. It was in April when I got it, and the weather being very mild, gave the bird a good chance. The warmth of the sun is a great factor in the cure of this dread disease. I have never seen a bird in its natural elements suffering from this disease, and I am certain there is no need for it if bird-keepers will only use common sense. The heated bird-room is the greatest cause, as the fluctuations between the heat and cold play havoc with the tender throats of these frail creatures. I have now been a breeder of the German Canary for eight years, and hundreds of imported and home-bred birds of this breed are lost every year, yet I have never had one single bird with the disease, and my birds are all kept in a cold room, facing North, without any heat whatever. I have had wheezing birds, but the milk sop and honey soon puts a stop to that. There are a good few fanciers in Leigh and district, and I challenge them to say they have ever seen an asthmatical bird in my bird-room when they have visited me. Do away with the all-wire hanging cage and aviaries, and substitute joiner-made box cages; feed on good plain seed (canary and rape); a little niger, maw, lettuce, dandelion, and the various wild seeds; "tit-bits" of milk sop, egg food, a little raw turnip, carrit, parsley, lettuce, potato (boiled), watercress, shepherd's purse, plantain stalks, chicker-weed, red nieze (this is a valuable wild seed), and groats. Get some good sea shingle, not sand, but grit and shells. Keep in a cold room; never mind frozen glasses. The birds have an abundance of feathers, which they have not in warm rooms. Nature again, you see. Breed from healthy stock, and asthma will never trouble you again.

Canary Classes at Bathgate Show.

Sir,—Would you kindly convey through the columns of your valuable paper, Cage Birds, to the many inquirers re Canary classes at our coming show that we did not intend holding our annual show this year, but, on second thoughts, we agreed to hold an open show for British, Mules, Hybrids, and foreign birds, and, the date being so late, we considered it advisable to discard all the Canary classes except Norwich selling, and it is hoped that British fanciers will give us their hearty support.

Alleged Borrowed Birds at Darlington Show.

Sir,—As no notice has been taken of my previous letter, I am writing to ask if readers consider it gentlemanly, and in a true fancier-like spirit, for a contributor to make allegations against exhibitors in a show under a nom de plume and refuse to take any notice of the chairman's request that information and evidence be given him? I think that it certainly is not, and again ask your contributor to produce some proof of his accusation. If he cannot do so, he should not have written; that is the firm opinion of Birds Lost or Stolen in Transit.

Leaden Seals Suggested.

Sir,—I have been interested in the correspondence which has of late appeared in your columns with regard to birds getting stolen en route to or from the various shows. It appears to me that it ought not to be a difficult matter to devise some means of so securing the cages and travelling cases that it would be possible to find out on which portion of the journey the tampering took place, and thus facilitate investigation by the interested persons. To this end fanciers should direct their inventive genius and give to the Fancy the benefit of their ideas on the subject; I give below my own views for what they may be worth and hope that others will do the same. It must be borne in mind that locks are out of the question, as show officials cannot be expected to deal with a multitude of keys, especially as a certain proportion would invariably "turn up missing"; furthermore, exhibits must be accessible for handling, if necessary, for judicial examination. Now, locks being vetoed, security may very well be found in some method of sealing, and, although sealing wax is much too "messy" and difficult in operation, there is no reason why the lead seals now in common use on flour and cement bags should not be adopted for the purpose, especially if used in conjunction with special string or tying material, or even, perhaps, the narrow tape, about ½-in. wide (used by stationers instead of string) which might be printed with exhibiting society's name, sufficient for use being sent to exhibitor along with show labels, etc. The exhibitor would then be able to seal each cage and travelling case with his lead seals, using the special tying material supplied by the show secretary. On arrival at destination, the official receiving same should see that the seal on the packing-case is intact, failing which the carrier's attention should be called to the fact, and investigation should be made forthwith. At the showroom the seal on the packing case is of necessity broken, but the cages could remain sealed. unless the exhibit is required to be handled by the judge, in which case the show officials could re-seal immediately after examination, they would also re-seal packing case before despatch. This method would necessitate every individual exhibitor, and each society, possessing their own sealing appliance and seals, but the prevention of the theft of one bird only would repay the cost many times over, and any exhibit gone astray would be more easily traced, as enquiry would show whether on inward or outward journey, and if (I repeat "if") railway companies would only co-operate, the field of investigation would be narrowed still further, and a distinct advantage would accrue to the Fancy if some combination could be formed to follow up these cases and prosecute where possible. I hope this letter will stir up some ideas, and that an effective remedy may soon be adopted.

The National British Bird and Mule Club's Bird-keepers' Protection Association.

Sir,—Over two years ago the National British Bird and Mule Club commenced to formulate a scheme for the protection of bird-keepers, when the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals and the Wild Bird Protection Society were making themselves most offensive amongst those who kept British birds. That scheme has now been completed, and in future will be known as the "National British Bird and Mule Club Birdkeepers' Protection Association." We are convinced it will prove one of the greatest boons ever framed for birdkeepers. The subscription entitling any birdkeeper to membership is very nominal, sixpence per annum, and this entitles the members to the best advice in connection with all laws relating to the catching, sale, and keeping of birds. Certificates of membership can be obtained from any of the officials or members of the N.B.B. and M. Club. Will members either in London or the country desiring books of certificates to dispose of kindly communicate with me at once. The committee specially ask that every member of our club will do his best to assist in getting members and making the scheme widely known. All communications will receive immediate attention.

The Proposed New Specialist Club for Ireland.

Sir,—Your correspondent, "Subscriber," re the Norwich Plainhead Specialist Club of Ireland, says, some time ago, it was rumoured that the Plainhead and the Yorkshire fanciers had amalgamated to form a club, the cups to be given one to the Yorkshire and the other to the Norwich Plainheads. I think he is making a mistake, as I may say I have only missed one meeting of two societies for the past nine years, and it is the first I have heard of the above. The rule book contains no rule to turn the cups over to any society, but I believe there was a resolution passed to do so. Though there has been promise after promise to place the cups for some society for competition, after years of waiting it has not been done. The cups were given for most points, one for Crests and the other for Plainheads. The first year the Crest Cup was won by Mr. Tate, but as the competition was so poor he, as a gentleman, refused to hold the cup, but turned it over to the society to be dealt with as members thought fit. One was then placed to P.H. hens, and the other to P.H. cocks, but the competition was very poor the first year; the second year practically nil, only by the two holders. As Mr. James Stewart was secretary, I may say several meetings were held, but failed to raise any competition on the then conditions. As I subscribed over one-tenth of the cups, I may be allowed to ask a few questions for the information of the other subscribers, and the Fancy at large, but as I was speaking to Mr. Stewart a few days ago on the above subject he then promised to give an explanation through Cage Birds. So I will say very little more till I see what Mr. Stewart has to say, but as the show season will soon run round I think something should be done, as it is no honour to hold cups under such conditions. I am sorry "Subscriber" could not see his way clear to sign his name, so that fanciers could judge what interest he has in the above. I will make no further remarks pending Mr. Stewart's reply.

Walter Connell.

WEST STANLEY C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held Jan. 25, Mr. Butler in the chair. Only a very few members turned up at this important meeting for the final selection of two judges. Members please attend better in future. We enrolled five new members, and I hear of several more wishful to become members. We selected two judges by ballot, and after a very tight run, Mr. J. Stanger, of Pelton Fell, was elected for the Canary section, and Mr. J. Maddison, of Newcastle, for the British, Mule, Foreign, and Selling Classes. They are both very popular judges, so exhibitors please give both of them plenty of work on Nov. 7 and 8, as this society keeps its own date. W. Elliott, Sec. (Kindly write on one side only of each sheet of paper used. Editor.)

BUGLE AND DISTRICT F.A.

General meeting held January 22nd, in the Institute Hall, Col. Sir William Serjeant, C.B., our president, in the chair, supported by Mr. John Truscott. Business: Passing rules of association, etc., after which it was unanimously decided that the show should be open to the county of Cornwall. Sectional committees were appointed to draw up schedules to be passed at next monthly meeting, which will be held on Feb. 10. A good lot of specials will be offered, confined to members of the association. All fanciers are cordially invited to join to compete for same; subscription 2s. 6d. Show date, July 23. Our silver band is engaged for the day, so a treat is in store for all attending.—A. L. Pearce, Hon. Sec.

CLACKMANNANSHIRE AND DISTRICT C.B.S.

I have been appointed secretary and treasurer to the Clackmannanshire and Dis. C.B.S. in place of Mr. Peter Arnot, resigned. The radius (formerly six miles from Alloa) has been extended to 15 miles, and we hope that fanciers in the new district will give us their support. The membership fee is 3s. per year, 1s. being paid on nomination, and the balance on or before August 31st, 1913. A new feature this year will be competitions for those members who have never competed at any previous exhibition. If any young fancier in the district wants to know what classes we give, he can have a last year's schedule (post free) by sending a request on a postcard to me at 68, Mar Street, Alloa. —Wm. W. Duncan, Sec.

HIGHGATE & HAMPSTEAD C.B.S.

Annual general meeting held Spencer Hall. Balance sheet read and passed unanimously, the Chairman remarking that considering the position of affairs in September, it was very satisfactory, also that the financial barometer and the society were rising again. The latter bids fair to regain its former position or even surpass it, in the ensuing year. Officers for 1913:—Chairman, Mr. Geo. Gardner; vice-chair, Mr. R. T. Dann; hon. treas., Mr. F. Sparks; hon. assist. sec., Mr. George Street; committee, Messrs. W. Armstrong, E. Bush, Cowie, Trigger, C. W. Law, W. Knight, Wills, Walmsley, Mitchell, Johnston, Neal, and Rolls; auditors, Mr. W. Shearer and Mr. J. Kent; hon. sec., Mr. J. Hyde (1, Raydon Street, South Highgate), to whom all enquiries should be made. A new member in Mr. W. Large was elected. A successful meeting closed with a hearty vote of thanks to those officers who had worked so untiringly and so successfully guided the society through the most trying period of its existence, special reference being made to the untiring efforts of the late sec., Mr. C. W. Law.—J. Hyde, Hon. Sec.

EDINBURGH AND DIST. C.B.S.

A very successful smoking concert was held Jan. 25th, in the Union Hotel, Lothian Road, when over 70 members and friends turned out to pay homage to our national poet, "Robbie Burns." Mr. Easter, the worthy chairman, made a few remarks anent the prosperity of the society. The first item on the programme was a violin solo, given by Mr. J. L. Charlton, who held the audience spell bound, being recalled he rendered a Burns' selection, which made things look a bit lively. He received a rousing ovation. The following gentlemen also contributed songs: Messrs. Starmer, Wightman, Gore, Harkness, Easter, Marshall, Crow, Hardie, Birnie, and the Secretary, and last, but not least, Mr. Stoddart, who by himself gave the company value for their money. Truly a first-class singer, and the company did not forget to let him know it. Towards the close of the evening the special prizes were distributed to the successful exhibitors at our recent annual show. The President, Mr. A. W. Watson, moved a hearty vote of thanks to the chairman for the very efficient way he had performed his duties. A vote of thanks was then given to the artists who contributed to the evening's enjoyment: also to Mr. Cooper, who officiated at the piano. The company then rose and sang "Auld Lang Syne," which concluded a very pleasant night's enjoyment. Prior to "smoker" a committee meeting was held in the room, and it was decided to have a table show for British birds (confined to novices) at our next meeting night, February 18th. Full details later.—J. C. Charlton, Sec.

ROCHDALE (Good Intent) C.B.S.

Annual meeting held Temperance Club, Jan. 8—a fair attendance of members. In the unavoidable absence of our president, Mr. W. T. Banks was voted in the chair. The sec., Mr. Holt, gave an interesting report of the society's work during the year, showing a balance in hand, which was passed as very good. A vote of thanks was given to all retiring officials for their willing services. Officers for 1913: Mr. T. H. Collinge, president; Messrs. G. Adams, W. T. Banks, J. Lees, and W. Leach, vice-presidents; Messrs. Pleasance, T. Butterworth, J. R. Hollows, J. Coupe, and Jas. France, committee; Messrs. Pleasance and Hollows, auditors; Mr. T. Holt, treasurer; Mr. Wm. Adams, 2, Newill Place, off Heights Lane, Rochdale, sec. The election over, the society's welfare was discussed, as to members' attendance, and some plain speaking took place. It seems to exist in a lot of people's minds that keeping straight with their subs. is all that is required—the officials will do the rest—which is not "playing the game." Officials are expected to attend some times two or three meetings a month, and, surely, members ought to back them by attending and pushing their society forward. It is a well-known fact in more clubs than one, that when new members have attended a few times, and just seen the officials, with perhaps a member or two, they start missing. No use turning up, they say; we want something more than business at every meeting. They want ideas and information, the majority of them being novices. Every member should attend and bring a new one with him at the Temperance Club, Toad Lane, Feb. 5, at 8 p.m.—Wm. Adams, Hon. Sec.

LUTON C.B.S.

Annual meeting, held January 21st, at No. 4, Pool Street. Balance sheet showed a balance in hand of £5 15s. 4½d., a loss on the year of 14s. 9d. The open show date was fixed for December 10. Officers and committee were elected as follow:—Chairman, E. Litchfield; vice-chairman, K. Cherry; treasurer, T. C. W. Meadows; committee Messrs. F. J. Webb, G. Litchfield, H. Meakins, T. Nevill, H. Rhodes, W. Smith, K. Anstee, and F. Webb. I was again persuaded to take the office of secretary. The meeting was adjourned till next Tuesday.—E. Bloomfield, Sec.

BURY C.B.S.

General meeting held Jan. 14th, at headquarters, the Textile Hall. Balance sheet for 1912 was issued. After a rather heavy year in connection with the Lancashire Amalgamation, it shows a balance in hand of well over £5; this was passed as satisfactory. Decided to hold meetings the second Tuesday in the month; having for the last twelve months tried the first Tuesday, it was thought advisable to alter it back again. New members can be enrolled at any of the meetings. Officials for 1913: President, Rev. R. S. Hudson; chairman, Mr. Brough; Committee, Messrs. Gorton, Armistead, Brooks, Howarth, Wilson, Crosby, Crossley, and Hamer; auditor, J. Crossley.—H. Jameson.

ULSTER O.A.

Annual meeting held in Clarence-place Hall Jan. 22, the president (Mr. Jas. Stewart) presiding. Balance-sheet after discussion was adopted as read. This shows a loss on the year, which, it is hoped, will be more than pulled up this season. The next show was fixed to be held Oct. 31 and Nov. 1 (secretaries please note). Officials for 1913 were elected as follows:—Pres., Mr. Jas. Stewart; secretary and treas., R. Trimble; committee, Messrs. W. Trimble, J. Ronaldson, J. Neill, T. H. Smyth, W. Connell, J. Thompson, W. Teasy, S. Scott, A. E. Winkup, C. McPeake, C. Tansey, J. Montgomery, J. Carson, J. Barclay, A. Creighton, and W. Magill. Judges were also elected, and names will be sent on later when they are engaged.—Robert Trimble, Sec.

BANKFOOT C.B.S.

The above society held a very successful social and dance on Saturday, January 18th. Over 140 persons attended. The social part of the programme was very successfully carried out by Messrs. T. Mitchell and G. Degson. A burlesque, entitled "Bill the Porter," was given by Mr. G. Degson, his "make up" and gag caused roars of laughter. Everything passed off in first-class style, under the guidance of Mr. J. Lawson, who kindly acted as M.C. throughout the evening. The success of this venture was due to the untiring efforts of Messrs. Lawson, North, Hardaker, Mitchell, Smith, Wilman, and Hudson in disposing of a good number of tickets. Owing to the success and popularity of these gatherings arrangements have already been made for another gathering of this kind, but on the next occasion the social part of the programme will be dispensed with, allowing the whole of the evening to be spent "on the toe."—F. Gelder, Sec.

BIRKENHEAD C.F.A.

Annual general meeting, held Jan. 21, at Ablett's Cafe, Mr. Burns in the chair. There was a large turnout of enthusiastic members and friends. Balance sheet for 1912 was read, showing a balance on the right side of £3 6/-, which was considered satisfactory. F. Haines, Esq., was elected Pres., and Messrs. T. Edwards, J. Shaw, J. Darlington and F. Handley vice-pres. Mr. Burns was re-elected chairman amidst great applause. He has filled this office for many years, and his interest in the welfare of the society becomes keener each season. All last year's officers were re-elected, with Messrs. N. Jones, E. R. Gaylard, and W. Mealor added to the committee. Nine new members joined. Messrs. Benson, Barker, Roberts, Hill, Hall, Wilson, Browse, Morris, Pilkington. Messrs. E. R. Gaylard and N. Jones promised a valuable special for our annual show. A vote of thanks to Mr. G. Benson for judging our night show was carried by acclamation. This closed one of the jolliest annual general meetings we have ever experienced, and through the medium of your valuable paper, Cage Birds, which I know will reach all our members, I thank them for the grand help they have given during 1912, especially during annual show time, when over 95 per cent. of the members exhibited birds, and so helped to make the show a financial success, also giving the 700 people who paid for admission something to look at and admire. I trust that the same enthusiasm will prevail during 1913.—G. Morton, Sec.

MANCHESTER AND N.C.O.S.

General meeting held headquarters, Jan. 20, Mr. Brown presiding over a good muster of members. The delegates gave their report of the amalgamated show meeting, which was accepted. A discussion, re social, took place. Decided to postpone date until March 1st (Saturday), the place for holding same to be left to the social committee. Decided to ask the following gentlemen to give us lectures:—Messrs. Catmore, Broughton, Atkinson, Harrison, J. Beswick, Lythgoe, and Raynes. Decided to hold two table shows, one for Norwich and Yorks., the other for British. First takes place at the next meeting, Feb. 3rd, when Mr. J. Steel will judge the Norwich, and Mr. Atkinson the Yorks. Three classes for each variety, viz., cocks, hens, and breeding pairs. It is to be hoped that members will each bring a few birds, so that the two gentlemen will have something to do. Table show, British, March 3rd, when Mr. W. Fairhurst will judge, and then give us his reasons for placing the birds in the positions they held. Classes announced later. Washing competition, Feb. 17th, with Messrs. S. Cook and A. G. Davis as judges. M. Oldham will give a gold medal for the best handled and washed bird, and Mr. Jones will give a special for the best washed bird by a novice. Decided to hold our annual open show at Belle Vue on Friday and Saturday, October 24 and 25. Officers for 1913: President, Mr. N. A. Bladon; vice-pres., Messrs. T. Atkinson, R. Burrass, W. Booth, S. Cook, A. G. Davis, Geo. N. F. Lythgoe, T. Pease, J. Raynes, F. Richards, and A. G. Smith; auditors, Messrs. Cook, Richards, and Moorley; committee, Messrs. J. Ashcroft, J. Beswick, D. Buckly, E. Doaley, W. Fairhurst, F. Hayward, R. J. Metcalfe, W. Moorley, S. T. Oldham, W. H. Tansey, W. W. Turner, and J. A. Vint; hon. treas. and assist. sec., Mr. E. H. Fulcher; hon. sec., H. Boothman, 10, Parker Street, Levenshulme.

PAISLEY O.A.

Judging competition held in Drill Hall. Mr. P. Wylie judged two classes, Linnet and Goldfinch, and after he had finished the amateurs had their turn, and some were very keen on it. The following were the first three: J. Gardiner, A. Robertson, and F. Paling. Mr. J. Paton won first for all over the show. The winning number drawn in the prize-drawing was: 1st, gold watch, 884 seconds after 8.—Wm. Lambie, Sec.

TORBAY O.S.

Annual general meeting held Pope's Temperance Hotel on January 20th, Mr. A. N. Innes presiding. The balance-sheet was passed as read, and considered most satisfactory, and the secretary was warmly complimented on bringing about such splendid results, the society now having a balance of £6 4s. 6d. at the bank, as shown by the treasurer's report. Mr. H. Whitley was elected president, Mr. S. O. Manlove vice-pres., Mr. J. B. Eastley hon. solicitor, Mr. F. W. Puddicombe hon. auctioneer, Mr. A. N. Innes hon. treas., Mr. W. Drew hon. auditor. Chairman, Mr. A. N. Innes; vice-chairman, Mr. H. Daw; secretary, Mr. J. N. Jeffery; assist. hon. sec., J. Jeffery, junr.; committee, Messrs. F. Badcott, J. Bastard, W. L. Dodd, H. W. Fletcher, G. Heathman, W. Hodge, W. Jeffery, F. Lamble, G. Mudge, P. W. Mugford, A. Nicks and W. Wyatt. Mr. J. Webber resigned owing to continued ill-health. This was much regretted, as Mr. Webber was one of the society's hardest workers from the commencement. The fixtures for the year include Pair Show March 5th, Ramble June 4th, First Feather Show June 24th, Open Show October 29th.

GLASGOW & W. COUNTIES C.B.S.

General meeting, held Jan. 25, in the Good Templars' Hall, Ingram Street, Mr. David Knox presiding over a good turn-out of members. The Treas. gave his financial statement for the year, which proved a very successful one, leaving a substantial balance to be carried forward. Office-bearers elected as follows: Pres., Mr. J. M. Edwards; vice-pres., Mr. J. Young; treas., Mr. A. McFarlane; sec., Mr. W. Connelly, 123, Henderson Street, Kinning Park, Glasgow; Committee, A. Roulstone, J. McGowan, D. Jones, W. Cathcart, P. Campbell, J. Liles, P. Pettigrew, W. Munro, J. Campbell, P. Halbert, R. Jeffrey; auditors, G. Bannerman and D. Knox. Decided to alter date of monthly meetings from the last Saturday of each month to the third, usual time and place; also agreed to charge 3d. per cage to all birds shown at monthly shows during the coming year. It was arranged to hold pair show on Feb. 22: Cl. Norwich pairs, do., variegated, Bord. the same, sell. Nor. pairs, limit £1, and A.O.V. Can pairs. The following were elected members: W. Telfer and W. Hamilton. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to the retiring officials.—W. Connelly, Sec.

STOKE-ON-TRENT C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 20, at headquarters. The sec. submitted statement of accounts for the past year, showing a balance in hand of £5 0s. 3d. This was considered very satisfactory, and unanimously adopted. On the proposition of Mr. Bagshaw, seconded by Mr. Bowers, a vote of thanks was accorded to all retiring officers. The election of officers for 1913 was next proceeded with, and resulted as follows:—Chairman, Mr. T. Hawley; vice-chairman, Mr. F. W. Alcock; treasurer, Mr. W. Roberts; hon. secretary, Mr. J. Pitchford; auditors, Messrs. J. Bagshaw and J. Peake. On considering rules of the society, it was decided to reduce the members' annual subscriptions from 6s. to 5s. per annum; entrance fee of 1s. The following new members were elected: Mr. J. Miller (Hanley), Mr. T. Draper (Shelton), Mr. H. Fox (Penkhall). A discussion then arose as to purchasing some three-tier staging for use at future shows, and sec. was instructed to obtain estimates for same. I hope all members, and others who wish to join, will make an effort to attend the next meeting on February 3rd, when Mr. J. Bagshaw has promised to give a washing exhibition.—J. Pitchford, Sec.

ARDWICK & MANCHESTER C.B.A.

Annual general meeting held Jan. 21 at the Onward Hall, Ardwick. Mr. W. Robinson presided over a fair attendance of members. The hon. sec. gave his fourth annual report. The auditor's report and balance-sheet were presented, showing a heavy expenditure, although leaving a balance in hand of £2 4s. 2d. This was considered very satisfactory, and duly passed as read. A vote of thanks was given to the retiring officers and committee for the able manner in which they had carried out their duties, also their loyalty to the society. The election of officers for 1913 took place, and results were: Pres., Dr. Twigg; chair, Mr. W. Robinson; vice-pres., Rev. C. E. Gaul, Rev. J. W. Wragg, Dr. Kindon, Mr. H. Boothman, Mr. W. Downing, Mr. R. Booth, Mr. A. E. Long, Mr. J. A. Vint, Mr. E. H. Fulcher; committee, Messrs. D. Buckley, G. Belton, G. Chilton, A. Blinston, H. W. Schofield, J. H. Parish, S. Greaves; auditors, Messrs. E. H. Fulcher, D. Buckley, J. Holland; hon. treas., Mr. T. Hunt; hon. sec., Mr. J. Spencer; Press correspondent, Mr. R. Booth. At the next meeting we shall arrange syllabus for 1913. A good attendance is requested; many new members have promised to join us, still there is room for plenty more. Anyone desirous of becoming a member, please write, and I will only be too pleased to give them full particulars.—J. Spencer, 193, Palmerston-street, Beswick, Manchester.

PLUMSTEAD & WOOLWICH C.B.S

Annual general meeting held Jan. 16, Mr. Newnham in the chair. The balance sheet was presented and passed, the Sec. stating that the year had been a very successful one. Although starting with an adverse balance, this had been wiped off, and there was now a balance on the right side of over £2. Officers for the ensuing year were then elected, Mr. Newnham being re-elected chairman, Mr. J. Crutcher vice-chair, Mr. Meades re-elected as Hon Organizing Sec., Mr. D. Lyons Financial Sec., and Mr. J. Hazell Treas. Committee Messrs. H. Lane, J. Smith, W. S. Wood, F. Fulcher, F. Botell, C. Rawlstone, H. Newnham, junr., W. Moore, C. Gomm. Rev. Bayley again elected President, Mr. Robinson and Mr. J. Parker, vice-presidents. Rules were revised, and in the Juvenile Section the age was raised from 16 to 18 (would the Junior Section please note this?). It was also decided to admit new members at our pair show free of entrance fee; now is your chance to join at our next meeting.—Six new members applied and were accepted at our last meeting. Mr. Robson has been engaged to judge pair show, Feb 20th, Y.S. show, June 28th, and annual show, Nov. 8. Mr. J. Hazell to judge the second Y.S. show, Aug. 17. The fixture list for the year has been compiled, and it will be the best list drawn up in the history of the Society. All the committee hope is that the members will do their share towards making it the success it should be by introducing as many new members as possible.—E. Meades, Hon. Sec. Plumstead and Woolwich C.B.S., 56, Conway Road, Plumstead.

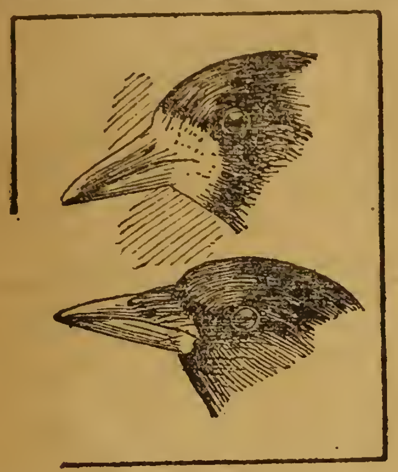
CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

Wild-Bird Life.

Wild Birds' Winter Habits.

The favourite roosting place of the majority of wild birds in the writer's district is the wooded land around Banstead. About an hour before sunset birds of all kinds may be seen wending their way towards this common lodging place. They pass in straggling flocks, and so regular are they in the roads they take that night after night they pass directly over the end of the writer's garden, and the same course is taken in the early morning, when proceeding to their feeding ground. One can hardly understand why these flocks should so regularly proceed eastward in the morning. Feeding grounds, one would think, would be found further removed from the haunts of men, whereas this road leads almost directly to it. Possibly the birds may have a branching off place at some mid-way landmark. It is a mistake to dogmatise too much upon the doings of wild birds; many of their habits and ways are quite opposed to the common-sense views taken by ourselves; we look at it from a human point whereas wild birds may have traditions and methods, handed down from past ages, that still govern some of their doings, and the more one studies certain birds, the more one is convinced of this. Take the common Rook as an example; his whole life is made up of such regular habits, which he is not absolutely obliged to keep to exist, and one cannot doubt that these methods are handed down from one generation to another. Certain fields are visited by them day after day, while others are as regularly neglected. In their homeward journeys during the winter months, a flock going in a certain direction, regularly settles upon some rising ground upon the Downs, there they sit in a close group, noiseless, and making no attempt to feed, after a time they rise and continue their journey homeward.



OLD AND YOUNG ROOKS.

It is interesting to watch the doings of the young Rooks during the summer; they are easily distinguished from their elders by their slow uncertain flight. They fly as if they hardly knew which way to go, and when settling in trees they go at it anyhow, crash among the branches, and fall on a perch, rather than choose one. An old bird enters a tree carefully, and deliberately chooses his bough to settle on. Upon closer inspection, it will be seen that the young birds are feathered over the nostrils, while the parents are quite bare.

The Noisy Blackbird.

Thrushes may be heard singing nearly everywhere now, the weather is so open, but not a song note have we heard from the Blackbird, although he is quite as noisy, particularly at night, when retiring to roost.

A Tuneful Robin.

A Robin roosts regularly in the evergreens in a suburban garden, and as is usual with this species, is the last of the bird world to retire to rest. If during the evening the blinds of a lighted room are pulled up, so that the light shines upon his roosting site, he at once commences to sing. The writer once had a Reed Bunting, in an aviary that would do the same, or even if one walked into the garden and disturbed him.

A Strain of Light Blackbirds.

The writer of these notes recently saw a pied Blackbird that the owner had trapped on his father's land, in the autumn. The bird is nearly all white, with black wings and tail, somewhat after the manner of the old London fancy Canary. The owner's father, who has lived at the farm house all his life, says that from time to time he can remember pied birds being seen, and when he was a lad there was one pure white. Evidently there is a strain of light blood in the Blackbirds of this particular locality.

RESULTS OF OUR XMAS COMPETITIONS.

THE COLOURED FRONTISPIECE

Each of the three competitions put before readers in our Xmas Double Number proved exceedingly popular, the entries being considerably in excess of former years, a great many bird-lovers evidently finding in them a pleasant means of whiling away a few holiday hours.

The efforts sent in to compete for the guinea offered for the best coloured frontispiece were, on the whole, pleasing and artistic, quite a number, in fact, attaining a high standard of artistic merit, and the selecting of the winner was by no means easy. The prize was eventually awarded to

Mr. F. Clarke,
5, Melbourne Place,
Topcliffe Road,
Thirsk, Yorks.

This gentleman's effort is a very nice study in oils, restrained yet effective in colouring, possessing "atmosphere," and the birds (a Wren and a Robin) are practically correctly painted. Mr. Clarke was very closely pressed by Mr. W. Collins, of Southampton, whose water-colour study is distinctly pleasing, and very little behind the winning effort in any particular. Admirable pictures, too, were submitted by Mrs. K. Hamilton-Jones (Plymouth), Mrs. Smyth Richards (South Molton), Messrs. H. Tate (Tipton), W. Cooke (Sparkhill), Bert Lewis (Halifax), C. Dunn (Partick), H. Pickles (Bradford), T. Cooper (Carrington, Notts), F. G. Martin (Balham), and M. Cobley (Chorlton-cum-Hardy).

Other competitions whose paintings deserve mention as possessing more than average merit were as follows: Mrs. Goddard (Sutton), Miss A. M. Watkins (Merthyr Tydfil), Miss M. Pauling (Hexthorpe), Miss M. Onslow (Bournemouth), Miss L. E. Perry (Cowes), Miss F. A. Drummond (Megginch Castle, Errol), Miss Palmer (Herne Bay), Messrs. L. Ogier (Sutton), J. Snowdon (Leeds), W. Wallis (Dartmouth), J. Hall (Morpeth), H. Simms (Windsor), P. Black (Armadale), W. H. Fermor (Barnsbury), A. Wade (Pallion), G. Mockett (Brighton), R. Bowgett (Llanelly), R. McMillan (Inverness), S. W. Matthews (Carmarthen), H. E. Stockley (Ludgate Hill), J. Proudlock (Seaton Delaval), H. J. Byngham (Brockley), C. E. Isaac (Heavitree), A. Miller (Scunthorpe), E. Gregory (Ecclesfield), W. Loughton (Louth), W. T. Goord (Brighton), W. Bunting (London, E.), W. Ridley (Newcastle), R. A. Blackman (Fulwood), T. H. Waring (Leamington Spa), G. H. Sutton (Hull), R. H. Gardner (Taunton), L. Child (Lower Edmonton), J. P. Gunn (Cardiff), N. Jones (Birkenhead), R. Waterer (Lytham), and C. J. Langford (Wigan).

Fenchurch Street, London, E.C

Quite a feature of this competition was the interest taken in it by juveniles, and their efforts were so good that we decided to allot them an extra prize of five shillings, this being won with a picture of considerable merit by

Douglas Doggett (age 13),
The Hopbine,
Waterbeach,
Cambs.

Those who ran Master Doggett closely were Miss M. G. Brown (14), Malvern Link and Masters R. H. Atess (15) Bishop Auckland, H. Hooley, Hazel Grove, and S. Neave, East Finchley. Commendation must also be given to the Misses D. Wager, age 12 (Cains-cross), F. Dukes, 13 (Filey), D. Heather, 13 (Teddington), E. Birch, 10 (Ripley, Derby), D. Coffey, 15 (Ilford), A. Stobart, 10 (Sowerby Bridge), A. Girlin, 11 (Hull), A. Hunter, 9 (Coppull), C. Morris, 10 (Bromley), and Masters R. E. Bendell, age 12 (Aldershot), H. Watson, 11 (Leeds), W. F. Wenlock, 13 (Wisbech), R. Bourne, 9 (Oxford), A. Elderkin, 10 (Stanground), E. Lamb (Northiam), P. Godfrey, 11 (Kingston), B. Vigor, 13 (Fulham), E. Dyehouse (Wolverhampton), R. Waters, 10 (Wombwell), A. Lloyd, 15 (Chingford), G. Reid, 11 (Edinburgh), A. Wheeler, 12 (Hay, Brecon), W. H. Leach, 11 (Rochdale), B. Burdon (Lower Edmonton), H. F. Garner, 16 (King's Cross), D. Wilkes, 12 (North Wingfield), T. Barker (Twizell), D. Gunn, 11 (West Carnforth), T. Waterworth, 12 (Culvert), S. Collett, 11 (Coventry), H. Wright, 9 (Oxenhope), W. J. Goddard, 14 (Attercliffe), A. Robinson, 14 (Walsall), and J. Barker, 8 (Willesden).

A HIDDEN BIRDS PUZZLE.

Fun Among the Solutions.

Our "Hidden Birds" puzzle once again proved a very great attraction, a tremendous number of solutions being sent in. Out of these twelve were found to be correct, while no few than sixty-eight were wrong in one name only. In accordance with Rule 5, the names of the senders of the correct solutions were written on slips of paper, and these put into a hat, when one was drawn. The winner proved to be

Mr. T. Hoey,
West Street,
Somerton,
Somerset.

The other readers skilful enough to discover all the hidden names were: Mrs. Gilbart (Elsenham), Miss A. Pauling (Doncaster), G. O. Stride (St. Albans), F. Cole (East Dulwich), A. W. Mantach (Dalkeith), L. Henderson (Buckfastleigh), C. A. Fryer (Leeds), O. T. Miller (Fakenham), G. Scott (Lower Edmonton), H. Kidner (Acocks Green), and D. C. Thornton (Grimsby). The correct names are: (1) Lizard Canary; (2) Tree Creeper; (3) Bee-eater; (4) Diamond Sparrows; (5) Robin; (6) Woodcock. Of those who came so near discovering the whole of them, two stumbled over No. 5, four over No. 4, twelve over No. 3, twenty-two over No. 6, and twenty-eight over No. 1.

Picture No. 1, Lizard Canary, we thought easy of solution, the words "Kynance Cove" and "Hell Mouth," and the shape of the promontory between them, distinctly identifying the cape shown as being The Lizard (Cornwall), while the Canary completes the solution. Quite a surprising number of solvers, however, tripped up over this picture. Some of the attempts seemed to be made quite at random, for instance many sent in "German Roller," "Hartz Mountain Roller," "Norwich Canary," and such like guesses. Some of the incorrect attempts, on the other hand, displayed considerable ingenuity. Several readers sent in "Colour-fed Canary," seeing, presumably, some connection between hot pepper and the name on the eastern side of the Lizard. "Border Canary" was sent in by many, and this also is not so bad, although incorrect.

Picture 2, "Bee-eater," illustrating the trait attributed to the Great Tit of eating bees, proved an easy proposition to the great majority of solvers, although several came to grief over it. What the readers who sent in Corn Bunting as a solution to this, had in their mind it is difficult to surmise; others had it Garden Warbler, Blue-cap, Sun-bird, and similarly impossible names, while Honey-sucker, sent in by quite a few, was ingenious, although incorrect.

Picture No. 3, Robin, was easy to most, and here again many incorrect solutions had their touch of humour. Steel Finch, Night Hawk, Nightjar, Lancashire Coppy, Silver Bill, all suggest ingenuity on the part of the solvers, but "Budgerigar" is too horrible a twist of "Burglar" to deserve other than horrible mention. Many competitors sent in Nightingale as a solution; others Owl, Cuckoo, and some others equally wide of the mark.

Picture No. 4 would seem to have proved the easiest of all, for nearly every solver guessed it correctly as Tree-creeper. "Woodlark" was one of the favourites among the incorrect solutions to this picture. The "Lark" would seem to be all on the side of the dog in the picture; the position would be not much of a lark to the boy scooting up the tree out of reach of the dog.

Picture 5 seemed not to present much difficulty, for a very large number of solvers guessed it correctly—Diamond Finches or Diamond Sparrows. Some of the guesses, however, would appear to be simply random shots. Cut-throats, Black-throated Tanagers, Ring Ousel, Two Wee Gems, Gold-capped Lizards, and such like are all very wide of the mark. "Stonechat," sent by several readers, keeps up the sequence of ingeniously incorrect attempts.

Picture 6, "Woodcock," was another of the easy ones, but even here many readers sent in solutions hopelessly incorrect. Lark, Black Bishop, Cross-bred Crested Cock, and Cookatoo, were some of the wild guesses sent in. The nearest of the incorrect guesses was Crow, which was sent in by a great number of readers, while a few thought Wood Warbler would meet the case.

THE "JUMBLED" BIRDS.

Our Jumbled Birds (or "jig-saw") puzzle also proved very popular, a large number competing, and the majority arranging the pieces correctly. On the score of neatness (by which the prize effort had to be selected) the ladies scored heavily. The winner proved to be

Mrs. E. Farrell,
Copperhouse,
Hayle,
Cornwall.

Miss E. Newton (Finsbury Park) came a very close second indeed, and this lady, in turn, had very little advantage over Mrs. W. Holton (Edinburgh), Miss D. Thompson (Nottingham), and Messrs. A. E. Carter (Kidderminster), J. B. Skinner (Redland), E. Farrell (Copperhouse), and W. W. Chubb (Alton). Others worthy of mention as sending in very neat attempts were Mrs. Locke (Harrogate), Mrs. Gardner (Taunton), and Messrs. R. Twigg (Hetton-le-Hole), J. F. Barrow (Camberwell), T. W. Robinson (Croxton), W. Presland (Bromley), S. Nield (Stalybridge), R. S. Clarke (Ross), W. Brinkman, junr. (Leeds), J. Tweedie (Castle Douglas), W. Gamble (South Wigston), F. Cole (East Dulwich), and C. Pye (Burgh Heath).

Seagull 43 Years Old.

The Paris Correspondent of the London "Daily Mail" writes that M. Blondeau, of Quimperle, Brittany, was out shooting a few days ago when he brought down a seagull. Attached to one of its legs was a ring with the inscription, in English, "1869. Return Zoological Station, Heligoland." In 1869 Heligoland was, of course, a British possession. M. Blondeau has preserved the bird in the hope of ascertaining whether it is as old as the date on the ring would indicate.

In a later issue of "The Daily Mail," Major Cordraux, of Harbledown, Coventry, writes as follows:—"Sir,—The bird marked '1869. Return Zoological Station, Heligoland,' would be one of the birds marked by the late Herr Gatke, secretary to the Governor. He was a well-known ornithologist, and the pioneer of observations in migration. Afterwards, in conjunction with my father and Professor Newton, he carried out till his death extended observations."

ROTHERHAM C.B.S.

Monthly meeting held at the College Inn, Jan. 25th, Mr. W. Brotherton in the chair. We made three new members in B. Wall, J. Mann, J. Ridler. The following officers were elected: Mr. W. Brotherton, chairman; Mr. J. E. Taylor, vice-chairman; Mr. W. Bagnall, treasurer; B. Bailey and W. J. Turner, secretaries; committee, G. Stringer, A. Hunt, G. Stafford, B. Wall. Decided to have a two-days' show this year, Oct. 25-27; Mr. H. W. Battye judge. A silver cup is promised by W. Ricketts, Esq. (Rotherham) for most points won by a member throughout the year; to be won three years in succession. Decided to have closed rings this year for the cups.—Bailey and Turner, Secs.

CHELTENHAM C.B.S.

First of a series of monthly table shows held at new Headquarters, Jan. 22. Border Fancies and Bullfinches were the two varieties staged. The members present are to be congratulated upon their enthusiasm in turning out on such a wretched night and bringing their birds. Mr. Madagan judged Borders, and Mr. Pounsett the Bullfinches, of which there were quite a large number staged. After the judges had made their awards, a judging competition was held, none of the competitors getting all the birds placed in the same order, but nearly all found the leaders in both classes. The judges then explained why they had placed the birds as they did, and pointed out where the losers failed. The evening proved very instructive and interesting, and it is regrettable that it was such a fearfully wet night, which kept a good many away. Five new members were elected.—R. S. Treasure, Hon. Sec.

EDMONTON F.A.

Annual general meeting held January 22nd. The chairman, C. Sorrell, Esq., presided over a well-attended and successful meeting. S. H. Platten, Esq., J.P., a vice-president, kindly presented 22 cups and trophies and other specials to the successful exhibitors. It was made the occasion of presenting the hon. secretary, Mr. J. S. Jackson, with a silver tea-set and oak tray in appreciation of his services during the past three years. The officers elected for the ensuing year were: President, S. H. Platten, Esq., J.P.; vice-pres., Messrs. W. W. Broomhead, N. V. Bowater, G. Gardner, A. Burgess, and W. J. Harris; chairman, Mr. C. Sorrell; treasurer, Mr. J. S. Jackson; secretary, W. H. Jackson, 60, Willoughby-lane, Tottenham; and a very strong committee of twenty enthusiastic fanciers. The cage bird challenge cup and the unflighted cup were won by J. W. Medley, and the Yorkshire cup by W. Barber.

CITY AND SUBURBAN A.C.B.

The adjourned annual general meeting was held Jan. 27 at the Church Institute, Paddington Street, Mr. W. A. Shepherd in the chair: Mr. V. Wynn, hon. sec., and 30 members present. Letters were read from Miss G. Knott, Mrs. Page, and Mr. P. H. Harris. Three nominations were received for membership, and Mr. T. Ponsford was elected a member. The scrutineers announced result of voting papers for judges for young bird, annual, and pair shows. The hon. sec. paid out prize money for recent pair show, and announced the points gained for the various cups. It was proposed and carried unanimously that a very hearty vote of thanks be conveyed to Mr. J. Frostick for so generously presenting four special prizes to the British and foreign bird classes. Votes of thanks were accorded to the stewards for their services and also to the hon. sec. for the excellent arrangements he had made, which materially helped in making such a successful show. Mr. W. A. Curtis gave a few useful hints to novices, and then brought forward a novel suggestion for pair table shows, details of which were left to himself and the hon. sec. to arrange. A vote of thanks to the chairman closed the meeting. —Fred Thynne, assist. hon. sec.

AMALGAMATED YORKSHIRE SOCIETIES' DINNER AND PRIZE DISTRIBUTION.

Arrangements for the Great Annual Event.

The representatives appointed by the various specialist clubs in Yorkshire met on Jan. 22nd, at the Market Tavern, Bradford. Mr. R. Halliday was elected to the chair. Mr. H. Hill was elected secretary to the committee for the dinner and prize distribution. The statement of accounts for the last prize distribution was adopted as read. Decided to hold the event on Saturday, March 8th, at the Market Tavern, Bradford, when a splendid dinner will be provided at 2s. 6d. per head, to all who notify the secretary on or before Thursday, March 6th. Unless this is done, no dinner will be provided, as full arrangements will have to be made on the date mentioned above, so I would urge upon those desirous of attending the necessity of complying with the above instructions, to avoid disappointment, as in previous years a good many have turned up who have not notified the secretary. The dinner will be served punctually at 5 o'clock, and the prize distribution and social evening will commence at 6.30; for the latter there is no charge whatever. The committee decided to invite as guests for the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. F. Carl, of CAGE BIRDS, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ramsden, and Mr. and Mrs. Lewer. The election of chairman for the event was left over until the next meeting. Some first-class artistes were named for the secretary to write to, and there is every likelihood of the musical portion of the evening's entertainment easily surpassing anything achieved in former years. The ballot for the order of presenting prizes resulted as follows: 1, Yorkshire Union of C.B.S.; 2, CAGE BIRDS prizes; 3, National Green Marked Y.C.C.; 4, Yorkshire Canary Club; 5, Yorkshire County British Bird and M.C.; 6, Cinnamon Marked Y.C.C.; 7, open Norwich Plainhead Club. The President of each specialist club will present the prizes to the successful members, and should an exhibitor be fortunate enough to have won two or more prizes in one special club, he will receive these simultaneously, in order to save valuable time. Secretaries of specialist clubs will please bear this in mind, and arrange their prizes accordingly. The prizes will be arranged in same order as balloted for on the tables, excepting CAGE BIRDS prizes, which will occupy the centre table. The secretaries of the various specialist clubs will meet on March 8th, at 3 o'clock, to arrange all prizes in proper order before the dinner. All those intending to be present at the dinner kindly communicate before March 6, with H. Hill, Sec., 15, Settle Terrace, Thornton Lane, Little Horton, Bradford.

The Shows.

TARBRAX.

Show held Jan. 18 in the Institute Hall. There was a very good entry and a capital attendance of spectators, the show being the first cage bird show held in the district. Mr. James Winter (Edinburgh) judged. A dance was also held on behalf of the show after everything was cleared, the hall being packed to its utmost, music being supplied by Messrs. MacDonald and McConnachie; M.C., Mr. William Ramsay. Anyone desirous of joining the club may hand in their names to Mr. Isaac Gilmour, chairman; Mr. James McIntyre, secretary; or Mr. Andrew Hamilton, treasurer.

KELTY AND BLAIRADAM C.B.S.

Annual club show held in the Masonic Hall on Jan. 18. There being a good entry of birds of a very superior quality staged, competition was very strong. Mr. Adam Dickson, the secretary, had everything in the best of order, and the show was well patronised. A few pairs of birds matched for breeding and some singing birds were given away as gifts from some of the members of the society, each visitor being given a numbered coupon for the draw. Kelty and Blairadam have for the second year in succession won the cup for most points over the shows in the West Fife League, and the cup was on view.

BOSCOMBE AND DIST. C.B.S.

Members' show held at Assembly Rooms, a very nice room for a cage bird show, being of good light and lofty. The Hon. Sec., Mr. Martin Cook, and committee had every thing in order, and the birds were staged in the centre of room, where everyone could see them to perfection. 111 birds were entered. In NOR. YELL. CKS., Mr. Martin Cook was 1st, 2nd, and 3rd with a trio of very good birds. BUFFS: Mr. Calvert, 1st, nice stout bodied-bird, well-placed wings.; Mr. M. Cook 2, 3, close on the heels of the winner. NOR., HENS: 1, 2, M. Cook, a nice yellow secured 1, and a buff 2, nice shape, and well shown; 3, Evans, a very taking hen. The novice class for YELL. CKS. contained some very nice birds: 1, Stainer, a clear stout body, in grand form; 2, another of the right sort; 3, Evans, not quite stout enough, but in good condition. NOR. NOV., BUFF, contained some good birds: 1, Stainer, wing mkd., nice feather and type; 2, Stainer, close up to winner; 3, Loveless, another good one, fails just a little to winner in neck, otherwise a good bird. NOV., HENS: 1, Basten, a buff, good shape and wing carr.; 2, 3, Stainer, close up. YORKS., HENS: 1, Corbin, buff, a very nice straight hen, tight feather; 2, Corbin, similar, but a bit pinched in neck; 3, M. Cook, same applies. YORKS., NOV.: 1, Airs, nice youngster, straight, and stands up well; 2, Stapleton, fails to winner in neck; 3, Airs, a nice standing bird, but fails to winner, being a frilled on chest. HENS: 1, 2, Stapleton, two nice exhibits. NON. FED: 1, Basten, Yorks.; 2, Calvert, Nor.; 3, Meager, only fair. CREST or C.B.: 1, Miss Thomas, crest, small drooping crest, neat. GOLDF. or BULLF., H.M.: 1, Hinves, a capital Bully, nice cap, colour, and shape, wins; 2, Hinves, a very good Goldie; 3, Miss Thomas, Goldie, fails to 2nd in colour and moonings. GOLDF. or BULLF., F.M.: 1, Butler, nice blaze and buttons; 2, M. Cook, close up; 3, M. Cook, not much to choose, but a bit smaller in blaze. COWDENBEATH C.B.S.

Second annual Club Show held January 25th, in the Masonic Hall. The show proved a great advance on the previous year. Entries totalled 175. Scotch Fancies were small in number, but quality was all there; Borders and Norwich were the feature of the show, many of the season's winners meeting to battle for honours again. Special mention must be made of the winning yell. Yorks. cock, shown by Mr. Joseph R. Reid; the first yell. Bord cock shown by Mr. Thos. Yule; the winners in yellow and buff cocks in Norwich shown by Mr. J. C. Murray and Mr. J. Grieve respectively. British birds were very fair all over. We were pleased to see the new Secretary, Mr. J. Holmes, taking kindly to his duties, he also took winning brackets with his buff Yorks hen. Mr. Wm. McAdam, Lasswade, judged throughout, and his awards seemed to give general satisfaction. The show was well attended by the public and we trust will prove a financial success. The winning numbers in the draw for gift birds are as follows: 420, 665, 47, 704, 114, 842, 622, 266, 688, 232, 66, 645, 300, 637.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

The annual show of matched pairs and British and Foreign birds, was held Jan. 25, and proved a huge success. The entry (227) broke the society's record; indeed, in the whole of our experience we cannot recall anything to beat it. Pair classes with over 20 entries must surely be exceptional, and the quality of the birds, too, reached a very high standard. The display, on the whole, was of a distinctly pleasing and instructive nature, and much enjoyed by the many bird-lovers who visited the fine hall at headquarters, the Church Institute, Marylebone. Mr. V. Wynn, who happily has once again taken up the secretarial reins, was the recipient of many congratulations and deserved compliments—evidently the members desired him to have a warm and worthy welcome. The management, needless to say, was beyond criticism. The staging stewards, Messrs. C. G. Rolls and W. Sanders, did their work perfectly, and Messrs. A. W. Curtis and J. Pooley very ably attended upon the judges. Mr. and Mrs. Thynne, Mr. F. Knight, and Mr. Curtis, jun., also worked hard and well, together with the genial chairman, Mr. W. A. Shepherd.

The chief special prizes were secured by Mrs. Thynne (the Sayer Cup), 14 points; Mr. C. J. Roberts (the Thynne Cup), 9 points; Mr. W. Shepherd (Wynn Cup), 6 points; Mr. B. Thrower (Harris Cup), 19 points; for the Weston Cup, Messrs. Offord, Parrington, Brumbridge, and Shepherd each scored 6 points. Best champion pair and best lady's pair Canaries, Mrs. Thynne; best amateur pair, Mr. T. Hart; best novice pair, Mr. G. H. Thurley; best Brit., Mr. W. Francis; best For., the Hon. Mrs. Bourke. Mr. Thurley put up a great performance in the novice Norwich Plainhead class; there were no less than 22 pairs therein, and he secured 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and extra 3rd prizes with four entries! The judges were Messrs. J. Robson (Cans.), and J. Frostick (Hyb. Brit. and For.).

GREEN CANARY ASSOCIATION.

Annual old show held Jan. 18th at the Caledonian Schools, Liverpool. Yorkshires were judged by Mr. A. Hirst, Accrington, and Mr. A. E. Davis, Manchester, took the remainder. The awards were well received. Unfortunately entries did not come up to expectations, only 154 birds being staged; there were, however, some grand specimens, and this made up somewhat for the shortage. As usual, the bulk of the spoils fell to Mr. Rowlands, who, in addition to carrying off the special for most points, won the President's prize with his yellow green Yorks. cock, and there was no question about the popularity of his win. The champion specials were won by Messrs. Rowlands, Metcalfe, Handley, and McNulty, and the novice by Messrs. W. Jones, Mockridge, and Malone.

BIRKENHEAD CANARY F.A.

Opening show for 1913, held January 21, at Abletts' Cafe, and in every way proved a success. The quality of the birds was grand, the Norwich section perhaps being better represented than the Yorkshires. All the birds had been in the money during this show season, and made the task of Mr. Benson, the judge, a difficult one, but he managed to find the right ones to the general satisfaction of all present, Mr. Cooper winning special for most points.

PONTARDULAIS F.S.

Fourth open show held at Public Hall, January 23. Entries in our section totalled 120, and were the feature of the show. They far exceeded the total for any mixed show in Wales this season, and another year it would pay this society to extend their classification. This was very gratifying to the judge, Mr. J. B. Evans, who has not officiated for a couple of years. Special for best Canary was won by Mr. E. M. Evans' yell. Border cock, a little gem, and for best British by Mr. W. J. Harry's Chough. The Secretary, Mr. L. J. Morris, is a very hard-working official, and is well supported by the Chairman, Mr. R. H. Sampson, who is a keen cage bird enthusiast, vice-chairman, Mr. E. Hall, and a hard-working committee.

MANSFIELD AND DIST. C.B.S.

First table show for 1913 was held at the Horse and Groom Hotel, January 25th. The members turned up in good numbers, and a record table show was the result. Norwich stock pairs were a show in themselves. The Yorks. Canary is coming to the front in the district, and some good pairs were put down. Mr. Allsopp's first pair of Yorks. were grand, and the Cuckoo gang should be busy in the coming season trotting out with winners. Mr. G. Marshall judged. A meeting was held after the show, and it was decided that points count for specials, and all members gaining any points shall have a special. Twelve new members enrolled.

Singing Contests.

KIPPAX.

Open sing held headquarters, Jan. 25, when 20 birds sang for three good prizes, and some good singing was heard. Result: A. Tomlin 1st, J. Liversidge 2nd, J. Wallis 3rd. Members please note—meeting to be held after next week's (members') sing, when I hope to see everyone who can possibly get (including late sec.). Some very important business needs attention.—A. Tomlin, Sec.

LEEDS.

Open contest for quality Linnet singing, held at the old bird house, King's Head, Shannon Street, on January 25th, when 19 birds sang for three good prizes, given by Mr. Wm. Tillotson. 1, H. Wigfield; 2, A. Butler; 3, T. Stead. Judges, S. Hardcastle, W. Naylor. Also January 26th, when 30 of the best birds in Yorkshire sang for four good prizes, before a crowded house. 1, A. Butler; 2, A. Richardson; 3, H. Wigfield; 4, T. Stead. Judges, J. Smith, S. Hardcastle, W. Naylor.—Walter Naylor, Sec.

Weekly Linnet singing contest for quality held at the Skinners' Arms, Buslingthorpe-lane, Jan. 25th, when 18 of the best birds in Leeds sang for three good prizes given by Mr. Fishwick, when some very good singing was heard before a crowded house. 1st, J. Sellers; 2nd, G. Towers; 3, H. Playforth. Judges, C. Clayton and C. Lorrimer. Also Jan. 26th, when 16 of the best birds in Leeds sang for three good prizes. Some extra good singing was heard before a house packed to its utmost with spectators from all parts of Yorkshire. 1st and 2nd, C. Ward; 3rd, J. Sellers. Judges, T. C. Summers and G. Connor. Also at night, when a German Canary contest was held, and 20 birds sang in heats for three good prizes. Some lovely singing was heard before a crowded house, several of the Leeds Roller Clubs being represented. The judges gave every satisfaction. 1st, Roberts; 2nd, Morriss; 3rd, T. Johnson. Judges, C. Lorrimer and J. Sellers.—T. C. Summers, Hon. Sec.

Weekly contest for quality singing Linnets was held at Prince Albert Hotel, Newtown, Jan. 26th, when 28 birds sang for three good prizes before a large attendance of friends to hear these quality birds. We hope it will be the same next week. 1st, J. Chippendale; 2nd, A. Lorriman; 3rd shared between H. Bangfield and A. Binns. Judges, A. Turner, C. Lorriman, and N. Soloman.—A. Lorriman, Hon. Sec.

CASTLEFORD.

Weekly Linnet contest, January 25. 31 birds entered for three good prizes. We had some singing, which quality Linnet singers might envy. 1, E. Smith, 73; W. Nelson, 71; W. Ratcliffe, 59; also January 26, 19 birds sung for three good prizes, given by Mrs. Parker. The birds did very well, the old bird of Mr. Nelson being first with 70, E. Smith 51, S. Morley 50.—Walter Dobson, Hon. Sec.

PENDLEBURY.

Linnet contest, held at Butchers' Arms, Union Street, January 25, for time. Twenty-eight birds were entered, and some very good singing was heard. 1, E. Wynn, 108 secs.; 2, 3, J. Fairhurst, 93 and 83 secs.; timekeeper, J. Jackson and T. Harrison; tappers, A. Marshall and J. Smalley; minutes, T. Hindley; birdman, T. Jolley. Six new members were enrolled. Open to all England contest for time and quality, February 15, when prizes will be given according to entries; first pair up at 2 o'clock. As this is our first contest of this kind, we hope to see as many as possible of the old faces, as we want to make it a success.—E. Hickman, Hon. Sec.

PONTEFRACT.

Woodman Inn Linnet Club weekly sing, held Jan. 18 and 19, when we had a very good lot of birds to sing for three good prizes. Winners January 18, for League points: 1, B. Nelson, 47; 2, T. Piper, 30; 3, T. Jones, 25. On January 19 we had a lot better singing. Winners: 1, T. Piper, 105; 2, B. Nelson, 53; 3, J. Caddy, 49. Also January 24, birds were not in as good condition as the week before. Results: Club singing: 1, 2, B. Nelson, 46, 45; 3, T. Jones, 29. On January 25, contest, open to all. We had a record entry, and very good singing was gone through. 1, 2, B. Nelson, 102 and 97; 3, T. Jones, 76. The club is making new members every week. We have the very best window in the district. Open sing every Sunday at 1.—Wm. Beard, Sec.

THOSE who have bought or those who are about to buy a Grey Parrot, should get "Nutshell No. 17," it only costs 2½d. post free, but the tips it gives are priceless; from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. (2d. from agents, a list of whom is published frequently).

AVADAVATS; full directions as to caging and feeding, and how to keep these charming little Foreigners in the best possible condition, are given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 16," 2½d. post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. (2d. from agents, list published frequently).

PARROTS for pleasure and profit, 7d., by C. P. Arthur. A practical handbook, dealing with the keeping, feeding, and general treatment of the Grey, the Amazon, etc. It explains how to sex these birds, the treatment of newly imported specimens, and cures for their various ills: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

BUDGERIGARS and Cockatiels are among the most popular foreign birds, and C. P. Arthur has had a lifetime's experience with them. His book, "Budgerigars and Cockatiels," will show you how to keep them, feed them for health, how to breed them, and how to teach them to talk. The price of this valuable handbook is only 6½d., post free, from: "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C.

THERE is no more lovely seed-eater than the popular Gouldian Finch, which, however, is very difficult to establish. This trouble can be overcome, and the variety kept successfully. But you must follow the hints given in "Nutshell No. 14," from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C., post free for 2½d. From agents (see list frequently published) 2d.

FOUR good grey Parrots, £4 each; 2 green-checked Amazons, 2 Salle's Amazons, 3 Venezuelan Amazons, 6 Macaws, 5 Crowned Cranes, 1 Sarus Crane, 2 Brush Turkeys, 2 Thisses, 1 White Heron, 1 White Pea Hen, 1 pair Curly Crested Guineafowls, 2 pairs Passerine Doves, 5 pairs Cuban Colins, 1 pair Stone Partridges, 6 Blue-headed Jays, 1 Hodgson's Barbet, etc.: Albert Edward Jamrach, 180, St. George-st., East.

THOUGH they can often be purchased for the modest half-crown, Pekin Nightingales are very beautiful in plumage, have a fine song, and make ideal cage or aviary birds. Some very helpful information on this variety will be found in "Nutshell No. 19," the author of which is Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S. Get it at once. 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from our agents (list published frequently).

WAXBILLS! (Golden-breasted, Orange-cheeked, Grey, and St. Helena). Than this interesting quartette, which can be purchased at from 2/6 to 7/6 a pair, there are few more charming foreigners. They can be successfully kept, too, with little difficulty if you will follow the hints given by Wesley T. Page, F.Z.S., in "Nutshell No. 20," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Call at any of our agents and get it for 2d. (list frequently published).

Full details of our original system of selling Parrots on four weeks' trial, at our risk, which we were the first to introduce. We sell Parrots of all descriptions on four weeks' trial, at our risk, before settlement. Cheapest and best in the Kingdom, and any Parrot sold by us and not giving full satisfaction, will be exchanged any time within twelve months. Remember we lead and others try to follow. Write to other dealers as well as us, and judge for yourselves. Lists of Parrots for sale and above book post free on receipt of postcard. Telephone No. 40 Morecambe.

A SABLE MUSICIAN.

THE BLACKBIRD is one of the best known of our song-birds, its mellow, flute-like tones being by no means the least of the manifold attractions the countryside holds for us. This drawing depicts the fine specimen owned by Mr. V. H. Lomer, of Wimbledon, which secured first prize at the last Wimbledon Show.

PREPAID ADVERTISEMENTS

UNDISPLAYED.—6d. for the first eighteen words. One Halfpenny per Word for each word over eighteen. Name and address to be reckoned. MINIMUM, 18 words 6d.

IMPORTANT NOTE.—Two or more Advertisements coming from the same advertiser, even if sent in different names, are reckoned together, and, after the first Eighteen words, are charged at two words a penny, but no single advertisement, even if accompanied by others, will be charged at less than the minimum price, viz., Sixpence.

Headlines or Footlines, 6d., 9d., 1/-, 1/6, according to size.

ADVERTISEMENTS UNACCOMPANIED BY CORRECT REMITTANCE WILL NOT BE INSERTED.

Postal Orders must be sent as far as possible. All moneys should be made payable to F. CARL.

The Proprietor reserves the right to refuse any advertisement, or to cancel any advertisement ordered for a series, at any time, without assigning any reason for so doing.

Advertisements must in all cases bear the bona fide name and address of the advertiser, and no advertisement will be inserted if addressed to a receiving office, or similar place of call.

Small prepaid advertisements of a general nature and not connected in any way with the Cage Bird Trade are inserted at the rate of ½d. per word throughout. Minimum 12 words 6d.

Advertisements close Tuesdays first post in each week, and should be sent to the advertisement Manager, CAGE BIRDS, 154, Fleet Street, London. Terms for Display Advertisements on application.

Advt. Manager, "Cage Birds."

DEPOSIT SYSTEM.

We are not responsible for the statements made in advertisements, nor of the bona-fides of either buyers or sellers In all transactions the adoption of our Deposit System should be insisted upon

IMPORTANT.

SEND THE FULL COMMISSION.—If the full commission does not accompany the deposit, the vendor will not be notified of its receipt until the amount deficient, plus the extra postage incurred, has been paid to us.

HOW TO REMIT.—Under no circumstances will Cheques or Post-dated Money Orders be accepted as deposits. Uncrossed Postal Orders must be sent and the numbers taken for safety.

RULES.

1.—PROCEDURE.—The intending purchaser should send to this office the amount of the purchase (our deposit fee included), and at the same time he should communicate with the seller, stating what it is he requires sent on approval. We acknowledge receipt of the deposit to both parties. In all cases the depositor should give his name and address, and also that of the vendor, and must write same clearly and distinctly.

2.—END OF TRANSACTION.—The deposit is retained by us until we hear from both parties that the transaction has been completed. If a sale has been effected, we hand the amount deposited to the seller. If a sale has not been effected, we return the amount to the depositor. The transaction must be conducted by the parties themselves. We merely hold the deposit.

3.—AMOUNT OF COMMISSION.—The fee is 6d. for each £1, or fraction of £1, and it must be sent at same time as the deposit.

4.—IMPORTANT POINTS.—The depositor must decide within forty-eight hours of the receipt of the goods whether he will keep or return the same, unless, that is, some other period of approval (of which me must be advised) is agreed upon by both parties. The depositor must at the same time notify us of the fact that he has returned the goods. If the goods are not returned within the said forty-eight hours, we reserve the right to send the deposit to the seller after the expiration of that period. And should the seller fail within three days to notify us of the receipt of his goods back again, the transaction will be treated as ended, and the deposit will be returned to the depositor.

5.—A SATISFACTORY PURCHASE.—When a transaction has been completed to the satisfaction of both depositor and seller, both parties must at once return the deposit receipts as a guarantee of its completion. The depositor must at the same time instruct us to pay over the deposit to the seller.

6.—GOODS ALREADY SOLD.—If the goods are sold before our deposit note reaches the seller, or if for any other reason he declines to do business, he must at once return the deposit note to us. Failing its receipt, we reserve the right to return the deposit to the sender after the expirration of three days.

7.—FRESH TRANSACTION.—In case no sale be effected, a deposit is available for purposes of a fresh transaction, provided another deposit fee be paid.

8.—GOODS IN TRANSIT.—Goods in transit are at the seller's risk, and any damage or loss sustained on the journey must be borne by the seller. But goods not approved of must be properly packed and returned by the same means as were used in sending the same.

9.—PAYMENT OF CARRIAGE.—The payment of carriage must be a matter for arrangement between the vendor and depositor. We do not undertake to settle disputes affecting questions of carriage. But in the absence of other arrangements the purchaser is liable for the carriage of the goods, and if the goods are sent on approval and returned, each party pays the carriage one way.

CLEAR YELLOW SISKIN - CANARY.

BIRD LOVER.

N.B. Send for the Free Pamphlet now and you can know all about this Canary Book without spending a Penny.

This is the only Book the Bird Fancier really needs.

This book tells the Bird lover when to mate his Canaries: when to breed, when to feed; when to doctor them and when to let them alone; when to strengthen his stock and when to weed out the poorer birds; when to buy and when to sell. The man who goes in for valuable specimens is shown how to wash and dress them for Exhibition and how to care for them while they are at the Shows. The work covers every aspect of Canary culture, and includes the fullest, the latest, and the best information on the Keeping and Breeding and care of every description of Cage Bird. It is therefore the ONE Book that is necessary for the Bird lover, whether amateur or professional.

First Payment.

It has an Index of some 600 items in which every point o doubt or difficulty can be turned up in an instant; it is equally adapted for sustained reading, every section being written by a specialist who is a real bird lover also. It is admirably planned to help the beginner, since each chapter gives the elementary knowledge needed by the neophyte. And it is equally useful to the man who has been breeding for years, for it gives rules for success that have never before been tabulated; it tells of the crosses that have not yet been achieved and includes the latest scientific information on the practical application of Mendelism to the fascinating study of Canary breeding. FRED ALLEN, BRITISH BIRD CHAMPION

I have sold more winners than any three dealers put together. Please look up back numbers of CAGE BIRDS and see the winning testimonials I have published, and all this season's winners, not years back. I am patronised by all the leading fanciers. All my birds are guaranteed as described, and sent on 7 days' approval, for cash or deposit. I have hundreds to pick from. Fierce singing cock Linnets, sing anywhere, 1/-, 1/6 each; cage 6d. extra; quality songsters, 1/6, 2/-, 2/6, cage 1/- extra, taught under my undefeated champion of England. The Sheffield fanciers are delighted with my wonderful champion Norwich type cock Linnets, real gems, steady as rocks, well pencilled, can win anywhere, 2/-, 2/6 each. Giant cock Greenfinch, a gem, 2/-, a real monster; cock Bullfinch, one of the best, cannot be beaten, 3/6; Reed Bunting, a gem, 1/6; hen Reed Bunting, 1/-; cock Larks, grand birds, commencing to sing, 6d., 9d., 1/-, one a topper, 1/6; giant cock Goldfinches, gems, cannot be beaten, 5/6, 6/6, 7/6, all first-class specimens; cock Linnet, grand size, rare muler, 2/-; Linnet and Canary mule breeders, 3/6 pair; Goldfinch and Canary, a magnificent pair, 6/-; cock Canaries, full song, 5/-, 6/- each; hens, 2/-, 2/6. Please give me a trial you will never regret it. Hundreds of testimonials on view. Please note my only address: Fred Allen, British Bird Champion, 548, Queen's-rd., Sheffield. (456)

REAL SIBERIANS

Having choice of the first arrival in England, through my London Branch, can offer you some grand show specimens; cock Goldfinches, as big as Larks, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/-; others, for muling, 4/6, 5/-, two 9/-, seven 28/-; all on approval; large hen Bullfinches, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6. Beautiful large cock Siberian Finches, 6/-, 7/6, 10/-; monsters; real Siberians, another 400 Goldfinches, Bullfinches, Siskins, cocks and hens, due this week; any can be got from London or Preston. Have supplied more Crystal Palace, Scottish National winners than anyone alive; all the following have won first prizes with birds from me—Messrs. Murdock, Williams, Corlett, Trueman, McMinn, Colville, Parker, Mark Veitch, Jones, Ewan, Weedal, etc. Mr. J. Ovenstone, Grangemouth. Jan. 3/13. Sir,—You will be pleased to hear the Siberian Goldfinch you sent last year won 2 firsts, 2nd Scottish National, big class. I could fill a page. For proof send for catalogue. Wholesalers write for terms. Order from: Sandiford, Bird Specialist and Judge, Preston, Lancs., or 89, Sclater-st., Shoreditch, London.

MANY PEOPLE

are prejudiced against purchasing birds from a dealer, and no doubt not without cause. May I ask those persons who have been unfortunate in their previous transactions to give me a trial? As I send everything I sell on approval at my own risk, either on receipt of cash or CAGE BIRDS deposit system, persons dealing with me cannot possibly be out of pocket, as unless birds give every satisfaction they only have to be returned and back comes the whole of your money. Under these conditions you cannot lose one penny. I do not claim to sell you first prize winners at every show along the line for a few coppers each, but I do guarantee that the descriptions of birds given in this advert. are absolutely correct in every particular. I have a splendid lot of Worcestershire cock Goldfinches, in pink of health and condition, at 2/6 each, three 6/-; specially picked larger birds for muling, and warranted now in song, 3/- and 4/- each, three 7/6, six 14/-. (Please note, real cock Goldfinches cannot be sold at less than above prices, and I challenge denial.) Hen Goldfinches, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6. Handsome lot of cock Brown Linnets, every one guaranteed rose red-breasted, 9d. each, three 1/9, six 3/-, twelve 5/-; specially selected larger cocks, for muling or contest singing, and warranted now in song, 1/- and 1/6 each, three 2/6, six 4/-. Please note: These are exactly same sort of Linnets as the scores of dozens I sell weekly to the dealers and contest singers of Leeds, Sheffield, Hull, Durham, and all parts of the Counties of Yorkshire, Lancashire, Durham, etc., etc., and I have sold more contest winners in one season than all others together. Cock Greenfinches 6d. each, three 1/-, six 1/6; cock Chaffinches, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; cock Twites, 9d. each, three 2/-; grand lot of cock Skylarks, in perfect condition, 8d. each, three 1/6, six 2/6, twelve 4/-; specially picked steady cocks, in song, 1/-, 1/6, and 2/6 each. These Larks must not be confused with the French flight birds sold so cheaply. Mine are all guaranteed netted in County of Worcester, and are much more steady and come into song more quickly than the French birds. Exhibitors please note: Following birds are all fit to win immediately in field-moulted classes, and only specially good birds that will repay the purchasers for moulting them out are sold at these prices. Goldfinches, 5/- and 7/6 each; Siskins 5/- and 7/6 each; Linnets, Greenfinches, and Chaffinches 2/6 each. I need not specify show points of each species. Sufficient for me to say I know what is required for show bench, and send nothing but what is really worth showing, and I have sold more winners than any man alive, and not done half the boasting, either. Few exceptionally good house-moulted cock Linnets for muling, all finger-tame, full song, and guaranteed bred Mules last season, 5/- each. Travelling cages, to hold 3 birds, 3d. extra in all cases. For full list of net traps, trap cages, birdlime, and all other catching appliances, send stamp. (455)

THE Song Thrush and Blackbird.—Full directions how to keep these favourite songsters in the best possible condition; together with directions for hand-rearing the young and the selection of show birds, will be found in "Nutshell No. 4," 2½d. post free from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. 2d. from agents (list published frequently).

ON receipt of 1/6 I will send, securely packed, on approval, the finest singing cock Skylark ever seen or heard, suitable for contest singing or shop's attraction, or with his new joiner-made cage, 4/6, including free my valuable feeding secret which keeps Larks in full song ten months out of twelve. I have supplied more contest winners than anyone in England; heaps of unsolicited testimonials to prove this: same address 25 years: Woods, Cross-st., Dunstable. (450)

SOFTBILL keepers, take expert advice before proceeding to buy and keep the larger species of Insectivorous birds. You will then have no trouble in keeping your pets in the best of health. This advice is offered in "Nutshell No. 26," by H. J. Fulljames. It is a wonderful little work, dealing with most varieties in a highly interesting and instructive manner. Foods and their preparation, and the various styles of cages also receive full attention. Can you breed Mealworms? This booklet tells you how. Post free, 2½d., from "Cage Birds," 154, Fleet-st., London, E.C. Look at our list of agents; call on the nearest and get it for 2d.

If you need good Norwich Plainheads, get them now, when I am offering remarkable value. "Cheap birds are never value." For birds of the highest efficiency, Silk's Norwich claim preference by proved performances on the show bench and in the breeding cage. The strain you will eventually buy. Silk's strain is the most reliable the world can offer. Silk's Norwich have won championships, and made themselves world's record-holders. You may see them shown in other names, but the strain is always Silk's. Silk's Champion Norwich have no need to claim preference on account of any one special point. It is the "WHOLENESS," "EVERYTHING NEEDED" which makes Silk's Norwich stand out from all other good strains in a class quite APART. Pairs from 20/- to 60/-. Single Cocks or Hens from 8/5 to 40/-. That grand Buff, 1st Frome, came direct from me and was sold for £10. CHILLCOTT'S ROLLERS

Owing to ill-health, Mr. A. G. Pattison, late of Gravesend, has disposed of all his Rollers to Mr. A. Chillcott, of 151, South-avenue, Southend. Most of the 1912 birds are bred from two £5 cocks, bought direct from Mr. Randall; these are bred from the champion cock claimed at club show by Dr. Read at £10. A few of these grand birds for disposal at reasonable prices; enquiries solicited. Some good stock cocks for sale from 12/6. Some clinking hens from 6/6. (204)

1912 SEIFERT ROLLERS

CHAMPION ROLLERS

Notice! I have some very fine St. Andreasberg Rollers, in full song, these are splendid day and gaslight songsters, with all the sweetest and most musical changes of song; all on six days' approval, deposit with Editor: Shaw, 97, Essex-rd., Islington, London. N. (407)

All Bargains

At the prices quoted below. Have on approval, and test the bona-fides of this statement. Never excelled at prices, if ever equalled, which I believe they have not. A good singing cock for 6/-. Don't be "gulled" by purchasing mongrels sold as Hartz Rollers at lower prices. They have never seen Germany, and to sell as such is an impertinent lie. Specially selected, with better notes, 7/6. Hens, 2/-; Genuine Seiferts, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-. Pairs, 10/6, 15/6, 21/-, 25/- upwards. Hens, 3/6. Pairs, 7/6, 8/3. Cages, 3d. extra. A few exceptional birds, 30/- and 40/- each. An exceptional lot of good hens, and now is the time to purchase them. All kinds of cages for same.

W. RUDD, The Bird Specialist, NORWICH.

HIGH-CLASS ROLLERS

of the popular Glucke strain, Schoolmasters and contest singers, all young birds, 1912; magnificent birds, English cold room bred; B.R.C.C. rung, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-: K. Pericles, Akropolis, Palatine-rd., Withington, Manchester. (377)

GOING ABROAD

All my stock of Rollers (including winners), bird-houses, cages, organ, show cages, fittings, etc., must be sold; apply for prices to: Thompson, Nobels Villas, Stevenston, Ayrshire. (456)

ROLLERS AT THE PALACE

Visitors to the Palace will find my stand at the usual place, supplied with a large stock of the finest Rollers obtainable, at very reasonable prices; also a select stock of piping Bullfinches; all kinds of bird-room appliances, aviaries, and cages of the best quality: C. Roehl, 400, Edgware-rd., W. (457)

PUBLIC NOTICE!

The enormous demand for Leipzig Rollers has caused many imitators. I wish it to be particularly understood that I am the sole importer of Weber's Leipzig Rollers, and no other person can sell these birds unless he first purchases from me. All my Roller cocks are stamped on wing "Hans Weber, Leipzig," and unless the bird has this stamp it is not a genuine Weber's Leipzig Roller. The superiority of the Leipzig Roller over that of ordinary Rollers is that its song does not consist of one or two long drawn out railway whistle rolls and a full stop. The Leipzig Roller's song is made up of following notes: Hollow, bell and bass rolls, sweet silvery trills, water-bubble runs, soft roulades, piccolo trills, jug-jug of Nightingale, bell, harp, gong and flute notes, etc., etc., and is guaranteed entirely free from any harsh or objectionable notes whatever. Every bird is thoroughly trained to sing in day and all artificial lights, and none are sent out unless in perfect health and song, and every one warranted thoroughly acclimatised. Price 7/6 and 8/6 each. Real bandmasters, which excel in the deep bass and hollow bell roll, and have an exceedingly soft and mellow tone, 10/6 and 12/6 each. Hens, guaranteed of exactly same strain, 2/6 each, 4/6 couple. For those who prefer a loud, noisy songster, I have a splendid lot of Hartz cocks (untrained German songsters). These are guaranteed in full loud and vigorous song day and gaslight, and are often sold as Rollers by unscrupulous dealers. My price 5/6 each, two 10/6, three 15/-, seven 31/6. Hartz hens, 2/- each, 3/6 couple, or 18/- dozen. Ordinary singing box cages, 1/6 each. Special Roller cabinet cages, with folding doors, 2/6 each. Please note following few letters, which are entirely unsolicited: "180, Newton Street, Macclesfield. Jan. 28. Sir,—Bandmaster to hand. I am delighted with him. He sang immediately he was unpacked. I have thanked Mr. Wakefield for recommending you to me, and I must thank you for sending so good a bird. Yours, J. Rathbone." "36, Snape Hill Road, Darfield. Jan. 27. Sir,—Roller arrived safe and is a perfect treat to hear. Many thanks for sending same in so short a time. Yours, C. Bailey." "4, West Hetton Row, Coxhoe. Jan. 24th. Sir,—Received Bandmaster safe, and can say he has given every satisfaction. Started singing as soon as put in another cage. Thanks for straight dealing. Yours, J. Brothwood." "Raftyard, Howdon-on-Tyne. Jan. 22. Sir,—Please send following birds. The Roller I purchased from you two years ago is as good as ever. Yours, A. Bell." "15, Beechwood Road, Dublin. Jan. 23rd. Sir,—I have much pleasure in telling you that the Leipzig Roller you so promptly and carefully sent me on Tuesday is a wonderful singer. He began to sing last evening by electric light, and all day to-day. He has exquisite double rolls and trills. You do not say too much of these Rollers. They far surpass any bird in singing I have heard. Yours, M. Byrne." "North Street, Newtownards, Ireland. Jan. 21st. Sir,—Thanks for Roller. He is singing like a good one, and is well worth the money. I have had a lot of fanciers to see him, and they say he is a well-made one, besides being a good singer. Yours, J. Fleming." "7, Yardley Road, Small Heath. Sir,—Roller I had from you for my friend on 19th is a gem, and we are all very pleased with it. I shall want another for myself very shortly. Yours, T. Gould." "Regent Street, Newtownards, Ireland. Jan. 20th. Sir,—Please send another Roller same as last. He was a good one, the best in this town. I have heard some that came from —— and ——, but they were not in it with the bird you sent me. Yours, W. Wallace." "8, Lincolnfield View, Newtown, Leeds. Jan. 13th. Sir, Received bird (Bandmaster) safely and in good condition. You have sent exactly the bird I wanted. He is singing lovely. I took it to a contest and there were 26 birds sung, and mine got third prize, and I took it to another and got third again. Yours, W. Binns." Please note, every bird is sent on full week's trial, either on receipt of cash or deposit system of "Cage Birds," and I take sole risk during the whole time. All are safely and warmly packed in special travelling cages free of extra charge, and unless bird gives every satisfaction you have only to return it and back comes the whole of your money.

CRYSTAL PALACE,

FEBRUARY 7th to 11th.

To all friends, old and new, I give a very cordial invitation to pay a visit to my stall at the Palace Show. I hope to have a good display of matched pairs and single birds, all of which are for sale, and can be taken away at once. It will be a pleasure to meet any fanciers requiring stock or exhibition birds, or requisites for the bird-room, and to book orders for anything required. If you cannot visit the show, however, don't forget to send a postcard for my illustrated catalogue, and remember that all orders received by post have my personal attention, and every bird is sent on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I am now in a position to offer really marvellous value in Norwich, Yorkshires, Crests, Border Fancies, Mules, Lancashires, and other varieties as follows:—

Yorkshire Cocks, grand lengthy birds, with good position, feathered to perfection, and in full song, 6/6, 6/6, 7/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6 each upwards.

Grand racy hens, splendid type and feathered like wax, 3/-, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each upwards. Matched Pairs, correctly mated for breeding winners and sex guaranteed, 8/6, 10/-, 12/6, 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair. I can supply these in Clears, Ticks, Green Marked, Cinnamon Marked, or Self Greens.

WINNING YORKSHIRES.—I have a few real gems ready for immediate benching, sure winners at small Shows, at 15/-, 17/6, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 35/-, 40/-, 45/-, or 50/- each, Cocks or Hens. These can win their cost in prize money, and will make reliable breeding birds at the end of the show season.

I have also a few real toppers, able to hold their own in hottest open competition. Kindly state wants. The following is taken from scores of Testimonials recently received, and which considerations of space alone prevent me from publishing:—

5 FIRSTS. 3 SECONDS. 1 THIRD.

24, South Penrallt, Carnarvon, Jan. 22, 1913.—The uneven mark yellow hen you sent me turned out a champion. She won me 5 Firsts, 3 Seconds, and 1 Third. I also bred from the above hen the winner of 1st Bethesda, 1st Carnarvon, etc. I thank you for your kind and honest dealings, and recommend you to all I known in the Fancy.—David Roberts to Joe Thomas. The original of this and hundreds in similar strain are filed here for the inspection of all visitors.

To every Cus'omer I guarantee complete satisfaction or Cash returned in ful'.

This strain needs no bounce. It has made a name for itself and is still going strong. My customers also are winning every week with birds supplied by me. Testimonials in proof of this are filed here for the inspection of all my visitors. I am now offering a few grand birds bred from my strain. Yellows or Buffs, Cocks or Hens, ready for benching and able to win their cost in prize-money; also real good Stock birds, for breeding own winners, at 10/-, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- each. I am also offering a few grand pairs, personally matched by me, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/-, 40/-, 50/- per pair upwards. Strain guaranteed. I have a few grand birds from other strains, good thick-set birds, Cocks on full free song, at 6/-, 7/6, 8/6, 10/- each; Hens, grand smart-feathered birds, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 7/6, 10/- each. Few good Sib Hens for Light Muling, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

Pure-bred Seifert or St. Andreasburg Roller cocks, direct from Germany, with good length of song and many changes, in fact, trained to perfection and in full rolling song by day and gaslight, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each; specially selected schoolmasters, at 20/-, 25/-, 30/- each; hens, guaranteed same strain, 3/-, 4/-, 5/- each; Cages, 3d. extra.

Grand Large Muling Hens, 3/-, 3/6, 4/-, 5/-, 6/-, 7/6, 10/- each.

For full particulars of all other varieties, send a postcard for my Free Illustrated Catalogue.

Remember this, please; I send every bird on seven days' approval at my sole risk. I guarantee absolute satisfaction to every customer, or cash returned in full. Easy payments can be arranged to suit the convenience of Genuine Fanciers. No extras charged.

Amblers, Langton Lodge, Scotton, Knaresboro', Yorkshire. (449)

DYKES' YORKSHIRES 1st and Special.

Mr. P. Airs, 12, Wilton-road, Bournemouth, writes: Jan. 25th, 1913.—Dear Sir,—Just a line to let you know that the bird has done remarkably well; he won 1st and spl. this week. I am highly delighted, and thank you once more for sending me such a gem.

IF you want to come to the front you cannot do better than give me a trial, as my Yorkshires have again won more first prizes at all the leading shows this season than any other strain.

A few of the plume they have won are: Diploma for best Yorks. Newcastle, diploma best Canary in show Gateshead, diploma best green-mark Bradford National, spl. best Yorks at Loughboro', spl. best Yorks. and best bird in show Launceston, and other honours too numerous to mention.

I have the finest collection of high-class Yorkshires in Bradford, bred from and related to above winners, and without doubt the finest strain in the Fancy.

Champion Yorkshire Cocks, yellows or buffs, at 6/-, 7/-, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/- each; lovely quality hens, feathered like wax, yellows or buffs, at 4/-, 5/-, 6/6, 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/- each. Pairs specially selected to breed winners at 8/6, 10/6, 12/6, 15/-, 20/-, 25/-, 30/- per pair, and a few extra special pairs at 40/-, 50/-, 60/- per pair. Travelling cages 3d. extra. All cocks on full song, and seven inches long, in clears, ticked, or marked, green or cinnamon.

And remember, I send all on seven days approval, cash or deposit, with Editor, and all orders sent off same day as received, as I only advertise what I have for sale. Colour-fed or natural colour, and guaranteed cold-room bred and kept.

Inspection invited at any time. New price list and testimonials post free. Easy payments arranged with reliable fanciers. No extras charged. State requirements. And remember, this is not a strain of mushroom growth, that rises and falls in a single night, but has won far more 1st prizes than any other for years. Note address:

Where the Swallows Go.

A Swallow marked with "British Birds" ring No. B830 by Mr. J. R. B. Masefield, at Rosehill, Cheadle, Staffordshire, May 6, 1911, was caught Dec. 23, 1912, 18 miles from Utrecht, Natal. The distance is about 7,000 miles.

Rooks' Ways.

The habits of Rooks seem more regular in winter than in summer. In winter they pass to the fields and feeding grounds in the morning, and return in the evening, at nearly the same hour, day after day. In summer they are not so regular, especially in returning. The writer has seen them out when it has been almost dark, too dark to distinguish individual birds as they sat in a flock in the fields. These late hours are kept after the young have been reared.

Where Magpies are Common.

Magpies are very much persecuted by gamekeepers, farmers and sportsmen generally, yet have not very much diminished in numbers; probably during the last few years their number has not decreased at all, but at the same time they are somewhat local, and seem to favour wooded districts, or where tall hedgerows are common. In some parts of Devon they are fairly common, but the writer has seen more in the I. of Wight than anywhere, and these are very fine specimens. During the early mornings of the past summer a pair with their three young ones could nearly always be seen feeding close to the keeper's house on a Surrey estate. They were busy while their enemy rested.

CRYSTAL PALACE SHOW.

Portraits of Winners.

Exhibitors who wish to have their birds (winners or otherwise) at the Palace show sketched by one of our artists (Mr. Norman or Mr. Goodchild) should notify the attendant at CAGE BIRDS' stall, who will give terms and all particulars; or write or telegraph to us direct to our offices.

An Expert Opinion.

Several readers have written in the past to ask whether one or other of the specialists upon our staff would for a small fee give them a private opinion upon the merits, or mating, etc., of birds they are exhibiting at the Crystal Palace Show. We shall be pleased to arrange this. Exhibitors desirous of taking advantage of the offer must send to CAGE BIRDS offices a stamped addressed envelope, together with sixpence (postal order) for each bird (Canary, Hybrid, British, or Foreign) upon which they wish to receive an opinion, when a letter will be sent them in due course.

"Cage Birds" Stall.

CAGE BIRDS will have its usual stall at the Palace, and we shall be pleased to welcome visitors, to greet old friends and to make new friends. Our "Visitors' Book" will be in the usual place on the stall, and we trust everyone present will make a point of leaving their signatures and addresses therein. Any of our publications may be purchased of the attendant in charge. If you do not happen to see what you want, ask our attendant for it.

Routes for Visitors.

For convenience of visitors, we again append the best routes to the Palace from the various railway termini:—

PADDINGTON (G.W.R.).—Take the Underground from Praed Street to Victoria; then the Chatham Railway to the Crystal Palace High Level Station. Or take the Bakerloo tube (see from Marylebone).

MARYLEBONE (G.C.R.).—Bakerloo tube to Elephant and Castle; then transfer to Chatham Railway to High Level Station. Or go to Baker Street Station and take the train to Victoria, and thence via London and Brighton (Low Level) or Chatham (High Level) Railways.

EUSTON (L.N.W.R.).—Passengers stopping at Willesden at or about two o'clock should enquire if there is a train due for the Palace, as it is possible to save an hour or more this way.

ST. PANCRAS (M.R.), and KING'S CROSS (G.N.R.), Underground to Aldersgate Street; or 'bus to Ludgate Hill or Holborn Viaduct, and then Chatham Railway to Palace. Or take the City and South London (tube) Railway to London Bridge, and thence via the London and Brighton Railway to the Palace.

LIVERPOOL STREET (G.E.R.).—Rail direct, via New Cross; or 'bus to London Bridge, Holborn Viaduct, or Ludgate Hill, and then by L.B. and S.C. or Chatham Railway.

WATERLOO (L. and S.W.R.).—Take halfpenny car to Elephant and Castle (or the Bakerloo tube), then transfer to Chatham Railway.

Victoria, Ludgate Hill, St. Paul's Snow Hill, Holborn Viaduct, Moorgate Street, and London Bridge.—Rail direct to the Palace from these stations.

Direct trains to the Palace also run frequently from Clapham Junction.

No. 616.

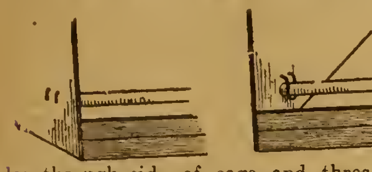
Sent by E. Poole, 10, Curtis Street, Swindon.

The sketches show an excellent perch clip which can be made and fitted in a few minutes. Obtain an ordinary piece of cage wire and bend it to the shape of a plain hair-pin; the right size can be gauged by bending it round the end of perch; then bore two holes through side of cage and thread the ends of wire through; then bend down both sides, as shown in the sketches. I find by cutting the perches short you can allow one-eighth of an inch space between end of perch and side of cage, which prevents red mite from harbouring there.



No. 617.

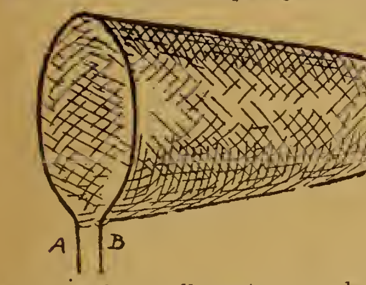
Sent by R. S. Bowell, 48, Cardinals Road, Stowmarket.

The sketch shows a net for catching birds in aviaries or large flight cages, which I thought might prove useful to Cage Birds readers. It is made of 12-gauge wire and a piece of fairly fine mesh net. To make it, you start at A in sketch and follow right round the ring, finishing at B, the net is then put on which should be tapering to the end C.



To form the handle, get a round piece of wood, and bore a hole in one end for A and B to fit into, and the thing is complete. Of course the ring and net, also the handle, may be of any size. For a flight cage, the ring might be say 5 inches across and the handle about a foot long, or for an aviary the ring 9 or 10 inches across and the handle 5 or 6 feet long. With this you can catch the birds without damaging them against the wires, or frightening them in the least.

THE TROUBLES AND TRIALS OF AN EDITOR.

Some little time ago we received a letter from a south country fancier of such a character as drew from us the following reply:—

Disgusted One, Exmouth.—We could not possibly publish such a letter as yours, which makes a direct imputation upon the integrity of a judge—an imputation based upon nothing more substantial than something somebody told you, and of which you yourself write, "if it be a fact." Have you never heard of the law of libel? Why not advise your informant to communicate with the committee of the show? That is the proper body to investigate a matter such as this. If you wish to discuss the length of exhibition Yorkshires, our columns are open to you providing you do it in an impersonal way; remember that everyone (even a judge) is entitled to his own opinion. Your intentions are no doubt good, but we are afraid that your heart runs away with your head.

This week we are favoured with the appended communication, which seems to us to emanate from the same source (judging by paper and hand-writing), the address given being "Wisdom Road, Exeter," and the signature "Another Victim One."

"I wish to say that, having been present at the —— Show, I can conscientiously endorse without prejudice (!) the observations made by "Disgusted One," which I consider were only fair criticism; therefore I consider your apparent serious objection to publish the same most unjustifiable and displaying a want of courage and impartiality. You also suggest that such a complaint should have been made known to the committee, when at the same time you must know that such local committees and judges are invariably a conceited and self-seeking clique, at whose tribunal no honest exhibitor can ever hope to obtain redress. It is because of this prevailing injustice that your journal should be available in exposing such wrongs on behalf of aggrieved fanciers, as well as in the interest of the Fancy generally. But, alas! I fear that even Editors are included in this family circle, so that we can now say there is a Canary Trades Union set up in London, which eventually will become so despotic that no humble outsider having any complaint will dare to approach such an unfair personnel. As a further excuse for omitting to do your supporters justice, you impute that "Disgusted One's" letter is actionable, and that his heart has run away with his head. On the contrary, it is evident, I think, that you have well learnt the ingenious art of making such flimsy excuses, and are like Deuterius (sic), the silversmith of old, who, when he perceived that the hope of his gains was imperilled, could afford to overlook his sense of justice, and was for ever afterwards "branded" as one not having the courage of his convictions. I have since been informed that the —— Cage Bird Committee, "so called," have had a serious family quarrel over their diminished finances, and one of the committee is so disgusted because of the shuffling which has recently taken place amongst them that there is the devil to do. Cannot you therefore, Mr. Editor, come to their rescue at once, and endeavour to settle matters amicably between this disrupted and dishonoured lot? You will, I am sure, have all the credit for such unexampled kindness, but no fee can be guaranteed for your kindness in this matter. Now is your only chance of stepping into this breach of disorder amongst the members of your fraternity and supporters, for which kindness you will ever be regarded as the kind angel of peace and order. I wish you a very Prosperous and Happy New Year."

Nests of Birds, Poultry, etc., should be regularly sprinkled with KEATING'S POWDER, especially when hens are sitting. Don't forget to do this just previous to the eggs hatching, to destroy the Red Mite. Kills all insects. Harmless to everything else.

NOTES BY THE SECRETARY.

The League Medals.

Now that the season has come to an end it has become possible to estimate the number of silver and bronze medals won by our members at the various shows throughout the autumn, and an order has been placed accordingly. They will be sent to the winners as soon as received.

The certificates for properly kept bird shops are also in course of preparation, and these will be sent, as soon as ready, to the various bird-shop keepers who have received visits of inspection from time to time from the members of Cage Birds League, who so kindly undertook the duty of paying surprise calls at irregular intervals.

It is extremely gratifying to be able to record that there has not been a single complaint from any of our inspectors as to the manner in which the birds were being kept. Every report was a favourable one, and, taken together, they prove incontrovertibly that the rabid opponents of the hobby of bird-keeping have no better ground for their hysterical denunciation of the bird trade in general than the admitted fact that in the bird trade (as well as in all other walks of life) there are occasional black sheep. No one regrets the punishment which rightly falls upon a bird-dealer when a case of neglect or cruelty is conclusively proved against him, but to condemn a section of the community for the faults of a few would mean the wholesale condemnation of every trade or profession in the world. The certificates which will in due course come into the possession of those dealers in birds whose methods have been favourably reported on should be of considerable value to their owners, and I hope that next year we shall have on our books a still larger number of bird dealers in a position to prove that experienced bird-keepers, who would be the first to discover any defect or inhumanity, have certified that throughout a prolonged period they have been completely satisfied with the manner in which the business has been carried on.

The demand for registration as Associates of Cage Birds League has now reached to such proportions that, while every endeavour is made to cope with the applications, there remains a considerable number which, at the time of writing, are awaiting attention. These are being dealt with in the order of their receipt, and the badges are being sent out with no more delay than is absolutely unavoidable.

Renewal Subscriptions.

At Cage Birds stall at the Crystal Palace renewal subscriptions will be received and noted, and immediately after the conclusion of the show official receipts will be sent dated to cover one year from the time that the renewal was actually due. Every member who attends the Palace should avail himself of this opportunity of paying the annual subscription, without the trouble and expense of buying and posting a postal order, and whether the subscription is not yet due or is overdue will make no difference. The receipt will cover the proper period in either case.

TERMS OF MEMBERSHIP.

PATRONS.—A donation of not less than Ten Guineas in one amount, or an annual subscription of not less than Two Guineas, shall constitute the donor or subscriber a Patron.

LIFE MEMBERS.—A donation of not less than Five Guineas in one amount shall constitute the donor a Life Member.

VICE PRESIDENTS.—An annual subscription of not less than Half-a-Guinea shall constitute the subscriber a Vice President.

HONORARY LIFE MEMBERS.—The payment to CAGE BIRDS LEAGUE of a legacy of £20 and upwards shall constitute the administrator or executor making the payment an Honorary Life Member. A form of bequest will be sent, post free, on application.

100 Sheets, Two Shillings and sixpence.
250 Sheets, Four Shillings.
500 Sheets, Five Shillings and sixpence.
1,000 Sheets, Eight Shillings and sixpence.

Members are entitled, if application is made at the time of joining, to a free copy of a sixpenny pamphlet on British Bird Culture, or a similar treatise on Canary and Hybrid Culture.

Henry J. Fulljames,
Secretary Cage Birds League,
154, Fleet Street, London, E.C.

How to become an Associate.

Many readers of Cage Birds have written to say that they would like to join Cage Birds' League, but cannot afford the subscription. To meet their wishes we have decided to form, in connection with the League, a body of Associates. All we ask of these Associates is that they will promise to give every possible attention to the wants of their birds. And they must induce others to see that their birds are kept happy and contented.

All that the intending Associate has to do is to sign the coupon herewith, get five of his or her friends to sign each a similar coupon, and send the six, together with a penny stamp, to the Secretary of Cage Birds League, who will forward by return an enamelled Button Badge of the League. There will be no other charge. NOW, THEN, BIRD LOVERS!—USE YOUR BEST EFFORTS IN THIS SPLENDID CAUSE.

THE BIRD LOVER'S PLEDGE.

I hereby promise to take every care of my feathered pets and to induce others to do the same

A Cheap and Pretty Gift Book.

We have received from Messrs. Raphael Tuck and Sons, Moorfields, City, a copy of "Bird Life," an illustrated booklet treating in a sketchy, but interesting manner, on birds and reptiles. The cover is embellished by a beautiful picture in colours of the Great Bird of Paradise, and there are eight coloured illustrations, of which to say they are exquisite is only another way to express that they are published by Raphael Tuck and Sons. The black and white drawings are not up to the excellence of the coloured plates; in fact some of them border on the "impressionistic." It is not a book to which one would refer for authoritative information; for instance, the breast of the cock Bullfinch is described as "brick coloured," and that of the hen as being brown. There are several degress of "brick colour," so the description may pass as about as definite as though the length were given as about as long as a piece of string. But a brown breast on a hen Bullie! Still, it is a pretty gift book for young people, and very cheap at 1s. 6d.

The balance-sheet of the Liverpool O.S., to hand shows a very substantial rise in the finances of the society. We are pleased to note that the £1 18s. on the credit side of last year's balance-sheet is now increased to £17 1s. 4d. The open show showed a profit of £12 10s. 3d.

Messrs. E. Battersby (chairman), G. Skilling, C. Eaton, T. J. Pye, and W. Green, junr., will represent the interests of the cage bird fanciers in the now booming Aintree Fanciers' Society. "Only too pleased to judge your members' pair show on Feb. 12th. Congratulations on list of specials," writes Mr. Metcalfe to the Hon. Sec.

We have received from Mr. W. Barritt, hon. sec., the balance-sheet of the Eastern Counties C.B.S. Mr. Barritt writes that the society is steadily growing and has at present about forty "good solid members." We are pleased to note that the balance cash in hand, which at the beginning of the year was £6 2s. 2d., is now £8 7s. 1½d.

The Chairman of the Cockermouth F.S., Mr. Geo. Oglethorpe (Lorton, Cockermouth) is giving a lecture on Feb. 9, at 3.30 p.m., in the Wordsworth Institute, to the Cumberland Nature Club, entitled "An Introduction to the Study of Birds." Mr. Oglethorpe will be glad to hear from fanciers who have any lantern slides of birds likely to be of interest to his audience.

OBITUARY.

It is with deep regret, writes Mr. W. Elliott, Sec. West Stanley C.B.S., that I have to announce the death of Mr. Robson, the father of Mr. J. Robson (South Moor), a very keen fancier, and a member of the West Stanley C.B.S. It was a very quick call for him, as he had just finished his day's work in Burnhope Pit, and was in the act of putting on his clothes when about three tons of stone came away, completely burying him. I am sure all fanciers will extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. Robson, junr., in his great loss.

It is with sorrow, writes Mr. W. Proudfoot, Sec. and Treas. Glasgow West End C.B.C., that I have to report the severe loss our respected President, Mr. C. Campbell, has sustained by the death of his little daughter. After a short and severe illness she passed away on Monday morning at 10.30. I am sure our fellow members will extend their deepest sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. Campbell and family in their sad bereavement.
